Enough of the preliminaries, snow came to Charlevoix in a serious fashion this past week accumlating on and clinging to tree limbs and anything else which held still outdoors for more than a few moments.

Council considers infrastructure

One of the first decisions facing the 1989 city council is how many mills to levy in order to continue renovating the city's streets, sidewalks, sewer and water systems. Last year the council levied four mills for infrastructure work.

At the final council meeting of 1988, a Dec. 28 work session, city manager Mike Wiesner reviewed what has been accomplished and what lies ahead (see accompanying tables) in repairing Charlevoix's infrastructure. ("Infrastructure" is a term used to refer to things such as the city's streets, sidewalks, sewer and water systems.)

In the past two years, Charlevoix has spent a total of approximately $640,000 on infrastructure repairs. Major projects this past year included: a new sidewalk on the east side of south Bridge Street from Garfield out to the Captain's Corner shopping complex; replacing deteriorated sidewalks in residential districts downtown; and work on West Dixon Avenue which involved separating the storm and sanitary sewers, restructuring drainage below the pavement and repaving the street.

Wiesner said he views the city as being commited to at least three projects this coming year: running a water main across the channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix; installing additional sewer lines near the corner of Belvedere Avenue and Bridge Street; and paving roads in the city's industrial park.

The total estimated cost to the city to complete these three projects is $278,000 - the breakdown is $178,000 for the water main crossing, $78,000 for the sewer work and $25,000 to pave the industrial park. (See table B and accompanying story.)

Of the $278,000 total estimated cost, $178,000 can be paid with infrastructure money the city currently has on hand. That leaves a $100,000 balance.

Last year the city council chose to levy four mills for infrastructure improvements. (A

Following delays, two developments move forward

by PEG OHLE

Two area lakefront housing developments which have been held up for several years because they were too large to meet township zoning provisions and because of unsatisfactory soil conditions will become realities during the coming year after being scaled down in size.

Farthest along is the Pine Lake Club, located on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix just east of Ferry Road. This development was originally proposed in November, 1985 as a 240-condo project called "Water's Edge". After Charlevoix Township granted the requested multi-family rezoning of the property, township residents called for a referendum in which they voted against the rezoning, making the proposed development illegal. Following this action, the First Centrum Corp., then-owners of the property, filed suit against the township, asking that it re-instate the mult-family zoning. First Centrum also presented a proposal for a smaller 162-unit development.

In a mediation session, First Centrum personnel, township officials, realtor interests, and environmentalists sat down and agreed to a 138-unit condo

N. Point deal closed

The 27 acres of sand dunes and scenic forests with 2,800 feet of frontage on Lake Michigan known as North Point became public property recently. Closing on the sale of the property to Charlevoix Township, which will maintain the property as a public nature preserve, took place at the First State Bank of Charlevoix.

The closing represents the climax of a year-long effort to raise nearly $300,000 from local sources to match a $400,000 grant from the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund. Spearheaded by the Little Traverse Conservancy, the fundraising effort succeeded, resulting in the closing Wednesday, Dec. 28..

Conservancy officials offered special thanks to the First State Bank of Charlevoix for helping to overcome some last minute hitches in the purchase. "Procedural changes in the method of payment by the Department of Natural Resources for the Natural Resources Trust Fund suddenly made it necessry for us to borrow the $400,000 for a short time until a reimbursement can be authorized," said Conservancy Executive Director Tom Bailey. "It could have been a real problem, but First State Bank of Charlevoix stepped in to help." Bailey also praised the efforts of Charlevoix attorney Tom Pointner of Simpson and Moran, who drew up the legal papers making the loan possible. "This has been a community project all the way," Bailey said, "and the help given to the project at the end reinforces that."

Without the help of the Bank and Pointner, Bailey said, the

The sale of North Point to the public was completed last week and the property will now become a public nature preserve under the auspices of Charlevoix Township. Present at the closing were (clockwise from front left) Little Traverse Conservancy executive director Tom Bailey, Conservancy board chairman Marilyn Smith, township treasurer Theta Williams, township supervisor Oscar Stroud, attorney Tom Pointner, title insurance representative Tim Murphy, First State Bank president Lou Hollow.

Charlevoix has prime blood

"We're not sure why, but for some reason Charlevoix blood is better than blood from people in other places," said Dr. Martin Platelet, research director at the North American Blood Looker Over Occupancy Department (N.A. BLOOD).

"It's a higher octane stuff," he explained, as he stood in front of a glass case containing samples of blood from all across the country.

"The most powerful Charlevoix blood comes from people who stay there all year and weather the cold winters. We don't know the exact explanation for this, but preliminary surveys point to a psycho-physio link."

Asked to elaborate on "preliminary survey" and "psycho-physio link," Dr. Platelet explained, "Well, we asked some of Charlevoix's winter residents why they have such high-grade blood. Their answer was, 'Those of us who stay in Charlevoix all winter might not be the brightest folks in the world, but we're a hearty breed.'"

"Charlevoix summer blood differs from winter blood in that it tends to have a bluish tint," Platelet added. "But like all Charlevoix blood, it's prime plasma."

Platelet noted that although Charlevoix blood is much sought after for transfusions, there can be problems.

"When we transfuse Charlevoix blood to a patient who has never lived in Charlevoix, we have to do the transfusion very slowly," Dr. Platelet said. "Otherwise, the patient might overdose on health and vitality.

"The most frightening case involved a Tennessee man who got too much Charlevoix blood during surgery. He lept up off the operating table and headed for the door bound and determined to go out ice fishing that very instant."

(Writer's note) The above story concerning Dr. Platelet and N.A. BLOOD is obviously fictional. However, the need for Charlevoix blood is very real.

A community blood drive is scheduled from 1 to 7 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 5 at the American Legion Hall.

In the 27-county blood-collection region which Charlevoix belongs to, approximately 60,000 pints of blood per year are needed. Recently, a blood drive in Traverse City had to be postponed due to a traffic accident involving drive workers.

That postponement adds to the importance of the Charlevoix drive. Charlevoix drive coordinator Nancy Fowler said the goal for Thursday's drive is 100 pints, but that 110 pints would be better and 125 pints would be great.

Charlevoix tends to gear itself toward great.

development with a maximum of 45 units on the waterfront. This decision was reached in December, 1986 and Charlevoix Township rezoned the property to multi-family planned unit development. The Department of Natural Resources, under the Wetland Protection Act, later said it could permit only 45 units because of soil conditions.

Nothing more was heard about the development until May of 1988, when Charlevoix Township approved plans submitted by new owners ELRAD Construction of Okemos for a 29-unit development on the 43-acre site. Construction on the project is now under way, with dredging for a marina and installation of utilities partly completed. According to Jim Valentine of ELRAD, the next step will be construction of roads, followed by construction of the condo units. Plans call for three buildings with a total of 20 units. There are also nine individual building lots in the development which will be sold separately. A club house is included in the over-all plan.

The other much-delayed development about to become a reality is the 337-acre former Camp Charlevoix property with 2,800 feet on Oyster Bay on the north side of Lake Charlevoix in Hayes Township.

Plans for developing this property were first presented in April, 1984 by Fox and Associates, owners of the property. Fox requested rezoning for 32 buildings with 222 condo units; 106 on the lakefront and the rest offshore along a proposed 18-hole golf course. Plans also called for a 66-slip marina.

Hayes Township officials objected to the large number of buildings in the development, so Fox revised the plans to 27 buildings with 153 units. The 66-slip marina remained the same.

These plans were also turned down by the township, citing Section 5.13 of its zoning ordinance, which permits only "one slip or dock space for each 100 feet of lake frontage, or lake access of more than one single family living unit for each 100 feet of lake frontage."

Hayes Township counter-proposed with a planned unit development of 126 units, 23 of which would have lake access (one per 100 of lake frontage). Fox responded that such a development would not be economically feasible.

In January, 1985, Fox filed suit against Hayes Township contending that Section 5.13 of the zoning ordinance deprived him of his riparian rights in and to Lake Charlevoix, and also that the ordinance was not written under the provisions of the Township Zoning Act, so does not apply.

In October, 1985, the Circuit Court of Cheboygan County (to which the case was assigned) ruled that the zoning ordinance was valid. Fox appealed to the Michigan Court of Appeals, which in September, 1987 ruled that the Michigan Township Zoning Enabling Act does not authorize townships to regulate or limit boat dockage construction or riparian access rights. It also struck down Section 5.13 of the Hayes Township zoning ordinance limiting waterfront access. This was followed by Hayes Township's appeal to the State Supreme Court. That hearing is set for tomorrow in Lansing.

In the meantime, Hayes Township and Fox have reached an agreement that will permit 16 single family residences on the 337 acres. The development will cover about 53 acres of the property, and the remaining 264 acres, much of which is wetland, will become a recreational area for property owners. There will also be a 16-slip inland marina.

Although an agreement on development of the property has been reached, Hayes Township has proceeded with its request for a Supreme Court hearing because it wants a ruling on the validity of the lakefront zoning provisision in its zoning ordinance. Under the agreement, if the Supreme Court decides the lakefront provisions are illegal, the most damages Fox could receive is $10,001.

John Campbell of Site Planning Development is the local agent for Fox on the development. He was on vacation last week and could not be reached for comment, although he had earlier said that demolition of the old camp log cabins would begin immediately and work on the marina should be completed by late spring.

Officials of both Charlevoix and Hayes Townships have noted that when the Pine Lake Club and the Fox (yet unnamed) projects are completed, the Charlevoix area will have another 45 residences available.

Although they occasionally take to their wings, these seagulls apparently don't know enough to fly south for the winter like other birds. Last week, the gulls were resting on pieces of ice floating in the harbor.

closing would have been delayed until 1989 costing up to $20,000 in additional taxes, option costs, and other expenses.

A formal dedication ceremony is planned for spring or summer. "We want to be sure to thank everybody who helped to preserve North Point," Bailey said, "and the dedication will be a great occasion on which to do that." Many people were involved, he said, including the business community, which donated over $97,000 of the total, year-round and seasonal residents, and many local organizations and service clubs.

"This community should be very proud of what has been accomplished by everyone working together," he said. "North Point now belongs to us all and, more importantly, will one day belong to our children and 'heirs."

Whatever you do, don't eat the cat

It doesn't seem right to show favoratism among pets so the other day I booted Sasquatch the monster puppy outside for a while and brought Crabapple the rabbit in to the house. While I was at it, I opened the door to the parakeet cage.

Sasquatch has to be kept separate from the rabbit and the parakeets because he eats things.

The only other pet he associates with is Friday the cat. And by Friday's choice, that is on an extremely limited basis.

My wife Kathy and I have got a regular menagerie around our house. It's no household for someone with allergies.

Sasquatch, a grizzley bear cub of a dog, and Friday, a small black wimp of a cat, have a limited, but interesting relationship.

Shortly after we got Squatch, he ate a parakeet. Fortunately, we had a spare parakeet and the one he ate was the one I didn't like.

Squatch is huge, but generally pretty easy-going. Although I didn't foresee him tackling the cat, still, just to be on the safe side, I sat him down and had a man to dog talk with him.

"Now Squatch," I said, "if you play your cards right, you and Kathy will get along just fine. I see already that on Saturday mornings when there's an extra pancake, it ends up in your dish. And it ain't me who puts it there.

"In terms of behavior, there are things she will let you get away with that I will clobber you for. But there's one thing you absolutely must not do. I'm telling you this for your own good dog. If you eat that cat, your big, furry butt is grass.

"Kathy likes that wimpy cat...a lot. Sometimes I think I rank number two on her list around here.

"If you eat that cat, you're doomed. If Kathy doesn't exterminate you herself, chances are she'll make my life so miserable that I will. So for your own good and in the interest of domestic harmony, just leave the kitty alone."

And following that talk, even though he and Friday have had a few brushes, the dog has heeded my warning.

Normally, Friday stays upstairs when the dog is inside, but a couple of times she's made mistakes and wandered downstairs while he was in.

The first few times he saw her, he got up and went toward her, more out of curiosity than anything. Like a rocket, she went back upstairs.

In the only display of courage the cat has ever shown, she got halfway up the stairs one time and hissed at him over her shoulder.

Having been duely warned, Sasquatch, who is about 10 times Friday's size, didn't retaliate. He just shook his head, wagged his tail and lumbered away.

Letters to the Editor:

Arafat visit was better done without

Dear Editor:

It was with great interest that I read Mr. Clock's article in the December 7, 1988 edition of your paper. I am amazed by the lack of Mr. Clock's understanding of the United State's position on terrorism, or the relationship between the United States and Israel. Of course, current events have proved Mr. Clock wrong, however, I felt compelled to point out to Mr. Clock that at the time Mr. Arafat was refused a visa to the United States, he had at that time not renounced the use of terrorism, and even at this time he has not indicated that terrorism is rejected as a method of negotiation within the borders of Israel.

Secondly, I doubt seriously that the United States has ever allowed Israel or any other nation to dictate its foreign policies in the Middle East or elsewhere. However, it has regularly consulted with those nations whose common interest and goals are similar to ours. I find Mr. Clock's article to be rather shallow and flippant to treat a very important subject in a matter-of-fact manner. I suggest that Mr. Clock research his commentary more closely or find topics of a more Erma Bombeck style where his attempts at humorism may be more fully appreciated.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

Going smokeless

Have you noticed that there aren't as many cigarette smokers as there used to be?

Which is a good thing — although I'm one of the renegades who still enjoys the taste of a cigarette.

The other night I stopped at the Weathervane Inn and noticed a large group of Charlevoix young people — most of them in their early 20s — home from jobs or universities for the Christmas holidays.

There wasn't a cigarette smoker in the bunch.

They attended Charlevoix schools at a time when the first warning labels began to appear on cigarette packages. Furthermore, Charlevoix's classroom teachers didn't hesitate to let their students know the health hazards that accompany smoking.

Before long, kids were lecturing parents on their filthy habit.

And the lesson apparently was well learned, at least by the kids, because they simply are not smoking as much as the young of other generations.

INSTITUTIONS also are helping.

While visiting Charlevoix Hospital last week I noticed signs on the doors indicating that as of Jan. 1 the hospital would be nicotine-free.

Bravo!

The News-Review offices in Petoskey where I spend a good part of every day became almost nicotine-free on Dec. 1. Smoking is not permitted in any of the work areas, offices or restrooms.

Smokers can light up in the downstairs lunchroom for 21 hours a day. The hours 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. have been declared nicotine-free so that brown-baggers don't have to choke down their lunches in a cloud of smoke.

The only place in the building where smoking is permitted without ground rules is a tiny foyer at the rear of the building. If you simply have to have another cigarette, you can light up in the foyer. But you won't want to stay long, because the foyer is not exactly up to room temperature these chilly winter days.

We all are learning to live by the new rules, the building smells better and those of us who still smoke are smoking far less than we used to. I suspect a few of us are on the verge of quitting entirely. It's not that big a deal.

THE DEMISE of cigarette smoking puts me in mind of the demise of tobacco chewing.

There was a time not too many years ago when almost every public and private building had a big brass spittoon near the front door where tobacco chewers could dispose of their cuds.

Talk about filthy habits!

I always felt a little sorry for whoever had to clean the spittoons at the end of the day.

Some private homes also had a spittoon, but the lady-of-the-house usually put a newspaper under it, in case grandpa's aim wasn't too good.

Ford Motor Co. at one time had a good many tobacco chewers on the payroll, since old Henry Ford didn't allow smoking in his plants.

By the time I went to work for Ford in 1955, smoking was permitted in most offices, but a few chewers were still around. I remember one old factory hand who had been kicked upstairs. He kept a spittoon in the bottom drawer of his desk.

IT WASN'T TOO many years ago that women who smoked were looked upon as wanton wenches.

Of course, a few "flappers" and "vamps" of the 1920s smoked, but it wasn't until the 1930s that the practice spread — among working women.

My Aunt Jean, a stylish young widow, worked as a secretary and took up smoking to keep in step with the times. When she visited our house, she invariably had a cigarette in the kitchen and I was shocked the first time she offered one to my mother.

I almost had apoplexy when Ma accepted it — and lit up.

My mother smoked until the day she died, but she never smoked in front of her mother. You'd think the old lady would have suspected something when she would stop at our house unexpectedly on a sub-zero day and find my mother busily doing her housework with the kitchen window wide open.

But grandma never caught on.

DSS says thanks

Dear Editor,

Charlevoix County Department of Social Services would like to thank the many individuals, groups, businesses and organizations that have donated funds, gifts, Christmas trees, and food baskets for the holiday season.

The thoughtful effort of everyone helped make the holidays more enjoyable, especially for the children. Approximately 586 individuals and families were assisted. Your generous contributions are truly appreciated by all.

Thank you.

Parents' workshop on How To Say No

Charlevoix parents are invited to attend the "How to Say No" Parent Workshop at 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 5 at the Charlevoix Middle School. During January, Charlevoix eighth grade students will learn "how to say no" to the pressures to become sexually involved as well as other peer pressures, and the parents will learn at the workshop how to reinforce the skills their children have learned.

The "How to Say No" Project is being presented throughout Northern Michigan for the fifth consecutive year, Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood (NMPP) has announced.

"How to Say No" began in 1984 when the Michigan Department of Social Services (DSS) awarded NMPP a grant to pilot the program in Northern Michigan. Since that time teens throughout the state have been learning how to say "no." The DSS funding has now expired, but due to the success and popularity of the program NMPP will continue to present the program throughout Northern Michigan with funding by local schools and private donations.

"There are two main facts that have led to the success and popularity of 'How to Say No'," explains Project Coordinator, Lora Blank. "They are the use of teen presenters to get the program's message across to student participants, and the involvement of parents through workshops."

Specially-trained teen presenters, from area high schools present the series and role model the idea that teens don't have to be embarassed to stand up for their rights and say "no" to the pressure of sexual involvement and other peer pressures such as drugs and alcohol.

"The message is simple," says Blank. "The decision of whether or not to become sexually involved is far too important to be left to their friends. After all, it's not their friends who have to live with the consequences."

Blank explained that the reason teen presenters are used in the classroom is that studies have shown teens are most influenced by their peers. "However," adds Blank, "Parents are second on the list."

For that reason, parent workshops are designed to help parents get their values across and reinforce the skills their teens will be learning. Parents are taught the same valuable Charlevoix Township firemen were called to the Medusa Cement plant last Thursday afternoon to fight a fire in a coal feeder located high above the ground.

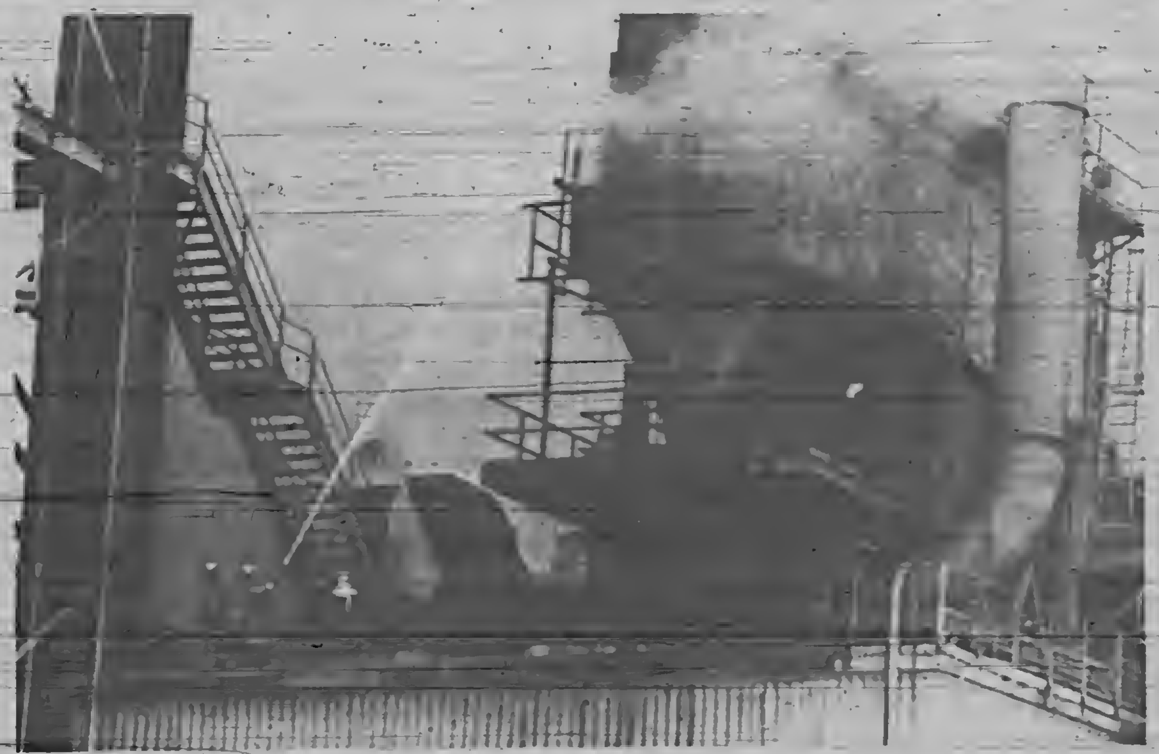
Steam and smoke rolled out of the coal feeder when water was sprayed inside.



Prior to spraying water inside the coal feeder, firemen sprayed water from down below.

Musical auditions to take place Tuesday

The Little Traverse Chamber Singers, a group formed by Charlevoix singer Fran Tollas and Petoskey Middle School Choral Director Jerry Westerman, is planning to present Handel's "Messiah" at 3 p.m. March 19 at the Methodist Church in Petoskey.

Auditions for solists in the production will take place Tuesday evening, Jan. 17 at the Petoskey Middle School. People interested in auditioning are encouraged to call the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center at 347-4337 to schedule an audition.

The Chamber Singers are also seeking chorus members from Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. Jeffrey Bell-Hanson of Charlevoix will be conducting. Rehearsals are planned for 7:30 to 9 p.m., Tuesday evenings beginning Jan. 24 at Petoskey Middle School.

... infrastructure

mill is $1 per every $1,000 of a property's state equalized value.) This year the council may choose to again levy four mills, or levy something less than four mills.

At the Dec. 28 meeting, Wiesner told council members that according to projections, each mill levied by the city in 1989 should generate approximately $71,000 in tax revenue.

Using that figure, if the council again levies four mills the city would have $284,000 in infrastructure tax revenue. When added to the $178,000 cash-on-hand the city would have a total of $462,000 for 1989 infrastructure work.

If the council levies four mill and completes the three planned projects at a cost of $278,000, that would leave $184,000 to be allocated to other infrastructure projects.

Those projects would be selected from a list of other identified infrastructure needs which carry a total estimated cost of approximately $4.2 million.

At the Dec. 28 meeting, Wiesner stated that when the infrastructure program began, the council's top priority was separating sanitary sewers from storm sewers. Engineering has been completed for $525,000 of sewer work which has not yet been bid out.

However, since that engineering was done, the council's priorities have shifted to replacing old sidewalks. Among the reasons for that is the legal liability risk of deteriorated sidewalks.

Although Charlevoix spent almost $200,000 on sidewalk repairs in 1988, there is still more sidewalk work needed which is estimated to cost an additional $388,000.

At the council meeting, then-mayor Ralph McRae looked at the total price tag of $4.2 million and asked Wiesner, "How many years do you plan this (infrastructure program) for?"

Wiesner divided $4.2 million (the total cost of the project) by $284,000 (the annual revenue currently generated by four mills) and gave McRae an answer of 14.8 years. That equation assumes property values and inflation will rise at approximately the same rate during that time period.

When the renovation program is completed, Charlevoix theoretically will have an up-to-date infrastructure and expenditures from that point will be either for maintenance or expansion. In other words, the city wouldn't be playing catch up.

Now former councilwoman Shirley Roloff said there is currently a big need because for many years not enough money was devoted to infrastructure maintenance. Roloff supported going forward with the infrastructure renovation.

Other towns in the area have similar infrastructure problems. Boyne City is in the midst of a three-year infrastructure program. Two Petoskey city officials attended Charlevoix's Dec. 28 meeting to find out about Charlevoix's program.

The Dec. 28 meeting was informational and council members said very little. The 1989 council has a new mayor and two new council members. New mayor Gary Probert and new council members Jim Potter and Ken Whitley were in the audience at the infrastructure meeting.

1989 infrastructure projects

Charlevoix has three infrastructure projects which city manager Mike Wiesner considers the city as being committed to in 1989.

Those projects are: a water main crossing; sewer work near the corner of Belvedere Avenue and Bridge Street; and paving the industrial park.

At the Dec. 28 council meeting, Wiesner explained why he views these three projects as 1989 priorities.

The water main crossing involves putting a new 12-inch main beneath the channel at the east end of Round Lake, near the Coast Guard station. The new main would improve the flow pressure and reliability of water service to the city's north side. The north side is currently served by a 10-inch main which crosses near the bridge and a 6-inch main which crosses near the site of the new main. Presently, the city's water plant has the pumping capacity to offer additional volume when new lines are in place.

The reason for doing the water main crossing this year is so that it can be done in conjunction with an electric line crossing. The power line crossing is part of a city electric system modernization and will be ready to go this year. It is more cost efficient to do both crossings at the same time.

Blending infrastructure improvements with other work is also why sewer work near the corner of Belvedere and Bridge is proposed for this year.

A single 10-inch sewer main in that area serves a substantial portion of Charlevoix's south side. According to studies, there are times when the main runs close to capacity.

In order to increase the capacity, plans call for a second 10-inch line parallel to the one that's already there.

Since the Downtown Development Authority plans to replace downtown sidewalks, the city wants to complete underground work downtown before the new sidewalks go in. That way new sidewalks won't have to be torn out to do sewer main work.

Paving roads at the industrial park has a total estimated cost of $100,000, but will cost the city infrastructure program only $25,000. The remaining $75,000 will be paid by a state grant.

which the council would have to decide where to allocate within the areas of table B.

Mobile home community planned

A 189 unit mobile home community is going to be developed on the south side of M-66 in Charlevoix Township, just outside the city limits.

Highland Construction Company of Southfield is developing the project. Last Friday, Highland representative Mark Lewis said the company plans to do detailed engineering work this winter and begin construction early in the spring.

Lewis said the company hopes to utilize some local subcontractors and have sites available this summer.

The Charlevoix Township planning commission approved the site plan for the project Dec. 21. The property has been zoned for a mobile home park for several years. Lewis said Highland began laying groundwork for the park last spring.

Two variance were granted by the township zoning board of appeals. Rather than both front and back exit points, the park will have only a single exit onto M-66. Original plans called for a back exit onto Vernida Avenue, but residents of that subdivision expressed concern about added traffic.

The second variance concerned a back lot setback. Rather that a 35 foot setback, the lots will be allowed to have a 29 foot setback and a buffering berm.

"The township has been very supportive," Lewis said. "We're looking forward to getting started. We're anxious to get this one off the ground."

Highland has previous experience in mobile home developments as well as apartment and industrial developments.

Township zoning administrator Bob Rajewski confirmed that there has been little opposition to the park from township officials.

"It (the proposal) meets what it (the property) was zoned for," he noted.

Lewis said the park will be a first-class mobile home community which will include a swimming pool, club house and tennis courts. He predicts that it will appeal to either local year-around residents or to summer residents who go south for the winter.

"We want it to be something to be proud of," Lewis said.

Each of the 189 lots in the park will be approximately 50 by 100 feet in size. The lots will be rented on a monthly basis.

Lewis professed optimism about the park's potential. "My gut feeling is that it will be successful because I think there's a need."

He said he feels the mobile home park will offer people a nice quality of life for a lower price than either a condominium or a house.

Highland Construction Co. owns approximately 55 acres of land on M-66, but the mobile home park will occupy only between 30 and 35 acres. The Department of Natural Resources said approximately 20 acres at the back of the site, near the Belvedere golf course is a wetland area.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerald LaBlance

LaBlance 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Emerald LaBlance, former Charlevoix residents now residing in Southampton, Ontario, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary September 22. Family and friends gathered in Goulais River, Ontario over the Labor Day weekend to celebrate.

Mr. and Mrs. LaBlance have ten children: Paul, Margaret, Michael, Joseph, James, Peter, Shaun, Albert, Catherine, and Robert who attended with their own famillies, totalling 33 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Richard W. Strothers

The Rev. Richard W. Struthers, a former resident of Charlevoix who had been making his home in Battle Creek, died there December 27.

A 1937 graduate of Charlevoix High School, Mr. Struthers was born in Charlevoix December 27, 1917, the son of John Richmond Struthers and Anna Marie Sauder Struthers.

On August 11, 1941, he married the former Thelma J. Palmer in Kalamazoo. She survives him, as do two daughters, Mrs. Frederick (Carol Jean) Burnett of Anderson, Indiana, and Mrs. Robert (Sharon Kay) Broschay of Kalamazoo; two grand children; three sisters, Ruth A. Berg, Beatrice G. Richardson, and Leona J. Barlett, all of Charlevoix; and two brothers, Charles J. Struthers of Norristown, Pennsylvania, and Howard D. Struthers of Charlevoix.

Memorials may be made to the Michigan Kingdom Builders of the Church of God.

Edwin J. Madill

Funeral services for Charlevoix native Edwin J. Madill were held December 23 in Phoenix, Arizona where he had lived since 1972. Interment was in St. Francis Cemetery in Phoenix.

A retired United States Consul General, Madill had served in many government capacities both in this country and abroad since 1933.

He was born in Charlevoix February 19, 1911, the son of Robert G. and Elaine Orlowski Madill, attended St. Mary's Elementary School and Charlevoix High School, and later Georgetown and Columbus Universities.

Madill is survived by his widow, the former Margaret A. Shea, two sons, two daughters, 12 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton
Community Church of God

I actually saw a few forlorn looking ones discarded by the curb on the day after Christmas. This week, I suspect they'll be joined by hundreds more as many of you pack up your holidays for another year. In case you haven't caught my drift, I'm speaking of Christmas trees.

It's not that I'm wanting to prolong the holiday season any more than it is supposed to be. It's just that some of us, in our haste to get Christmas behind us, discard some things we learn at Christ's manger that we really need to keep.

The Shepherds came and worshipped the newborn King. They did not linger over that holy scene. They went back to their friends and neighbors, to all who would listen, and told them of the joy that God's revealed love had brought to their lives.

If anyone had a lot invested in that first Christmas, it was the wisemen. A single star's light caused them to mobilize all their resources for a journey that many must have thought maddening. Consider the days and months they spent trekking across the sands in search of their dream. Consider the overwhelming joy that flooded their souls when they saw that dream come alive before their eyes. But even the wisemen did not linger. They too had to get on with their lives.

School has started again. The relatives have gone home. The calendar tells us another whole year has begun. Since we've left the manger, where do we go from here?

Begin this new year by knowing that God is ready to guide you. If you are a Christian, then you already are aware of the amazing love God shows in guiding us through life. We need never face any situation alone.

If you are looking to make some changes for the better in 1989, then know that nothing delights God more than to give you a whole new direction for living. He wants your faith and trust to strengthen and grow.

If you are wondering how you can make even one more day, then be reassured that God stands ready to supply your needs.

The thing is, just as Christmas can't last forever you can't stay the way you are forever. It's time to leave the manger. It's time to exercise some new maturity about your faith. God wants to do some very special things in your life for 1989. He is able if you are willing.

BIRTHS

Recent births at the Charlevoix Area Hospital included:

A son, Johnathan Edward Carson, born to Kelly and Connie Carson of Boyne City on December 21.

A daughter, Mallory Elizabeth Helen Metzger, born to Charles and Dorothy Metzger of Charlevoix on December 21.

A daughter, Rita Jewell Palmer, born to Edward and Mary Palmer of Beaver Island on December 23.

A son, John Robert Alpert, born to Steven Alpert and Cristin Culbertson of Farmington Hills on December 24.

Elsewhere, a son, Nicholas Garrett Mann, was born to Ed and Sue Mann of Prior Lake, Minnesota on December 14. Grandparents are Ed and Jody Mann of Charlevoix and Don and Nancy Berger of Diamondale. Rose Mann of Charlevoix is the paternal great grandmother.

Also, a son, Andrew Michael Fairbanks, was born to Michael and Cindy (Sandahl) Fairbanks at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City on December 19. Maternal grandparents are Gerry and Gertrude Sandahl of Charlevoix.

Also, a son, Forrest Keith Plumm, was born to Patrick and Sally Plumm in Houston, Texas on December 9. Paternal grandparents are George and Maxine Plumm of Charlevoix.

Veteran clerk retires

Doris Johnson has retired after serving Marion Township as Clerk for 21 years, so the township is saying "thank you" with an open house Saturday afternoon, January 14, from 2 to 4 o'clock at the Marion Township Hall.

"I don't know what I'll do with my time. I don't have any definite plans yet," Doris said when asked the usual retirement question.

Marion Township has grown considerably since Doris first took office and tax bills have increased noticeably in the last 21 years, but collections have remained about the same, according to Doris. " People just continue to pay their tax bills."

Doris came north from Ann Arbor in 1952. She and her husband, Oliver, have three grown children, one of whom, Linda Johnson, lives in the area. Another daughter and a son live in Wisconsin.

With all the boats gone, the city docks have been left to the ducks and gulls for the winter. According to the ducks, navigation is easier without the boats in the way, but the food supply has dropped dramatically.

New county budget reviewed

by PEG OHLE

Two county residents and two newspaper reporters attended the public hearing on the 1989 Charlevoix County budget last week.

They were given copies of both last year's budget and this year's budget for comparison purposes. The 1989 budget totals $3,947,887, and the 1988 budget was $3,925,003.

Members of the County Board explained that it was a lean budget because the county is no longer receiving federal revenue-sharing funds (the last annual payment was $281,315), and the Downtown Development Authorities in Charlevoix and Boyne City as well as the Tax Increment Financing Authority in Charlevoix are reducing the county's share of tax money by about $60,000.

The county is receiving an additional three-quarters of a mill voted last year to support Grandvue Medical Care Facility which will bring in approximately $369,000 this year, thus reducing expenditures from the general fund for Grandvue operations.

The budget allows for a four percent across-the-board increase in salaries for county employees and increases in some per diem payments. Although the budget indicates a reduction of $15,250 for county commissioners, their per diem rate was increased from $70 to $75 for a full day, with $50 being allowed for commissioners' committee meetings of less than four hours including travel time. These rates also cover commissioners' finance committee meetings and meetings of the board of convassers and the plat board.

Per diem for other committees and commissions remains the same, ranging from $65 for County Road Commission members to $40 for meetings of other bodies.

County employees and others who use their cars to travel on county business will receive mileage of 24 cents, up from 22.5 cents last year.

County employees traveling within the state on county business will be re-imbursed for meals at the same rate as last year: Breakfast, $5; lunch, $6; and dinner, $12.

Elected officials and appointed department heads will receive a sum not to exceed $400 for expenses (meals, lodging, etc.) plus mileage to attend their annual state conferences. National conferences need prior approval of the budget committee.

The hourly wage schedule for county employees ranges from the entry level $3.76 to the maximum $13.62. Last year this schedule ranged from the entry level of $3.62 to the maximum $13.10.

The management wage schedule ranges from the entry level of $8.75 to the maximum $16.03, up from last year's $8.41 to maximum $15.41.

Road commissioner appointed

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week appointed Wayne Saunders of Eveline Township to the County Road Commission.

Saunders, a life-long resident and third generation farmer in the area, will serve a six-year term, replacing Delbert Ingalls in representing the East Jordan area on the Road Commission.

Saunders served on the County Board of Supervisors in the 1960's and has been supervisor and trustee of Eveline Township for several terms. He will have to resign his present trustee position to take the road Commission job.

When asked why he was interested in the Road Commission, Saunders replied, "Everyone is interested in roads and they have been an issue both in the townships and the county for some time. Hopefully, I can contribute something constructive in the job."

Week was sportless

Charlevoix High School athletes took the week off from both competition last week for Christmas vacation. This week, most of the winter teams resume play.

Three schedules are provided in this week's Courier to assist readers in following the teams. Schedules for other winter sports have been provided in previous editions.

Oh Boix

Jill Raecke, daughter of Mike Raecke and Jan Raecke of Charlevoix was a participant in the Washington Semester Program at The American University during the fall, 1988 semester.

Raecke, a junior economics and management major at Albion College spent the semester interning for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Her duties there included researching the savings and loan industry and the deposit insurance corporations of foreign countries.

Judith Ann Agley, a summer resident of the Charlevoix area has opened a women's boutique called "Judith Ann" in the Village section of Grosse Pointe.

The boutique sells a variety of clothing and accessories in a wide price range. The business started as a small enterprise operation out of the Agley's recreation room home.

Agley is married to Randy Agley. She says he is her biggest supporter in the business venture. He expresses optimism about his wife's business and new headquarters. He noted that he was glad to have the recreation room free again so he could watch football games there.

Hearing on proposed sidewalk merchandise Monday

The city planning commission will host a public hearing on a proposed ordinance governing the display and sale of goods and merchandise on public sidewalks. The hearing is scheduled for 5:30 p.m., Monday Jan. 9.

Merchandise on sidewalks was a hotly debated issue this past summer. Some merchants felt that merchandise on sidewalks was proliferating to the point of becoming gaudy and unattractive.

When pushed by the business community to do something about the problem, the city council asked for input from merchants regarding exactly what they wanted to see done.

Although that may have seemed a simple and reasonable request, determining exactly what the business community wanted done proved to be a less than simple endeavor.

Much of the difficulty in coming up with a solution stemmed from the complexity of the problem.

One complicating factor is that not all of the sidewalk area in front of the Bridge Street stores is publically owned. Some merchants own a few feet of property in front of their stores.

The amount of private propertyin front of stores not only varies from store to store, but in some cases even varies from one end of a store to the other because the storefront isn't parallel to the street.

Another point in the issue was determining if an ordinance should cover only merchandise or if it should cover tables and chairs and vending machines.

Some merchants felt nothing needed to be done. They maintained that the proliferation of items on the street was an indication of a healthy economy and an active business district.

This past fall the city council appointed a committee to review the problem and come back with a recommendation. Members serving on that committee were: Terry Left, Mike Hilligan, Mike Greeley, Bob Hoffman (of Wildwood Innovations), Bill Supernaw and councilmen Butch Russell and Bill Haggard. Chamber of Commerce executive director Jacqueline Merta sat in on the committee meetings in an advisory capacity.

At the committee's first meeting, committee members formulated a survey. At the second meeting, they reviewed the survey results.

The survey indicated that most merchants are concerned about sidewalk congestion and the appearance of signs and merchandise on sidewalks.

Merchants surveyed opposed general merchandise, clothing, food service and signs displayed on sidewalks, but were more receptive to tables and chairs, newspaper signs and flower pots.

When asked if there should be an ordinance prohibiting the items mentioned on sidewalks, the merchants surveyed said no, but only by a margin of two, 20 to 18.

The ordinance the committee has proposed is very liberal. It will allow tables, chairs, newsracks and flower pots on sidewalks, provided there is a 10 foot clear area from the back of the curb toward the storefront.

A license from the city manager's office will be needed for those items and nothing else will be allowed on the public portion of the sidewalk.

The ordinance does not address private property in front of stores.

Following the public hearing, the planning commission will make a recommendation either for adoption or rejection of the proposed ordinance. The planning commission recommendation will go before the city council.

At the Jan. 9 planning commission meeting, there will also be a public hearing on a second proposed ordinance. The ordinance would change the zoning enforcement procedure and allow the city zoning administrator to issue appearance tickets for zoning violations. The tickets would be issued following other notification.

When asked if an ordinance should be adopted prohibiting the above items on private property, the merchants surveyed said no, but only by a two person margin, 20-18.

The ordinance the committee has proposed does not address private property and is fairly liberal concerning public property.

According to the proposed ordinance, tables, chairs, newsracks and flower pots would be allowed on public sidewalks provided there is a 10 foot clear section from the back of the curb toward the storefronts.

To place those items on public sidewalks a license will have to be obtained from the city manager's office. The cost of the license will be established by the city council. Nothing else will be allowed on the public portion of the sidewalk.

Following Monday night's public hearing, the planning commission will recommend either acceptance or denial of the proposed ordinance. At a later date, the city council will act on the ordinance.

Also on Monday evening's planning commission agenda is a second public hearing regarding a proposed ordinance governing zoning enforcement procedure. The ordinance would allow the city zoning administrator to issue appearance tickets for zoning violations.

Charlevoix initiates pilot preschool program

A preschool program for 4-year-old children who may be in need of extra help prior to entering kindergarten is being initiated in Charlevoix.

Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency Head Start program is initiating the program with a special grant from the Michigan Department of Education. Registration for the program will take place from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 5 at the First Congregational Church.

The program is based on income as well as a number of other things. When registering a child a parent should bring social security number, proof of income (such as a check stub), Medicaid numbers or the name of private health or dental insurance company.

Charlevoix's program is one of only four pilot programs in the state. The philosophy of the program is to get children with some educational disadvantages off to a good start in school to set a tone for the rest of their education.

Classes will be held four days a week, Tuesday through Friday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. There is no tuition or cost to those who qualify and free transportation will be provided.

Class size is limited to 18 students. Parents will be asked to participate in some aspects of the program. The program is modeled after the Headstart program which views parents as the primary educators of children.

Glen's Markets & Family Centers

January 2, 1989

Dear Glen's Customer,

This last year has been very good at our store. When I say "our store", it's really yours and mine. You're the reason we're here. Without you, there wouldn't be a Glen's Market in Charlevoix.

I hope my Associates and I have met your needs this last year. If we have been taking care of you the way we should, let the Glen's Associates know about it. If not, let me know about it and we'll be sure to make it right.

Also, we were delighted this past year to be able to contribute over $22,234.00 to our community through Glen's Save-Share program.

Thank you for making 1988 such a good year. I'm looking forward to making our store, yours and mine, even better in 1989.

Sincerely,

Harold Miller

City millage debated

Property taxes, something near and feared to every homeowner's heart, were a central item on the Charlevoix City Council work session agenda Monday evening.

Councilmen discussed both the general fund levy and the infrastructure levy for 1989-90.

In 1987-88 the council levied 9.6 mills for general operations. However for several years prior to that city taxpayers paid 10.6 mills for general operations.

A mill is $1 per every $1,000 of a home or property's state equalized value (SEV). The SEV is, according to whoever assesses the home or property, one half of the home or property's market value.

In coming meetings, the council is going to have to decide whether to go back to the 10.6 mill levy or to stay with the 9.6 mill levy. Monday evening's meeting indicated there is some disparity among the council members on which way to go.

City manager Mike Wiesner and city treasurer Rick Brandl presented the council with information indicating that last year, at the 9.6 mill levy, the city's general fund revenues were $1,281,300 while general fund expenditures were $1,400,500. In other words, during last year the general fund spent $119,200 more than it took in.

To cover that $119,200, the city took money out of savings. The city entered the 1988-89 fiscal year with savings of $337,011. After taking out the $119,200, it will enter the 1989-90 fiscal year with savings of $217,811.

Wiesner and Brandl both spoke against dipping into savings again. According to their projections, if the city were to have much less than $217,800 on hand there could be cash flow

ARMENIA. TO MOURN THE DEAD, TO RESCUE THE LIVING

The Moscow News is now available for reading at the Charlevoix Library. Former mayor Ralph McRae took out a subscription for the library when he was in the Soviet Union last year.

Moscow News comes to Charlevoix

by PEG OHLE

The avid newspaper reader will find a different type of news publication at the Charlevoix Public Library.

It is the Moscow News, which calls itself "A weekly newspaper of the Union of Soviet Societies for Friendship and Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries and Novosti Press Agency".

The subscription to the paper is a gift to the library from former mayor Ralph McRae. It is printed in English, and except for the names of people and places, many headlines and stories could be about happenings in any American city.

There aren't many ads in the paper, but there were two in the December 25 to January 1 issue that caught our attention: "When in Moscow, you can rest in a cozy atmosphere, and eat fine food in the elegant luxury of the antique interior of the Atrium Cafe. You can pay in roubles or by credit card." Substitute "New York" for "Moscow" and "cash" for "roubles", and where are you?

The other ad was the one for "The BOOKS Store." It reads: "The BOOKS store offers you the most specimens of Soviet book publishing: Books on Art, Albums, Guide books, Glossaries and Reference books. Books are sold for freely convertible currency." This copy is followed by the store's address and phone number and the invitation, "Welcome to the BOOKS Store!"

The front page of the Moscow News resembles the tabloid scandal papers sold at the supermarket. However, inside the reading material is timely, thoughtful, and seemingly unbiased.

There is a Letter to the Editor department, which in this issue contained two letters on "Power at the Time of the Personality Cult", dealing with something called Stalin's personality cult which they say had an influence on the very nature of socialism.

The Political Diary section contained a long article on an upcoming teachers' congress to consider changes in the country's educational process.

Under Why?, an editorial on the "Lessons of Compassion" dealt with the Armenian earthquake.

In the Highlights of the Issue section, there was a story covering the meeting of Soviet representatives with an Afghan opposition delegation, which contained a quote from the Washington Post calling the meeting "unprecedented".

The Events, Information section had stories about "Gorbachev's 48 Hours in the USA," "Raisa Gorbachev's Meeting in New York," "Unilaterial Soviet Armed Forces Cuts," "Refuseniks May Now Go" (leave the USSR), "No More Jamming" (the Soviet Union is no longer jamming radio broadcasts from foreign countries).

There was even a Business Diary: "Delhi Restaurant Doing Fine." It was opened by the Soviet Trust of Railway Station Restaurants and India's Ashok Company. "Aluminum Foil:" A contract signed by the Soviet Union and French Government amounts to $1.5 billion to build an aluminum plant. Seventy-five percent of the money will be put up by the Soviets. Ahead-lines

School finance — DDA — TIFA

School finance in general and specifically the effects of tax increment financing authorities (TIFAs) and Downtown Development Authorities (DDAs) on school finance will be the subject of a public discussion at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 18 in the high school gym.

The discussion is being hosted by FOCUS, a group which sponsors discussions on issues of interest to the community. School finance is an issue which affects all taxpayers.

In Charlevoix, school finance debate centers around TIFAs and DDAs. Charlevoix has one of each.

Both work in similar fashions. When a DDA or TIFA is established, property values in the district affected are frozen for general tax collection purposes.

Although values are frozen for general tax collection purposes, property values continue to increase. Since tax revenue increases in proportion to property value, tax revenue in the TIFA or DDA also increases. However that increased revenue goes toward projects in the DDA or TIFA district, rather than in with general tax revenues.

A DDA or TIFA targets where a certain portion of tax money can be spent.

School officials in Charlevoix argue that the TIFA and DDA siphon away money for TIFA or DDA projects which otherwise would go to the school system.

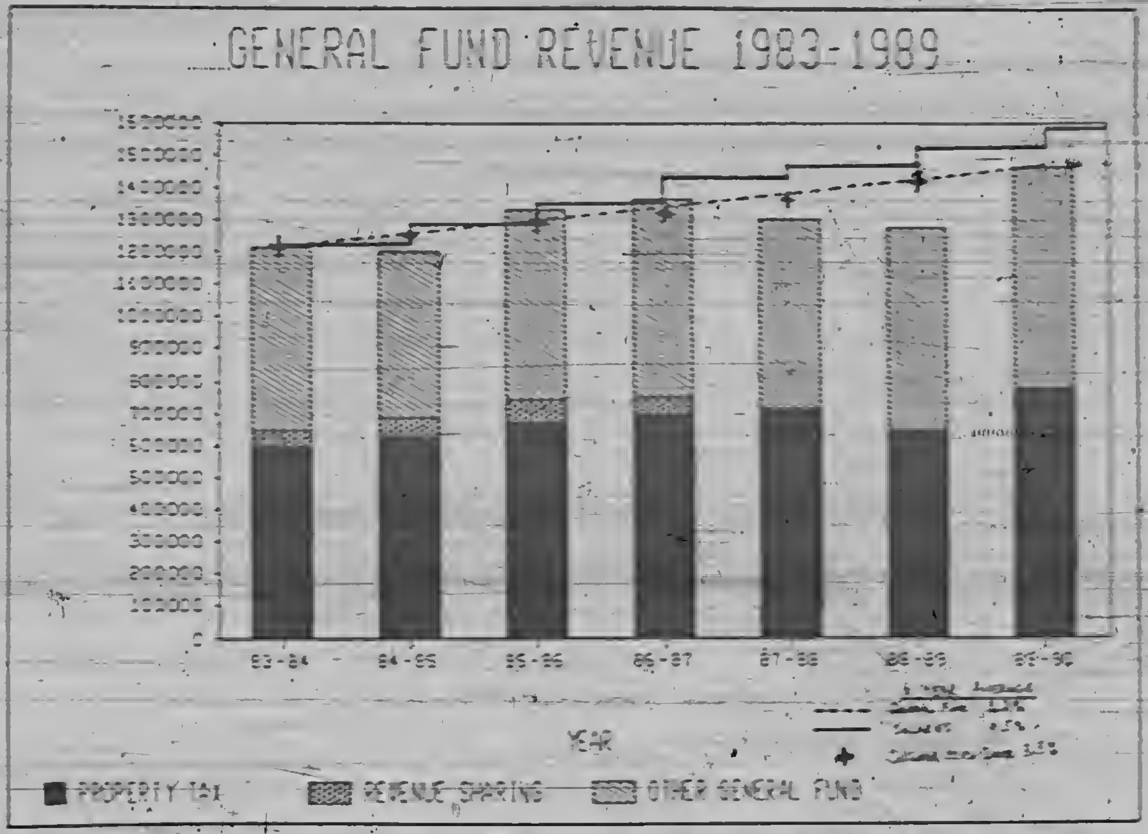
City and DDA officials contend that the DDA benefits the community and is renovating the downtown area. They also maintain that after the DDA expires, the school district and other taxing bodies will benefit from DDA improvements.

At Wednesday evening's FOCUS discussion taxpayers will get an opportunity to hear both sides of the issue and to ask questions.

School superintendent Gordon VanWieren will explain where school revenues come from. DDA member Hugh Mason will explain how the DDA is funded and what those funds are used for. Pat Bernardo, a member of a Lansing law firm which works with school districts, will explain why school systems have reservations about DDAs.

It is possible that there may also be someone affiliated with the Lansing legislature at the meeting to discuss school finance reform measures being debated in Lansing.

FOCUS officials say next Wednesday's discussion will be in the high school gym rather than in the study hall because it is possible there may be a large audience.



—This bar graph was presented to the city council Monday evening by city manager Mike Wiesner and city treasurer Rick Brandi. The graph deals with the city's general fund budget for the past several years. The city council must decide whether to levy 9.6 or 10.6 mills for the 1989-90 fiscal year.

problems at certain times of the year when the city is awaiting tax revenue. If that occurred, the city would have to take out a short-term loan to pay city bills while waiting for taxes to come in.

Wiesner said that last year the city levied 9.6 and dipped into its pocket. But this year there's no dipping into that pocket.

Wiesner and Brandi noted that last year the city's finishing budget came out very close to the projected budget, within approximately 1.5 percent. Wiesner credited the city's department heads for keeping a good handle on their budgets.

The loss of federal revenue sharing was also mentioned. In the early '80s, Charlevoix was receiving as much as $80,000 per year in revenue sharing funds from the federal government. That program has been phased out and now the city receives no federal revenue sharing money.

Despite the figures presented by Wiesner and Brandi, councilman Butch Russell appeared to lean toward a 9.6 rather than a 10.6 mill levy.

"I still don't agree with a one mill increase," Russell said. "I think we got by all right last year."

He said that last year the city council decided to levy 9.6 mills, then sat down and decided what they could afford and what would have to be done without.

Councilman Norm Probert appeared to lean the other way.

"But we robbed from Peter to pay Paul with the one mill decrease," Probert said.

Mayor Gary Probert emphasized the need to keep the city's cash flow in order. If the city doesn't maintain a high enough savings to cover cash flow needs, rather than collecting interest on savings, it will pay interest on a short-term loan.

Councilman Earl Muma said he wanted to see some additional information. He said that he feels property values, the city's total SEV, have been going up more than enough to offset inflation.

Regarding the infrastructure, the council levy up to four mills for infrastructure repairs. That levy is in addition to the 9.6 or 10.6 general fund levy.

Last year the city levied four mills. Some of the major infrastructure projects of the past year were sidewalks and storm and sanitary sewer separations and street repaving. There is still an estimated $4.2 million in infrastructure repairs to be made. That is estimated to take between 14 and 15 years at a four mill per year levy.

None of the councilmembers tipped their hands as to what direction they're leaning toward in this year's infrastructure levy.

Councilman Ken Whitley did note that for sewer work, he would prefer to see sewer fund revenues pay for the work rather than general tax dollars. Sewer funds derive from sewer user fees. Whitley indicated that having sewer fund revenues paying for sewer work would mean that those who benefit from the system would be those paying for the work on it.

Wiesner said there is a chance that infrastructure sewer work planned for the coming year may be able to be funded by fees paid for new sewer hook-ups.

If that occurs, the city could either levy less infrastructure millage or do more work and speed up the timetable on the infrastructure program.

Frozen football is fools' festival

"Did you hear what those football announcers just said?" Millie Wishart asked her husband Alfred as he sat in front of the TV. "The temperature is 16 degrees where they're at. The windchill's below zero. The field's frozen solid as a rock. And those morons are outdoors in that weather playing football. It's stupid Alfred, just stupid."

Alfred groaned as he shifted his body in the big, reclining chair.

"It's the pro football playoffs," he said. "Sometimes it's cold at playoff games this time of the year."

"Then why do they schedule playoffs at this time of the year?" Millie asked. "It's January Alfred. You don't have to be a prophet to know that it's going to be cold in places like Chicago come January."

"Playoff games have to be scheduled in January because that's when the football season ends," Alfred explained. "Think about it, if you had the playoffs and the Super Bowl at the beginning of the year rather than the end, it would would make the regular season pretty anticlimatic, now wouldn't it?"

Alfred sat back and smiled smugly.

"Oh anticlimatic, anticlimatic," Millie grumbled. "All football is already anticlimatic. Football is just a bunch of dunces running around crashing into each other. It doesn't make any sense."

"It doesn't make any sense to you because you don't understand the strategy involved," Alfred said. "There's a lot of strategy. You just don't understand it."

"Strategy," Millie scoffed. "Figuring strategy is just an excuse for those overweight, out-of-shape players to rest between plays. I read a magazine article where in a 60-minute football game, only about 23 minutes are spent actually playing. More than half the time, the players stand around in little groups figuring out what to do next while the referee retrieves the ball and puts it in the middle of the field where the players can find it. Some strategy."

"It takes time to call the right plays," Alfred countered. "A lot of times they change the plays. Sometimes they change plays right up until just before the ball is snapped. Those are called audibles. That's why the quarterback yells out to the receivers."

"Like those guys way out on the edge of the field are really going to hear the quarterback over thousands of fans hollering."

"The home field fans always yell and make it hard for the other team to hear," Alfred claimed. "That's part of the home-field advantage."

"That's just rude," Millie countered. "There ought to be a penalty for it, 30 yards for unnecessary rudeness."

"It's not rudeness, it's enthusiasm. It's part of the game."

"Yelling so other people can heard is no way to treat people, especially guests," Millie maintained.

As the game ended, Millie said, "Good, now I can watch 60 Minutes. Was that the last game of the year?"

"No, there's one more game. In two weeks they play the Super Bowl," Alfred said with a sparkle of anticipation in his eyes. "That's the biggest game of the year. Millions of people will watch it."

"Sounds like a festival for fools and a celebration of ignorance," Millie said triumphantly.

Alfred thought to himself, "Yeah. And you'll probably watch it with me."

Letters to the Editor:

Gratitude for food

Dear People of the Charlevoix area:

How dear you really are! We never cease to be amazed at your generosity, but this year you really set a new record for being caring neighbors. Because of the overwhelming outpouring of money, food, gifts and labor, the Community Food Pantry was able to share with a greater number of needy families more of our blessings than we have ever been able to before.

166 households received food and-or gifts (5 of them were more in need of TLC than food and were given gifts only). This meant a total of 434 people were served. 168 children received gifts, mittens or gloves, and caps or scarves. Many were given books as well, most of which were donated by the Petoskey News-Review. 60 senior citizens, age 75 and over, also received gifts.

Statistics are sometimes boring, but these should make you proud to be a member of this community. A total of $3,649 was given by 39 individuals and families and 18 community businesses or organizations. (This includes $500 from the Lions Club and $1,000 from the Rainbow Shoppe.) Material gifts (including food, knit wear, books, toys and other presents) were given by a number of individuals and organizations. (Lots of loving time put in at knitting showed up here. For example 100 pairs of mittens came from an 81 year old lady from Hessel, Michigan!) Over 120 people, a number of whom were school age children, contributed to the work force.

Because of the chance of inadvertently omitting a name, we are not attempting to list individual donors, but we know who all of you are, and we thank you very much. Our gratitude goes out to the following organizations not previously mentioned for their donations of time, money, food and gifts:

Boy Scout Troop 11, Boy Scout Den, 1, 3, and 7, Webelo Troop, Girl Scout Troop 255, Evening Lions Club, Eastern Star, Barnard Grange, St. Mary's Parish (144 gifts for children), St. Mary's School children, Newcomers' Club, Charlevoix Middle School students (2955 food items), Charlevoix High School students, Charlevoix Hospital, Charlevoix Masonic Lodge, United Methodist Women, Knights of Columbus, Glen's Market Santa Project, Food for Folks Co-op, American Legion Auxiliary Post 226, VFW Post 1153 Bingo Committee.

VFW Auxiliary 1153, Congregational Mary Burns Circle, Paul Bunyan Lanes, Ben Franklin Store, United Methodist Men's Club, Charlevoix Woman's Club, First Baptist Church, Barnard Methodist Church, Charlevoix Methodist Church, Greensky Methodist Church, Lutheran Church, Community Reformed Church, Charlevoix Congregational Church, Ironton Congregational Church, Church of God, Assembly of God, Nazarene Church, Episcopal Church.

The Food Pantry wants to express its appreciation to 15 individuals and the following organizations for giving a special Christmas donation to the on-going program which always needs funds: The Rainbow Shoppe, Church of God Women, Welcome Wagon, Greensky Methodist Women's Society, Barnard Methodist Women, Charlevoix County State Bank ($1172.!)

God bless every one of you.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

Not just any old brand

One of the pitfalls of this business is remembering to capitalize brand names, even if the names have fallen into such common usage that you and I consider them generic.

Take kitty litter, for example. Pardon me, KITTY LITTER® Brand cat box filler.

A few weeks ago I had occasion to mention k.... l..... in a Clockwise column which was not about k.... l.... at all but about grocery stores. But I did mentioned k.... l..... five times because it was pertinent to my complaint about Universal Product Code (UPC) pricing.

THIS WEEK I received a letter from Lori Schlotfeldt of the Customer Relations Department of Edward Lowe Industries, Inc., in South Bend, Ind., which apparently owns the KITTY LITTER® Brand trademark.

"Thank you for your reference to our product in your October 12, 1988 piece, a copy of which is enclosed," Ms. Schlotfeldt wrote.

"However, we suspect the mention was unintentional," she continued. "In the story in question, KITTY LITTER® Brand was referred to in a generic sense. As KITTY LITTER® Brand is a registered trademark for a specific premium cat box filler manufactured by Edward Lowe Industries, Inc., any use of the name other than as shown here is incorrect.

"Please help us protect our valuable trademark and assure the accuracy of your copy as well, by capitalizing the K and L in KITTY LITTER® and adding the word Brand. When not referring specifically to Kitty Litter® Brand, we suggest the generic term 'cat box filler.'

"We suspect that the generic misuse of our brand name was inadvertent, but did want you to be aware of our product and its correct use for future reference. If we can provide further information on cats and/or our products, please do not hesitate to contact us."

EDWARD LOWE isn't the only company that has watchdogs out to see that we don't violate their trademarks. Which is rather odd. You would think that a company would be very happy that its product is so well known it has become a part of the language — like kleenex (Pardon me, Kleenex®).

But I guess they feel obligated to protect their properties before other manufacturers of "cat box filler" or paper handkerchiefs infringe on their territory.

Courier editor Scott Swanson says he has read other such letters from manufacturers. He says the one from Ms. Schlotfeldt was one of the most cordial he has seen. Some manufacturers become downright feisty when anyone plays fast and loose with their trademarks.

I can see their point, but I think misuse of trademarks — if you can call it that — is one of the hazards of success. Come up with a popular product and you're going to have to hire a staff of attorneys and office aides to deal with the violators.

As a spokesman for the press, I can't see any self-respecting newsman writing anyone's product name all in capital letters. Not only are such words unattractive in print, but someone is going to wonder who you're working for.

As for using the generic name — "cat box filler" — forget it. Nobody would know what you're talking about and in my business communication is the name of the game.

I have a confession to make:

When I wrote the column about UPC pricing, I did not buy KITTY LITTER® Brand cat box filler, I bought Fresh Step.

But "cat box filler" always shows up on our shopping list as "kitty litter."

Now I have another confession to make:

Rather than go through all this again I am getting a dog.

THE CITY skating rink is open at the Charlevoix Middle School. But some kids can't use the rink because they don't have skates, according to Norm Probert, physical education teacher.

If you have an unused pair of skates down the basement, Norm would appreciate your leaving them at the school office (or the Rainbow Shop.) Large sizes welcome. Norm guarantees they'll be put to good use.

An update on Mesquite travels

Dear Editor,

I would like to explain something that might have caused some confusion after the Mesquite's departure. The day after we left the USCGC Mariposa arrived in Charlevoix. Shortly after she left another large black buoy tender arrived, the USCGC Bramble. Neither of these obviously were the Mesquite. They were working on Lake Michigan and since we had left were able to use our moorings.

After leaving Charlevoix we transited the Straits of Mackinac, Lake Huron, the St. Clair River, the Detroit River, Lake Erie, and then through the Welland Canal. The Canal was quite an experience for first time travelers.

Once into Lake Ontario we stopped in Niagara to work a few buoys. The weather then began to look a bit like winter and before we arrived in Oswego we had entered a full blown winter snow storm. We had more work to do, though, and continued working buoys through the snow and nightfall.

On December 11, 1988, we entered the St. Lawrence Seaway. Through the Seaway we stopped in Massena, and Quebec. We did a good bit of ice breaking just to get through and on Dec. 18, 1988, we arrived in Halifax.

Our goal was to spend Christmas in Savannah, GA, and that we did. The Gulf Stream slowed us down a bit, but we arrived the morning of Christmas Eve.

The day after Christmas we were once again underway and we arrived in Miami on Dec. 28, 1988, after 24 days of travel.

To Charlevoix we send our best wishes for the new year.

The Crime and Punishment section had a story editorializing about "the organized crime we have—There has been bribe-taking to the tune of hundreds of thousands of roubles among high-placed officials".

Literature and the Arts headlines included "The Life and Extraordinary Adventures of Private Ivan Chonkin to Be Published" and "Our Films in Leipzig," telling about the International Festival of Documentary Films.

Playbill covered the movies and theater. There was a review of "Lolita" which read, in part, "It won't be necessary to translate it into Russian—you will recall it and the girl many times, as if you had burned your tongue with boiling water." In a more classical vein, a headline read, "Is Mozart Dead? Long Live Mozart," a story telling of Moscow's new Mozart Quartet which is starting work on the performance and video recording of all 27 of Mozart's quartets. "The Soviet Oscar" explained the 8 kg. bronze lady, yet un-named and now simply called "Oscar" after the US movie award. Winners of the Soviet trophy will also receive 2,000 roubles.

This end-of-the-year issue of Moscow News also carried six pages of stories about the Armenian earthquake. With the heading, "To Mourn the Dead, to Rescue the Living," there was a list of victims' needs, thank-you's to all countries for their generous help, and a note that the Armenian atomic power station was not damaged by the quake. "What we must Do" was a recitation of all the problems facing the people. There were also letters from correspondents all over Armenia.

This issue of the Moscow News followed Mikhail Gorbachev's return from the United States where he had addressed the General Assembly of the United Nations. His speech, presumably word for word, was included as a supplement to the paper.

Copies of the Moscow News are kept on file at the library for all who want to read them.

SPECIAL NOTE

Because of enrollment restrictions placed on all community colleges by the State Legislature it will be necessary to make the decision concerning whether a class has sufficient enrollment to be taught at the time of registration. Therefore, it is extremely important that students register on the scheduled registration dates.

TUITION AND FEES

Tuition: Emmet County Residents — $30.50 per credit hour.
Residents of counties other than Emmet — $36.50 per credit hour.

Registration Fee: Two dollars ($2.00) is charged per credit hour or partial credit hour.

FINANCIAL AID

There are several kinds of Financial Aid for which a college student may apply. Pell Grants and Michigan Guaranteed Student Loans provide a majority of the financial aid funds for our students at the present time. More information and applications for these programs are available from the Office of Financial Aid at North Central Michigan College. Application materials for Veteran's benefits are available from the Dean of Students Office on campus. Students must enroll for at least six credit hours in order to be eligible for consideration for Financial Aid. NCMC, through the Women's Resource Center, has a tuition reimbursement program available for single parents, homemakers, and non-traditional job seekers.

German exchange student is third from her family

by PEG OHLE

Inga Meissner

One of the first things Inga Meissner said to us when we sat down to talk was, "I don't want to forget mentioning Bucky the dog and Matze the cat."

Inga is an exchange student at Charlevoix High School. She lives with Norman and Elaine Tolman—and Bucky and Matze—in Island View.

Inga's home is in Muenster (yes, Muenster cheese), Westphalia, West Germany, but she says the Muenster cheese they sell in Charlevoix is nothing like the cheese she gets at home—and neither is the bread we call "German", and probably not the hams we call "Westphalian".

Coming to the United States as an exchange student has become a Meissner family tradition. An older brother was an exchange student in Green Bay, Wisconsin, and an older sister spent a school year in Norfolk, Virginia. "My brother wanted me to come to Michigan," Inga says happily of her placement in Charlevoix High School.

Looking forward to her future, Inga says she thinks she wants to do something with literature—maybe write, but perhaps work in a museum or some other such interesting place. A library, she believes would be "too boring".

Inga is enjoying her stay in Charlevoix, although she admits to being lonesome when she first arrived, and during the Christmas holidays. A Christmas phone call home helped overcome that loneliness and Inga has become quite philosophical: "Of course I miss my family and friends at home, but I have good friends here, too." Among her friends at home is a boy who keeps writing, "Enjoy yourself" and "I miss you".

Only three things in our discussion brought out any negative comments from Inga. The first was riding the bus to school. "It's a long, cold, scary hour." The second was the noise in the cafeteria. Now she usually "brown bags it" and eats in the performing arts room. The third was the size of her locker. "There's not room for much of anything in it. At home we don't need lockers, because most of our classes are in one room and we can leave our books and things in our desks".

The most surprising thing Inga found about the United States was that "Everything is so big and so new—the streets, the stores, and the schools." However, Charlevoix High School is smaller than the school Inga attended in Germany, which had over 800 students. The school year is longer there, too, running [illegible] weeks. Students have a six week vacation period in the summer, one week in the autumn, two weeks in the winter, and three weeks at Easter time. The weather in Muenster is not as cold as it is here and brings a lot of rain and not much snow. When it does snow, Inga says it is all gone by the next day.

Inga told us that the sports programs in Charlevoix High School is different from sports programs at home. There, all sports activities are conducted outside the schools in clubs which are supported by the city, and for which only a small membership fee is charged. The coaches are usually persons with other jobs who work without pay but who must be certified to perform coaching duties.

As Inga explained it, "We go to school from 7:45 to 1 o'clock. Then we go to our sports clubs or language clubs, or whatever other club we are interested in." Inga is playing volleyball in Charlevoix, a sport she also

FAMILY

Kimberly and Todd Ingalls

Essenberg — Ingalls

Kimberly Rae Essenberg and Todd Ray Ingalls were united in marriage November 28 at the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church.

The Rev. William Lyons read the double ring rites before 325 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Essenberg of Ellsworth, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ingalls, also of Ellsworth.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of satin with long pouffed and shirred sleeves with bow accents. Simulated pearls graced the fitted bodice. The bride's veil of illusion was attached to a headpiece of lace and pearls, and she carried a cascading bouquet of white and blue silk roses, carnations, and baby's breath.

Donna Engelhart, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor, and Joelyn Ingalls, sister of the bridegroom and Wendy Essenberg, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore royal blue taffeta gowns with gathered sleeves and a bow in back. Each carried silk nosegays of blue and white roses, carnations, and baby's breath. Their headpieces were royal blue.

Gary Walker served the bridegroom as best man, and Tom Peters and Steve Graham were groomsmen. Del and Brendan Ingalls, brothers of the bridegroom, and Rob Essenberg, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Music for the ceremony was furnished by Mary Jean Matz, aunt of the bride who played a program of traditional wedding music, vocalist Gary Walker who was accompanied by Joyce Petter, and flutist Melissa McPherson.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Ellsworth High School gym following the wedding ceremony. Chet and Maureen Drenth served as master and mistress of ceremonies, and Katie Sowers prepared the buffet dinner.

The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Jordan Inn.

Following a wedding trip to California, the newlyweds are living in Ellsworth. The bridegroom is employed as a chemical engineer by Summa Harrison Metal Products in Mancelona, and the bride is a billing clerk at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

King — Peltier

Marla King of Charlevoix and Rick Peltier of Walloon Lake exchanged marriage vows December 3 at the Boyne City Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Milton Walls officiated at the double ring ceremony in the sanctuary decorated with lighted Christmas trees, red bows, candelabra, and arrangements of pink, red, and white carnations.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Wayne King of Beaverton, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jackson of Port Huron and Richard Peltier of Cheboygan.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, wore a gown of satin with a Queen Anne neckline, long sleeves, and accents of Venise lace on the bodice and sleeves. Her long train featured three tiers of Chantilly lace, and her veil was attached to a crown headpiece. Her bouquet was composed of white and red sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Laura Hoggard served the bride as maid of honor, and Jill Moore was bridesmaid. Amy Hoggard assisted as junior bridesmaid.

The maid of honor wore a wine-colored tea-length gown with a velvet bodice and taffeta skirt. The bridesmaids wore identical gowns in green. Each carried bouquets of red sweetheart roses and white and pink carnations.

Marla and Rick Peltier

Nicole and Kacey Peltier served as flower girls, wearing white satin tea-length dresses with wine and green ribbons.

Tom King attended the bridegroom as best man, and Mike Jarman and Danny Boger were groomsmen. Danny King and Danny Boger were ushers.

Organist Dava Maat played a program of traditional wedding music for the ceremony.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception in the fellowship hall of the church, and a second reception was given at the couple's new home, hosted by the parents of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner, at the Country Star Inn in Boyne City.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Peltier have returned from a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and are now at home in Walloon Lake. The bridegroom is employed by Industrial Magnetics, Inc. in Boyne City, and the bride is employed by District Health Department No. 3 in Petoskey.

played in Germany.

Inga is 16 years old. When she returns home this summer, she will prepare for another three years in the gymnasium before entering a university. Being around a university will not be a new experience for her because her father teaches math at a university. Her mother is employed as an office manager.

Inga will be missed by many when she leaves Charlevoix, but probably most of all by Bucky and Matze.

Sidewalk clarification

A paragraph in a story appearing in last week's Courier may have left room for misinterpretation.

The story concerned merchandise on sidewalks and a survey taken by an ad hoc committee appointed to deal with the issue.

The paragraph read, "When asked if there should be an ordinance prohibiting the items mentioned on sidewalks, the merchants surveyed said no, but only by a margin of two, 20-18."

The paragraph should have specified that the survey question asked if an ordinance should include prohibiting the items on private sidewalk property.

Joanna Krusinski

Joanna Krusinski, 101, died Nov. 15, 1988, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan.

Graveside service was held Saturday, Nov. 19, at Grand Lawn Cemetery Chapel in Detroit.

Mrs. Krusinski was born April 14, 1887, in Bodzia, Poland, the daughter of Frank and Frances Kurdupski. She grew up in Poland.

In 1906, she married Joseph Krusinski in Wroclawek, Poland. They moved to the United States when Mrs. Krusinksi was 25 and made their home in the Detroit area. Mr. Krusinski preceded her in death in 1961.

Mrs. Krusinski moved to Charlevoix in 1963.

She was the first member of the First Christ Polish Baptist Church in Detroit.

Mrs. Krusinski is survived by her daughter, Pearl G. Rowe, of Charlevoix; one granddaughter, Mrs. Dee Dee Dittmar of Livonia; one grandson, Walter R. Krusinski of Livonia; eight great-grandchildren and six great-great-grandchildren.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix.

Geneva May Miller

Geneva May Miller, 74, of Boyne City, died Dec. 17, 1988, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral services were held Dec. 21 at the Winchester Funeral Home with burial in Maple Lawn Cemetery, Boyne City.

The former Geneva May Duffy was born April 7, 1914, in Flint, the daughter of Charles and Elva (Coleman) Duffy. She married Russell Miller on June 7, 1941, and he died in 1976.

Mrs. Miller had resided at the Litzenburger Center in Boyne City for the past 14 years. She was resident historian and led social activities at the center. She was also a volunteer at the Bergmann Center in Charlevoix.

Completing her secondary education as a senior citizen, Mrs. Miller graduated with the Boyne City High School class of 1987.

Mrs. Miller is survived by one daughter, Barbara Navarre of Pasco, Wash.; two cousins, Joseph Stutzman and Lauretta Swanson, both of Charlevoix.

Alice P. Blossie

Alice P. Blossie, 92, of East Jordan, died Jan. 6, 1989, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Funeral wase 1 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 10, at the Paullin Funeral Home, East Jordan. The Rev. Merlin K. Delo of the East Jordan United Methodist Church officiated and interment was in Sunset Hill Cemetery, East Jordan.

The former Alice P. Woolcott was born March 19, 1896, at the family home in Antrim County, the daughter of Frank and Mary C. (Reese) Woolcott.

She graduated from Bellaire High School in 1914 and then attended Antrim County Normal in Mancelona. She attended Ypsilanti State Normal College where she received a teaching certificate.

Mrs. Blossie taught in rural schools in Antrim, Alpena and Charlevoix counties.

On Oct. 11, 1921, she married Albert F. Blossie in Bellaire. He preceded her in death Sept. 25, 1965.

Mrs. Blossie was active as president and secretary of the former East Jordan senior citizens club. She also was active in the Junior Red Cross during World War I.

Mrs. Blossie had been a member of the East Jordan United Methodist Church since 1930. She taught Sunday school for many years.

Survivors include: two daughters, Mrs. Myron (Katherine) Poe of Royal Oak and Margaret M. Thomson of East Jordan; one stepson, Kenneth L. Blossie of Boyne City; five grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; several nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to the East Jordan United Methodist Church. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Paullin Funeral Home in East Jordan where visitation was held.

Nicki DiNio and Bridget Drayton spin together on the ice of the city skating rink at the middle school. The skating rink recently opened for the season and saw quite a few skaters last week.

Varsity team loses to Chiefs

A 54-43 loss to Cheboygan Friday night dropped the Rayder varsity basketball team to 3-2 in league play and 7-2 overall.

Charlevoix dug themselves a deep hole in the first half at Cheboygan as they totalled only 12 points in the first two quarters.

Fortunately for the Rayders, Cheboygan wasn't setting the world on fire in the first half either and scored only 24 points.

Entering the second half, the Rayders were faced with an ugly, but not insurmountable 12 point deficit and made a run at the Chiefs.

Midway through the fourth quarter, Charlevoix had cut Cheboygan's lead to four points, 44-40, and had the ball and a chance to draw within a basket.

But following a missed Charlevoix shot, Cheboygan rebounded, brought the ball down the court and scored and after that Charlevoix couldn't again close the gap.

Although the Rayders occasionally had trouble scoring during the game, the scoring they did was fairly evenly distributed. Shawn Putman led the Rayders in scoring with a dozen points. Webb Friedly contributed 11 points and Bob Jess just got into double figures with 10.

This Friday evening, Jan. 13, Charlevoix will travel to Rogers City.

Charlevoix is currently in second place in the Michigan Huron Shores League behind Petoskey, Sault Ste. Marie and Cheboygan with 4-1 records.

Earlier in the season Charlevoix beat Sault Ste. Marie which beat Petoskey. Charlevoix and Petoskey play a much awaited show-down game Friday, Jan. 20 in Charlevoix. Charlevoix's other league loss was to St. Ignace.

Charlevoix's junior varsity team lost for the first time this season to Cheboygan.

Missed free throws cost freshmen

By Tim Henne

Charlevoix's freshman basketball team fell to the Cheboygan Chiefs 64-51 in Charlevoix this past Thursday.

Despite the loss, Rayder coach Barry Anderson said, "My boys played a good game. They showed some good hustle, but our free throws could have been better." For the game, the Rayders were seven for 31 from the foul line.

The opening tip went to Charlevoix, but from that point on in the first half, they were forced to play catch up by the taller Cheboygan team which was led by guard Tom Shaw.

For the Rayders, Brian Coolman scored several of his 16 points off a play the Rayder team had learned only the day before the game. Coolman's 16 were not a team-high. That honor went to Luke LaBlance with 17 points.

At halftime, Charlevoix was down by only a point, 31-30. By not allowing Cheboygan to score for almost two minutes into the third quarter, Charlevoix briefly took the lead. But the lead was only brief and by the end of the third quarter, Cheboygan was again ahead, this time 44-38.

In the fourth quarter, Cheboygan continued to benefit from the Rayders miseries at the free-throw line and was able to hold on for the 13 point victory.

Library hosts activity hour

The annual children's activity hour sponsored by the Charlevoix Public Library for students in the kindergarten through the fifth grade will begin Saturday, Jan. 14, 1989 at the library, Marybeth Wallick, librarian, has announced.

All children in this age group are invited to attend the activity hour from 11 a.m. until noon each Saturday beginning Jan. 14 and running through Feb. 18.

"We have arranged what we think will be a program of interest to everyone for it includes a variety of events built around the idea that a healthy body and a healthy mind go hand in hand," Wallick said.

The program will be conducted by Vital Options headed by Candy Smith and will feature the idea that exercise can be fun. The program will include information on good nutrition, physical awareness, substance abuse awareness, games to develop coordination and exercises "just for fun."

To participate in the program, students need only to show up at the Charlevoix Public Library no later than 10:55 a.m. Saturday so the hour-long class may begin at 11 a.m. sharp.

Brandi Lynn Boike was Charlevoix's first baby of the new year. The daughter of Edward and Glenda Boike of East Jordan was born at 6:34 p.m., Jan. 1.

Bandshell receives $40,000 grant

City now managing project

Charlevoix will receive a $40,000 Michigan Equity Grant which will fund installation of bathrooms in the lower portion of the new bandshell.

Bandshell committee treasurer Bob B. Hoffman informed the city council of the award at the council's Jan. 3 organizational meeting.

Charlevoix applied for a $50,000 Michigan Equity Grant this past fall to pay for restroom installation. Although the city didn't get $50,000, the $40,000 grant will suffice.

The old bandshell and fish pond were demolished in the fall. Construction of a new bandshell and fish pond will begin in the spring.

In a phone interview with the Courier, Hoffman said the total estimated cost of the new bandshell is $186,500. The city will advertise for construction bids, probably in February.

Various businesses in the community have donated bandshell construction materials or offered construction materials at reduced cost. Those donations and cost reductions will reduce the $186,500 cost figure.

There have also been people who have volunteered labor on the project. Hoffman said that in order for volunteers to be used, the project's general contractor will have to hire the volunteer, pay him and then the volunteer would turn the money back over to the bandshell fund.

Whether or not volunteer labor is used at all will be up to the discretion of whichever general contractor is awarded the bid. It will be stipulated in the bid specs that the donated and reduced-price materials will be used.

Hoffman said that even if volunteer labor is not utilized, the bandshell committee is confident there will be enough funds available to complete the bandshell.

Although the committee at this time is close to having the amount of money needed for completion, the bandshell fund-raising drive is still active.

JACQUELINE MERTA

Jacqueline Merta is executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

There are several ways to define a small business. The Small Business Administration (SBA) defines small business as independently owned and operated entities not dominant in their fields and meeting employment or sales standards as set by the SBA. Some of these standards are by the following criteria:

Argriculture - Annual receipts may not exceed $1 million.

Manufacturing - Number of employees may range up to 1,500 depending on the industry.

Services - Annual receipts may not exceed $2 or $8 million depending on industry.

Retailing - Annual sales may not exceed $2 to $7.5 million depending on industry.

Construction, Special Trade - Average annual sales may not exceed $1 to $2 million.

While many would dispute the SBA's standards to define small business, few would disagree that small business is a mainstay in the nations economic vitality. Just look at a few facts:

Small businesses provide over 40 percent of our GNP.

Small businesses create over two-thirds of all new jobs.

Small businesses will create over 75 percent of all new jobs in the next 25 years.

18.7 percent of the 2.4 million new jobs created this year will be created by firms with fewer than 20 employees.

More than 17 million Americans own a small business. Why has there been such growth of small enterprises? One major contributing factor is that small business owners have the opportunity to control their own lives and reap the rewards of their risks.

Even though entrepreneurs take risks, often they are perceived to possess gambler-type personalities which isn't necessarily true. The nation's most successful entrepreneurs are quiet, introspective people who focus on ideas, logic and perceptions, according to INC. magazine.

Blood flows freely as town surpasses blood drive goal

If 100 pints would have been good, 110 pints better and 125 pints great, what does that make 133 pints?

Charlevoix people were a notch above great last Thursday as they donated 133 pints of blood at a Red Cross Blood Drive which took place at the Legion Hall.

Although there's always a need for blood, extenuating circumstances made last Thursday's Charlevoix blood drive even more important than others. A late December blood drive in Traverse City had to be postponed because of a traffic accident involving drive workers.

Charlevoix is in the same blood collection region as Traverse City. To pick up the slack from the postponed Traverse City drive, it was important for Charlevoix's drive to at least meet its 100 pint goal and preferably exceed it.

Charlevoix people responded in force, not only making 100 percent of the goal, but exceeding the goal by 33 percent.

"It was a super response," said blood drive coordinator Nancy Fowler. "The blood was really needed."

While the vast majority of donors were people who had given blood in the past, there were also three first-time donors. Blood drive officials were also pleased to note that several high school students made time in their schedules to donate blood.

Fowler said the donors who showed up Thursday were enthusiastic and pleasant.

"I think people like to start the new year out doing something good," she remarked.

WATCH enters Dow appeal

The WATCH environmental group has been admitted to a case involving an administrative appeal filed with the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) by Herbert Dow.

Dow filed the appeal after the DNR denied him a permit to construct and live in a residence above a boathouse near the end of Prospect Street on the northeastern shoreline of Round Lake.

WATCH president Jerry Puhl said WATCH supports the DNR's original position of not allowing residential structures over the lake bottom on that side of Round Lake.

"We want to make sure the DNR's decision stands," Puhl said.

Following Dow's appeal of the decision, WATCH filed a petition for intervention in the case. Administrative Law Judge William C. Fulkerson, who will hear the appeal, has granted WATCH the right to appear and speak at the appeal hearing.

No hearing date has been set and there may not even be a hearing.

Since the appeal was filed, Dow has come up with an alternative site plan which would renovate the boathouse, but would have the residential portion of the project on shore rather than over the water.

Dow's attorney, Scott Beatty, confirmed that there is an alternative plan which does not call for a residence over the lake. He said the appeal is still pending and had no comment on WATCH's gaining intervening status.

Puhl said that despite the alternative plan, as long as the appeal is pending WATCH will actively support the DNR's original decision. Puhl claimed that if a residence were allowed over the lake on that side of Round Lake it would set a precedence.

State moves slowly on radioactive waste

The latest word from a state appointed committee assigned to find a location in Michigan for a low-level radioactive waste dump is that three possible sites will be named by Aug. 1. The site chosen from among those three is expected to be announced by the beginning of next year.

Whether the three sites are actually named within the time period scheduled remains to be seen. Naming of the three possible sites has already been delayed several times.

The site chosen for the waste dump will receive radioactive waste from Michigan and six other midwestern states for the next 20 years.

Michigan is part of a seven-state radioactive waste compact. The compacts were prompted by federal legislation which removed the low-level radioactive waste problem from the federal level and bestowed it upon the states.

Michigan was chosen as the host state from the midwestern compact because of the quantity and activity of the radioactive waste produced in Michigan.

Michigan is now trying to determine where to put the waste site.

A group called Don't Waste Michigan (DWM) is opposed to siting a multi state radioactive waste dump in Michigan and is fighting the plan. DWM contends that the center of the Great Lakes, the nations largest supply of fresh surface water, is no place for a radioactive waste dump.

DWM wants Michigan to withdraw from the seven-state compact.

Michigan legislators have expressed reservations about the federal legislation which founded the compact system, but thusfar Michigan legislators have not taken action to withdraw from the compact.

Walk for the Hungry

A lot of shoe leather was expended for the $1,500 received last week by area food pantries as the Charlevoix County share of last September's CROP Walk proceeds. Charlevoix County's CROP Walk raised $6,075. The CROP Walk fights hunger both in the area and throughout the world. Present to divide the proceeds were (from left) Mary Helen Riggle, Charlevoix Community Food Pantry, Carlton Bowen, East Jordan Care and Share food pantry, Phil Schairbaum CROP Walk coordinator.

Old gray house still coming down

Council position unchanged

Resurrected from the dead for more than an hour at Monday night's city council meeting, the controversy involving the 108 Clinton Street property was put back in the grave when the city council chose not to vacillate, but to stick to a November 1988 decision to tear down the old house.

In 1988, the 108 Clinton Street property was discussed at council meetings several times. Two schools of thought were clearly delineated by separate groups of people.

One school of thought held that the house should be saved, renovated and sold as a location for some type of retail business. Proponents of that position maintained that the house has historical value and that, aesthetically, a house with fewer parking spaces would be more desirable than a large parking lot. They also said the business would put a portion of the property back on city tax rolls.

The second school of thought was that the house should be torn down and the entire lot used for parking. Proponents of that position held that parking is a vitally important in the downtown area, particularly in the summer. They said that currently there is a parking shortage, which will only become more pronounced in the future.

Although at one time, the council requested bids to sell the house, in the end they rejected the bid.

Nov. 21, the council decided to tear down the house, leave 40 feet at the front of the lot which will allow two large trees to be saved, and put gravel at the rear of the lot which will be used for parking.

Monday evening, a group led by Al Ranger and John Gaskin resurrected the 108 Clinton issue and asked the council to reverse their decision.

There were approximately 25 to 30 people in the audience at the council meeting. By the time discussion of 108 Clinton ended, a person could count on his fingers members of the audience who hadn't approached the podium to offer an opinion on the issue one way or the other.

By and large, the arguments for and against tearing the house down were the same ones made in 1988. Little new ground was broken.

After the public portion of the discussion was closed, council discussion was brief. Councilmen Earl Muma, Butch Russell, Norm Probert, Jim Potter and Ken Whitley concurred that the old house is nothing more than an old house and the downtown area needs parking. The council upheld the November action by taking no action to change it.

Commissioners open 1989

by PEG OHLE

The 121st session of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners convened last Wednesday to elect officers, receive committee assignments, and initiate two new members—Walter Hufford of Charlevoix and Phil Johnson of Boyne City.

Following an invocation by the Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum, Larry Matthew of Walloon Lake was elected chairman for his third year, and Tom Breakey of East Jordan was elected vice chairman. Breakey is assuming the post held for almost three years by Oral Sutliff of Boyne City, who resigned from the county board in October.

The ways and means committee of the county board, which is responsible for financial and budget accountability, will be made up of Matthew, Breakey, and Don Smith of Charlevoix Township. The income subcommittee will consist of Hufford, Johnson, and Breakey. The expenditure sub-committee (audit) will consist of Matthew, Smith, and Ralph Harmon of Boyne Falls.

The three-member personnel committee, which will meet on the first Thursday of each month, will be made up of Matthew, Hufford, and Harmon.

The judicial committee will be made up of Smith, Breakey, and Johnson. This committee oversees the operations of the court systems.

Members of the public safety committee will be Breakey, Smith, and Matthew. This committee is responsible for the sheriff's department, the jail, animal control, and emergency services.

The internal government committee will consist of Harmon, Hufford, and Matthew. This committee is responsible for equalization, public transit, the clerk's department, treasurer's department, cooperative extension, register of deeds, veterans affairs, and planning.

Members of the building and grounds committee will be Breakey, Smith, and Johnson.

Ahead-lines

A traditional rivalry continues

Charlevoix hosts Petoskey this Friday evening in an important area high school basketball game. Both teams are in the upper echelon of the Michigan Huron Shores League standings this season.

Even if Charlevoix and Petoskey weren't among the league's top teams, many people still would consider the game to be important. Charlevoix and Petoskey have one of those interesting little between-town sports rivalries which dates back decades.

It is by no means the only rivalry in this area. Charlevoix, Petoskey, Boyne City, East Jordan, Harbor Springs, and to some degree even St. Ignace; whenever two of these schools get together for a game there's a rivalry.

These rivalries are curious in that although they endure for decades their nuances change with time.

Contact between students from the various high schools involved in the rivalries is usually only at competitive events, such as basketball games, debates etc. Each high school is kind of its own little society anyway and it's easy for high school students to develop an "us and them" mentality. "We're from this town. We're us. They're from that town. They're them."

Then these students from the various little towns graduate from high school. First thing you know somebody from Charlevoix is sitting in a college class next to somebody from Petoskey or a person from East Jordan works beside a person from Boyne City.

Suddenly, these erstwhile aliens are regular folks with whom you have quite a bit in common. They who were those who used to be them become some of the them of the they who now are us.

And rivalries fall like toothpicks in a tank path when intertown romances occur. A basketball player from Charlevoix could beat Boyne City on a last second shot at the buzzer in the biggest game of the decade and five years later a beautiful Boyne City cheerleader would put aside the grudge and marry him. Why not? She wasn't guarding him when he made the shot.

But which side of the field would they sit on, come game time? And what of children of these mixed marriages? Children who grow up to play sports for the other town. When the kid does good, it's because he or she takes after the person from your town. When the kid messes up, it's the athletic genetics of the parent from the other town coming to the fore.

Friday's Charlevoix-Petoskey game will be the latest in a long rivalry. But what is a rivalry? It's just a get-together to determine temporary bragging rights amongst friends.

... commissioners meeting

This committee is responsible for the physical plant and grounds, construction code, conservation, and the drain commission.

Each county commissioner also has liaison duties between the county board and the various commissions, boards, and committees which help manage county affairs. Those duties are:

Matthew: Recreation, conservation, and development; county fair board; Growth Alliance; Economic Development Corporation; Council of Governments; mental health board; and building committee.

Breakey: District Health Department, road commission, veterans' affairs, Northern Counties Association and Michigan Association of Counties, and sanitary code appeals board.

Harmon: District Health Department, U.S. 131 and 31 Task Force, Area Agency on Aging, Human Services, Northern Counties Association, and Michigan Association of Counties, construction code appeals board, and building committee.

Hufford: Department of Social Services, planning commission, substance abuse, sanitary code appeals board, and construction code appeals board.

Johnson: Business and industry task force, Human Services, parks and recreation, and sanitary code appeals board.

The County Board of Commissioners will meet on the second Wednesday of each month at 9:30 a.m. in the commissioners room of the county building annex, and on the fourth Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the same place.

The six-member board will also meet as a committee of the whole on the third Wednesday of each month at 9:30 a.m. in the county building annex.

In recent years, the county board has been holding two committee of the whole meetings a month, a practice which has brought some criticism from the public.

Horton Bay store to be sold

by TOM DAMMANN

The venerable Horton Bay General Store is for sale.

Its popular owners, John and Karen Cooper are selling it because John has been offered a position in his native London more in keeping with his talents as an accomplished artist and draftsman.

Last year the 112 year old landmark, given an international reputation by the late author Ernest Hemingway in his early short stories, was officially recognized by the Michigan Historical Society.

A plaque on the store's front reads:

"This plaque is issued to the Horton Bay General Store in recognition of 100 years of continuous business to the economy, growth and vitality our state. The store was founded in 1878. Michigan Historical Society."

During their proprietorship the Coopers have renovated the store, establishing an Hemingway nook in a front corner with a large round table for coffee drinkers, a piano, pictures and Hemingway memorabilia on the walls.

They have also redone the living quarters consisting of five bedrooms and a cozy living-dining room, with fireplace.

Debaters place third at district

A third place finish in Class C District Debate competition means Charlevoix Varsity Debate squad must await a bid decision by the Michigan Forensic's Association before they know if they will continue to the State Championship level.

Finishing third, with 3 wins and 3 losses at District competition, made it necessary for Charlevoix to enter the bid, according to Debate coach Mrs. Connie Ford. The first two finishers at the Big Rapids contest, Houghton and Ithaca, were automatically awarded places at the state championship.

"We are optimistic," Ford said, Sunday, after returning from competition. "We have an excellent record in league debate competition and our speaker points are very high. But we will not know for about a week.

"This team – Robert Sell, Jason Wiser, David Salmonson and F.L. Dammann – is the same team we took to state last year and they have a better win-loss record this year," Ford continued.

Ford said the District Class C competition was disappointing because only five teams competed, instead of the full eight teams which had originally been assigned.

"Actually the top four finishers should all go to state," Ford observed. "We all have fairly equal league debate records and our speaker points are all within two points."

Houghton won the Class C Districts at Big Rapids, followed by Ithaca, Charlevoix, Elk Rapids and Cass City.

The secret to outslanging youth

Talking with high school kids is a useful thing to do, but it can be a challenge.

To begin with, when they get rolling, they have a tendency to introduce three or more completely different concepts all in the same sentence. That in itself tends to confuse me, but they really lose me when start slinging slang to boot.

I was talking with a young man the other day, making arrangements to get something in the paper. When we reached a conclusion on the best course of action, he said something to the effect of, "That'll be great. It's hot."

I said, "Huh?"

"Oh. Sorry," he said, realizing he'd slanged me a curve. "I meant that's good, it will work."

There was a time when I was up to date on high school slang, but no more. My knowledge of high school slang has gone the way of my hairline and receded over the years.

Although it doesn't bother me, some people find high school slang annoying. Some people get frustrated when a high school kid is well-versed in popular slang and their not. Somehow these people feel that this completely unmarketable skill gives high school kids an unfair advantage over them in conversation. A disproportionate number of these people are parents of high school students.

The worst thing these parents can do is try to remain up-to-date on the latest slang and try to use it to communicate with their children. That only makes communication worse. A parent who uses a slang term which has gone out of vogue comes off looking like a half-wit. This is counterproductive because for successful parent-high school student communication it is beneficial for the student to view the parent as a full-wit, or at the very least a three-quarter-wit.

The only safe way for a parent to use slang in conversing with a high school student is to make up their own slang or use slang which is so old that it has gone full circle and become fresh again. That way the parent is seen as ahead in the slang department, rather than behind.

For example, if you're the parent of a high school student and it comes home this Friday with plans to go out Friday evening with friends, use appropriate slang to express your feelings about these plans.

If the plans sound reasonable, don't say, "OK. Sounds hot to me."

"Hot" will be cold by then. Instead say, "I guess that'd be peachy. Probably be a keen time."

If, on the other hand, your kid's plans don't meet with your approval, try this response, "Nope. Strikes me as a crapola cluster. Subject that strategy to some intense revision or the bottom line is, you lose Buckwheat."

Faced with your mastery of slang, chances are the kid won't argue, but instead resort to plain English and say, "Yeah, I guess. What do you recommend?"

As I wrote in my last column, Charlevoix people do get around!

Jane Sooy tells us that on her recent tour with the American Museum of Natural History, she was sitting outside a cave in the Dordogne Valley in France. She had just viewed the 1500-year-old cave paintings of bison, ibex and deer, when a member of the tour asked, "Where are you from?"

"You probably never heard of Charlevoix. It's a little town in Northern Michigan."

"Of course, I have. I'm from New York, but my brother has a summer place in Walloon and I have visited a cousin in Charlevoix." Then another couple spoke up, "We sail to Charlevoix in our boat – it's our favorite port."

If you're in the market for another Charlevoix T-shirt, have you seen the cartoon design in the Wildwood shop on Park Ave.? "Happiness is crossing the bridge." It shows the bridge up and a little red car flying through the air. Go take a look–

Did you know that we have two World War I Veterans living in Charlevoix. Thomas Ernest Goode, age 92 and Hugh Scott age 97, will both be honored at a Doughboy Reunion on March 10 at the McCune Arts Center. This date opens the World War I Poster Exhibit, which includes original prize winning posters from France, England, Belgium, Serbia, Alsace-Lorraine and of course the United States. The exhibit closes March 30.

Mr. Goode volunteered as a private and fought in the German trenches in 1914. It was the first time the Germans used gas, and the British soldiers had no gas masks! What they did for protection in those days is tie a urine soaked sock around their mouth according to Goode. He also describes Christmas in the trenches, when the Germans and British laid down their arms for two days of singing and merriment. After Christmas, fighting resumed as before.

Mr. Scott served as an ambulance driver in the 42nd Rainbow Division. It was Major MacArthur (later appointed General) who formed this division with men from every state of the union. Scott served twelve months in France in numerous campaigns including Chateau Thiery. A shell knocked him down in Champagne and two of his companions were killed. Scott now lives at LaCroft and at a sprightly 97 still drives a car around town.

We hope to locate more veterans in this area to join the reunion. Plans are afoot to decorate store windows using the World War I theme. If you know anyone has memorabilia or wishes to participate in this nostalgic event, please contact Sean Ley at the Art Center, 547-4337.

Letters to the Editor:

Excess pets leads to suffering

Dear Editor:

Our north country is facing an overload of pet animals. As lovable as cats and dogs are, there are simply too many of them that are not wanted anywhere. They are treated like disposable items instead of living creatures. And our part of the country isn't the only area with this problem.

Pets are abandoned when owners tire of caring for them. Unwanted litters are dumped on doorsteps or along country roads where they are unable to defend themselves against other animals and are forced to scratch for every meal. In our part of the nation, they freeze to death during winter months.

The Humane Society of the United States statistics show that 2,000-3,500 cats and dogs are being born every hour of every day and that every year in the

Oranges: the guts, the glory

There's more that one way to skin a cat, according to the old adage.

But the same can't be said about the lowly orange, which has always ranked right up there with brazil nuts on my list of inaccessible foods."

But after three score years, I think I have finally learned how to peel an orange.

Don't get me wrong. I like oranges. But even the thick-skinned navel variety can be awfully messy. Usually I end up with orange juice all over myself, the kitchen and the cats.

Then again, it's almost impossible to remove that white skin that covers the orange, just inside the peel. I guess it doesn't hurt you to eat it, but it isn't very appetizing.

My mother used to whack an orange in half with a carving knife and expect me to gouge out the segments with a teaspoon as a prelude to breakfast. I never did this very well and my orange usually was wasted. This system, however, works very well with grapefruit.

If mother had time, she would make orange juice, squeezing the halves against the corrugated cone in a glass juicer. But this was a lot of work and the juice was always filled with stringy lumps of pulp — unless you strained it and removed all the vitamins.

You'll have to remember that the packaging of frozen orange juice concentrate was some years down the road when I was a kid.

AT CHRISTMAS the Clocks received a bushel of beautiful citrus fruit from my cousin Marjorie Knight in Florida. The box was packed with layer after layer of grapefruit the color of golden nuggets and oranges the color of sunrises over Lake Charlevoix. We have been whittling away at the grapefruit, but I noticed Sunday night that the oranges had hardly been touched.

Obviously other people living under my roof share my problem with oranges.

Since it was time for a mid-evening snack, I took an orange from the refrigerator, put it on a cutting block, wrinkled my brow, closed one eye and subjected the orange to my critical gaze.

"There has to be more than one way to skin an orange," I told the cats, who had followed me into the kitchen under the mistaken notion that I was going to feed them. This got their attention, because I usually talk about skinning cats.

I was about to tackle the orange in the conventional way — peeling off the rind in tiny pieces and then cutting the sodden mass in the middle into bite-sized pieces — when I had a brainstorm.

I grabbed a butcher knife and lopped off both ends of the orange. Thunk! Thunk!

The terrified cats skittered into the dining room post haste.

Then I made three deft cuts across the remainder of the orange, about three-quarters of an inch apart, leaving me with four rings of orange with the peel still attached.

Next I picked up a sharp paring knife and began slicing around the inside of the peel, severing the membranes as I followed the angle of the peel. Within seconds I had a beautiful medallion of pure orange without any pulp attached. The peel came off in a perfect circle, which I discarded.

As the cats watched apprehensively from the kitchen door, I performed the same operation on the remaining slices, which I then arranged on a plate and cut into quarters for easy consumption with a fork.

I have never enjoyed an orange so much in my life.

MONDAY MORNING for breakfast I fixed a second orange the same way to make sure I could do it again. I was gratified to get identical results.

So there you have it. The perfect way to peel an orange.

I am sure this discovery will be mean literally billions of dollars to the citrus industry. In fact, I see the amount of acreage devoted to orange groves doubling, perhaps tripling, in the next decade as word of my discovery spreads.

Oranges have appeared in American grocery stores for the past 100 years at least. But few people, I suspect, have actually eaten one.

It boggles the mind to think of all the oranges the citrus people have foisted upon us without bothering to tell us what to do with them.

Of course, I still don't know how to skin a cat, but I'm working on it.

Letters to the Editor:

... surplus pet population

U.S. approximately 7.6 million cats and dogs are euthanized because lasting, loving homes cannot be found for them.

The animals turned in to animal shelters are some what luckier. At least some get good caring homes. But animal shelters are so full already that most animals must be put to death eventually.

In 1988, in Charlevoix County, 531 animals were put to death. Who pays for this incredible waste of life? In our county, you the taxpayer does.

If you let your pet breed, you may be lucky to find a home for that litter. But what happens when each of those puppies and kittens has a litter, when each of those litters produces more litters?

You can help end this tragedy by making sure your pet doesn't contribute to the surplus of dogs and cats. Have your pet spayed or neutered by a veterinarian.

Please help reduce the pet population so that each animal gets the care and respect it deserves.

Take proper care of animals. Have your pet vaccinated against diseases, spayed or neutered. A properly cared for and trained pet is a happy animal. A happy animal is a joy to have around.

Please be a responsible pet owner.

Remember: Our God put humans as the highest form of life on this earth to take care of, love and enjoy it. Not destroy it. This means all livings things, not just humans. We can't live without all the forms of life on this planet.

... expressing support for pool

Editor,
To Charlevoix area Parents, Grandparents and Great-Grandparents:

In recent years there have been several attempts to construct a swimming pool in Charlevoix. The idea of a swimming pool when we have an abundance of water seems to discourage the need of a pool, but facts indicate that a pool is necessary.

At the turn of the century, the Pere Marquette Railroad Company constructed an indoor pool next to Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix). They found out that there were simply not enough good days when their guests at the Inn could enjoy lake swimming in the summer season as the water was just too cold.

The senior citizens of Charlevoix who have grandchildren and great-grandchildren understand the chilling effects of cold water on little bodies when attempts are made to teach children water safety.

The Pool Steering Committee is advocating funding of construction and operating costs without a millage increase.

Personally, since 1933, I have been advocating the idea of a swimming pool in Charlevoix, and with the advent of the Homestead Property Tax measure, I have advised senior citizens (65 and over) that millage, should that be necessary, will not increase their taxes. (See table below.) Many senior citizens have indicated to me that by voting down extra millage they are expressing the only method they have of protesting their taxes. But protesting, when the costs are so small and advantages are so great is defeating the best interests of the community.

I believe Charlevoix will eventually have a swimming pool, if not now, then sometime in the future, at a much higher cost. It is a trend that cannot and should not be stopped. So I appeal to parents and my fellow grandparents to support an indoor pool now.

Virgil McClure

Mason of year named

Virgil McClure, a member of the Masonic Lodge for 55 years, has been selected as the Mason of the year by members of the Charlevoix Masonic Lodge number 282.

McClure was honored at a Jan. 10 banquet attended by members of the Charlevoix Lodge and their wives as well as several guests from the Pellston Lodge. McClure is now eligible for consideration for district Mason honors.

McClure joined the South Bend Lodge number 294 of the Free and Accepted Masons in 1934. He was made a member of the Lake Shore Masonic Lodge number 298 of Benton Harbor in 1974. He became a life member of the Masonic Lodge in 1974 and became a dual member of the Charlevoix Lodge in 1980. In 1986, McClure served as Master of the Charlevoix Lodge.

McClure received a Mason's meritorious service award and 1966 and became a deputy district instructor in 1960. In 1974, McClure became a 33 degree Mason, which is the highest honor a Mason can receive.

WATCH offers scholarships

WATCH (Water and Air Team Charlevoix) is seeking applicants for its fourth annual scholarship essay contest. The contest is open to all Charlevoix County high school seniors. A $1,000 and two $500 scholarships will be awarded.

"Environmental Quality of Charlevoix County: Past, Present and Future" is the subject for this year's contest. Essays must be typewritten, 1,000 words or less and submitted by Feb. 24.

Contest entrants should pick up an application form from watch by Feb. 3. Awards from the contest are to be applied to higher education at a college, university or vocational school of the student's choice.

Anyone desiring an application or additional information may contact Michelle Rick-Biddick, WATCH Executive Administrator, WATCH, P.O. Box 615, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Chorale scholarships offered

For the first time, the Northern Michigan Chorale is awarding vocal music grants for the summer of 1989 to high school students and adults who either reside, attend school, or work in Charlevoix or Emmet Counties.

Letters of application for the awards should be sent to Meredith Richter, North Central Michigan College, 1515 Howard Street, Petoskey MI 49770. There will be auditions.

Successful applicants will be invited to perform in the Northern Michigan Chorale's fall concert. Application deadline is March 1.

The Elementary School will be open starting on Tuesday, January 24 at 7:00 p.m. for those who wish to WALK. Candy Smith will meet with you the first evening to discuss walking techniques and other physical fitness concerns and from then on you may use the building any day, Monday through Thursday, from 4:00-9:00 p.m. and 4:00-6:00 p.m. on Friday. There is NO CHARGE for this service, so take advantage of the indoor, carpeted halls of the elementary school to stay fit this winter.

To enroll:

1. Call 547-3222 to sign up for any class or classes; your class will meet as scheduled unless you are notified to the contrary. The LAST DAY to sign up for these classes is Friday, January 20, 1989. At this time any classes with insufficient enrollment will be cancelled and those who have signed up will be notified of such cancellation.
2. You will pay the class fee at the first meeting of the class.
3. All classes will begin during the week of January 23-26 and meet at the high school unless stated otherwise. Room numbers will be posted at the entrance.
4. Since initial enrollment determines whether a class will be held or not, there will be no refunds after the start of the class.

New anti-drug group formed

Former mayor Ralph McRae says that when he attended a FOCUS meeting last September he was "amazed and shocked" to learn that many Charlevoix students were heavily into alcohol and drug use, and that some of them had even been placed in treatment centers.

Since that time, McRae has come to the conclusion that only a change in attitude about alcohol and drugs will lessen the use and abuse of these illegal substances.

As a step toward changing this attitude, McRae cites the suggestion from the Michigan Communities in Action for Drug Free Youth (MCADFY): "Organize a parent, community, youth group which is any number of concerned citizens coming together with a goal of influencing their children, schools, and community toward drug-free youth".

Heeding that suggestion, McRae has received promises of cooperation from 20 local men and women who will gather for their first meeting at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 19 in the conference room of the Weathervane Terrace Motel. Greta Mackler of Boyne City, who represents the Michigan Communities in Action for Drug-Free Youth, will be the speaker.

Those who have indicated a willingness to serve on this important new committee are:

Tom Black, youth supporter; Brad Campbell, juvenile officer; Randy Eyre, P.T.A. president; Toni Felter, student counselor; the Rev. James Gardiner, St. Mary's Church; Gail Gennett, student counselor; Dennis Halverson, Charlevoix Chief of Police; Edward Heise, Serenity House; the Rev. Benton Heisler, Ministerial Association; Laurie Howell, probation officer; Joseph Johnston, youth pastor; Harold Krutsch, Lions Club; Butch Klooster, youth leader; George Lasater, county sheriff; Greta Mackler, MACDY director, Douglas McComb, Department of Social Services supervisor; Ralph McRae, concerned citizen; Dr. Edward Newcomb, medical service; Laura Streng, CHIP Counseling; Dennis VanGuilder, middle school principal; Gordon Van-Wieren, superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools; and Judge Harvey Varnum of District Court.

Performing arts begins fundraising

Charlevoix Performing Arts students and their parents have launched an urgent fund raising campaign to keep the high school Debate, Speech and Drama teams in state-wide competition.

"Because of school budget cutbacks, we need to raise a full $10,000 this year," explains John Coolman, treasurer for the Committee for the Advancement of Charlevoix High School's Performing Arts Department.

The funds are needed, according to Coolman and Connie Ford, coach of the Performing Arts teams, to cover the costs of sending the debaters to District and State Championship competition, as well as local debate meets; to take students to the speech competitions that run in the fall and spring; and to continue to enter the state drama competitions. Funds are needed, as well, to cover the costs of materials for costumes and set construction, which are designed and finished by the students and volunteer parents. Other funds cover royalties for music and rights to play performances.

Some sixty-five students participate in the various performing arts events. According to a letter sent to potential donors, "the department offers students a unique range of opportunities. Combining experiences in speech, debate and theater, students in this department acquire skills and self-confidence that will serve them throughout their lives." The letter continues, "The students work long after-school hours on their play, debate issues and speech presentations."

The Committee for the Advancement of Charlevoix High School's Performing Arts was formed as a tax deductible organization to receive funds raised by parents to help assure the continuation of the program. The funds raised by the parents, augment what students raise in bake sales, garbage bag sales, and from the ticket sales to their three major public performances.

The drama team, 51 students, is now in full rehearsal with its version of the famous Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "The Pirates of Penzance." The public performace of "Pirates" will be presented February 25 and 26. District level competition for drama begins January 28 in St. John's, with regional and state levels following. The debate team is already launched on a successful season.

Coolman added, "The Performing Arts Committee is deeply grateful to the community for its past and continued support of these students. We feel these students are wonderful representatives of Charlevoix."

City goals prioritized

A recent city council review of the city's 1989 goals and priorities led to some goals being added, some priorities being changed and plans for more frequent review of progress toward goals.

In work sessions at the end of 1988, the council reviewed established goals and suggested additional goals. At the first work session of 1989, councilmen set priorities.

New goals for 1989 include: improving traffic conditions on Bridge Street; enforcing sanitary sewer hook-ups where sewer lines are available, but homes are still on septic systems; regulating mooring of boats off of Ferry Beach; constructing the new bandshell; completing construction of police and assessor offices in the old fire hall; paving roads at the industrial park; installing new windows in city hall; air conditioner installation and heating system work at city hall; purchasing a beach cleaner.

With the exceptions of city hall windows, air conditioning, heating and a beach cleaner, all of the new goals received a high priority rating from councilmen. Councilmen rated city hall windows a low priority and air conditioning and heating work medium priority. Councilmen wanted additional cost figures, including the costs of periodically renting a beach cleaner, before determining the priority of a beach cleaner purchase.

Among the previously established goals given high priority for 1989 are: implementing Ferry Avenue TIFA improvements; infrastructure improvements; computerizing city tax records; DDA improvements; completing Hoffmann Park; implementing electric system improvements; streamlining the site plan approval process; writing a downtown parking ordinance; lake shore zoning revisions; increasing and improving employment; polishing the city's personnel policy; acquiring airport easements and revising the airport master plan; reviewing Round Lake usage.

Councilmen assigned medium priority status to: developing cemetery rules and studying cemetery financing and costs; checking broken seals on water meters; and completing revisions of the city sign ordinance.

Falling in the low priority category for 1989 were: parking; developing an ordinance to license businesses with the city; removing the old water tower; and revising the city's comprehensive plan. Some of the items rated low priority were rated that way because they have previously been addressed by the city council or are being addressed by bodies other than the city council.

Pool committee sets groundbreaking target date

After establishing the spring of 1990 as a target date for groundbreaking, the swimming pool steering committee now has a general idea of what they want, where they want it and when they want it. They want a community pool by the elementary school with ground broken in 1990.

What the committee still has to figure out is: the specific design for the pool; what activities it will be used for and who will operate it; exactly how much money the pool will cost both to build and operate; and last, but by no means least, how they're going to get that much money and if it can be done by the spring of 1990 as the committee decided at their Jan. 10 meeting.

Three possible avenues of funding are being considered.

They are -

A fundraising drive in connection with grant applications: The drive's goal would be to raise enough money both to build the pool and to establish an endowment fund which would pay a substantial portion of the pool's operating expenses. Operating expenses above those covered by the endowment fund would be paid by a user fees.

A real estate transfer tax. Before a real estate transfer tax became a reality, there would have to be action by both state and local legislative bodies. The state legislature would have to pass enabling legislation which would allow local legislative bodies to adopt a real estate transfer tax in their area.

A real estate transfer tax would be a tax which would have to be paid each time a piece of property or a home is sold. Revenues from that tax would go toward recreational projects in the local area covered by the program.

The third alternative would be additional property taxes. Figures currently being discussed are two mills for three years for construction plus a third of a mill indefinitely for operations.

(A mill is $1 per every $1,000 of a home or property's state equalized value. State equalized value is theoretically one-half of a home's market value.)

According to pool committee officials, the most desirable alternative would be raising funds without either a real estate tax or millage increase.

Six questions pertaining to the pool will be included in an upcoming telephone survey which will be conducted by the school. Questions concern priority ratings for various activities which could take place at the pool and whether people would support additional property taxes to fund the pool.

At the Jan. 10 meeting, the pool steering committee established four subcommittees: design-programming; public relations; finance; and executive.

Future meetings of the steering committee will take place at 5:30 p.m. on the first Thursday of the month at city hall.

Railroad right-of-way may become recreational corridor

The Charlevoix County Recreation Department is investigating the possibility of establishing recreation corridors on old railroad right of ways. Although the concept is in the early stages, the recreational possibilities include a bike path and cross country ski trail on the railroad right of way between Charlevoix and Petoskey.

"It's in the investigative stages right now," county recreation director Mike Davis said recently. "We're taking suggestions from anyone."

He added that one of the next steps is to present some design possiblities to the city and townships where the right of ways are located.

Charlevoix's city council has already backed the plan. In December the council passed a resolution supporting the concept of a recreational trail beginning on the railroad right of way at Boyne City Road and heading north.

When the matter was discussed by the city council, Boyne City Road was chosen as a starting point because some owners of property adjacent to the right of way and located toward town from Boyne City Road objected to a bike path or recreational corridor next to their property. Farther down the Lake Charlevoix shoreline, toward Depot Beach, a lawsuit has been filed by a property owner to establish ownership of the old railroad right of way.

Davis said he is aware that problems could arise with adjacent property owners. He foresees property issues being one of the most sensitive points in efforts to establish recreation corridors.

At the city council meeting, Bob Carr, who operates a scenic railway north of Petoskey, encouraged the council to include railways in their resolution of support.

Carr said railways and recreational corridors can coexist on railroad right of ways and when rails are left in place, rather than torn out, it reduces or eliminates disputes over who owns the right of way property.

In a later conversation with the Courier, Davis confirmed that leaving the tracks in place is the most intelligent way to go. He said the right of way is wide enough so railways and recreational trails can coexist with some type of buffer zone in between.

In Charlevoix County, the most likely place for a recreation corridor is from Charlevoix north to Bay Shore. Davis has contacted Emmet County officials about extending the corridor north from Bay Shore to Petoskey.

"Theoretically, we could go all the way to Mackinaw," Davis said. It might also be possible to extend south into Antrim County, possibly including portions of the Jordan River Valley.

"We have contacted the Department of Natural Resources and asked them if they would work with us," Davis noted. "They were receptive."

In some areas, such as where the old railroad bridge used to, but no longer crosses by the Coast Guard station, any recreational corridor would have to deviate from the railroad right of way.

Recreation plan revised

Consideration of establishing recreational corridors on old railroad right of ways is only one aspect of a larger picture which is the rewriting of Charlevoix County's five-year recreation master plan.

County recreation director Mike Davis said the plan is a five-year assessment of specific county outdoor recreational needs including not only recreational corridors, but also hiking, fishing, land acquisitions and many other things.

Charlevoix County must have a master plan to qualify for state and federal grant programs.

Periodically, the plan must be revised and that is what is currently taking place. The recreation department is asking for public input regarding what the plan should include. People may contact the recreation department at 547-5390 if they have questions or programs they feel might merit inclusion in the plan.

"It's something the public should take an interest in," Davis said of the plan.

School foundation seeks funds

Individuals and corporations are now allowed tax credits for contributions to community foundations under terms of special legislation signed into law by Governor Blanchard last December 29, Mary Lee Campbell, Chairman of the Charlevoix Schools Educational Foundation revealed this week.

Mrs. Campbell said that according to information received from the Council of Michigan Foundations an individual would be allowed a tax credit of up to $100 and a corporation would be allowed a tax credit of up to $5,000. The legislation takes affect for the 1989 tax year.

"In other words," Mrs. Campbell explained, "if an individual contributes $200 to a community foundation, they can receive a $100 state tax credit. A corporation that contributes $10,000 will receive a $5,000 tax credit."

She revealed that the Charlevoix Foundation is presently seeking gifts to establish a $25,000 endowment fund to be used for small projects suggested by teachers.

"At present we have a balance of almost $3,000 in our general fund," she said. "At our meeting January 10, the Board voted to appropriate $150 to Teacher-Counselor Toni Felter to assist her in participating in a drug abuse conference.

"We also agreed to give up to $1,000 to help fund the establishment of an outdoor sciences teaching station in the wooded area behind the Elementary School building.

"And we have just begun a six Saturday special art program for upper Elementary schoolers with money donated by Christa Maria.

"Last summer the Foundation gave nine scholarships for College for Kids, two scholarships for students attending Michigan Tech, and some pocket money to students going to France," Mrs. Campbell said.

She explained that their primary purpose of the Foundation is to fund educational projects that tax money can't.

Among larger projects are an Elementary School Science Room, a Center for the Arts, and a Community Swimming Pool.

Because of it special Federal and State tax status, the Foundation's major function in both the Pool and Art Center projects will probably be confined to receiving, holding and disbursing monetary gifts designated for them, Mrs. Campbell explained.

Cnty. births up, deaths down

Ten more births, 10 fewer deaths, eight more marriages, and 10 more divorces. That's the 1987-1988 comparison story of vital statistics in Charlevoix County (See accompanying table).

This is the first time in five years that there has been an increase over the previous year in number of births. Since 1979, the number has ranged from a high of 263 that year to a low of 166 in 1987, and up again to 176 in 1988.

The number of deaths is lower for the first time in three years. This figure has ranged from 166 in 1985 to a low of 100 in 1979. In 1987 there were 151 deaths, and in 1988 there were 141.

In the last 10 years, the number of marriages has ranged from 245 in 1981 to 195 in 1986. There were 209 marriages in 1987 and 217 in 1988.

The highest number of divorces in Charlevoix County was granted in 1980, when the figure was 130. There was a downward trend until 1983, when the figure was 90, then another upward trend until 1987, when there were 94 divorces, followed by 104 in 1988.

Randall C. Crump

Randall C. Crump, 89, of Osprey, Florida died at his home Jan. 3 following a lengthy illness.

Crump was born March 25, 1899 in Bay City, the son of William J. and Melissa (Higgins) Crump. He attended school in Bay City.

During his adult years, Crump was employed as an architect and worked on several major housing developments in the Detroit area. He retired to Charlevoix in 1948.

In his retirement years, Crump founded Crump's Candy in Harbor Springs, which he owned and operated until 1978. In 1979 he moved to Florida.

Crump is survived by: his wife, Lillian; three daughters, Mrs. Jack (Joane) Grubaugh of Charlevoix; Mrs. Delbert (Janet) Sapatka of Cadillac; and Mrs. Susan Barnett of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Crump was a member of Charlevoix Lodge number 282 and the Bay City Consistory, Scottish Rite. He was a 60-year life member of the Masonic Lodge.

The family suggests memorials to the Hospice of S.W. Florida, 6055 Rand Blvd., Sarasota, FL 34238. A graveside service will take place in the spring at Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Lois Mae Sanchez

Lois Mae Sanchez, 54, died at her home Jan. 9 in Saginaw. Sanchez was born Lois Mae Sherwood in Chestonia Township, Antrim County July 25, 1934.

She married Reyes B. Sanchez Sept. 2, 1955 in Bay City.

Sanchez was a member of the Calvary Church where she taught Sunday school, Missionettes and junior church. She was employed at Severance Tool Company for 28 years.

Survivors include her husband, Reyes, one daughter, Debra Lynn Sanchez, a son James Franklin Sanchez and his wife Linda and their three children, all of Saginaw.

She is also survived by her mother, Alice Sherwood, and two sisters, Mildred Sherwood and Patricia Dillon, all of Charlevoix.

Rev. Bill Bishop officiated funeral services at Calvary Church Jan. 12. Internment was in Eastlawn Memorial Gardens.

Grange will host spaghetti dinner

Barnard Grange members will host an All You Can Eat Spaghetti Supper Saturday, January 21st from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the Grange Hall on Barnard Road.

The menu will include spaghetti, cole slaw, rolls, beverage and your choice of pie. Cost will be $4 for adults and $2 for children under 10 years.

Friendship center plans bus trip

The Petoskey Friendship Center is sponsoring a bus trip to Florida February 23 through March 2.

Besides enjoying the warm weather of Florida, the travelers will make several sight-seeing stops both coming and going, including:

A southern home tour in Atlanta and a visit to the Fox Theatre there, a visit to Palm Beach, a one-day cruise from Fort Lauderdale to the Bahamas, a coach tour train ride in Key West, a dinner theater performance of "Hurrah for Irving Berlin" in Naples, an azalea trail tour of Mobile, a rose garden tour elsewhere in Alabama, a stop at Nashville to visit the Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum, a visit to the Kentucky Derby Museum and Churchill Downs in Louisville, and a stay at the old Union Station in Indianapolis.

All interested persons are welcome to take part in this tour. Further information is available from Rose Mary Ternes at 347-3211 or Judy Cockfield at 547-6337.

Volleyball team wins

By Tim Henne

Last Wednesday's volleyball victory over Petoskey, 15-7 15-10, must have been especially sweet for the Charlevoix team as they avenged an earlier loss to the Northmen at an invitational.

In game one, Charlevoix took an early 2-0 lead over a confident Petoskey team, but the Northmen then evened the score at four apiece.

Helped by erratic Petoskey serving, Charlevoix then went on a nine-point run which put the game away.

At the beginning of the second game, the blue and white visitors opened with four unanswered points, shutting out five straight Charlevoix servers in the process.

Finally, Charlevoix's Anne Degrow served four consecutive points to tie the game.

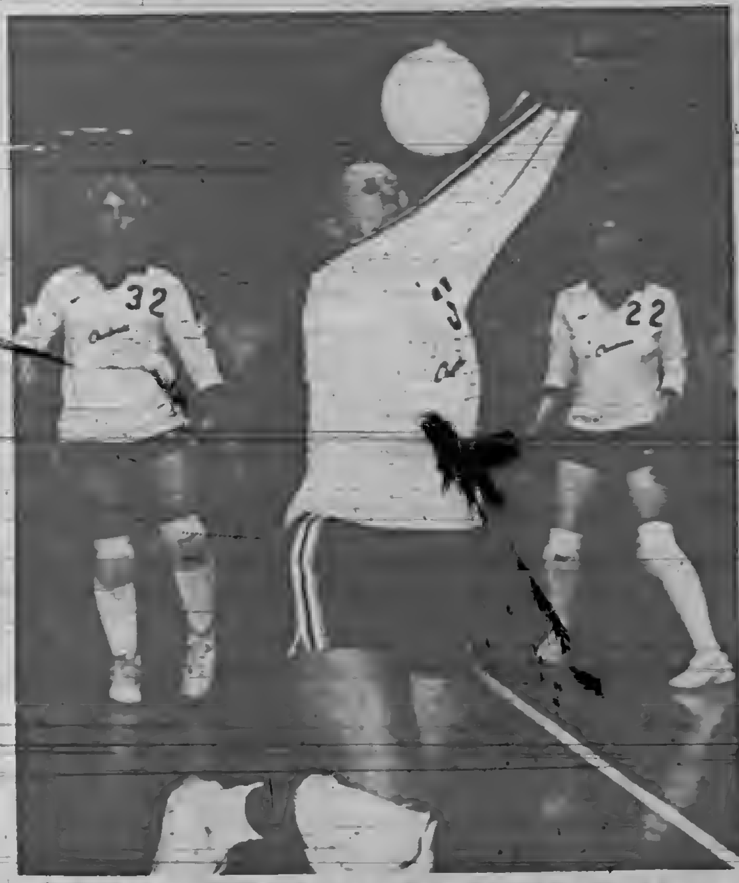
Petoskey's Christina Burns won back the advantage with three points.

Moments later, with the score 10-5 in Petoskey's favor, the game took a dramatic turn.

Charlevoix's home crowd started to become a factor. Flustered by the crowd cheering against them, Petoskey failed to return a shot by Billie Jean Habel and sent Inga Meissner to the server's corner.

On each point Meissner served, the volleys grew wilder and wilder with both teams diving to the floor for incredible saves. Charlevoix's teamwork slowly gave them the edge. Fittingly, with the score at 14-10 in Charlevoix's favor, the ball bounced off an overhanging basketball backboard setting up the winning point. All totalled, Meissner had served 10 straight points.

Billie Jean Habel sets cross court to teammate Laura Wilmot during last week's volleyball win over Petoskey. It was the Rayders first conference volleyball win this season.



Laura Wilmot grimmaces as she bumps this ball back toward the net. Watching in the background are Billie Jean Habel (32) and Becky Melke (22).

Ski team starts slowly, but hopes to improve

Charlevoix's downhill ski team hopes their fortunes go uphill as the season progresses.

Jan. 4, both the boys' and girls' team finished fourth among four teams in races at Sylvan Resort. Gaylord won the boys' meet, followed by Harbor Springs, Petoskey and Charlevoix. Petoskey won the girls' meet, followed by Gaylord, Harbor Springs and Charlevoix.

Jan. 12, the boys finished third and the girls finished fourth among four teams at Boyne Highlands. Traverse City won the boys' meet, followed by Petoskey, Charlevoix and Grayling. Traverse City also won the girls' meet, followed by Petoskey, Grayling and Charlevoix.

Charlevoix boys' places in the slalom and giant slalom for Jan. 4 were:

Charlie Witthoeft - 3S, 10GS; Matt Miller - 14S, 18GS; Chris Seymour 15S; Dan Bickersteth - 14GS; Jake Smith - 13S, 13GS; Chris Pemble - 16S, 11GS; Ryan Holmes - 14GS.

Charlevoix girls' places in the slalom and giant slalom Jan. 4 were:

Heather Keller - 2GS; Cynthia Boydston - 7S; Carlea Hoffman - 11GS; Allison Boyer - 17GS; Katheryn Campbell - 19GS; Susi Healey - 18S, 20GS; Edith Pair - 14GS.

Charlevoix boys' places in the slalom and giant slalom for Jan. 12 were:

D. Bickersteth - 7S, 10GS; J. Smith - 8S, 13GS; M. Miller - 15S, 16GS; C. Seymour - 17S, 19GS; Br. Jess - 17GS.

Charlevoix girls' places in the slalom and giant slalom for Jan. 12 were:

H. Keller - 5GS; C. Hoffman - 13S, 14GS; K. Campbell - 15GS; A. Boyer - 16S, 11GS; C. Boyer - 12S, 18GS; S. Healey - 19GS.

Coach Eric Lundtiegen said the team is young and inexperienced. Consequently they made some mistakes in the early meets. He said they will have to work hard, but he's optimistic that they will do so and improve as the year progresses.

Basketball team wins

Despite scoring only 13 points in the first half, Charlevoix surged in the second half and beat Rogers City 61-37 at Rogers City Friday evening.

Webb Friedly led the Rayders with 24 points. Bob Jess added 11 while Shawn Putman had 10 points to go along with 10 rebounds.

This Friday evening Charlevoix hosts league-leading Petoskey.

In last Friday's junior varsity game, Charlevoix brought its record to 9-1 with a 41-38 win over Rogers City. Todd Kovack and Dan Terryberry each had 10 points for the Rayders while Jason Parrish had nine rebounds.

Yachting notes

Winter activities commence January 28 with the Annual Charlevoix Yacht Club Commodores Ball. The ball will be held at the Argonne Supper Club with music provided by Sound Systems III. Tickets are now available and may be purchased from any board member, at Gleason Spinnaker, or Charlevoix Chrysler.

New officers will be introduced at the ball. They are: Dr. Jim Stewart, commodore; Mark Pirie, vice commodore; Tansley Stewart, secretary; Carol Pirie, treasurer; board members - Gary Gleason, Wes Dilworth, Dave Strawbridge, Mike Carland, Claudia Kenifeck and Ed Crook.

Other non-boating activities scheduled throughout the winter are a cross country-down hill ski party and a treasure hunt using navigational clues. Tentatively scheduled during April is a joint gathering with the Boyne City Yacht Club.

Empty weight classes cost wrestlers meet.

Gaps in weight classes cost Charlevoix wrestlers a meet against Rogers City last Thursday evening. The Rayders won the majority of matches which were fought, but had to forfeit three matches because they didn't have wrestlers in those weight classes.

Charlevoix won six of the 10 matches which took place, but ended up losing the dual meet, 33-26.

Jason Pajtas, 140 pounds, and Jamie Monteith, 171 pounds, pinned their oponents. In the 152 pound division, Jason Whitley won on a technical pin 18-1 decision.

Complete meet results were:

103 pounds: Andy Hefele (RC) pinned Paul Cunningham (CX), 50 seconds.

112: Mike Atchabowski (RC) won on a forfeit.

125: Cory Malocha (RC) decisioned Shawn Young (CX) 14-7.

130: Scott Novotny (CX) decisioned John Atchabowski (RC), 17-7.

135: Brian Livingston (CX) decisioned Rob Erke (RC), 16-5.

145: Jason Pajtas (CX) pinned Adam Salle (RC), 5:09.

160: Ethan Salle (RC) pinned Robin Mervyn (CX), 3:08.

171: Jamie Monteith (CX) pinned Kendall Snow (RC), 1:06.

189: Randy Schieben (RC) won by forfeit.

Hwy: Jim Schieben (RC) won by forfeit.

This Thursday Charlevoix hosts league opponent Petoskey in a dual meet. Next Tuesday Charlevoix travels south to Elk Rapids to wrestle against the Elks.

Construction worth millions

by PEG OHLE

More than $153 billion worth of construction work! That's what the permits issued by the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection since 1975 add up to, according to the department's annual report.

Included in the construction work were 2,200 new houses, apartments, and condo units, as well as thousands of other projects such as residential additions and remodeling, garages, new commercial buildings, additions and remodeling of commercial buildings, and storage buildings.

The report also indicates that during 1988, it issued permits for $15,825,480 worth of construction, a total which was exceeded only by the 1987 figure of $17,464,559. Fees for 1988 construction permits added $61,000 to the county's coffers.

Last year, the department also issued 511 electrical permits, 190 plumbing permits, and 355 mechanical permits. Fees for this work brought in another $56,345, for a total of $118,045.

The most construction permits, 77, were issued for work in Boyne City. These included 16 condo units and apartments, each one of which is issued a separate construction permit.

Sixty-nine construction permits were issued for construction in Eveline Township, where 10 condo units and apartments were also a factor.

On the other side of Lake Charlevoix, Hayes Township property owners received 61 construction permits, four of them for condos.

Other political units and the number of construction permits issued in each were: City of Charlevoix, 55 (11 condo units or apartments); South Arm Township, 50; Charlevoix Township, 43; City of East Jordan, 39; Bay Township, 34; Hudson Township, 31; Marion Township, 31; Norwood Township, 30; Melrose Township, 28; Boyne Valley Township, 23; Wilson Township, 22; Evangeline Township, 19; St. James Township, 15; Peaine Township, 10; Chandler Township, six; and Village of Boyne Falls, three.

New corporate head

William Burghdoff has been named President of Viatec-Hastings Engineered Systems. Burghdoff, 35, is a 15 year employee of the Hastings, Michigan company formerly known as Hastings Reinforced Plastics. He replaces Kenneth Kensington, company founder and now the Chairman of Viatec, the parent company of Hastings Engineered Systems.

Burghdoff joined the firm as Sales Estimator. Over his career, he held several marketing positions and is currently Vice-President of Sales and Marketing. In his new post, he will administer all company operations in Manufacturing, Personnel, Engineering, Sales and Marketing.

Burghdoff serves as a Director on the Corporate Boards of Viatec-Processing Storage Systems of Belding and Charlevoix, Viatec-Advanced Materials of Hastings, Michigan and Therme 2-American, Inc., a new joint-venture of Viatec and Societe Technique des Echangeurs de Chaleur of Ste. Cecile, Belgium.

The 70 employees of Viatec-Hastings Engineered Systems design, manufacture, and install corrosion and pollution control equipment. Principal clients of the firm include major American steel, chemical, pharmaceutical, and paper companies.

Passes health course

Karen M. Joy has recently graduated from the Introductory Computer Course on the "Physician Practice System" offered by Michigan Health Source of Petoskey.

"The course is aimed at developing computer skills for the staffs of physician offices here in Northern Michigan," said Jim Perricone, director of Michigan HealthSource.

Joy is a staff member in the offices of Drs. Joy, Stewart and Newcomb located at 724 Park Avenue in Charlevoix.

EVELINE TOWNSHIP BOARD MINUTES

The regular meeting was held on December 13, 1988; all board members were present.

The minutes of the November regular meeting were approved.

The supervisor reported on: The Ironton Drain, Sequanota Road and a violation of P.A. 347 in the township.

There was correspondence from: Philip Naegle of the Soil Conservation office, Northern Cable T.V., the DNR, the State Tax Commission, and the Charlevoix County Youth Activities Program.

A lot split was approved for Mr. and Mrs. James Karlskin in the Roaring Brook Subdivision.

Approval was given for the supervisor to co-sign with the Hemingway Pointe Association for a Groundwater Discharge Permit renewal.

The clerk was instructed to write a letter of support to the Charlevoix City Council on their resolution against drunk drivers.

Robert Stowe, Fritz Healey and Jack Cyr were appointed to two-year terms on the Board of Review.

Dan Skrzeczkoski was reappointed to the ZBA for a three-year term.

Robert Vance and Fritz Healey were reappointed to three-year terms on the Planning Commission.

An annual review of the salaries and wages for township elected and appointed officials was made.

There were reports from the treasurer and from the zoning administrator.

Authorization was given to pay the bills amounting to $12,965.18 and also $2,200 for Charlevoix Excavating should the statement come between meetings.

The budget was amended in the Elections Activity.

A concern was heard regarding a parcel of property that has been deeded to CMU in 1976 and is now posted thus restricting public use.

Adjournment was at 11:00 p.m.

Council again discusses millage levies

Monday evening, the city council again discussed general fund operational and infrastructure millage levies for the 1989-90 fiscal year, but took no action.

Regarding operational millage, the council levied 9.6 mills last year after levying 10.6 mills in previous years. A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of a home or property's state equalized value.

At Monday evening's meeting, city manager Mike Wiesner and city treasurer Rick Brandi, as they have done in previous meetings, presented the council with budget information. The figures indicated that while the city got by levying 9.6 mills last year, it had to take $119,000 out of savings to do so.

The city's general fund savings are now down to $217,000 and city officials have reservations about dipping into it again this coming year.

"Rick and I felt we were tight looking at 10.6 (as a general fund millage levy for 1989-90) and we just wanted the council to understand that," Wiesner told the councilmen.

Councilmen Earl Muma and Butch Russell expressed reservations about levying 10.6 mills rather than a lower figure.

Muma referred to "big expenditures" and "overexpenditures" which he said the city had in the past year, but won't have in the coming year.

Russell said, "I know that in the past couple of weeks I've had a lot of people come to me and tell me that we're taxing them out of this town."

According to 1988 county equalization figures presented at the meeting, Charlevoix's city millage levy is lower than Boyne City's, East Jordan's or Boyne Falls'. However Charlevoix levys that millage against a higher state equalized value so the revenue generated is higher than any of the other three communities.

That revenue is in terms of total dollars and does not consider number of residents or services offered.

Regarding the infrastructure, councilmen must decide whether to levy four mills or something less for the city's infrastructure program. The infrastructure basically referrs to the city's streets, sidewalks and sewers. In recent years, the city has levied four mills to renovate and modernize the community's infrastructure.

Final decisions on the millage levies won't have to be made immediately, but in coming weeks the council will continue to discuss the matter.

DDA and TIFA funds debated

School officials and Downtown Development Authority (DDA)officials voiced differing views of Charlevoix's DDA and Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) at a FOCUS discussion Jan. 18.

School officials say Charlevoix, like most schools in Michigan, faces financial difficulties. They say some budget cuts have been made, but if cutting continues, the quality of education will suffer.

"...I'm here to tell you now, you can't keep making those cuts and have the education that you as a community have expected in the past. And I think you should be concerned," school superintendent Gordon VanWieren told the crowd of approximately 150 people.

VanWieren and others affiliated with the school contend that the DDA and TIFA are diverting funds away from the school and therefore are one cause of the school's financial problems.

DDA officials argue the purpose of the DDA and TIFA is to increase the community's tax base, something which will benefit the school as well as residential taxpayers in the future.

"...Whether (or not) you agree with the DDA and the TIFA method of funding, I think we all have to agree that it's going to be to the betterment of the city and the whole Charlevoix area to help increase our tax base and build a stronger tax base for Charlevoix's future," DDA board member Hugh Mason stated.

Mason and others affiliated with the DDA and TIFA maintain that public sector investments in a community encourage private sector investments which create a stronger employment and tax base.

Mason explained that DDA and TIFA revenues accrue only from increased state equalized values (SEVs) in the DDA and TIFA districts. All tax revenue on the base equalized value, established when the DDA and TIFA were enacted in 1983, still goes to the school and other taxing entities. (See accompanying story for explanation of tax terms and how the DDA and TIFA work.).

There is also a formula provision in Charlevoix's DDA which provides for the school to get a certain portion of tax revenue from the increased SEV. This portion is not to exceed three percent and is intended to help compensate for inflation. Charlevoix's DDA is one of only a few in the state which have such a provision.

Regarding the source of DDA and TIFA funds, VanWieren said, "...they're all public tax funds. There's no free lunch."

He said that when tax revenues go to one place instead of another, then the other agency is going to have to make up for it.

"But the point is, we're all paying for it," he said.

Some items DDA and TIFA revenues have funded or plan to fund include: rebuilding sidewalks in the business district; south channel walkway lighting; the Erber parking lot; Hoffmann Park work; the pur-

Understanding DDA and TIFA

To understand how the DDA and TIFA work, a person first must understand a few basics about property taxes and terms such as SEV, mills and total property tax revenue.

State equalized value (SEV) is based on how much a home or a piece of property is assessed (or figured to be) worth. SEV is supposed to be half of market value. In other words, if a home could theoretically be sold for $40,000, it's SEV would be $20,000.

A mill is based on SEV. A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of SEV. A mill is a percentage of SEV, not a set dollar figure. What a mill costs one person is often different from what it costs another person.

For example, John has a home which would sell for $40,000. His SEV is $20,000 and every mill he pays cost him $20. His total property tax bill is $20 multiplied by the number of mills he pays.

Compare John to his neighbor Pete. Pete has home which would sell for $30,000. His SEV is $15,000 and every mill levied costs him $15. His total property tax bill is $15 multiplied by the number of mills he pays.

Say John and Pete each are taxed the same number of mills, 10 mills (just a round figure for the sake of the example). John would pay $200 and Pete $150.

Property values in Northern Michigan have tended to increase each year. Say John's SEV increased from $20,000 to $25,000. Instead of costing him $20, each mill would cost him $25. If he was still taxed 10 mills, rather than paying $200, he be paying $250. His tax bill and the revenue of taxing agencies would increase due to increased SEV, even though the number of mills he paid remained the same.

Understanding the effects of increased SEVs is necessary to understand DDAs and TIFAs. For general tax collection purposes, a DDA or TIFA freezes the total SEV of a section of town at the level it is when the DDA or TIFA begins.

Sections of town encompassed in Charlevoix are the downtown

Local songwriter receives award

Local musician Kurt Puffpaff recently received a plaque for finishing fourth among 50,000 entrants in a national songwriting contest. Puffpaff has recorded one cassette album and is in the process of recording a second.

After finishing four among approximately 50,000 entrants in a national amateur songwriting contest, local musician Kurt Puffpaff hopes to move on to even bigger things.

Puffpaff currently has a four-song cassette album selling in Charlevoix and Petoskey and is working on an eight to 10-song cassette album which will go on sale this summer.

Last year he entered "I-can't stand the night," one of the songs off the first album in a songwriting contest sponsored nationally by Kentucky Fried Chicken and locally by the KC103 radio station in St. Ignace.

The song was selected as the best entered at the station and forwarded to Nashville to compete against other songs from across the nation. A panel of judges thinned the field of songs to 100 finalists. Musician Michael Martin Murphy, writer of the song "Wildfire," judged the finalists.

Word that he'd finished fourth reached Puffpaff this past October. Two weeks ago he received a plaque from contest sponsors.

Puffpaff has two performances scheduled in coming weeks. Jan. 29, he will be playing at Sky McFlies in Kinross. A Northern Michigan TV station is scheduled to tape the performance. Feb. 12, he will be playing live on WLTO radio station (103.9 FM) out of Harbor Springs.

Along with a second album, the musician's plans are to: convince a recording company to sign him to a recording contract; form a band to play original music; find investors.

Puffpaff realizes recording contracts aren't easily acquired, but he's willing to take his time and has already established some contacts with people in the recording industry.

Both of Puffpaff's albums have been recorded with the help of Bob Bollinger and Playtown Sound Productions in Petoskey. Puffpaff said Bollinger's patience with him and knowledge of both the technical and business ends of recording have played an important role in his development as a musician.

Asked what kind of music he writes and plays, Puffpaff explained that his musical tastes cover a broad spectrum. While one of his favorite bands to listen to is "Kiss," his favorite instrument to play is a 12-string acoustic guitar.

Some of Puffpaff's musical highlights and goals reflect his Northern Michigan roots. He says he felt honored when Charlevoix's 1989 graduating class chose his song "I can't leave Charlevoix" as their class song. One of his goals is to perform at Castle Farms Music Theater.

Ahead-lines

Ugly, dreery old February

Thar' she blows Captain! In our voyage through winter, dreaded February lies dead ahead.

A new month is just around the corner. If the new month were March, there would be high school basketball tournaments and hope for spring. But alas it is not March on the horizon, but February, dismal old February.

February, a dreery month in which Valentine's Day is its only redeeming feature. And even Valentine's Day is only good for those of us fortunate enough to have sweethearts. Pity the poor souls who pass through February without a sweetheart. For them, Valentine's Day just adds insult to all the other injuries of the month..

In terms of weather, February is never pariticularly pleasant here in Northern Michigan. February is always good for at least one blizzard and often for two or three.

Worse than blizzards which come and go are overcast days which come and stay. Last year was particularly bad. The sun made a brief appearance early in the month, then went on a several week vacation.

January is a honeymoon month for winter. In January you've either repolished your winter driving skills or simply learned to live in constant fear behind the wheel.

By February, a person wants something more. A person wants to go outside in the morning and not scrape frost off the windshield. By February, a person longs to throw down the snow shovel and take up a picnic basket.

But these things are not to be. February, although the shortest month in terms of days on the calender, lasts an eternity in one's heart.

Fortunately, oh so fortunately, this isn't a leap year. In leap year, we get another day of February, chilly and ugly old February. The guy that made the decision to add a leap year day in February should be drawn a quartered.

If there was a spare day lying around needing to be added in somewhere, throw it into June. Make it a Saturday so people could fit in some more weddings or graduations or something. Put the extra day in late September or early October so we can go out on a day that's not too hot and not too cold and smell the autumn leaves.

But whatever you do don't add another day to the dreaded month of February. February is a narrow passage in a long winter's voyage. It is best looked back at rather than ahead to.

... DDA and TIFA discussed

chase of beach property near Ferry Beach; water main improvements; and park improvements.

Patrick Bernardo, who is from the Lansing law firm of Thrun, Maatsch and Nordberg, P.C., spoke at the FOCUS meeting on behalf of the school. He said that without the DDA and TIFA, all of the improvements could be funded by more traditional funding techniques.

Mason said the DDA and TIFA boards have also acquired state grants of $125,000 and $25,000 to help defray costs of some of the projects. Since it's inception, the DDA and TIFA have collected a total of $504,000 and spent $392,000.

Without the DDA and TIFA, approximately 60 percent of the $504,000 would have gone to the school. That is assuming the SEV would have increased at the same rate without the DDA or TIFA.

Ken Staley, who was mayor when the DDA and TIFA were initiated, presented a list of information which would indicate school salaries and benefits are one cause of the school's financial difficulties.

"Sixty percent of city property taxes go to schools," Staley began. "Up to 80 percent of township taxes go to schools.

"Most of funds raised for school purposes go for salaries and fringe benefits for instructors.

"Last year's increase in salaries and benefits was up $357,000 or 14.7 percent

"Compared with city employees and social security recipients, this is more than three times their increases, percentage-wise, and 10 to 20 times, dollar-wise. And many times the national inflation rate."

Staley also noted that according to county building department figures, Charlevoix's school district has the most construction of any area in the county. He said revenues to Charlevoix schools increased by $164,000 in 1988, a year in which the school received $4,200 to educate each student.

Meeting moderator Bob White asked school officials if they had any comments on Staley's figures. VanWieren responded, "No, I guess I'd just have to reiterate that, comparatively, our funding is about the same as the area schools."

School business manager Vince Olach said that while the school got $164,000 in increased revenue in 1988, the DDA got $433,000. He added that in 1988, the school budget went up less than one percent while the city budget went up between three and four percent.

Mason said he feels DDA and city officials are willing to sit down and talk with school officials about the DDA and TIFA. VanWieren said school officials are also willing to participate in a dialogue.

Both Mason and VanWieren were asked what their objectives would be in such a discussion.

VanWieren said the school is willing to work something out and would want to consider what's best for all in the matter.

Mason said when DDA and TIFA funds are discussed, the school will be trying to get as much of them as they can while the DDA and city will try to keep as much of them as they can.

... explaining DDA and TIFA

business district by the DDA and the Ferry Avenue Beach area by the TIFA.

The actual millage and SEV figures for the DDA and TIFA districts have varied over the years or are large and complicated. In order to make the general concept easier to grasp, we'll use smaller, round figures, not the actual figures.

Say the total SEV in the DDA district was $100,000 when the DDA was established in 1983. (Keep in mind this figure isn't actual. It's just for simplicity in this example.) The DDA SEV would be frozen at $100,000. Until the DDA expires, the school and other taxing entities will collect taxes based on an SEV of $100,000.

Again let's use a millage figure of 10 mills. If 10 mills were levied against an SEV of $100,000, people owning property in the DDA would pay a total of $100.

Although the DDA SEV is frozen for general tax collection purposes, in reality it will increase. A year into the DDA program the DDA SEV might be $110,000 instead of $100,000.

If 10 mills were still being levied, DDA property owners would pay $110 instead of $100. The schools and other taxing entities would still get $100, but the additional $10 would be used to fund improvements in the DDA area. (See accompanying story for a list of DDA and TIFA projects.)

In Charlevoix's DDA plan there is a formula which allows the school a small portion of tax revenue realized from the increased SEV. (In the example above, that would be a small piece of the $10, in addition to the school's share of the $100.) That formula is designed to help compensate for inflation. (See accompanying story.).

Charlevoix's TIFA district was established with a 10-year expiration date and DDA with a 20-year expiration date. After they expire, the school and other tax bodies will again get tax revenue based on the entire SEV.

It should be noted that in Charlevoix's DDA and TIFA districts, SEVs have increased more than projected when the DDA and TIFA were established. That means that DDA and TIFA funds have accumulated sooner than anticipated.

That situation leaves the DDA and city with a choice. They can either add projects to the list of things funded by the DDA and TIFA or the can shorten the time period for which the DDA and TIFA remain in effect.

On one hand, an averge taxpayer has the city, DDA and all the people who go with it. They're building parks, developing parking lots and planning to replace business district sidewalks. Those things are useful and good for the community.

But where does the money come from? It's tax money of course. But was there an election where the taxpayers were asked if they wanted to pay for these things? No, city officials implemented DDA and TIFA programs, skirting taxpayers.

On the other hand, an average taxpayer has the school and people affiliated with it. The school educates our kids. Taken all around, it does a pretty good job and educating our kids is something that needs to be done.

The school gets tax money too. Lots of it. In the past several years, Charlevoix's school has benefitted financially from increased millage, increased property values and declining enrollment. In other words, the school has a bigger slice of a bigger pie to feed fewer students.

Where does the money go? Charlevoix, like most schools, spends more than three-fourths of their money on employee salaries and benefits. Last year school salary and benefit expenditures increased more than $350,000, more than 14 percent.

Charle-Henge discovered

"The town will probably be crawling with archeologists soon," the one old man said to the other as they walked down the hill toward Lake Michigan Beach one sunny morning last week.

"Why's that?" asked the second man.

"Because of that thing they discovered down by the pier," the first old man said. "You know, the thing with the big rocks they're calling Charle-Henge. Didn't you hear those guys talking about it at the coffee shop before we took our walk."

Cecil, the second old man, hadn't heard a single thing about any discovery down by the pier. But he wasn't sure he wanted to own up to his ignorance on the matter. His friend and morning walking partner, Frederick, could be quite a know-it-all.

After a moment, Cecil said, "Well, I think I heard something about rocks down by the pier, but I was talking to somebody else right then. So you'd better tell me this rock thing again."

Frederick kept a straight face, but his heart jumped for joy. There was nothing Frederick enjoyed more than suckering somebody in and getting them to believe some big story.

By this time the two old men were to the bottom of the hill, near the old fish hatchery.

"There they are. Right there," Frederick said, pointing to the south pier. "See those rocks all in a line on the pier? Those are prehistoric rocks. I know they look like big chucks of cement, but that's because they were specially formed."

"Where'd they come from?" Cecil asked, his eyebrows knitted together with curiosity.

"When the workmen were dredging for the pier work, they found the rocks buried beneath the bottom of the channel," Frederick replied, struggling to keep from cracking a smile. "They were buried right in a line just as they now sit."

"Really?" Cecil said in a tone that begged to be told even more.

"Yep," Frederick continued. "Of course you know that before it was a channel, that was the Pine River. Scientists figure the rocks were put beside the river by prehistoric folks and then got covered with river sediment."

"Now ain't that something," Cecil said, his mouth drooping open in amazement. "But why'd prehistoric folks line big rocks up by the mouth of the river."

"That's where the archeologists come in," Frederick explained. "They're comparing this discovery to something similar in England called Stone-Henge. That's why they're calling this one Charle-Henge. They thing these rocks might have involved astronomy or maybe even space ships."

After pausing a second, Frederick added, "In fact, there's even a theory that since this was a fishing village, the prehistoric folks somehow used those rocks to figure out the best times to fish. If the archeologists figure out how to recreate that, then we might have better fishing next summer."

"That'd be great," Cecil said. "Now that you mention it, didn't they find something like this on Beaver Island a while back?"

"That's right," Frederick said, just pleased as could be to see Cecil swallowing the story hook, line and sinker. "They think this one and the one on Beaver Island may be related. They think the rocks here might be lined in exactly the same direction as the ones on Beaver Island. Scientists and archeologists are going to take some compass readings and check it out."

There was a moment of silence in the conversation. Without saying anything, Cecil smile, then turned and began slowly walking back up the hill.

"Where you going?" Frederick called.

"Going up the hill," Cecil answered. "The way your Charle-Henge story's going, I figure it's best to get to high ground. You didn't seriously think you'd get me to believe that."

Frederick laughed as he shuffled quickly to catch up to his friend.

On one hand, an averge taxpayer has the city, DDA and all the people who go with it. They're building parks, developing parking lots and planning to replace business district sidewalks. Those things are useful and good for the community.

But where does the money come from? It's tax money of course. But was there an election where the taxpayers were asked if they wanted to pay for these things? No, city officials implemented DDA and TIFA programs, skirting taxpayers.

On the other hand, an average taxpayer has the school and people affiliated with it. The school educates our kids. Taken all around, it does a pretty good job and educating our kids is something that needs to be done.

The school gets tax money too. Lots of it. In the past several years, Charlevoix's school has benefitted financially from increased millage, increased property values and declining enrollment. In other words, the school has a bigger slice of a bigger pie to feed fewer students.

Where does the money go? Charlevoix, like most schools, spends more than three-fourths of their money on employee salaries and benefits. Last year school salary and benefit expeditures increased more than $350,000, more than 14 percent.

Yet the school people are crying financial hardship. And doing it with a straight face.

So what position does an average taxpayer take in the DDA and school debate? This position:

City government should enlighten taxpayers as to community needs and ask taxpayers what they're willing to pay for. City government should not decide what taxpayers need then figure out a way to make them pay for it.

The argument that voters can't be adequately informed isn't credible. We live in an information age in a democracy.

A school system should educate children, and do so in a fiscally responsible manner. A school system should not grant salary and benefit increases the budget can't stand and then find a way to pry more money from taxpayers.

The argument that our school's financial situation is similar to other schools' is unacceptable. A lemming in the midst of a march to the sea has lots of company, but isn't necessarily doing the right thing.

Building a little history

Among all the structures bequeathed to us by our forebears, which are worth saving?

This is a question that confronted the Charlevoix City Council recently when it acquired an ancient residence at 108 Clinton St. for the purpose of creating additional parking.

Oldtimers remember that the 110-year-old home was the residence of the late Lyle Shanahan who practiced law and served as Charlevoix County circuit judge a few generations ago.

The Charlevoix Historical Society thinks the house should be saved as a relic of the past.

The council thinks it should be torn down.

Although I am something of an antiquary myself, parting with worn clothing only with the greatest reluctance, I'm going to have to come down on the side of the council on this one.

I have looked at that house a thousand times trying to find one redeeming feature that would make it worth saving. But I can't find one, aside from the fact that it is old and that Judge Shanahan used to live there.

I never knew the judge, but I feel sort of a kinship with him because an uncle of mine, Jim Winter, joined Shanahan's law practice back in the early 1930s and worked with him a couple of years. Uncle Jim was a young fellow at the time, fresh from the Detroit College of Law, and I imagine he was a frequent supper guest at the judge's Clinton Street home. He might even have boarded with the Shanahans for all I know.

But the judge and Uncle Jim are now long gone and my ties with the past stretch only so far. I, for one, have no emotional involvement with this particular piece of property, but I can sympathize with those members of the Historical Society who played there when they were children.

I believe the suggestion by John Gaskin at last week's council session was a good one. Gaskin says the council should appoint a historic preservation committee to come up with a roster of old structures that are worth saving for whatever reason.

If I were serving on the council would appreciate such guidance. The city already has lost a number of handsome old buildings that should have been preserved. First among them was the old Rader House on East Dixon which was a spendid example of Victorian architecture. Thanks to tender, loving care over the years, the Rader house was just as solid the day it was torn down as the day it was built.

I also remember some stately old homes on Park Avenue that should have been preserved, including one with a curved glass bay window in front.

Unfortunately, many of yesterday's structures are as ugly today as they were when they were built. When push comes to shove, they should be the ones to go.

Furthermore, I think some of Charlevoix's newest buildings are among its most attractive, witness the Edgewater Inn and the Pointes North condominium hotel, both on Michigan Avenue just north of the Bridge. LeHavre condominiums on Round Lake grow more pleasing to the eye with every passing year. Don Berlage's Park Place condominiums on Pine River Channel will be just as beautiful in the year 2089 as they are today.

We are fortunate that Charlevoix's architects and builders are dedicated to enhancing the city's charms. The plastic and stainless steel that have cheapened the appearance of so many communities in Southern Michigan are not to be seen in Charlevoix.

For the present, council intends to preserve the front 40 feet of the Clinton Street property as a green belt before determining if more parking is needed. A fine idea.

But let's not overlook the fact that Charlevoix is woefully short of public lavatories, and that the Clinton Street property next to the Erber parking lot would be an ideal location for one.

I am continually amazed that Charlevoix — which hosts 25,000 visitors on a single summer afternoon — has only one permanent public urinal downtown.

A small barrier-free restroom, tastefully landscaped, would be welcomed by the owners of downtown businesses which now must accomodate the public by allowing the use of their own in-house facilities.

It also would be a godsend to the traveling public — on whom our livlihood depends.

Although with a little imagination, this line of stone on the pier could be considered Charle-Henge (see column on page 4) it's actually nothing more than some slabs of cement involved with work on the south pier.

Letters to the Editor:

Historical commission concept has merit

Dear Editor,

I stand with my colleague in the Charlevoix Historical Society to emphasize that the Clinton St. house has much more historical value than merely its age.

I was fortunate enough to visit this home when it was inhabited by the Lyle Shanahan family. There is vivid recollection of Mrs. Shanahan drying the spring morels on a line across one corner room. We cannot erase from our memory the important contributions made to the development of Charlevoix through Lyle Shanahan's work as a prominent attorney. I share these thoughts because they show us how a building reflects much more than its boards and mortar.

We have witnessed several older homes being rehabilitated and restored to new life in this community. Two examples are the structures on the southwest and southeast corners of Bridge and Hurlbut. I dare say these two buildings, prior to their restoration, had suffered greater deterioration than the one on Clinton. I am saddened by the realization that I will not have a chance to see what the Lawsons might have been able to do with 108 Clinton. The potential of an old house is often not recognized until someone with a special vision for its possibilities comes along.

I hope that through more careful identification of the old and honoring of its character, we can more meaningfully preserve our Charlevoix heritage. I am grateful for the support of the idea to establish an Historic District Commission. May we work together towards its creation in the near future.

Water tower: paint it and leave it alone

Dear Editor,

I quote from a letter I received this week from one of Charlevoix's "native sons", and a regular subscriber to your Courier:

... I enjoy keeping up with all "happenings" in my old home town. I followed with great interest the controversy regarding the "old water tower." Of all the ideas put forth in the paper, the only one that made any sense was the one proposed by your brother Louis --- "just paint it," keep the lights on it and leave it alone. The old tower was a familiar and loved landmark before anyone in Charlevoix can remember, and I don't think it needs to be turned into an amusement park item.

Some county salaries increase, others increase more

The salaries of one group of elected and appointed officials of Charlevoix County have risen 27 percent since 1983, and those of another group have risen 41 percent over the same period.

Included in the first group are the County Clerk, Equalization Director, Prosecuting Attorney, Register of Deeds, Treasurer, Drain Commissioner, Sheriff, Building Inspector, and Planning Director.

In 1983, the salaries of these nine officials totaled $168,629. In 1989, these same officials will receive $231,622.

By position, the 1989 salaries are: Prosecuting Attorney, $46,811; Sheriff, $32,238; Equalization Director, $27,225; Planning Director, $26,299; Clerk, $24,567; Building Inspector, $23,720; Register of Deeds, $22,933; Treasurer, $22,815; and Drain Commissioner (part time), $4,987.

Included in the second group are the six members of the County Board of Commissioners. In 1983, the six County Commissioners received a total of $32,950. In 1988, this increased to a total of $45,520, as follows: Larry Matthew (Board Chairman), $10,610; Don Smith, $8,840; Ralph Harmon, $8,490; Oral Sutliff (10 months), $8,045; Tom Breakey, $7,610; Bud Heeres, $2,750; and Phil Johnson (one month), $175. The latter took over Sutliff's seat in December.

County Commissioners are paid a salary of $2,100 a year for attending two meetings a month. In addition, they receive per diem for all committee meetings they attend, including the regular committee of the whole meetings. Last year, per diem was paid at the rate of $70. This year, Commissioners will receive $75 per diem for all-day meetings and $50 for half-day meetings of at least four hours including travel time.

Salaries account for over half of the county's budget. Last year, the county payroll was $2,019,511 of the county's $3,925,003 budget.

Grant writing workshop

A four-day grant writing workshop will be held in Traverse City on May 15-18, 1989. The workshop is sponsored by the Northwest Michigan and Huron Pines Resource Conservation and Development Councils and will be presented by Dr. Barbara Bader and Mr. Steven Carr, Directors of Community Systems of Bozeman, Montana.

The comprehensive workshop covers all aspects of grant writing from developing and assessing proposal ideas, researching and contacting potential funders, building support for grant ideas, to writing and submitting proposals and following up with funders. Special attention is devoted to proposal writing, with detailed instructions in such technical aspects as needs assessment, program design, project evaluation, and budgeting. Each workshop participant will receive a detailed 150 plus page training manual which includes a proposal writing guide, specific instructions, background reading, and an extensive reference section. Participants in the workshop will also receive follow-up consultation to review their proposals.

The Northwest Michigan RC&D Council has developed a mini-library of standard reference works for grant seekers, including resources for foundation, corporate, and public funds. These resources and their use will be available during and after the workshop.

For more information or to register for the grant writing workshop contact Jim Haveman at the Northwest Michigan RC&D Council office in Traverse City or phone (616) 946-6817.

County seeks funds for Ironton Ferry

by PEG OHLE

The first year Charlevoix County operated the Ironton Ferry, in 1887, the total cost was $348, which the county shared with Eveline Township.

Last year, the operating cost was over $100,000 and some $90,000 over revenue. This resulting $90,000 deficit is being borne on an equal basis by the county and the County Road Commission.

These deficits have been increasing in recent years and have become a matter of concern to both the county and the Road Commission. As expenses increase, substantially higher revenues from higher fares seem unlikely.

One possible solution being pursued by the County Board of Commissioners is a grant from the State Department of Transportation. The county is requesting $30,000 a year from the state to help pay for the required pull-out and inspection every five years, which amounts to $100,000, and other expenses.

The county reasons that a $30,000 annual subsidy from the state would bring in $150,000 over five years, enough to pay for the pull-out with $50,000 left over to help defray the operating deficits.

State support for a locally operated ferry is not new in Michigan, according to county employee Mike Davis, who is working on the project. The Eastern Upper Peninsula Transportation Authority, which operates ferries between the mainland and Drummond, Sugar, and Neebish Islands, receives $500,000 a year from the State Department of Transportation.

Last year, with the assistance of State Senator Mitch Irwin and State Representative Ralph Ostling, $30,000 for the Ironton Ferry was inserted as a line item in a supplement to the Department of Transportation appropriation bill, but it was vetoed by Gov. James Blanchard. Now, Ostling is trying to have $30,000 for the ferry included in the Department of Transportation's annual budget, as is the money for the eastern Upper Peninsula ferries.

"We're the only cable-operated ferry in the midwest, so we should get some state support," Davis says.

The importance of the Ironton Ferry to Charlevoix County, both for economy and convenience, has been recognized since the ferry first started operation in 1881 as a private enterprise.

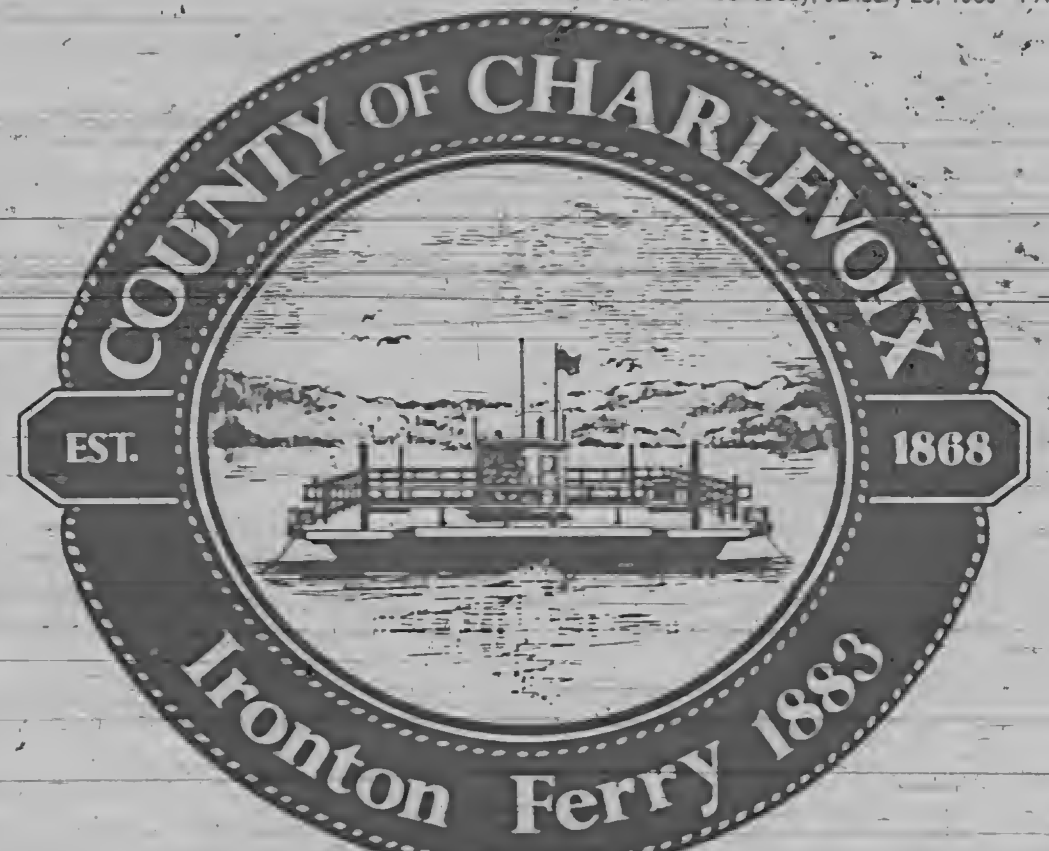
In 1883, Henry E. Sheldon was granted the first license to operate the Ironton Ferry. He set up a schedule of fares as follows: Double teams, 30 cents; single teams, 20 cents; beasts (except sheep), 10 cents; sheep, up to six, 10 cents, over six, five cents; footmen without beasts, five cents; threshing machines, etc., $1.00.

When the county took over operation of the ferry in 1887, passage for men and beasts alike became free. After several years, however, it became necessary to charge fares. The first mention of fares in County Board minutes is in 1948, when they were set at 15 for private cars and 25 cents for commercial vehicles.

In 1950, the fare for cars went up to 25 cents; in 1962, to 35 cents; in 1972 to 50 cents, and in 1977 to 75 cents–and from then on to $1.00, $1.25, to last year's $1.50.

County minutes on ferry operations are also full of notations of escalating costs and deficits. Such necessary work as repairs on ramps and construction of new ones, five-year pull-outs and repairs on ferry body, a new engine, and rising wages and benefits for ferry operators are reported in tones of "Where is the money coming from?"

As far back as 1973, mention was made of "possible state and federal funds," but there is no evidence this was seriously looked into. In 1975, the possibility of a bridge to replace the ferry was also considered. A request was made to the Economic Development Corporation for a grant to pay for a feasibility study of such a bridge; but it was turned down and the subject dropped.



A MICHIGAN HISTORICAL SITE

The Ironton Ferry has been part of Charlevoix County for so long that it's even featured on the Charlevoix County logo. For the past several years, the county has lost money on ferry operations. Currently county commissioners are seeking funds to defray the ferry's operational costs.

Theodore E. Browe

Theodore Edward Browe, 79, of Ellsworth, died Jan. 17, 1989, in Brooksville, Fla.

A requiem mass was held Monday, Jan. 23, at Sacred Heart Chapel, Ellsworth. The Rev. Dominic DeVriendt officiated and burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Browe was born March 31, 1909, in Charlevoix County, the son of Armdomas and Rebecca (St. Charles) Browe.

On Dec. 14, 1929, he married the former Ruth Wilson at Central Lake. They made their home in Charlevoix where Mr. Browe owned and operated Browe Electric.

In 1973, Mr. and Mrs. Browe moved to Banks Township.

Mr. Browe was a member of Sacred Heart Chapel in Ellsworth. He was a past president of the Charlevoix Development Corp. and had served on the board of the Charlevoix Federal Credit Union for several years.

Survivors include: his wife; five sons, Theodore Jr. of Charlevoix, Wilfred of Hoffman Estates, Ill., James of Ellsworth, Thomas and Raymond, both of Charlevoix; five daughters, Mrs. Betty White of Charlevoix, Mrs. Bonnie Rollenhagan of Silver Lake, Mrs. Mary Corp of Ellsworth, Mrs. Ruth Ann Marley of Annapolis, Md. and Mrs Rebecca Lester of Biloxi, Miss.; 39 grandchildren; 30 great-grandchildren; one brother, Wilfred of Ironton; one sister, Mrs. Dolores Mucz of Grand Rapids; several nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to Sacred Heart Chapel. Envelopes for memorials are avialable at the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth. A rosary was recited Sunday at Sacred Heart Chapel.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Robert H. Piller
Bethany Lutheran Church

It is a telling fact that the temptation of Jesus occurred "in the wilderness." The wilderness is a lonely place - no people, no noise, no traffic, no distractions of activity or entertainment.

This reveals an important truth about temptation. If and when we fall, we have ourselves to blame, and nobody else. This is a basic Bible teaching: "Every man is tempted, when he is drawn away by his own lusts, and enticed."

As a rule, we do not see it that way. We tend to point the accusing finger at someone or something else as a cause of our downfall. The student blames TV that his homework is not done. The car thief says it's the owner's fault for leaving the keys in the ignition. Even in the perfect environment of the Garden of Eden our first parents blamed sin on someone else.

"It's her fault," Adam said. "It's the serpent's fault," Eve said. But God was not fooled by the smoke screen and said, "What hast thou done?"

It is very clever of us to ask, "Where does evil come from?" For the question implies that evil comes from "out there somewhere," but we don't know where.

Jesus diagnosed it differently and bluntly said: "Out of the hear proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies."

That is why we cannot run away from temptation any more than we can run away from our own shadow. The temptation is within. Our families, friends, enemies, employers, and environment may all play a part. But the real thing that comes between God and us... is us!

Good works and intentions don't help either as long as our hearts remain unchanged. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so he is," says Christ, pointing to the wilderness within. And he set it down for His followers of every age, "Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation; for the spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak." Let the key words: "watch" and "pray" be the marks that will keep you steadfast in Christ Jesus.

Anti-drug group has first meeting

Twenty-six Charlevoix community leaders turned out last Thursday evening for the first meeting of a task force formed to address the problems of adolescent alcohol and drug use in the area.

The meeting was chaired by former mayor Ralph McRae and Greta Mackler of Boyne City, a resource person representing Michigan Communities in Action for Drug-Free Youth.

A steering committee representing the courts the medical profession, the schools, the churches, law enforcement agencies, and service organizations was formed and will meet in a few days to lay the framework and discuss plans for the next meeting of the task force, scheduled for February 2.

Those who volunteered to serve on the steering committee are the Rev. Benton Heisler, representing the Charlevoix Ministerial Association; Randy Eyre of the Parent-Teachers Association; Juvenile Court Officer Brad Campbell; Dr. Edward Newcomb; Father Jim Gardiner, representing Serenity House; Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson; and Superintendent of Schools Gordon VanWieren. McRae will also serve on the committee.

Among the first steps to be taken by the task force will be laying the groundwork for work with Middle School students and applying for a government grant to help defray operating costs.

Crooked Tree offering art classes in area

Monday, January 30 is the first day of Winter term classes in the visual arts, dance, theatre and music, sponsored by Crooked Tree Arts Council.

New classes and teachers have been added to the schedule, and several favorites are returning to the lineup to meet renewed demand.

Among the new classes are: weaving and basketry instruction offered by Cathy Siterlet in four-week sessions beginning Feb. 21 and group guitar lessons offered by Julie Pierpont.

Cara Hochhalter will teach an extension class in the Charlevoix Public Library for those in grade nine through adulthood. Her course emphasizes techniques outlined in the book, "Drawing on the Right Wide of the Brain."

Ongoing classes that will continue after the holiday break are pottery, Hatha Yoga, movement and dance, ballet, jazz dance, pointe ballet and modern dance.

Private music lessons may be scheduled with piano instructor Charlotte Ross-Lee; flute instructor Cindy Stansell; violin instructor Maggie Redmond; cello instructor Nancy Henry; French horn and brass instructor Janis Ley; trombone and low brass instructor Jeffry Bell-Hanson; voice instructors Julie Pierpont and Fran Tollas.

Partial scholarships are available for the community school of the arts, underwritten by Burns Clinic Medical Center, P.C. Applications are available at the arts center, and must be submitted by Friday, Jan. 27.

Complete class and fee schedules are available at the McCune Arts Center, were preregistration is encouraged. The arts center is located at the corner of Mitchell and Division Streets, downtown Petoskey, phone 347-4337.

Christmas tree growers' seminar scheduled

Christmas tree producers and their employees in Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties have an opportunity to attend an in-depth short course on pest management sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service. This short course will be held on consecutive Wednesday evenings, starting Feb. 8 through Feb. 22, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Inland Lakes High School in Indian River.

Top specialists from Michigan State University and across the state will address the topics of weed control, herbicide safety, economics of pest management, tree diseases and insects affecting the Christmas tree crop in Northern Michigan.

Individuals should pre-register by Feb. 1 by contacting the Cheboygan County Cooperative Extension Service at 616-627-8815. A $3 registration fee is required and will cover the cost of materials and refreshments for the complete short course. Partial sponsorship is also being provided by the Cheboygan County Soil Conservation District.

Participants attending the entire short course will receive four hours of pesticide re-certification credit from the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Parenting class offered

"Positive Parenting" a ten week class offered by the Women's Resource Center through a grant from the Children's Trust Fund will continue this winter, with two classes offered in Charlevoix and one in Petoskey.

The "Positively Parenting" Program is made possible by a grant from the Children's Trust Fund, created in 1982 to establish a permanent source of funding for the prevention of child abuse and neglect. CTF monies are raised through a state income tax check off and direct donations. The Northwest Michigan Council for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect is the local CTF funded council, assisting in public education about the problems of child abuse and neglect and supporting local programs such as the Positively Parenting classes.

The ten week classes offer parents the opportunity to gain support and explore new ideas. Topics covered include discipline, communication, child development and sibling relationships. There are classes offered for parents with children ages 6-12 and a separate class for parents with children ages 0-5. Child care is offered in a nearby room and transportation is available if needed. Classes are free.

The winter classes will meet as follows:

A Charlevoix area class will meet Tuesday nights beginning January 17 at 7 p.m. in the Charlevoix Elementary School library. This class is for parents with children ages 6-12.

A class for parents with children ages 0-5 will begin in Charlevoix on Thursday, Feb. 2. It will meet from 1-2:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, Charlevoix.

Parents in Petoskey with children ages 6-12 are invited to join the session beginning Monday, Feb. 13. This group will meet Monday nights from 7-8:30 p.m. in the Ottawa School Library.

To register for any of the classes, call the WRC at 347-0070.

Council chooses not to change utility extension policy

City councilmen decided at Monday evening's work session not to change a city policy regarding extending city utility service outside of the city limits.

Under the current city policy, the city will extend water service, but the person who wants it must pay all of the extension cost. City manager Mike Wiesner and electric and water superintendent Ed Whitley proposed a policy revision which would have allowed the city to fund a portion of the initial extension and recover the funds as people along the extension route hooked on to the main.

Whitley told councilmen these situations don't come up often, but there is currently a need in Boulder Park.

The advantage to the city is the added user fees from people who hook into the system.

"About the only way to gain revenue fo the water system is to add customers, if you want to keep your rates down," Whitley told councilmen.

The city's water plant is currently operating far below capacity.

Councilmen voiced concern about extending a utility line and then not having anyone other than the person it extended to, hook into it. Councilmen Earl Muma and Butch Russell said they were worried that the city could end up with an investment which had no return for a long time.

Whitley conceded that the extensions would have to be done on a case by case basis. He said that research would have to precede each situation to be sure the situation Muma and Russell spoke of didn't occur. However, in terms of Boulder Park, he pointed out that it's close to both the city and Lake Michigan and there are lots available for development.

If the lots were in the city, the city could establish a special assessment district to pay for the utility extension. Since the lots are in the township, it is not feasible for the city to do that.

Councilman Norm Probert spoke in favor of changing the policy, however councilman Jim Potter was opposed. Potter said that although there may be approximately 100 developable lots in the Boulder Park area, thus far there's only been interest shown in developing a few of them.

Heart machine fund drive started

A fundraising drive to purchase heart machines for the two city ambulances will be launched Feb. 6. The machines are defibrillators which will electrically stimulate a heart and also read and record vital signs.

Patty Sitzema ofHeart Start, the group which is initiating the fundraising drive, says that according to medical experts the first eight minutes after a person has a heart attack are the most important time for treatment leading to survival.

The record keeping ability of the machine is perhaps as important as the ability to electrically stimulate a heart. When ambulance attendants bring the patient to the hospital, they will also have a paper record of everything the patient's heart has done from the time the machine was hooked up. This information can be valuable to doctors.

Each machine costs approximately $7,200 and Heart Start hopes to raise enough for two machines plus additional money to pay for operating the machines. There also may be an endowment fund set up so that machine operational costs don't come from tax dollars.

Pizza Hut is cooperating with Heart Start in the fundraising effort.

Why Are These Men Smiling?

Meet Cecil Peterson. He's the smallish man with the newspaper. Cecil never missed a chance to check what's happening in his hometown.

Why? Just last week he found a bird cage for his pet gerbil in the Charlevoix Courier Classified section. The reason Cecil is reading while standing in a crowd (he usually has better manners but he doesn't know any of these fellows anyway) is because he's reading a story about his nephew's basketball team.

Cecil never misses one single issue of his hometown newspaper because he knows that it's crammed full of stuff that the city dailies never touch. Stuff like local bargains at his favorite stores, those juicy classified ads, and what's happening at city hall.

There was even a story about Cecil the time he grew the largest squash he's ever seen. Or anyone else had ever seen for that matter. Cecil cut the picture out and put it in his scrapbook. He ate the squash.

Oh yes, why are those other fellows smiling?

Well, first they're on their way home and second they know their hometown newspaper will be waiting for them when they get there.

Basketball team loses in league showdown

By Tim Henne

When the Charlevoix and Petoskey basketball teams met last Friday evening, there was more than just a school rivalry at stake.

Both teams were near the top of the Michigan Huron Shores League. Petoskey had just one loss and was tied the league lead with Sault Ste. Marie. Charlevoix was close behind with only two conference losses.

But Friday, Petoskey came away holding their spot as conference leader as they beat the Rayders 69-59 before a large crowd at the Charlevoix High School gym.

Charlevoix started out hot, taking a 4-0 lead. But Petoskey answered with a Toby McFarland three pointer and soon had a four-point lead of their own 10-6.

Charlevoix's Bob Jess hit a three pointer and Mike Himebaugh converted a Petoskey turnover into a basket to put Charlevoix back up 11-10.

Petoskey then scored seven unanswered points and closed the first quarter leading 17-11.

In the second quarter a long jumper by Jason Corwin inspired a Charlevoix comeback that at one point brought the Rayders to within three. But that was just at one point. For the entire quarter, Jeff DeGroot and Todd Stimson led the Northmen and at halftime Petoskey had an 11-point lead 33-22.

For the Rayders, things went from bad to worse early in the third quarter. Three minutes and 13 seconds into the second half, the score was 45-22 in the Northmen's favor. Only consecutive steals and scores by Corwin and Webb Friedly kept the third quarter score close enough for a possible comeback.

The comeback happened minutes into the final quarter. Baskets by Himebauch and Shawn Putman narrowed Petoskey's lead to 12. That was followed by six more unanswered points which brought Charlevoix to within six at 55-49.

But Petoskey maintained their composure and called a timeout. Charlevoix's Webb Friedly who had played aggressive defense all night fouled out early in the final quarter. Without Friedly bothering them, Petoskey ran off several points following the timeout and built their lead back to an insurmountable 14 points.

A bright spot for Charlevoix in the final minute of the game was Chad DeYoung's first shot and score of the season. DeYoung is coming off a knee injury.

Himebaugh and Jess led the Rayder scoring, each with 15 points. Putman contributed 10.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 52-41, improving their season record to 10-1. Jason Parrish had 15 points and Todd Kovach 14.

This Friday evening Charlevoix plays at Gaylord.

Charlevoix's Jason Corwin (25) puts up a shot in traffic Friday evening over Petoskey's Jeff DeGroot. In the background is Rayder Shawn Putman (41). Petoskey led for most of the game and fended off a fourth quarter Rayder rally to win 69-59.

Wrestlers split in triangular meet

Charlevoix wrestlers beat Kalkaska 53-13 last Thursday evening, but didn't have as much luck with Petoskey, losing 47-18.

Two of Northern Michigan's best 152 pounders went head to head in the Charlevoix-Petoskey match as Petoskey's Mike Patchkowski decisioned Rayder Jason Whitley 6-5 in the 152 pound division.

Whitley doesn't lose often. Earlier in the evening, he pinned a Kalkaska opponent in 34 seconds, for the 102 win of his high school career. Teammate Jamie Monteith is close behind Whitley with 99 career wins. He pinned both of his opponents in the 171 pound division Thursday night.

Other Charlevoix winners in the Petoskey match were: Rob Mervyn, 160 pin; Scott Novotny, 130 decision; Brian Livingston, 135, decision.

Charlevoix winners in the Kalkaska match were: Cunningham, 103 pin; McCallum, 119 pin; Young, 125 pin; Darrah, 140 forfeit; Pajtas, 145 forfeit; Whitley, 152 pin; Mervyn, 160 forfeit; Monteith, 171 pin; Marquardt, 189 pin.

This Saturday Charlevoix will participate in the conference wrestling meet at Cheboygan.

Volleyball team wins again

Charlevoix's volleyball team has come to life lately. Recently they beat Petoskey and Jan. 18 they beat Gaylord three out of five at Gaylord.

In the Gaylord match, Charlevoix lost the first two games 15-10 and 15-7. However, the Rayders got their program assembled in the third and fourth games and beat the Blue Devils 15-11 and 15-10.

The fifth and deciding game was the closest and most exciting of the evening. In a nailbiter, Charlevoix pulled out a 16-14 win. Volleyball games are played to 15, but you have to win by two.

Coach Brenda Bryan credited her team for showing enthusiasm despite losing the first two games and coming back to take the match.

Top servers for the Rayders were Tricia Sutton, Billie Jean Habel and Becky Melke; top setters were Habel, Sutton and Inga Meissner; best offensive players were Melke, Habel and Meissner while leading defenders were Marci Wynkoop, Melke and Habel.

Following the win, Charlevoix's varsity team stood 3-2 overall and 2-1 in league play.

In the junior varsity game, Gaylord won 8-15, 15-5, 16-14. For Charlevoix, top servers were Michele Lundy, Darcie DeGrow and Kasha Barrette; top setters were Tammy Holm and Stacy Tilton; best offensive players were Tilton and Lundy while Sue Melke and Ann Marie Hogan were the best line of defense.

City continues to discuss infrastructure millage levy

Now the city council is leaning toward a three, rather than four, mill levy for infrastructure projects this coming year.

Last year four mills were levied for the city's infrastructure renovation project. (Infrastructure is a term used to refer to things such as the city's sidewalks, streets and storm sewers.) Charlevoix has initiated a long-term infrastructure renovation project which carries an estimated price tag of $4.2 million.

Infrastructure projects and millage have been discussed by the council at several recent meetings. The council can levy up to 4 mills in the coming year for the work.

At this time, the council's priority is finishing sidewalk work in residential areas. Business district sidewalks are also scheduled to be repaired, but that work will be done by the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) with DDA rather than infrastructure funds.

At prior meetings, councilmen never came right out and said how many mills for infrastructure they would support. At Monday evening's work session, mayor Gary Probert took an informal straw poll to find out how many infrastructure mills each councilman is considering.

Councilmen Bill Haggard and Earl Muma indicated they are leaning toward four mills. Councilman Norm Probert said he's looking at three mills. Councilman Butch Russell said two mills while councilmen Ken Whitley and Jim Potter said probably either two or three mills.

What councilmen weighed as they made the decision was the benefit of levying less millage now against the drawback of dragging the infrastructure program out longer. Even at the maximum four mills, the infrastructure program is estimated to take approximately 15 years.

The council doesn't have to make a final decision for several weeks, but city manager Mike Wiesner said he needs some idea of what councilmen are thinking so that he can make appropriate budget projections.

On another aspect of infrastructure work, the council indicated they would rather pay, at least partially, for this year's sewer work near the corner of Belevedere Avenue and Bridge Street with money from the sewer fund rather than infrastructure millage.

The sewer fund has built up funds over the years although rates were recently lowered to deplete the excess funds over time.

Wiesner indicated that due to some large residential developments, the sewer fund might also have more revenue than anticipated from hook up fees. This revenue could be used to fund sewer repair work.

Another infrastructure project planned for 1989 is paving roads at the city industrial park. That project has an estimated cost of $100,000, but a state grant is paying $75,000. At Monday's meeting, councilmen decided to pay $10,000 of the city's $25,000 from the industrial park fund rather than from infrastructure funds.

As they jockeyed with figures, councilmen expressed a desire to have the residential sidewalk repairs done as soon as possible. Last year, the city spent approximately $200,000 on sidewalk repair, but still has $388,000 worth of deteriorated sidewalks left to replace.

Even at the four mill levy, councilmen did not feel they would have enough money to replace all the sidewalks this year and accomplish other planned infrastructure work.

Some residents complain about raised Mt. McSauba rates

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

It doesn't pay to laugh at a bargain, downstate skiers who visit Charlevoix have learned this year.

But it pays, psychologically as well as financially, to raise prices, Ike Boss, Charlevoix Recreation Director contends, acknowledging that the doubling of rates at Mt. McSauba, from $3.50 to $7 a day, has vastly increased income and the number of downstate skiers and begun to impact a $18,000 annual deficit.

Local skiers, however, are not necessarily enchanted by the psychology of wooing downstate skiers with higher rates and, while acknowledging the need to reduce the ski hill's deficit, criticize the across-the board doubling.

Psychology or "credibility," explains Boss was only one reason for raising the day ski rates at Charlevoix's double-sided sand dune, served by a rope tow. Boss said it was simply time to make the hill more economical.

The wooing of downstate skiers is, however, a conscious decision, according to both Ike Boss and his brother Dale Boss, who has been actively supporting the ski hill for many years.

"The convention bureau is trying to promote coming to Charlevoix to learn to ski," Dale Boss says, explaining that the Convention Bureau invested $4,500 for downhill and cross country skis to be rented at the hill. The city, Boss adds, invested another $1,000.

"But, if there are people in Charlevoix who cannot afford to ski, we will see that they can," Dale Boss continues, stating that "Skiing scholarships" were available. "Everyone at Mt. McSauba is working for the kids," he continues. "We want kids to have fun."

Nonetheless, local residents, who have depended on the low rates at Mt. McSauba to teach their small children to ski, are taking protests to city hall.

"My objection is that if you have a 7 year old and a 4 year old, as I do," says Laurie Wilson of Ironton, "the price is the same for all of us. I have to spend $21, even though my four year old cannot last longer than two hours." Wilson has hoped city council will debate the issue at Monday's meeting.

"There's no break for the little kids who should not ski alone," adds Sharlene Gleason. "I had planned to take my four and six year olds to teach them to ski, but we would only ski for short times. $21 is too much for an hour's skiing."

Ike Boss counters: "We haven't raised our rates in five years and we won't be raising them again for another five. The real reason we raised rates was to reduce the annual operating (deficit) to $10,000 or $8,000 this year."

Boss points out that season passes took a much smaller leap, from $40 to $55 per person per season.

Wilson suggests the facility allow children under a certain age to ski free if accompanied by a full fee paying adult, and institute half day rates for people who only ski for one or two hours. "That is the standard in the industry," Wilson states.

In the meantime, Boss reports the psychology worked. "We took in more money in the six days of Christmas break than we did all last winter.

"We used to get phone calls and people would laugh when we told them the rate was $3.50 they figured a ski hill that only charged $3.50 for skiing must be a piece of junk.

"This year we made more money in the six days of Christmas break than we did all last season," Boss adds. "For example, we had a family skiing here from Indianapolis this Christmas. They were so thrilled with our hill and rates, they said they didn't want to tell their friends about it."

Oddfellows leading Masons

Seven and a half tables were in play during the Oddfellows-Masons cribbage tournament last Thursday.

During the evening, the Oddfellows garnered 443 points to the Masons' 419 points. Hugh Mayne was high scorer for the Masons with 966 points, and Richard Sutton was high scorer for the Oddfellows with 948 points.

After three weeks of play, the Oddfellows lead the Masons by 465 points.

The tournament will continue this Thursday evening at the American Legion Hall.

Seasonal dock rates established

At a Monday evening work session, city councilmen indicated approval of raising seasonal rates at the city docks. The rate increase only applies to nine of the city docks which are rented on a seasonal basis. The majority of the city docks are rented on a daily basis.

City manager Mike Wiesner presented councilmen with a list which compared city rates to private marinas in the area. The city seasonal rates in many cases are slightly higher than private rates. Wiesner said this is because the city's municipal marina is in a prime location.

State regulations only allow a small percentage of municipal docks to be rented on a seasonal basis.

The nine boats which rent city docks seasonally range in length from 25 to 110 feet. Rates charged to the boats range from $1,872 to $6,158 per year.

Wiesner said that financially the city benefits from renting the nine docks seasonally rather than nightly.

"If we didn't season in these nine boats, and went transient, we would lose approximately $12,000," he said.

The seasonal rates are computed on 150 nights per year, plus 20 percent. There are occasional nights when the seasonal boats are away and transient boathrs will be allowed to use the dock.

City councilmen reacted favorably toward the proposed rates, indicating that both the city and the boaters were getting a good deal.

Last year the council passed a resolution which allowed city taxpayers to keep their boats in the city slip for half price during May and September, which are before and after the peak boating season.

PROPOSED ORDINANCE — ZONING ENFORCEMENT PROCEDURE

The Charlevoix City Council will hold a PUBLIC HEARING on a proposed Ordinance regarding Zoning Enforcement Procedure on MONDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1989 at 7:00 p.m. in City Hall, 210 State Street during a regular Council Meeting.

ORDINANCE #

AN ORDINANCE to amend 5.261 of Article XI of Title V of the Charlevoix City Code of Ordinances, by adding new sections entitled 5.261 (A) (1) through (6) which shall read as follows:

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ordains that Section 5.261, Article XI, Title V of the Charlevoix City Code of Ordinances shall be emended to include:

Section 5.261 (A) - Zoning Enforcement Procedure

A) General Procedure. The following procedure may be followed by the Charlevoix City Zoning Administrator upon occurrence of a zoning ordinance violation.

1. The Zoning Administrator may attempt to confer with the zoning violator in order to specifically discuss the violation that has occurred and the need for immediate correction.

2. If the violator refuses to promptly correct the violation, or if the Zoning Administrator is unable to locate the violator, then the Zoning Administrator may send written notification to the property owner of the violation demanding that the use or structure be corrected.

3. If the zoning violation has not been corrected within a period of time determined by the Zoning Administrator, or if the Zoning Administrator reasonably determines that immediate enforcement is necessary, the Zoning Administrator may issue an appearance ticket to the violator. The ticket shall be in conformance with applicable law and shall contain the name or names of the violator end describe the illegal use, structure, or activity, and identify the Ordinance section being violeted. The ticket shall indicate a specified period of time to appear et the 90th District Court in Charlevoix to enter an appropriate plea or response pursuant to law.

4. Notwithstanding any of the foregoing procedures regarding prior notice, the Zoning Administrator may, upon determination that the public health, safety, or welfare is at risk, proceed directly with the issuance of an appearance ticket.

5. In the event that a zoning violator files a request for a variance, the enforcement procedures of this Section may be adjourned upon the determination of the Zoning Administrator, until e hearing is held on the variance request.

6. Nothing contained within this Ordinance shall limit the City's rights under general law to seek civil redress or damages, including circuit court injunctive relief.

The proposed Ordinance may be examined during regular business hours (8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.) on weekdays at the Office of City Clerk or Zoning Administrator in City Hall. All comments, written or oral, will be considered.

The traveler who approached Charlevoix from the north in 1887 had to cross the iron bridge in the foreground of this picture before reaching the center of town. Ralph Hamilton, who loaned us the picture, also writes about the Bridge Street in Winter picture we ran a couple of weeks ago: "Although years before my time, I do remember the iron fence in front of Major Green's residence (where the theater now stands). The kids used to make him mad by running along it with sticks."

Students skip cartoons to go beyond art class

Eight elementary students have been missing cartoons for the past few Saturday mornings. They've been busy painting, drawing, making slides, building scuptures, learning to print on fabric and make pottery.

The eight students are participating in a special art program sponsored by the Charlevoix School Enrichment Foundation through a grant from Christa Marie.

The enrichment foundation is a separate organization from the school, but cooperates with the school to offer students some educational opportunities they otherwise wouldn't have. Funding for foundation programs comes from donations, grants and fundraising efforts.

Area artists contributed their expertise to the art program which is running from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. for six consecutive Saturday mornings.

Barb Steele taught painting on the first Saturday. That was followed by Cara Hochhalter instructing drawing. Lori Bolt and Meredeth Krell showed the students how to make slides.

This past Saturday, Frank Hasseld worked with the eight students in making sculptures. Hasseld normally works with metal, but for classroom purposes the elementary students used wooden dowls, pieces of string, tacks, ropes and huge cardboard tubes.

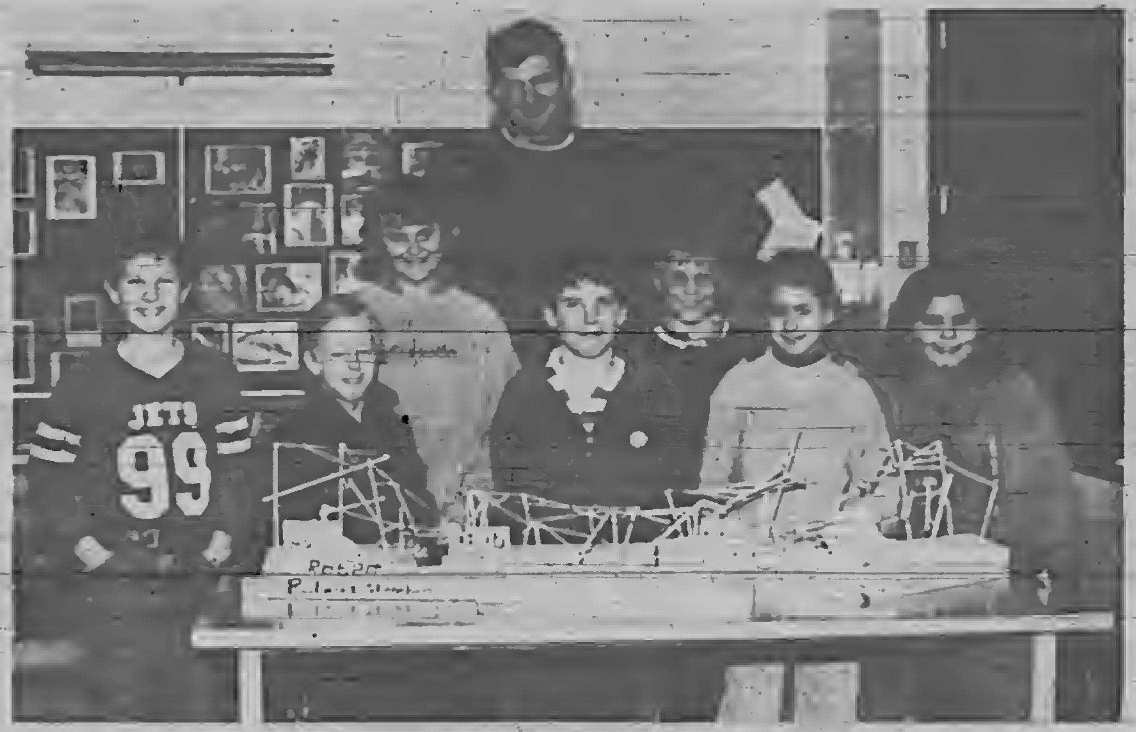
Hasseld instructed the students to make whatever kind of sculpture they wanted and not worry about whether anyone else would think it was good. If they were happy with their sculpture, then that would be good enough.

This Saturday, Bolt will teach fabric printing. The last class will be a trip to David Otis' pottery shop for a pottery lesson.

Among the goals of the art program are: developing creative thinking; providing a means of communication and self-expression; serving as an emotional release; and strengthening the student's self-concept.

Hochhalter said she would like to see the art classes expanded, or at least continued. She said the school art teachers do a wonderful job of getting Charlevoix young people interested in art, but there's a need to expand and nurture that interest and develop the students' artistic potential..

She added that utilizing area artists to instruct the students helps show young people that art can be a constructive channel for time and energy.



Eight elementary students are in the midst of a special Saturday morning art program sponsored by the Charlevoix School Enrichment Foundation. Area artists are offering instruction in several different varieties of art. This past Saturday, sculptor Frank Hasseld worked with the students on both large and small sculptures. Students in the program are (front from left) Kyle Russell, Robert Stoneham, Daniel Shaw, Jessica Babb, Kim McClellan, (back from left) Jaimie McKinney, Hasseld, Bob Sommerfeld.

Long-time Courier and News-Review writer Fran Martin died last Thursday. Over the years, she took thousands of photos of Charlevoix High School students. If you went through Charlevoix's school system within the past 25 years and Fran photographed you, you were "one of her kids." A recent yearbook was dedicated to her. Fran is shown with Angie McClanaghan, that year's yearbook oditor.

City may decline state grant

After applying for and receiving approval for a $17,500 grant from the state, the city coucil now is considering turning the grant down.

The grant in question is a 50-50 matching grant which would fund a pedestrian walkway beneath the south end of the bridge, similar to the walkway at the north end.

According to grant terms, the state would pay 50 percent of the cost of the project, up to $17,500. The city would pick up the other half of the cost, up to $17,500.

At Monday evening's council work session, councilmen Ken Whitley, Butch Russell, Norm Probert and mayor Gary Probert expressed reservations. They indicated the money might be better spent on sidewalks in other parts of the city.

During Monday evening's discussion, city manager Mike Wiesner indicated that were the city to accept the grant and go forward with the pedestrian walkway, work would begin in the spring and probably be completed by June.

Wiesner also said that although the estimated cost of the project is $35,000, it would not be surprising to have construction bids come in below that figure. He said if the grant is turned down, he is not sure state money would be available for the project in the future.

One benefit of the walkway would be allowing pedestrians to cross Bridge Street south of the bridge without weaving through traffic. It would also provide a walkway along the waterfront extending from Veteran's Park out to the south pier and Lake Michigan beach.

Ground-hog day is no big thing

Ground-hog day is this Thursday, but none of the ground-hogs I know are too excited about it.

It can't be that big of a thing. The Post Office isn't even closing.

According to the World Book encyclopedia, Ground-hog day is an import based on a custom brought to this country by people from Germany and Great Britain.

Legend has it that the ground-hog (also called a woodchuck by close friends) awakens from its long winter sleep Feb. 2. Then its head out of the hole in the ground where it lives and looks around.

If the sun is shining and the ground-hog sees his shadow, it scares him and he goes back in his hole and there's six more weeks of winter weather.

On the dimmer, but in a way brighter, side, if the weather is overcast and the ground-hog doesn't see his shadow, then he comes out of the hole and spring weather sets in.

"Science has not confirmed this," the World Book people note at the end of the section on ground-hog day.

There's no way science will ever confirm that theory if they study ground-hogs in Northern Michigan. Most ground-hogs around here don't even bother waking up for another month.

They know as well as the rest of us that winter's going to last for at least another month. Over the years, countless ground-hogs have been caught in the ugly blizzard that annually comes mid March; generally on the night of whatever happens to be the best high school tournament basketball game of the season.

A book entitled "Red Letter Days" by Elizabeth Hough Sechrist offers some additional insight into ground-hog day.

The book notes that in the western United States, badgers, not ground-hogs, are used for forecasting spring.

Badgers are more technical than ground-hogs. Instead of just looking at their shadows, they use big maps and babble on about such things as the jet stream and Alberta Clippers.

Scientific purists scoff at the notion of either the ground-hog or badger being prophets of weather. They know that the only weather forecasts a person can bank on is one involving of bumble bees and wooly bear caterpillars.

In many countries, Feb. 2 is celebrated as Candlemas, not ground-hog day. In celebrating Candlemas, members of the clergy bless candles and distribute them to the congregation in a beautiful ceremony.

For Northern Michigan, Candlemas and a nice warm candle would probably make more sense than standing around outdoors waiting to see a woodchuck.

Heart health linked to pizza

Operation Heart Start, a group attempting to raise enough money to fund two heart machines for the city ambulance department, is cooperating with Pizza Hut to kick off a fundraising drive next Monday, Feb. 6.

The heart machines are defibrillators and heart monitors. They would be placed on the city ambulance units and used for patients with cardiac problems.

The machines are used to shock a stopped or erratically beating heart and also to monitor and generate a record of what the heart does during the ambulance trip to the hospital. When the patient arrives at the hospital, the attending physician can use information from the heart machine records to aid in determining appropriate treatment.

Each heart machine costs approximately $7,200. The reason for getting two is so that if one is on an ambulance transferring a patient to either Petoskey or Traverse City, there will still be a heart machine remaining on the ambulance in town.

Operation Heart Start directors want to raise more than just the cost of the machines. Their goal is to raise enough money to pay for both the purchase and operational cost of the equipment. That way the heart machines won't have to be supported by tax dollars.

Pizza Hut is playing an important role in the fundraising kickoff Feb. 6. The Charlevoix Pizza Hut is donating half of their Monday sales revenue to Operation Heart Start.

Pizza Hut is also sponsoring an appearance by Dynamite the Circus Clown who will entertain at Pizza Hut from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. Monday.

There will also be a donation drive-through set up in the Pizza Hut parking lot from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Pizza Hut coupons will be given in return for cash donations and Heart Start pins will be available.

The lengthy debate over whether to preserve or tear down the old gray house at 108 Clinton was resolved once and for all last week when the house was demolished.

2nd place is "Pirates" booty

Charlevoix High School Performing Arts drama team scored straight 1's, with their presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's Pirates of Penzance, to take second place at District Drama Competition, and win a slot at the Regional Competition.

The 55 member team, scored 253 points out of possible 300, taking second place behind host school St. Johns. The two top finishers both move on with Division I or the highest ratings. Boyne City and Elk Rapids teams scored in Division II category and will also move on to regional competition. Regional competition is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 11. The site selection will be announced later this week.

Charlevoix also brought home a number of individual awards. Jason Wiser received a "Superior" acting award for his portrayal of the Captain of the Keystone Cops. F.L. Dammann won an "Excellent" acting award for his portrayal of Frederic, the young Englishman indentured to the pirates. Thirteen members of the team won a "Superior" acting award as an Ensemble, for their roles as "The Daughters." They are Barb McClanaghan, Marci Wynkoop, Kari Hartnett, Darsi Spencley, Christy Coolman, Michelle Jacobs, Stacey Skeel, Shelly Swegles, Barb Haggard, Natalie Jones, Chris Felton, Tammy Felton and Karina Stockholm.

A "Superior" Award was given to Jason Wiser, Andrea D'Angelo and Stacy Ketchum, for choreography of the Keystone Cops' scenes and a "Superior" for choreography was presented to Bob Sell, F.L. Dammann and Jordan Spencer for the pirates' dances.

Erosion problems recede with lake levels

by PEG OHLE

It is probably just as well that we can forget some of the unpleasant things in life.

The office file labeled "Erosion" is well over an inch thick. It hasn't been open much lately because the subject matter is no longer newsworthy—erosion along the shorelines of Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan has ceased to be a problem because the lake levels have almost returned to normal.

The "Erosion" file is full of information about meetings sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources and others on ways to protect homestead shorelines. It is also stuffed with communications from many officials citing the extent of erosion and the serious problems it was causing.

A report from the Sea Grant Institute dated March 6, 1986 stated, "With lake levels so high, the prospects for erosion and flooding now depend only upon the arrival and the severity of storms. The outlook is grim, with present water levels, any of the (Great) lakes can experience 100-year floods with only moderate storm-induced rises in lake levels...Private property owners who have some form of shore protection do not have adequate protection from storms with present and predicted water levels".

The same month, Larry Levengood, sanitarian with the local health department, wrote to the Michigan Office of the Great Lakes in Lansing:

"The majority of the properties fronting on the Lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix shorelines do not have municipal sewers available and therefore are served by individual on-site sewage disposal systems. These systems consist primarily of septic tanks and sub-surface sewage disposal systems. Many of these systems are presently endangered due to the high lake water levels. In some cases, the high water levels have caused systems to cease to function. In a number of other cases, the rising lake levels have caused the lake to be dangerously close to some of these systems. In other cases, erosion resulting from the lake levels and wave action has caused loss of soil which is critical for system cover and waste treatment. The impacts of these high water levels on these on-site sewage systems have caused a public health and safety concern."

And, also in March of 1986, State Senator Mitch Irwin wrote to Governor Blanchard:

"I am writing to respectfully request that you add the shoreline counties of Delta, Emmet, Schoolcraft, Chippewa, Manitou, Luce, Antrim, Charlevoix, and Cheboygan to your recent disaster declaration, so that communities in these counties may apply for relief funds to prepare for high water damage. Current high water levels in the Great Lakes have caused considerable damage to shorelines, wetlands, docks, marinas, and homes. While we are investigating long term solutions to reduce the high water and are also offering homeowner loans and other aid programs to all residents and counties, it does not seem equitable to exclude any county on the shores of the lakes from disaster declaration and connected funding."

All of the above happened three years ago. Now, the U.S.

REASONABLE TO ME

L. SCOTT SWANSON

Demolishing a subject of debate

About the middle of last week, I noticed that the old house at 108 Clinton Street was being torn down.

People on the outskirts of town may recall the exact second when I made this discovery. It was marked by a large white cloud of steam rising over Charlevoix; a cloud generated by the warm breath I exhaled in an enormous sigh of relief.

If I'd had to listen to one more debate at a council meeting over that old house, I believe I'd have gone home to fetch a wrecking bar and commenced tearing that place down myself.

Although my sigh of relief to see the matter resolved once and for all was fairly voluminous, it paled in comparison to the hot air expended debating what to do with that house. If Charlevoix has a localized drought this coming summer its cause will be surely be deemed atmospheric heating from the 108 Clinton debate; the gray house effect.

As I recall, the first 108 Clinton debate I sat in on occurred sometime last summer. From the onset, the differing views and points of contention were clear.

One group of people wanted the city, which had bought the house and lot, to arrange for the old house to be preserved and renovated. Then, only the back half of the lot would have been available for additional downtown parking.

Another group of people wanted the whole lot used for additional parking. If that meant tearing down the old house, so be it.

Renovaters contended it would be more aesthetically pleasing and better for city tax revenue to have a renovated house rather than a bigger parking lot.

Demolitionists argued that during the summer there's a parking shortage downtown and that problem could conceivably become even more pronounced in the future.

So we had two different points of view, each with its own merits and proponents. No matter what the council decided, half of the people concerned were going to be mad.

With no way to please everybody, a terminal philibuster set in. At seemingly every council meeting for a couple of months that old house was debated.

Not much changed from one meeting to the next. It was mostly rehash.

Finally, after it looked like the house might fall down before a decision was made, the council decided to tear down the house, but save the front 40 feet of the lot. That way a couple of big trees can stay where they are and the option of putting up a smaller building still exists.

Joy of joys. After an eternity, maybe even an eternity and a-half, of debate the 108 Clinton matter appeared resolved.

But wait! Not so fast!

Fast?

A group claiming the house had historical value resurrected the issue and squeezed another hour plus of arguing out of it. It was a good issue. No use letting it die quietly.

But after yet another round of chatter, the council stuck to their guns and decreed that any historical value the house had was outweighed by the need for parking.

Last week, as I photographed a bulldozer knocking down the house, history and parking were on my mind. I'm glad the debate over what to do with that old house is now history. I was tired of sitting parked in a chair and listening to people argue about it.

Letters to the Editor:

A tribute to Fran Martin

There is a deep sense of loss at the Courier this week because Fran Martin is no longer with us.

Ever since she moved to Grandvue Medical Care Facility last July we had hoped that one day Fran's typewriter would again begin turning out words of wisdom, love and good humor, but that was not to be.

The last time we saw Fran was on the afternoon of New Year's Eve. Just for fun, we took her one of those silly New Year's hats. and a horn. Fran didn't have enough breath to blow the horn but she put on the hat, stretched the elastic under her chin and gave us a big broad grin. That is how we will remember Fran Martin.

Fran was many things to many people, but to us in the newspaper business she was a model for accuracy, thoroughness and good will. We recommend Fran for any job on the Heavenly Herald. Heaven will be a better place because of her.

Pool keeps people active

Editor:

In my practice as a physical therapist at Charlevoix Area Hospital, on a daily basis I encounter the problems of people who are in the throes of making a lifestyle change. The lifestyle change they face is one of losing their independence and moving into environments away from their homes. These significant changes in their life are due; not so much to their chronological age, but to their physical age, their lack of ability to take care of themselves. Their increasing disability is frequently due to the long term process of deconditioning, which is brought about by a sedentary lifestyle. I very frequently encounter people who say to me, "I can't get up from a chair. What do you expect from a man who is 72 years old?" Many people, unfortunately, have the concept that losing ability to take care of yourself is a natural part of the process of aging.

In the course of my practice, I do meet a few people, who despite their advancing age, are physically fit. The difference between these people who have control of their lifestyle and remain independent and those individuals who face losing their independence, is often the amount of consistent physical activity that they perform. A variety of regular, consistent exercises performed throughout the calendar year, not only has beneficial effect on muscle, joints, and on the central nervous system, but it also has positive psychological effects helping people cope with stress, anxiety and depression.

There is currently in Charlevoix a movement to build a pool in the city. I am aware that several attempts have been made to establish and keep a pool functioning in this community. These attempts have been voted down at the polls. My understanding is that there is a large component of the older population that is resistant to developing a pool in the City of Charlevoix. This may be because they do not see the benefit of having the availability of another form of exercise for

Historians will miss Fran

Dear Editor,

On behalf of all members of the Charlevoix Historical Society, we wish to express heart-felt appreciation of the hours of service given to our organization by the late Frances Martin. Fran was always there for us in our public relation endeavors, and support in so many ways! She will be missed by all of us.

Fran Martin: a part of Charlevoix

"Beauty" and "courage" are two of the qualities friends ascribe to Fran Martin, who died Jan. 26 at Grandvue Medical Care Facility eight days before her 80th birthday.

Although she was a paraplegic for more than 55 years, Fran Martin worked as a reporter for the Petoskey News-Review and the Charlevoix Courier all of her adult life, an occupation which allowed her to maintain an independent lifestyle despite her handicap.

"She was a beautiful person," commented Hannah Corrigan, a former neighbor at Pine River Place when she learned of Fran Martin's death Thursday morning.

"I don't know how anyone could suffer so much and still laugh!" Corrigan marveled.

Courage was the word used to describe his former patient by Dr. Gilbert Saltonstall of Charlevoix, a retired physician who attended Fran Martin in the early years of her disability.

He said when he took over the case in 1934, Fran Martin was a patient at the old Charlevoix Hospital on Hurlbut Street and had been bed-bound for about a year. Saltonstall, who was fresh out of medical school, said he was unsure whether her injury would be aggravated if she sat up or used a wheelchair. He called his old neurology professor at the University of Michigan and was told that after so much time had elapsed it wouldn't hurt his patient.

But Saltonstall said it wasn't his decision that put Fran Martin back in the mainstream of Charlevoix life.

"She had the courage to do it herself," he said.

Saltonstall said he finds it amazing that Fran Martin survived so many years, considering the automobile accident that disabled her occurred in 1933 — years before the advent of antibiotics, blood transfusions and other life-saving medical procedures.

"She must have had very good care over the years," he said.

FRAN MARTIN, who was 24 at the time of her injury, seldom discussed the accident that changed her life. All she would say was that she had been thrown from an automobile, "there was one rock alongside the road and I landed on it."

The Petoskey Evening News dated July 7, 1933, reported that four young people from Charlevoix suffered injuries ranging from severe to minor the previous evening when their Ford roadster veered to miss an uncoming car on U.S. 31 east of Bay Shore. The right front wheel of the Ford slipped off the pavement and the vehicle rolled over several times.

The roadster was demolished and three of the passengers were taken to Petoskey Hospital for treatment. Fran Martin was described as having a broken back.

Saltonstall says that his patient actully suffered a severe spinal cord injury between the third and fourth lumbar vertebrae, paralyzing the lower half of her body.

At the time of the accident, Fran Martin was working at Charlevoix Hospital, having graduated as a registered nurse in 1930 from the St. Marys School of Nursing in Grand Rapids. Although she eventually was released from the hospital, her injury precluded further nursing duty. However by the mid 1930s she found herself a regular correspondent for the Petoskey Evening News and the Charlevoix Courier, working out of the family home on Nicholls Street.

She relied on a battery-operated wheelchair for transportation and never allowed her disability to interfere with the demands of her newspaper work.

BUNDLED IN A cloak and hood against a chill wind off Lake Michigan, Fran Martin ventured outdoors in all kinds of weather. She became a familiar figure throughout Charlevoix, reporting a basketball game, attending a meeting of the Charlevoix Board of Education or picking up news tips at the soda fountain of Williams' Dockside Pharmacy.

She remained a working reporter up until the last few months when failing eyesight, coupled with other physical problems, forced her to step aside. As recently as New Years weekend, however, she worked with other reporters in compiling the obituary of John T. Murphy, retired probate judge for Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

In addition to covering a number of local governing bodies, Fran Martin handled police and fire beats throughout Charlevoix County on a daily basis and wrote feature stories about area residents.

SHE WAS AN AVID sports fan all her life, although failing health prevented her from attending many sporting events in recent years. It was not unusual, however, to find an entire athletic team, still sweaty from the playing field, crowded into her tiny bedroom at Pine River Place to show her the ribbons, medals and trophies they had just won.

For many young players, Fran Martin's hearty praise was the best prize of all.

She also was on the telephone late at night jotting down scores and statistics from coaches throughout Northern Michigan — raw material for the next day's sports pages.

Although Fran Martin enjoyed all sports, she made no secret of the fact that professional football was her favorite. Friends knew better than to call her on the telephone when a pro football game was on television.

Fran Martin's constant companion was a well-worn 35 mm Konika camera which she carried to illustrate her newsstories. With a wave of her hand and a few sharp commands she was able to whip a field full of aspiring young quarterbacks into position for their team picture.

AMONG HER MANY news beats was the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners which she covered for decades. Often she was the only member of the public in attendance and commissioners sometimes used her as a sounding board for their ideas before adopting them as public policy.

Her long experience in government reporting gave a depth to her stories that was often lacking in the work of less experienced reporters.

"It is sad to see Fran go," commented I. Lee Moerland, longtime member and chairman of the Charlevoix board, "but she lived a tremendous, tremendous life. I've been proud to know her."

Moerland said he always admired Fran Martin's ability to overcome adversity, "for getting out and getting into the mainstream of the life of Charlevoix."

He also praised her reporting skills and said she used extreme foresight in the way she presented issues.

"I never felt it necessary to be concerned with anything she conveyed to the general public through her reporting," he added.

BEFORE MOVING to Grandvue Medical Care Facility last July 4, Fran Martin worked seven days a week from her hospital bed at Pine River Place. When she was handling a particularly difficult story, her bed lamp burned late into the night as she tapped out her copy on a portable typewriter perched precariously on her midsection.

Over the years, Fran Martin developed a warm rapport with the men of the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station and the cutters Sundew and Mesquite. It was no secret that she enjoyed their company as much as they enjoyed hers. She was always on the Coast Guard's VIP guest list for every change-of-command ceremony, awards presentation, picnic or party.

Fran Martin in return lent a sympathetic ear to the problems of young servicemen far from home. She also served as a real estate clearinghouse and could be counted upon to round up housing for newly arrived Coast Guard families who found themselves in Charlevoix without a place to live.

Coast Guard wives were so grateful for her assistance that they made her an honorary member of the Coast Guard Wives Club.

Service families were among Fran Martin's staunchest friends and many maintained a lively correspondence with her even though duty assignments took them to the far corners of the world.

SHE ENJOYED AN equally warm relationship with airmen at the former U.S. Air Force Bomb Scoring Squadron at Bay Shore. When the base closed Oct. 2, 1984, Fran Martin was among the guests at the farewell ceremony and was chosen to receive the last American flag to fly over the installation.

Fran Martin received many awards over the years, including the Liberty Bell Award offered by the Charlevoix-Emmet Bar Association in 1976 and a plaque from the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference in 1985 for her coverage of sporting events. The same year the Charlevoix High School yearbook, The Rayder, was dedicated to her.

Fran Martin served for many years as county representative of the American Red Cross. Her duties consisted chiefly of maintaining liaison between servicemen and members of their families in times of distress. If a serviceman were needed at home because of illness or a death in the family, the process of securing an emergency leave started with Fran Martin.

She also served as a member of the Charlevoix County Jury Board, a body which selects prospective jurors for Charlevoix County courts.

Although she worked all of her

KCB grant application fails

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful (KCB) recently received some bad news concerning a state grant application.

Last fall KCB applied for a $20,000 Neighborhood Builders Alliance grant to fund wooden edging around the community petunia beds. The edging would make maintenance easier.

However, when the list of grant recipients was released by the state last week, KCB was not on it.

KCB also had applied for two smaller grants concerning beautification of community entrance signs and hiring a summer director. Those applications also failed.

Despite the grant application failure, KCB will still have a summer director, but the position will be funded through other means.

In other KCB matters, the organization is gearing up for the annual petunia planting. This year there will be petunias of five different colors planted.

Band boosters host dinner

Charlevoix Band Boosters will host a spaghetti dinner from 4:30 to 7 p.m., Friday, Feb. 17 in the high school cafeteria. The dinner will take place prior to the Winter Homecoming basketball game against Rogers City.

As at all spaghetti dinners, the featured item on the menu will be spaghetti. There will be a choice of sauces, one with meat and one without. Other menu items include salad, dessert and a beverage.

Tickets to the dinner may be purchased from band students and band boosters at a cost of $2.50 for students, $3.50 for adults and $12 for a family.

Proceeds from the dinner will go into the band boosters' new uniform fund.

life as a news reporter, Fran Martin never gave up her first love — nursing. From time to time she would assist the staff of District Health Department No. 3 as a record-keeper during mass inoculations of school children.

A LIFE-LONG Democrat, Fran Martin served for a time as chairman of the Charlevoix County Democratic Committee and was elected to several terms as county drain commissioner. Oftentimes she was the only Democrat holding a county office.

As a Democratic standard-bearer in a largely Republican county, Fran Martin developed a warm relationship with state government officials during Democratic administrations.

She enjoyed telling how the late Gov. G. Mennen Williams, escorted by a caravan of State Police cruisers, stopped at her home on Nicholls Street one day. After the governor left, a breathless delegation of neighborhood children stormed into her bedroom demanding to know who her visitor was and whether or not she had been arrested.

She also developed a warm friendship based on mutual respect and admiration with Richard Austin, Michigan's longtime secretary of state.

Fran Martin's handicap usually kept her close to home, but she managed to make a number of trips to Beaver Island in the 1970s, wheeling her electric chair onto the cargo deck of the Beaver Islander for the 2¼-hour Lake Michigan crossing.

"The islanders are among my best friends and I know the island like the palm of my hand," she explained during her first visit in 1974. "I know where the Shamrock Bar is, where McDonough's store is and who lives where. But I just want to see it all for myself."

One of her most memorable newspaper columns told of a voyage to the island during particularly rough weather. The same day, a local bakery was shipping a multi-layered wedding anniversary cake to the island on a wooden pallet. Every time the ship pitched, the cake inched closer to the unyielding automobile.

Alone on the cargo deck and unable to stop a collision between the cake and the car, Fran Martin watched the grim senario in wide-eyed fascination until a deckhand arrived on the scene unexpectedly — just in time to rescue the cake.

Endowed with a robust sense of humor, Fran Martin recounted the story in one of literally thousands of personal columns she wrote for the News-Review and the Courier over the years. Entitled "Odds and Ends" and "Et Ceteras," the columns covered a wide range of topics, from personal anecdotes, bouquets for jobs-well-done, observations on the weather and astronomy, human interest stories and cogent comments about sports, nature, politics and life in general.

The columns had a wide following throughout Northern Michigan, often triggering lively debates among her readers.

Before every major holiday, Fran Martin always used her column to urge readers to drive safely — a point on which no one ever challenged her expertise.

Hospital group has first meeting

"Last year 70 percent of the 194 hospitals in the Michigan Hospital Association lost money providing patient services, Spencer Johnson, president of the Michigan Hospital Association, told the first annual gathering of Charlevoix Area Hospital Lighthouse Club members Jan. 17.

Johnson outlined reasons for hospitals problems as: 1. The hospital business is changing. People are not spending as much time in the hospital and, in many instances, outpatient services are being used instead of admission to the hospital. 2. Hospitals are getting less reimbursement from both the Federal Government and from other payors such as Blue Cross. Medicaid reimbursement, he said is only 82 cents on the $1, or, for every dollar spent on patient care, the state pays 82 cents.

Johnson pointed out that five years ago hospitals could operate with a 10 percent margin and be able to take care of the indigent, and keep up with services and technology. "But that margin is not here anymore," he said.

In addition, Michigan has the highest medical malpractice liability insurance in the nation, he said, and this adds to the cost of medicine in this state.

"Because of philanthropy, that 70 percent of Michigan's hospitals which lost money was reduced to 35 percent. Philanthropy was the critical difference for 35 percent of those that lost money. In the last five years 11 hospitals closed in Michigan, and when a community loses a hospital it loses medical personnel and the opportunity for economic development; you lose the fabric of your community," he said.

He urged continued community support, both financially, and by speaking out to legislators about the importance of maintaining health care facilities. "Health care is not the number one priority with government right now, but we must help move it up on their agenda," he said.

The Lighthouse Club was formed in the spring of 1988 and now includes 150 members who donate $100 or more to the hospital annually. The reception was held at the Grey Gables as a thank you for the support this group has given Charlevoix Area Hospital in the past year.

Army Corps of Engineers, in the Great Lakes Levels Update, dated January 4, 1989, states:

"In retrospect, the year of 1988 ended the history of record high water levels in 1985, 1986, and early 1987. The contrast in 1988 was drought and below-average levels. Those who live, work and recreate on the Great Lakes have in recent years experienced again their tendency to fluctuate".

Lake Michigan began 1988 nearly a foot above long-time average. A warm spring caused these lakes to peak in May, almost two months earlier than normal, and then the drought caused levels to tumble throughout the summer and early fall. In July, they were below average for the first time in the last 11 years. November's heavy rain brought levels to near average, and at the end of 1988, the lake levels were just slightly above average.

The dollar damage to the shoreline of Lake Michigan (and Lake Charlevoix, which is considered part of the "big" lake), according to the Army Corps, amounted to $62 million in the years, 1985-1987, and for the whole Great Lakes system, the damage amounted to $290 million.

FAMILY

Wieland - Leake

Tamara Marie Wieland and Robert James Leake exchanged marriage vows in a candlelight ceremony Friday evening, December 23, in the Barnard Methodist Church.

The bride, who is the daughter of Tom and Ardeth Wieland of Charlevoix, has been living in Layton, Utah. The bridegroom, who is the son of Frederick and Irene Leake of Huber Heights, Ohio, is stationed at Hill Air Force Base, Utah, as an air traffic controller.

Approximately 75 guests were present as the bride's father escorted her to the altar and the Rev. Mark Filonczuk read the double ring rites. For the occasion, the church was decorated with spruce, cedar, and pine boughs; poinsettias, spider chrysanthemums, tulips, and gerbera daisies.

The bride wore a princess style white satin gown adorned with pearl beading and a French style veil of illusion adorned with pearl fleur-de-lis. She carried a candle decorated with Christmas greenery and baby's breath.

Joleen Rigan assisted the bride as maid of honor, and Deidre Cox and Cheryl Dorvinen were bridesmaids. They wore jade green tea-length satin gowns trimmed with trapunto and carried candles decorated with Christmas greenery and small pine cones.

The bride's sisters, Janna Wieland and Wendy Wieland Novak, served as greeters at the church.

Randy Cox assisted the bridegroom as best man, and Dan Rigan and Dale Dorvinen were groomsmen. Tim Wieland, brother of the bride, and Bruce Novak, brother-in-law of the bride, were ushers.

Traditional Christmas music was played during the ceremony.

The Wieland family hosted a reception at the Barnard Grange Hall following the wedding. The wedding cake, decorated with holly and fleur-de-lis, was cut by Mr. and Mrs. Cleave Lockhart.

The newlyweds will take a wedding trip to Florida in March. Their address is 4539 South 3850 West, Roy, Utah, 84067, near Salt Lake City. The bride is employed as a physician recruiter for CompHealth in Salt Lake City.

Hospital info booklet available

An informational booklet titled "Charlevoix Area Hospital, it's Physicians and Services" is being made available to the public free of charge upon request.

The booklet features biographical information and pictures of the physicians on the Charlevoix Area Hospital active staff. In addition, it describes the various services offered at the hospital. The goal of the booklet is to acquaint those who are new in the area with the health facility and physicians who are taking new patients. Clubs and organizations are invited to request multiple copies for their members.

For a copy of the booklet call or write Nancy Ellison, Charlevoix Area Hospital, 547-4024.

Dana J. Nemer

Dana J. Nemer, 29, of Charlevoix and Canton, died Jan. 25, 1989, at his Charlevoix home.

A funeral service was held on Thursday at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix.

Mr. Nemer was born Aug. 7, 1959, at Mt. Clemens. He was a blues harpist, musician and songwriter and led a band, Dana James and his Blues Survivors in the Detroit area. Mr. Nemer was an accomplished musician and well know in "blues" circles in the Midwest.

He is survived by: his mother, Mrs. Betty Ran of West Bloomfield and Charlevoix; his father, Donald Nemer of Phoenix, Ariz; one son, Jesse Nathaniel Nemer; his fiance, Nancy Murray of Canton; three brothers, David Ferguson of Madison Heights, Daniel Nemer of San Francisco, Calif. and Darien Nemer of Oak Park; his maternal grandfather, Egbert Morrison of Flint; an aunt, Margie Cooper of Royal Oak.

The family suggests memorials to the Mental Health Association in Michigan, 15920 W. 12 Mile Road, Southfield 48076.

Fran Martin

Frances A. (Fran) Martin, 79, of Charlevoix, longtime reporter and columnist for the Petoskey News-Review and the Charlevoix Courier, died Jan. 26, 1989, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility, East Jordan.

Funeral was held on Saturday, Jan. 28, at St. Mary's Catholic Church. The Rev. James K. Gardiner officiated and burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Fran Martin was born Feb. 3, 1909, in Charlevoix, the daughter of John and Clarabelle (Ruckle) Martin. She grew up in Charlevoix and attended Charlevoix public schools, graduating from high school in 1927. She then attended St. Mary School of Nursing in Grand Rapids and became a registered nurse in 1930. She was a practicing nurse at Charlevoix Hospital until injuries from an automobile accident in 1933 left her confined to a wheelchair.

In the mid-1930's, she began her career as a regular correspondent and reporter for the Petoskey Evening News and the Charlevoix Courier. During her newspaper career she reported on sporting events, civic, school and community meetings for the city and county of Charlevoix and also wrote a weekly column under the heading "Et Cetera."

She received many awards, including the Liberty Bell Award offered by the Charlevoix-Emmet Bar Association in 1976 and a plaque from the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference in 1985 for her coverage of sporting events. The same year, the Charlevoix High School yearbook was dedicated to her.

Survivors include four brothers, James, Patrick and Phil, all of Charlevoix and Frank of Newport, R.I.; four sisters, Mrs. Irene Supernaw, Mrs. Phyllis Gill, Mrs. Sara Cummings, all of Charlevoix and Mrs. Winifred Gregory of Petoskey; and a half sister, Margaret Swensen of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, Charlevoix High School track team or St. Mary's Catholic Church.

A rosary was recited on January 27 at Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix.

Shrove Tuesday pancake supper planned

The annual Shrove Tuesday all-you can eat pancake supper will be hosted by the Men's Club of Christ Episcopal Church from 5 to 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 7. Pancakes, sausages and Esther Carey's homemade applesauce will be served.

Tickets are $3 for adults, $1.75 for children under 12, $2 for senior citizens and $10 for family.

Everyone in the community is invited to the pancake supper. The church is located on the corner of Clinton and State.

County receives money for two buses

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week approved a proposed budget for 1989-1990 operations of the County Transit System amounting to $359,784,

Financing for the Transit System during this period would come from four sources, as follows:

Federal funds, $35,978; state funds, $173,910; local funds (one-quarter voted mill), $89,896; and passenger fares, $60,000.

These figures indicate that passengers riding Transit System buses would contribute approximately 16 and two-thirds percent of the cost of providing each ride. The other 83 and two-thirds percent would come from tax money.

The County Board also approved an application to the State Department of Transportation for grant money for the Transit System amounting to $103,176. This would cover the cost of two replacement buses at $98,770, a power vehicle washer at $1,400, and a microwave oven for use by employees at $400.

SPORTS

Richard Greco (left) of Canada caught a 16 pound brown trout last year which was the biggest fish caught during last year's Charlevoix Trout Tournament. Taxidermy of the fish was done by Jeff Lutz (right) of Lasting Memories. Lutz donates free taxidermy of the largest fish caught each year in the trout tournament.

Trout tournament plans going snag-free

Although the 1989 Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament is still more than five months away, the tournament board of directors is getting geared up for the event now.

June 9, 10 and 11 have been selected as the dates for the fifth annual tournament. For the first three years of the event, it was scheduled in May, but bad weather hampered success. Last year the Trout Tournament took place in June and things went much better.

Once again there will be $30,000 in prizes at the tournament. Jim Withers, from the tournament board of directors, says the board has decided to keep prizes limited to a total of $30,000. That figure makes the tournament appealing, but not appealing enough to draw in a flock of professional tournament fishermen.

The philosophy of the tournament is to provide fishing fun for everyone for a three-day period. Boundaries of the tournament are in Lake Michigan from Norwood to Penn Dixie and all of Lake Charlevoix.

Brown trout, lake trout, steelhead and salmon are the four separate categories in the tournament. Tournament judging is based on the size of fish caught rather than quantity of fish caught.

Withers said the purpose of the tournament is good, selective fishing not depletion of the area fishery. With that in mind, the legal limit for a tournament entry is an 18-inch fish as opposed to the state limit of 10 inches.

Registration fee for the tournament is $20 for adults and $10 for children 14 and under. All entrants receive a hat and a Stinger lure. Each entrant also has an opportunity for $10,000 which will be given away.

Last year part of the proceeds from the tournament, in conjunction with volunteer labor, were responsible for construction of a fish cleaning station near the Ferry Avenue Beach launch ramp.

The annual trout tournament benefit dinner is scheduled for April 22 at the American Legion Hall. Tickets will go on sale in March and are expected to go fast.

Members of this year's tournament board of directors are: Dave Juilleret, Jim Withers, Sherry Withers, Gary Spencer, Jerry Rakoczy, Bill Tache and Terry Weber.

Sponsors of this year's tournament are: Dilworth Boat Shop of Charlevoix and Boyne City; Walstrom Marine of Harbor Springs; Davis Chevrolet-Nissan boats and motors of Charlevoix; Stinger Lures-Advance Tackle of Boyne City; Small Engines Unlimited of Charlevoix; Electrical Concepts North, a division of Wilmot Electric of Charlevoix; Grand Bay Marine and Brokerage of Charlevoix; Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau of Charlevoix; Bellinger Marine of Charlevoix.

Each sponsor has donated merchandise worth more than $1,000.

For additional information on the tournament, call 547-2101.

Wrestlers take third place

In something of a plesant surprise, Charlevoix wrestlers finished third behind Grayling and Petoskey in this past Saturday's Michigan Huron Shores League wrestling meet.

Charlevoix wrestlers Scott Novotny and Jamie Monteith won individual league titles, Novotny in the 130 pound weight class and Monteith at 171.

Grayling, the defending league champ, and Petoskey, a solid class B team, were expected to be the powers coming into the league meeting.

Charlevoix has had an inconsistent season, occasionally looking good and other times looking pretty bad.

But had a good day at the league meet. Coach Greg Bryan noted that if a couple of things had gone a little differently, Charlevoix might have totalled even more team points although still not enough to overtake the top two teams.

Novotny won his two preliminary matches on an 8-4 decision and a pin. In the finals, he beat an opponent from Sault Ste. Marie 13-7.

Monteith won his semi-final match 8-0 and dominated a Grayling opponent in the finals enroute to a 14-5 win. Monteith's season record is 29-1-1. His only loss was to the Grayling opponent earlier in the year.

Other Charlevoix wrestlers placing high were Brian Livingston, Jason Whitley and and Paul Cunningham.

Livingston finished second in the 135 pound weight class, losing in the finals on a pin.

Whitley pinned in his first two opponents in the 152 pound weight class. Whitley lost in the finals on an injury default. His opponent was injured and unable to continue the match.

Cunningham lost to a Grayling opponent in the finals on a pin.

Winning one match for the Rayders were Chris McCallum, 119, Shawn Young, 125, Brian Darrah, 145, and Rob Mervyn, 160.

Winter carnival sliding up on us

Wax those skis, crank up the snowmobiles and hold on to those inner tubes for dear life, Charlevoix's Winter Carnival 1989 is set to go Feb. 11 and 12.

Charlevoix has had a winter carnival off and on for years, but last year the event kind of caught fire. There were approximately 500 people out at Mount McSauba to witness the Thundertube races.

Thunder tube races involve sliding down Mount McSauba on special inner tubes. They're not for the faint of heart.

Thundertube registration starts at 6 p.m. Feb. 11 with preliminary races starting at 7 p.m. The finals will start at 3 p.m. Feb. 12. Participants must be 16 or older. The registration fee is $15 per three person team. All fees will be returned in prizes.

Registration for the dual slalom races starts at noon, Feb. 11. Races start at 1 p.m. Registration fee is $2 and there are several age divisions.

Registration for the snowmobile hill climb begins at noon, Feb. 12. Gentlemen will start their engines around 1 p.m. The entry fee is $15 per sled and all money will be returned in prizes.

All events take place at Mount McSauba.

City recreation director Dwight Boss said the winter carnival is just one facet in an overall attempt to promote Charlevoix in the winter. He said the carnival attracted a good crowd last year and was listed in some this year's tourist magazines.

"We've attempted to promote it and get it to grow. And it is," Boss said of the carnival.

Rayders lose to Gaylord in double overtime

The Charlevoix basketball team took a tough double overtime loss 54-52 to Gaylord last Friday evening. With the loss, Charlevoix is 9-4 overall and 4-4 in conference and pretty much out of the race for the conference championship.

Charlevoix led for most of the game. They were up 16-13 after the first quarter, 30-24 at the half and 39-33 going into the fourth, and what normally would be the final quarter.

But Gaylord rallied in the fourth quarter, drawing even with three minutes to go. Charlevoix retook the lead and had both the lead and the ball with 1:26 left. However, following a missed shot, Gaylord scored to tie the game at 46 all at the end of regulation play.

In the first overtime, Charlevoix led twice, but missed three shots which could have won the game. The first overtime ended in a 50-50 tie.

In the second overtime, Gaylord drew first blood, but Charlevoix tied. Following a Gaylord lay-up, Charlevoix missed a three-point attempt at the buzzer allowing Gaylord to win.

Charlevoix's offense was guard oriented with Mike Himebauch leading the team with 16 points and Jason Corwin 10. Shawn Putman also found the basket with consistency as he contributed 15 points.

Webb Friedly and Bob Jess, who normally are among the Rayders leading scorers, were held to a total of seven points. Friedly had a frustrating evening, fouling out early in the fourth quarter.

Charlevoix's junior varsity improved their season record to 12-1 with a victory over Gaylord.

This Friday evening, Charlevoix will break out the dog-sled and head north to Sault Ste. Marie. Sault Ste. Marie is tied for the league lead with Petoskey, but earlier this season Charlevoix upset the Blue Devils.

Volleyball team loses

Charlevoix's volleyball team had nothing but bad luck Jan. 25 as they totalled only 14 points in losing three straight games to Sault Ste. Marie.

Although Charlevoix had the home court advantage, it wasn't good for much as they were defeated 15-4, 15-9 and 15-1. The loss dropped the Rayders' season record to 3-4 overall and 2-2 in conference.

For the Rayders, top setters were Billie Jean Habel, Tricia Sutton and Inga Meisser, top servers were Laura Wilmot, Meisser and Becky Melke; best defensive players were Habel, Nika Martin and Tonya Gruenewald; best offensive players were Melke and Ann DeGrow.

The junior varsity team brought their season record to 5-2 as they beat the Sault two out of three games. Scores were 15-6, 15-12 and 3-15. Charlevoix's top setters were Stacy Tilton and Ann Marie Hogan; top servers were Tilton and Michele Lundy; best defensive players were Sue Melke, Lundy and Valerie Russell; best offensive players were Sonja Carlisle, Tammy Holm and Lundy.

Charlevoix will play in Elk Rapids at 9 a.m. Saturday morning.

BUSINESS

Pam and Ron Siwicki have purchased the former Duffy's restaurant and will be reopening it in mid March as Alexanders. The restaurant will feature Italian food, but will also have Greek salads, ribs and other items on the menue. Helping the Siwicki's close the deal were realtors Gene Ostling (left) and Richard Lobenherz (right).

Duffy's sale finalized

Sale of the restaurant formerly known as Duffy's was finalized early this week and the establishment will be known as Alexanders when it opens in mid-March.

New owners are Ron and Pam Siwicki, formerly of Holly. Pam has been in the restaurant business for approximately 20 years. Ron has a background in business, specifically in the electrical business.

The new restaurant will feature an Italian style menue with lasagna, spaghetti and pizza, but will also serve ribs and Greek salads. The business will continue to have a liquor license.

"We're excited. We're relieved that we finally closed on it," Pam Siwicki said Monday. She credited Vacation Property Network realtors Gene Ostling and Richard Lobenherz for going the extra mile in helping them with the closing.

BIDS WANTED 209

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS
Pine River Channel Water Main and Electric Conduit Crossing
City of Charlevoix, Michigan

Separate sealed bids will be received at the office of the City Manager, City of Charlevoix, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720 until 2:00 p.m., prevailing local time on Wednesday, February 15, 1989, for the construction of a subaqueous water main and electrical conduit river channel crossing, and then at said office publicly opened and read aloud.

The work consists of constructing the following:

1) A 12" ductile iron water main crossing, including 560 L.F. of river crossing pipe, 200 L.F. of restrained joint pipe, and two fire hydrants, and various valves and appurtenances.

2) Two blank conduits for future electrical lines, each conduit consisting of approximately 600 L.F. of 4½" O.D. polyethylene pipe to be furnished by the Owner and concrete anchors.

Contract documents may be examined at the following locations after January 25, 1989: Gosling Czubak Associates, 5625 West Fourteenth Street, Traverse City, Michigan 49684; Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan; and the Builders Exchange at Traverse City, Michigan.

Copies of the contract documents may be obtained from the office of Gosling Czubak Associate (address above, phone number 616-946-9191), for a non-refundable plan fee of $20.00 for each set, payable to Gosling Czubak.

Each proposal shall be accompanied by a Bid Bond in the amount of 5 percent of the bid. No bidder may withdraw his proposal within 90 days of the bid opening. A Performance Bond and a Payment Bond, each in the amount of 100 percent of the contract price with a corporate surety approved by the owner, will be required.

The City of Charlevoix reserves the right to accept or reject any proposal, and to waive any irregularities in any proposal.

themselves, thinking perhaps this a "frill" or something that only youngsters use for recreation.

I would like to point out to these people that having a swimming pool available gives them an additional opportunity to exercise and keep themselves healthy and strong physically and mentally, and keep them one step further away from losing their independence to the effects of a sedentary lifestyle. A well rounded program of at least three times a week, walking, swimming cross country skiing, bicycling or calisthenic type exercise is a step toward keeping people in control of their lives at home where they want to be.

Older people develop problems, such as not being able to get out of a chair or climb stair steps or walk any distances, just because they do not do them often enough. Swimming provides another tool to keep themselves healthy.

I very strongly support a swimming pool to be built in Charlevoix because it has great benefit that crosses all age lines and all physical conditions.

Don't let the cold get you down

Isn't it curious that we often prepare our cars for winter but ignore our own bodies? People need winter care, too. When you work, play or do even simple chores outside this time of year, you run the risk of frostbite, hypothermia and overexertion. And stress and depression during our long winter months may be more than a mild case of "winter blues."

Now, there is WinterCare. A new, free booklet to make sure that the cold weather this winter doesn't get you and your family down. WinterCare is filled with information on getting in shape for winter, identifying and preventing frostbite and hypothermia, and overcoming the "winter blues." You'll also get a wind chill guide and find out why women are more sensitive to cold than men.

The booklet also provides information on serious health problems brought on or complicated by severe cold — problems like winter asthma, Raynaud's disease and cold urticaria.

WinterCare is provided free of charge by physicians affiliated with Michigan HealthSource and HealthAccess. See the list below or call for the participating physician nearest your home or work.

Middle school initiates paper recycling program

While others are complaining about the solid waste problem and wondering what to do next, the Charlevoix Middle School has made a move. They've initiated their own school paper recyling program.

A few weeks ago, middle school library director Tom Sothard, principal Dennis VanGuilder and teachers in the school began discussing the possibility of recycling paper in the middle school and found support for the idea among the students and staff. School board member Larry Levengood represented the board at a recent middle school staff meeting and the board also supports the recycling effort.

To begin with, the middle school is simply collecting paper for recycling.

"What better organization than the school to recycle paper?" Sothard said. He points out that paper is a primary educational tool and that as an educational institution the school is an ideal place for students to learn about recycling.

Middle school paper collection is nothing complex. Last Monday, cardboard boxes were put in all the classes near the regular waste baskets.

Eighth grade students Mindy Noirot and Anne Schairbaum say the paper collection is about as simple as throwing something away, it's just that papers go in the recycling box instead of the waste basket.

They mentioned that the only papers students hesitated to put in the recycling box are personal notes they send back and forth to each other. But they're working that out too. Personal notes are either scrunched or torn up before being thrown in the box.

In some classes, the students have decorated the boxes.

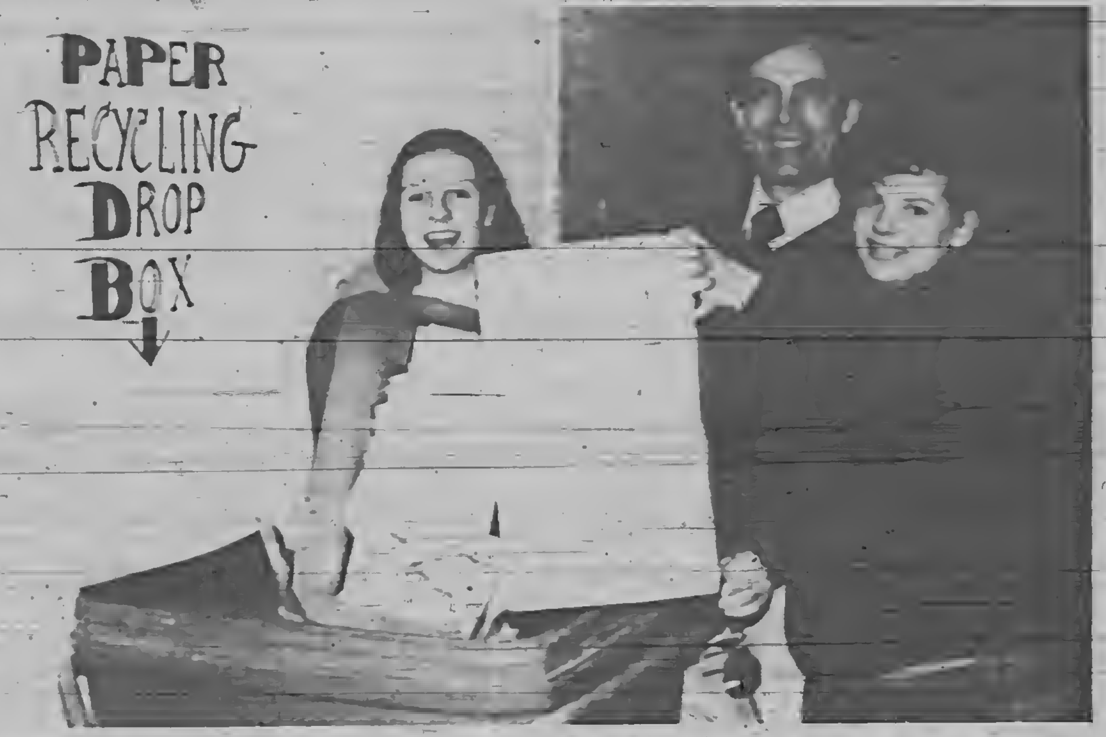
"The teacher told us you had to be able to notice it," Schairbaum said of one box which has a striped design.

When the boxes are full of paper, they are dumped in a large container in the custodian's room. When enough paper is collected to fill a van, a trip is made to a Central Lake recycling transfer station. From there, the paper goes to a recycling center in Traverse City.

Sothard says he hopes that other local institutions will see the middle school's example and look toward recycling in managing their own solid waste. It is possible that in the near future Charlevoix will have its own recycling transfer station.

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's recycling committee is sponsoring a meeting concerning future Charlevoix recycling efforts this Saturday. A recycling transfer station is likely to be one of the things discussed.

In addition to the hands-on learning of the paper recycling program, sixth, seventh and eighth grade students received introductory lessons concerning recycling's environmental and economic impact. Several seventh grade English students wrote essays based on recycling.



Eighth graders Anne Schairbaum (left) and Mindy Noirot (right) empty one of the middle school classroom paper recyling boxes into a larger container. Last week the middle school students and staff initiated a school recycling program. In the background is middle school library instructor Tom Sothard.

Temperatures dropped and stayed dropped for much of the past week. Most of the harbor froze with only a path of unfrozen water at the channel for the ducks to swim in.

Building plan rejected

By a 5-1 vote, city councilman turned down a revised plan by Charlevoix Development Company to remodel a building at 212 Bridge Street, also known as the Burnside Building.

Councilmen turned down the plan because it would add a side door on the north side of the building where there is a narrow sidewalk at the edge of Bridge Park.

Councilman Ken Whitley said that if the park was private property, he was sure people wouldn't be allowed to traipse across the property to go shopping.

Sherry Hoffman, who appeared in support of the plan with Arch Wright, pointed out that there's an existing sidewalk where the proposed door would be.

The door would not open onto the sidewalk, as it would be recessed into the building. Wright said the purpose of the remodeling is to allow two retail businesses in the building instead of one as is currently the case.

Cinema Three theater owner Bill Supernaw supported the remodeling plan. Regarding people crossing the park to get to a commercial establishment, he said that people already cross the park to get to the boat company ramp.

Councilman Norm Probert said that approving the development plan might open a can worms with other people who have property adjoining park land.

The pageantry of homecoming

A winter homecoming at Charlevoix High School was initiated back in the mid-1970s and has become a tradition.

This year's winter homecoming is scheduled for next week with various activities leading to the climactic crowning of the king and queen at halftime of the basketball game, Friday evening, Feb. 17. Charlevoix hosts Rogers City.

For many years there was only fall homecoming and just a queen; no winter homecoming and no kings.

The pageantry of halftime ceremonies during the fall homecoming football game was the main inspiration for a winter homecoming.

The queen and her court are the center of the football halftime festivities. They are carted out onto the field in some of the shiniest convertibles in town. Then thev get out of the cars and in high-heeled shoes which weren't designed for football fields do their best to look graceful and lovely as they trip and stumble to their seats.

Little kids holding purple pillows bring the queen flowers and an ominous looking sword. A queen just isn't a queen unless she wields a little clout and power and anyone with a sword commands at least some respect.

Given a choice of listening to a coach's halftime speech or planning a kiss on the cheek of the lovely queen, two sweaty football team co-captains tell their teammates to take good notes and vacate the locker-room.

Bitter cold weather is the norm for homecoming weather and gowns that homecoming queens wear just don't allow for a full set of long underwear to be worn fashionably beneath. The cold, combined with the tension of the moment, leaves the queen all aquiver as she accepts kisses of homage from the football co-captains.

Following the smooching, the two young gents kneel before their queen for dubbing. This is where the sword comes into play. The queen uses it to tap the football knights on the shoulders.

Given the aforementioned shivering of the queen, the dubbing is a pretty tense moment for the kneelers. If things go a bit awry, the third quarter could start with a one-eared fullback.

But all in all, the homecoming halftime ceremony provides a beautiful and touching scene; so beautiful and touching that in the mid 1970s, Charlevoix decided we could do with two homecomings each year instead of just one.

A chance for public to consider waste plan

by PEG OHLE

What shall we do with 465,000 pounds of solid waste day after day?

Charlevoix County's plan for disposal of its garbage and other solid waste during the next 10 years will be presented to the public at a hearing Tuesday evening, March 7, at 7:30, in the County Building Annex.

The Solid Waste Management plan was prepared over a period of almost two years by a 14-person committee appointed by the County Board of Commissioners. In effect, the plan is an update of an earlier plan. Counties are required by law to update their plans every five years, which is the process Charlevoix County has just completed.

Updating and rewriting the plan this time took longer than usual because there was a difference of opinion among committee members about how large a geographical area should be permitted to use the Charlevoix County Landfill in Eveline Township.

The county's updated Solid Waste Management Plan relies on this privately operated landfill as the major disposal site for its waste, as have earlier plans.

In recent years, solid waste from all over northern Michigan has been accepted by landfill owners, a practice that has disturbed many county residents who fear land, water, and air pollution from such concentrated use of the landfill.

This concern about over-use was held by some members of the committee updating the plan. They started out with the idea of permitting only Charlevoix County and an adjoining county, either Antrim or Emmet, to use the landfill. This brought criticism not only from other northern counties, but from the landfill owners, who said they could not economically operate the landfill with such a limited customer potential.

During the two years of working on the plan, committee members were asked to provide for expansion of the landfill from 40 to 100 acres. This request was turned down, but later, another request, to dig the waste disposal basins deeper and pile the waste higher, was granted.

In the end, to insure ready access to another landfill in case something happens to the Charlevoix facility, the committee decided to permit the landfill to accept waste from six counties on a reciprocal basis: Emmet, Antrim, Crawford, Otsego, and Presque Isle, as well as Charlevoix.

Crawford and Otsego Counties have a jointly operated landfill which Charlevoix County could use in case of an emergency, and Presque Isle County is in the process of building one.

Emmet County was included in the plan because they have a transfer station from which solid waste is transferred both to the Charlevoix landfill and the Crawford and Otsego County Landfill.

Therefore, Charlevoix County could use the Emmet County transfer station in an emergency. Antrim County was included because much of the solid waste from the northern part of this county already comes to the Charlevoix County Landfill while the rest goes to the Crawford and Otsego Landfill.

During the time Charlevoix County's Solid Waste Management Plan was being written, the Charlevoix County Landfill was sold by Dawson Way, a member of the committee, to Waste Management, Inc., an international company owning hundreds of waste hauling companies and waste disposal sites.

Charlevoix County's Solid Waste Management Plan also considers means of waste disposal other than landfills. One alternative is recycling of paper, metals, glass, plastic, and oil.

Recycling, of course, is based on separation of waste materials, which leads to two sentences in the solid waste plan, "If all generators of wastes in Charlevoix County were to practice waste separation, it would be possible to recycle all wastes entering the landfills today with the exception of foundry sands and ash resulting from the coal burning power plant at Advance. We do not believe it is feasible at the present time to eliminate all wates going into landfills."

The one recycling project that has been successful in the area is the newspaper collecting project of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club. Kiwanians maintain an old wooden building on State Street as a collection point from which newspapers are transferred for recyling into other papers. Charlevoix County has applied for a grant from the Clean Michigan Fund with which to build a larger building on county property where the Kiwanis Club could store both paper and plastic materials before being transferred.

County Planner Larry Sullivan, who worked with the committee updating the solid waste plan, has also been in contact with other recycling organizations in an effort to have them expand their services to Charlevoix County.

The County Solid Waste Management Plan also discusses material recovery processes, energy recovery opportunities, landfill gas recovery, reducing volume of waste by shredding and baling, and composting, all of which are considered as having practical aspects of waste management for Charlevoix County in time to come.

Transfer stations are also provided for in the plan: one on the present landfill site or along M-66 between East Jordan and Ironton, one on Beaver Island, and one along U. S. 131 in Boyne Valley or Melrose Township.

Persons attending the public hearing will be encouraged to ask questions and state their views about the Solid Waste Management Plan. The plan must be accepted by the County Board of Commissioners and two-thirds of the cities and townships in the county before being sent to the State Department of Natural Resources for final approval.

Here's some good news for all those wonderful people who have supported tbe new Clarence Odmark Pavilion! Fran Tollas will be in charge of scheduling entertainment in East Park this summer. And who could do a better job than Fran?

"There are so many talented musicians in this area, we will have no problem scheduling entertainment at noon and on weekends from May through October," says Fran. She's watched the programs-in-the-park grow in Petoskey over five years from once a week to 39 programs last summer.

Besides having a lot of enthusiasm, Fran has a degree from the University of Michigan where she majored in music history. She teaches music and drama at the Friendship Center, voice at the McCune Arts Center, and conducts a children's choir program at the Congregational Church. She's on the board of the Little Traverse Chamber Singers and conducts many workshops in our area. She also enjoys performing locally.

She's particularly proud to be the recipient of 6 grants from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Speaking of grants, when the Jordan River Arts Council receives its grant, plans are afoot to schedule the Peacemeal String Band and the Stepsisters (cloggers) in East Park, on July 22.

Fran has an impressive list of entertainment pending, such as special children's programs of jugglers, puppeteers and storytelling; Patti Clark's group called the Blue Circle; the Pine River Four, a barber shop quartet; Phil Harrison who sings and plays the guitar and who's repertoire includes folk, jazz and country western music; the Northern Michigan Choral group composed of 75 voices; and hopefully, a talented gospel singer from downstate.

"The park is a wonderful showcase for talent. Programs often lead to engagements and entertainers like that."

She has also planned an alternate site in case of rain.

Contributions to complete the new pavilion are still needed and anyone wishing to make a donation may send their check to: Robert Hoffman, CPA, 203 Mason St., Charlevoix 49720.

Two recent city council decisions form something of a matched set in that they both were bad.

By a 4-3 straw vote Jan. 31, councilmen decided to turn down a $17,500 matching grant from the state to construct an underbridge walkway at the south end of the bridge. Councilmen Ken Whitley, Butch Russell, Norm Probert and mayor Gary Probert were the four who voted to reject the grant.

By a 5-1 vote Monday evening, councilmen scorned a planning commission recommendation and denied a development plan submitted by the owners of the Burnside's building. Councilman Bill Haggard was the lone voice on the council supporting the plan. Mayor Gary Probert only votes in ties.

Rejecting the grant for the underbridge walkway, was shortsighted and although possibly penny-wise, in the long run will probably prove pound-foolish.

The estimated cost to construct a walkway under the south end of the bridge is $35,000. The state approved a city grant request, in effect agreeing to pay 50 percent of the project cost, up to $17,500.

Jan. 31, three councilmen and the mayor decided to turn down the grant because they'd rather spend the city share, which would be up to $17,500, on other sidewalks.

From the state's standpoint, that decision must look peculiar. In effect what's happened is the city asked the state for money, the state said "OK" and the city replied, "Just kidding, We really don't want it."

A south underbridge walkway would provide a continuous walkway along the waterfront from the Chamber of Commerce out to Lake Michigan Beach. It would also allow pedestrians to safely cross Bridge Street without walking over to the north end of the bridge or to the stoplight.

Both year-around and summer residents enjoy strolls along the waterfront. A south underbridge walkway would be such a nice addition to the community that despite the council decision we'll probably have one within a few years. But instead of the state paying half, city taxpayers will foot the whole bill.

Proposed modifications to the Burnsides building would allow two shops instead of one in the building and add a side entrance onto the sidewalk in Bridge Park.

The five councilmen who shot down the plan didn't want a business entrance onto the park sidewalk.

Doubtless the councilmen felt they were protecting the public's interest, but from what? Granted, a business entrance onto that sidewalk would mean more people walking on the sidewalk. But what does that hurt? That's what sidewalks are for.

Perhaps councilmen were concerned that if they allow a side entrance to the Burnside Building they will be allowing private businessmen to benefit due to their building's proximity to a public park and sidewalk.

True. That's exactly what would happen. But again, so what? As long as the private businessmen aren't benefitting at public expense, there shouldn't be a problem.

When local businessmen, whoever they may be, come up with something which will make their business more profitable, but won't hurt the public the council should pat them on the back, not jerk them around and hinder them.

A competition that's taxing

Filling out tax forms is something I view as a challenge, a competition of sorts.

I'm a competitive person. Generally speaking, I enjoy competition. But when it comes to filling out tax forms, I engage in the competition only reluctantly. My reluctance is born of sense of impending doom, an eerie feeling that as I enter the annual game of tax preparation I am once again going to get shellacked big.

Do a pregame analysis of the tax game competition. See how the two sides stack up going in.

On the one side, the visiting team if you will, there is the Internal Revenue Service, also known as the IRS, one of those intimidating letter agencies. The IRS is the fund collecting arm of the federal bureaucracy, a bureaucracy with huge office buildings filled with an army of thousands of employees and technologically advanced computers and machinery. The IRS is armed with forms, schedules and a multitude of booklets.

On the other side, the home team, is me. Sitting at my kitchen table, I have a sharp pencil, a $5 calculator and some

Death brings marital surprise

How well do you know the person who shares your bath and bed?

I recently heard a strange tale — and a very sad one — about a supposedly happily married couple.

It also left me with a very perplexing question:

Who can you trust if you can't trust your spouse?

This couple had a comfortable year-round home in the suburbs of a large southern Michigan city and a weekend retreat on a picturesque trout stream in Northern Michigan.

Their interests were similar — ranging from the fine arts to a deep appreciation of the outdoors.

Both worked.

She had been married before and brought two sons into her new marriage. He was childless but treated her boys as his own.

The one major difference between the two was that she enjoyed handling the family finances — paying bills, making investments, filling out tax forms.

He didn't like paperwork, preferring to work with his hands.

THEY HAD BEEN married quite a while — 20, maybe 25 years — when she was diagnosed as suffering a terminal disease. Family and friends were devastated as the illness took its toll. Late last year she died.

The metropolitan newspapers ran beautiful obituaries, underscoring her interest in children and her contributions to the community.

Then came the reading of the will.

This beautiful woman's husband was shocked to find that his wife had left him virtually penniless.

Although both had contributed to the purchase of their home, she apparently had registered the house in her name only. Under terms of her will, he may continue to live in the house — and continue to make mortgage payments — until such time as he remarries.

Then the house must be sold and the proceeds turned over to her sons.

ALTHOUGH HE HAD designed the Northern Michigan retreat, and built it with his own hands, that property also was in her name. The will stipulates that it must be sold, with proceeds from the sale going to her sons.

In short, the wife in her last will and testament literally stripped her husband of all his property.

At an age when most fellows have acquired a modicum of security through property holdings, this guy, who must be about 60, could find himself without a roof over his head — should he decide to remarry.

Even if he continues to live in the house and make the mortgage payments, it will never be his.

How could this happen? I have no idea.

I imagine that he assumed he and his wife had joint ownership of both properties. It probably never occurred to him to question her about it. Furthermore, she was the one who handled all the peperwork.

After all, hadn't they made a mutual pledge to love, honor and cherish each other?

Obviously he assumed too much.

DOES HE HAVE any recourse?

I don't know. He has been encouraged to hire a lawyer to challenge the will, a move which could well drive a deep wedge between him and his foster sons — the boys he raised as his own.

From what I know of the guy, he is too much of a gentleman to make trouble.

As for remarrying — he probably won't, considering the disastrous consequences of his previous union.

I am particularly chagrined to think that this sweet and loving wife had the gall to attempt to regulate her husband's life from the grave. If this weren't her goal, why did she require him to forfeit the family home if he remarries?

C'mon, now! At this point, what possible difference could anything he does make to her?

I don't know why she left such a vicious legacy to the man she had sworn to love.

But even in her death throes, she must have reveled secretly at how well she had managed to provide for her children after her demise.

records I've kept to the best of my ability.

I can see the writing on the wall. This is an opponent who is going to kick my butt.

But gamely, I begin the contest. I fill in my name, let 'em know that I'm "married-filing jointly." At least my wife's on my side in this. She digs out household records as I need them.

I try different tactics as the game proceeds. Maybe I could deduct this or that. I consult with the rule books, which of course are written by the opponent.

I experiment with different forms, 1040A versus 1040. Last year, I filled out the 1040A so they sent me one of those this year. I didn't know if I wanted to do that again. If I get too routine in my approach, the opponent will know my next move before I do.

So I figured I'd try the 1040. Earlier in the week, I'd picked up a booklet that said 1040 on it. I assumed there would be a 1040 form inside the booklet. Afterall, there'd been a 1040A form inside the 1040A booklet. Silly me, the 1040 form comes separate from the booklet.

I hopped in the truck and took a ride down to the Post Office. They had 1040 forms and some schedules. I wasn't sure if they were schedules I was going to need, but just to be on the safe side, I grabbed two or three of everything.

Then I went home and redid all my figures, this time using the 1040 instead of the 1040A form. This involved filling out schedule A and figuring out some two percents and three percents where applicables.

In the end, there turned out to be a $15 difference in the amount of federal taxes my wife and I would pay, depending upon which form we used.

Granted, $15 might not seem like all that much. But any victory is big when you're in the ring with an opponent as formidable as the IRS and the federal bureaucracy.

A different kind of entertainment is offered on Thursday, Feb. 16. People who enjoy playing cards – bridge, canasta or gin rummy, may get up their own table and head to Birchwood Country Club at noon. Here they will be served a lovely Smorgasbord salad luncheon and each table wins a prize. The charge is $10 per person, ad the funds go to support Harbor Hall. This Peotskey treatment center for those who abuse drugs and alcohol, serves men from both Charlevoix and Emmet County. The women's auxiliary has done a bang-up job of providing exercise equipment and other conveniences to help make the program a success. Letters to the Editor:

Questions raised about Hayes zoning

To the Editor:

I have sent the following letter to the Hayes Township Planning Commission:

I believe that all land in Hayes Township should be available to all people, in sizes that are affordable, provided the land is used in a reasonable way.

But what is reasonable land use?

Originally (after the ice age receded), trees grew on the land and a reasonable use of the land then was to cut the timber that grew there, for the lumber industry.

The top soil that lay over the glacial till of gravel, sand, and clay was not very thick, but was adequate for a while to make it possible for farmers to make a living, after the trees were cut. The top soil, particularly in Hayes Township, however, is rapidly giving way to nothing, making it hard for farmers to continue making a living.

You will note there are many, many acres of ex-farm land all around us in our township that are no longer being used for agriculture. Yet we still have the land zoned as Agriculture – a land use that is not really practical anymore, a concept no longer realistic.

I would like to suggest that the 10-acre zoning in Hayes Township for land zoned Agriculture be changed, then to two-acre zoning, with some larger areas reserved for recreational use. I think this ex-farm land should be available in reasonable quantities at affordable prices to everybody — make it possible for more people There are beautiful views on some of the hills, and pleasant wooded areas that would easily respond to two acre zoning.

Such zoning should not only make it possible for more people to enjoy our township living, but would also in a very material way, help our ex-farmers, or part-time farmers, who are relatively land poor, to realize some enjoyment of wealth by selling parts of their land for a more reasonable and realistic land use.

Finally, I wish to remind you that the rich, down in the Lake Charlevoix area, already have their land zoned in two acre parcels. Why should the upland farmers be penalized?

I hope we can go for a corrected two acre zoning for all parts of our township -- equitable for all -- and for a more reasonable and practical use of land.

Hayes Township is considering two new Rural Residential classifications, RR-1 and RR-2, in its zoning ordinance. RR-1 zoning would require a minimum of five acres and RR-2 would require 10 acres. They are also considering a change in the Agriculture zoning classification which would make minimum lot sizes 20 acres instead of the present 10.

Ski rates too high

Editor,

Although the saying "Part of your pay is the view of the bay" is accepted in most situations here, does it know no boundries? For most of us we choose to live here, does it know no boundaries? For most of us we choose to live here in this tranquil, lovely setting to provide a wholesome atmosphere in which to raise our children. But what about our children? Why are their needs so easily ignored? Are our priorities as a community only to bring in downstate dollars?

If we continue to cater to the rich, we will have a larger portion of our children with nothing to do but drink and drive. What are they worth to Charlevoix?

Whether you charge $3.50 or $7.00, Mt. McSauba is still a hill, lovely, but a hill.

FAMILY

Katherine Postmus-Jeff Kavanaugh

Postmus-Kavanaugh

Dr. and Mrs. Roger W. Postmus of Ann Arbor and Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Katherine Jane, to Jeffrey Scott Kavanaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kavanaugh of Ridgefield, Connecticut.

The intended bride is also the granddaughter of the late Capt. and Mrs. Hubert Paddock of Charlevoix. She graduated from the University of Vermont with a bachelor of science degree in nursing and is presently employed as a graduate registered nurse at the University of Iowa Medical Center in Iowa City.

Her fiance is also a graduate of the University of Vermont, with honors in biochemistry. He is presently a Ph.D. candidate in the biochemistry department of the University of Iowa.

The wedding is being planned for August 19 in the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

Garden Club to hear of birds

"I know a big blow or snowstorm is on its way when all the finches start crowding around my bird feeders," says Edith Close, a Charlevoix resident with a life long interest in birds.

This bit of lore and others will be shared with fellow members of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club at its Tuesday, February 14 meeting at the home of Marjorie Dinwiddie.

An appeal 12 years ago by the Kalamazoo Audubon Society for assistance in counting and tracking migrant birds from November through April led Mrs. Close into what has become nearly a full time hobby.

She put up several feeders in her yard, bought books about birds and collected birds' nests and eggs. An exhibit developed from her collections won her an award several years ago from the Michigan Federated Garden Clubs. The exhibit is frequently borrowed for district shows.

She is in demand by schools and organizations to talk about her observations of bird behavior. She has a store of humorous anecdotes about the interaction of different varieties of birds and squirrels and rabbits.

Something new Mrs. Close noted this winter for the first time is the arrival of orange, or house, finches. As yet, she has no explanation for their appearance in this region.

In her talk Mrs. Close will include information received recently about attracting birds in the summertime. Previously she presented a program on wintertime feeding of birds.

Co-hostesses for the 1 p.m. meeting are Portia Crawford and Lucy Witthoeft.

Wolf-Ritchie engagement

Carole Wolf

The engagement of Rosemary Carole Wolf and Jerry Lee Ritchie is being announced by her parents Mr. and Mrs. James A. Schindler, of Hamilton, Ohio.

The intended bride is also the daughter of the late Howard (Dick) Wolf. She graduated from Charlevoix High School and is presently attending the University of Cincinnati, studying to be a social activities director.

Her fiance is a graduate of Fairfield (Ohio) High School and is employed by Dyna-Con Packaging, Inc.

The wedding will take place April 7.

Senior Citizen CPR

The Charlevoix Senior Citizens Center is offering lessons in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and the Heimlich maneuver. They are being held Wednesday mornings from 8 to 10 o'clock in the main room of the V.F.W. Hall on U.S. 31 North. Further information is available by calling 547-5351 between 9 and 3 o'clock.

School will survey public

Charlevoix Public Schools, with the help of community service groups, will conduct a random phone survey Feb. 21 between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

"It's just to find out how the taxpayers feel that we can improve the schools," superintendent Gordon VanWieren said.

Members of service organizations will be calling a random sample of registered voters in the Charlevoix School District. VanWieren said at least 420 people will be surveyed.

It will take between five and 10 minutes to answer all of the questions on the survey. People surveyed will be asked questions pertaining to: where they get information about the school; what other information they would like to have; what they see as the biggest problem facing the school; what they feel the school's strong points are; if there should be a minimum requirement test prior to graduation; how people feel about a community pool; how people feel about a community theater and center for the arts.

"We appreciate people's cooperation (in responding to the survey) because we get some real meaningful information," VanWieren said.

Charlevoix schools have done similar surveys about every other year for the past several years. Some other schools in the area have copied the program.

"Taxpayers own the schools and we need to know what they want from the schools," VanWieren explained.

Recycle North executive director Nancy Hunter (left) and WATCH executive director Michelle Rick-Biddick display some of the recycling education material promoted by the two groups.

Recycling meeting Saturday

A grassroots effort to spur interest in recycling in the Charlevoix area is being planned by the recycling committee of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Saturday, February 11, beginning at 1 p.m. in the Weathervane Terrace conference room.

"We're inviting not only interested persons to this meeting but also representatives of local government, business, education, churches and other environmental groups to seek their advice on setting up a recycling program here," explained Michael Greeley, chairman. "Later on we hope to arrange a County-wide conference on recycling.

Greeley said that a FOCUS program on recycling last fall plus efforts by Petoskey and Charlevoix churches to encourage reducing, re-using and recycling various products indicates a re-awakened concern for the environment and a willingness to take steps to protect natural resources.

For further information, contact Greeley at 547-6541.

Oddfellows lead in cribbage

At the end of five weeks of play in the Masons-Oddfellows cribbage tournament, the halfway mark, the Oddfellows lead by 248 points.

There were six and a half tables in play last Thursday evening. Russell Lewis was high man for the Masons, with 950 points, and Hap Cunningham was high man for the Oddfellows with 967 points.

The tournament will resume tomorrow (Thursday) evening at the American Legion Hall.

WATCH - Recycle North promote recycling

Recycle North and WATCH (Water and Air Team Charlevoix) are cooperating in two recycling education programs aimed at elementary school students.

One of the programs is called "The New 3 R's." As opposed to the traditional three Rs of reading 'riting and 'rithimetic, the new three Rs are reduce, reuse and recycle.

"The New 3 R's" consists of a collection of ideas for elementary classes. In developing the program, Recycle North, an organization promoting recycling in Northern Michigan, tried to generate educational activities which will blend in with subjects currently taught.

Some sections included in "The New 3 R's" are: haiku environmental poem-writing, nutritious snack recipes, class trips, habit checklists and facts and statistics on trash.

Instructional packets of information on the program are available from Recycle North, which is based in Petoskey. WATCH has donated $300 toward the printing and distribution of the packets.

"Treasures From Trash" is a 30-45 minute program consisting of a skit, slide show and song. There are two versions of the program, one for grades K-3 and a second for grades 4-6.

Tip of Mitt membership increases

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council ended 1988 with a record increase in membership. The Council now has 1,750 members, a 37 percent increase over 1987.

"Our continued growth in membership indicates a high level of support for the Watershed Council's activities," states Martha Lancaster, Membership Coordinator. "In our early years, most of our members were lake front property owners. With the expansion of our focus to groundwater protection in addition to lakes, streams, and wetlands, many non-riparians are supporting the Watershed Council, too."

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council was founded in 1979 with the goal of protecting water resources in Emmet, Charlevoix, and Cheboygan Counties. The Council's services include educational programs and publications, monitoring lake water quality, reviewing activities which might impact water resources, and advocating the wise use of water resources.

The Council has recently received a grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation to develop a groundwater educational and protection program. This program is intended to protect the groundwater supplies used for drinking water by most Northern Michigan residents.

Pool committee still talking

The Swimming Pool Steering Committee continues to meet to discuss the possibility of constructing a community pool. The committee's most recent meeting took place Feb. 2.

Several questions concerning the proposed swimming pool will be included in a school phone survey scheduled for Feb. 21. The results of the survey should give the committee a better indication of the level of community support or opposition to the pool proposal.

While awaiting survey results, the pool committee is looking at funding possibilities. The committee has indicated they would like to fund pool construction and operational costs through an endowment fund rather than a millage levy.

It would take a substantial fundraising drive to accomplish that goal. The committee has talked to fundraising experts and people who have been involved with funding of other pools.

The pool committee has set a target date of the spring of 1990 for groundbreaking on a new pool at the elementary school complex, but whether or not they have the money by then remains to be seen.

The committee has also been looking at operating policies and costs associated with other community pools.

The community of Tecumseh is completing work on a community pool. However the majority of the pool construction costs and a portion of the operating costs are being funded through a property tax increase.

Tecumseh voters approved a $1.5 million bond issue for construction and a-quarter of a mill for operations.

After construction, the cost of the Tecumseh pool including both operations and personnel is projected to be between $75,000 and $90,000 annually. Tecumseh proposes to pay those costs as follows: user fees and memberships $40,000; revenue from one-quarter mill property tax $43,000; gifts and contributions $7,000.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Floyd R. Henderson
East Upright Church of God

To every story there are two sides. On a coin there is a head and tail. Electricity has a positive and a negative. The Apostle Paul in the book of Ephesians, chapter four, writes about the Christian walk with a positive and negative approach.

In Ephesians 4:1-16 he deals with the positive of how to walk in the Christian life. The Apostle Paul might have used his apostolic authority. But he pleads "I therefore, beseech you" reaching back to all the blessings of salvation we enjoy which he had spoken of in chapters 1-3. He calls us to a positive walk. In the work walk he has said to control, take order of our behavior.

First, to "Walk Worthy" in a manner worthy of our vocation which we are called in Christ Jesus. Live up to your name Christian. With "Lowliness and Meekness" making "ourselves small in pride. Having a true estimate of ourselves for "Be Grace Are Ye Saved."

Bearing with the infirmities of others with love. Keeping the unity of the Spirit. Because we are all one body, one spirit and all have the same Hope, Lord, Faith and God.

In versus 17-19, Paul deals with the negative of how not to walk as becoming a Christian. Again he is saying to control, take order of our behavior.

Second, he said "Walk not as other gentiles walk" by their intellect (or mind). They lacked the clear settled principles of life. Their understanding was not rational. They were out of their minds and could not think straight. Walking in sin had made them ignorant and blinded their hearts. They had no love for God or hate of sin. They were "Past Feeling."

Third, in verses 29-32, Paul contrasts "Negative versus Positive" things in the Christians walk.

Put off the old man vs. put on the new man.

Put away lying vs. speak every man the truth.

Quit stealing vs. let him labor, working with his hands.

No corrupt talk vs. edifying talk.

Grieve not the Holy Spirit; put away bitterness, wrath, evil and malice vs. be kind; tenderhearted and forgiving one another.

What kind of a Christian are you? Are you a positive or a negative?

Young offenders face victims

by PEG OHLE

Probably the most remembered punishment any child ever receives is being forced to face a person he has wronged in some way–to be taken back to the drug store owner to confess he took a package of gum without paying for it, to admit to any angry neighbor that it was his rock that went through the basement window, or to tell a teacher he was the culprit who stole her lunch.

This kind of punishment is meted out frequently in Charlevoix and Emmet County through the Probate Court's "Victim-Offender Restitution Program (VORP).

Although the wrongs for which the court's young offenders are being punished are more serious than those mentioned above, the quivering, often tearful, face-up with their victims is much the same.

Bill Shumaker, who serves as volunteer coordinator for the program, tells about a boy who slashed the tires on 14 of his neighbors' cars. Eight of those car owners assembled in one of the homes to meet with the young offender, who, as he entered the meeting, said he might rather go to jail than hear his neighbors' tales of inconvenience and hurt. The rest of the punishment was paying $800 in restitution.

Two other boys who were caught setting false fire alarms had to meet with the local firemen to listen to them tell of the dangers of firefighting and how even traveling to a fire can be hazardous. The two boys spent much of the next couple of weeks working around the firehouse.

The young offenders are ordered by Probate Court to participate in the Victim-Offender Program if the victim agrees (and most of them do, according to Shumaker). Shumaker contacts the victim, goes over the case, then either he or one of the other VORP volunteers attend the meeting between the offender and the victim.

"Usually, we start out just by asking 'Why?', Shumaker explains. "It's usually a relief for the victim to find out that the offender didn't have a personal grudge against him, that he just happened to be the victim. Maybe it's because the offender was upset about something else, he was out looking for excitement, or he was teased into the offense by his buddies".

Kids don't understand that by destroying some ordinary looking object, they may be taking away from someone a lifetime of memories; they don't understand the cost of replacing a needed item or the inconvenience of being without it, Shumaker pointed out, but by the time they get through listening to their victims tell them about these things, their eyes are open.

These conversations often develop into the victim taking a personal interest in the offender, telling him to be sure to finish school, or to come back and visit–as a friend, not a vandal.

As noted above, these young offenders often pay court costs and fines, serve probationary time, or provide some kind of useful service for the victim. However, it is the face-up that is the tough punishment.

Shumaker believes that this program would work as well with adults as it does with teenagers, but not with hardened criminals. "This is not a program for hardened criminals," Shumaker said, "but what were the before they became hardened criminals? We could have helped them."

Shumaker points out that the repeat rate for offenders in VORP is only about two percent.

VORP was started in Charlevoix County late in 1985 and spread into Emmet County in 1987. In 1985, there were five matches of victims and offenders; in 1986, 18 matches; in 1987, 63 matches; and in 1988, 68 matches. Restitution paid by these young offenders has also increased through the years, from nothing in 1985, to $25 in 1986, to $1,825 in 1987, to $2,304 in 1988.

The VORP concept was born in Kitchener, Ontario, the brain child of two probation officers, according to Shumaker. It has spread throughout the United States (although the locations are spotty), and is being used in some countries in Europe as well as England. It has been widely promoted by the Mennonite Church, who have furnished about half of the volunteers.

Locally, the work of VORP is funded by a $5,000 Child Welfare Fund grant, the United Way, and the Rainbow Shop. Among those who have worked with Shumaker in the program are Ken Brill, Gilbert Fox, Bob Kayser, Earl Nelson, and Lois Kaley. Shumaker says they could use more volunteers not only for VORP but for Volunteers in Probation (VIP), with which he is also involved. The latter program provides diversionary activities for young people who could become offenders. Last week, Shumaker talked with high school students in both East Jordan and Boyne City in an attempt to enlist some teenagers as volunteers. He said the response was good.

Further information about both programs is available from Shumaker at the Probate Court office, phone 547-7215, or at his home, phone 347-2961.

Kiwanis Club to tap trees

The Kiwanis Club will begin tapping maple trees later this month. Trees on the odd number sides of streets will be tapped this year. In compliance with the desires of the city, the Kiwanis Club taps trees on even numbered sides of streets in even numbered years and odd numbered sides of streets in odd years.

If any residents do not want trees in front of their house tapped, they should post a sign to that effect.

WATCH offering scholarships

A Feb. 24 deadline for entering essays in the WATCH (Water and Air Team Charlevoix) scholarship competition is rapidly approaching.

The contest is open to all Charlevoix County high school seniors. A $1,000 and two $500 scholarships will be awarded.

"Environmental Quality of Charlevoix County: Past, Present and Future" is the subject for this year's contest. Essays must be typewritten, 1,000 words or less. Awards from the contest are to be applied to higher education at a college, university or vocational school of the student's choice.

For further information, contact Michelle Rick-Biddick, WATCH Executive Administrator, WATCH, P.O. Box 615, Charlevoix MI 49720.

Debaters finish fifth

Charlevoix debaters placed fifth among 31 teams in state finals competition this past weekend. Members of the team are (from left) Jason Wiser, Bob Sell, F.L. Dammann and David Salmonson. The performing arts drama squad will perform Pirates of Penzance in regional competition in Holland this weekend.

Five wrestlers advance to regionals

Led by district champions Jason Whitley and Jamie Monteith, Charlevoix has five wrestlers who will advance to regional competition Feb. 11 in Wyoming.

Whitley, wrestling at 152 pounds, and Monteith, at 171, both went 3-0 on the day.

In the finals, Whitley beat John Crawford of Rogers City 9-2. Earlier in the day, Whitley pinned his first two opponents. Whitley is 24-5 on the year and has 108 career victories.

Monteith dominated the 171 pound class. He warmed up during the prelims with a pin and a 9-0 decision. In the finals he beat Rusty Argue of Grayling 10-0. Monteith is 23-1-1 on the year and has 107 career wins.

Charlevoix's other three regional qualifiers are Scott Novotny, Brian Livingston and Brian Darrah. Novotny, like Whitley and Monteith is a senior. Livingston is a junior and Darrah a sophomore.

Wrestling at 125, Novotny finished second. He lost 4-0 in the finals to Bill Griffen of Benzie Central, the same wrestler who beat him in last year's district finals. Novotny is 27-6 this year.

Livingston took third place in the 125 pound class, winning three of four matches. Early in the day, Livingston was pinned by Kevin Moore from Pine River. Livingston avenged that loss in the match for third place when he beat Moore on a 16-1 technical decision. Livingston is 27-8 on the year.

Darrah, at 140 pounds, went 4-1 on the day, losing his third match. In his final match of the day, Darrah decisioned Shawn Rossow of Pine River 7-2. Darrah has a 25-12 record for the season.

Hoopers fade at end, lose to Sault

Charlevoix's basketball team fell by the wayside in the second half Friday evening as they lost to Sault Ste. Marie 67-50.

Sault Ste. Marie has an 8-1 record and shares the league lead with Petoskey. Sault's only league loss was to Charlevoix earlier in the season.

The host Sault Ste. Marie team was led by 6-foot-eleven-inch center Carl Anderson. Charlevoix doesn't have anyone too much over 6-foot and although they did what they could at Anderson's elbows, the Sault center was hands above the rest of the players and put in 33 points.

For Charlevoix, Webb Friedly had 16 points and 10 rebounds. Bob Jess and Shawn Putman each had 14 rebounds.

The loss dropped Charlevoix's season record to 10-5 overall and 5-5 in the Michigan Huron Shores League.

This Friday evening, Charlevoix will once again cross the bridge, this time to play St. Ignace.

Band will get new uniforms

Charlevoix Band Boosters will purchase new band uniforms in phases and have established a timetable for doing so.

The first new uniforms will be ordered perhaps as early as this month. The entire new uniform purchase will be completed by Sept. of 1990.

"This allows us to purchase some much needed uniforms now to get by and it gives us a little more time to raise the balance of the money needed," uniform committee member Don Voisin explained.

Currently, the committee is dealing with uniform companies to select a style that will meet the needs of the Charlevoix band's needs.

Primary considerations of the committee in selecting new uniforms are: look; versatility and durability. In regard to versatility, the committee is looking to find uniforms that can be easily fitted to individual band members and that can also be used in various weather conditions. Charlevoix's marching band plays at football games on bone-chilling autumn nights as well as at summer parades under the brain-frying sun.

By 1990, when the new uniform purchase is complete, the old band uniforms will be 11 years old. However, the main reason for purchasing the new uniforms is not the age of the old uniforms, but growth in the school band program.

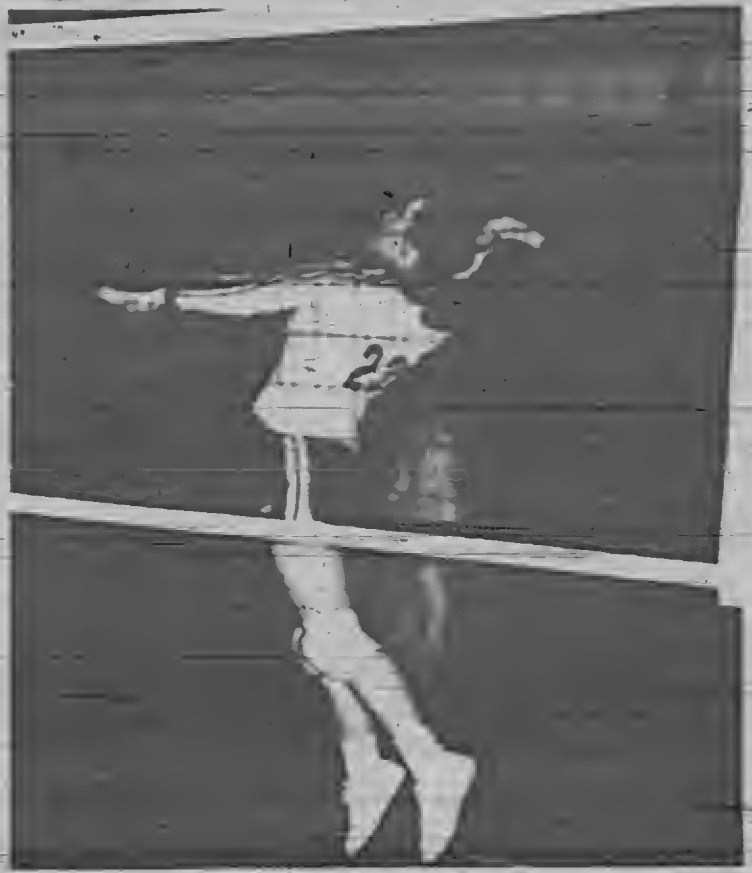
Charlevoix's high school band currently has approximately 80 members. Next year the high school band is expected to have slightly more than 100 members.

Voisin said that interest in band is growing and that the school music and band program is healthy. The middle school band is under the direction of Evelyn Wojcik while the high school band is directed by Terry Isenbarger.

The old band uniforms will not be discarded, but will be used by the middle school band. Recently, the middle school band has played at community events such as the Hoffmann Park dedication ceremony.

Voisin said the band boosters have already raised much of the money needed for the new uniforms and are confident they can raise the balance by Sept. 1990.

The next big fundraiser for the Band Boosters is the spaghetti dinner from 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m., Friday, Feb. 17 in the high school cafeteria. There will be a drawing for prizes in conjunction with the event.



Charlevoix's Becky Melke goes up high for a spike during Monday evening's volleyball match against East Jordan. Charlevoix took three of four games in the match.

Volleyball team splits two matches

Charlevoix's volleyball team split a pair of matches this past week, losing to Grayling, but coming back this Monday evening to beat East Jordan.

Charlevoix's volleyball team started strong against Grayling Feb. 1, but faded fast and ended up losing the next three games and the match.

Charlevoix easily won the first game 15-2, but then things turned around and the Rayders came out on the sad end of 15-4, 15-12 and 15-4 games.

Top setters for Charlevoix were Billie Jean Habel and Tricia Sutton, top servers were Tonya Gruenewald, Habel and Jody Kluczynski, best defensive players were Becky Melke, Marci Wynkoop and Kris Morrow while best offensive players were Habel, Wynkoop and Laura Wilmot.

Charlevoix's junior varsity won two of three games, beating Grayling 15-11 and 15-6 while losing the middle game 17-19.

Top Charlevoix setter was Stacy Tilton, top servers were Michele Lundy, Ann Marie Hogan and Julie Crandall, top defensive players were Lundy and Kasha Barrette and best offensive players were Tilton, Lundy and Melissa Eaton.

Against East Jordan, Charlevoix's JV team improved to 8-2 winning three straight 15-13, 15-13 and 15-9. In one game the JV Rayders trailed 13-6 before Michele Lundy served nine straight points for the victory.

Charlevoix took three of four games in the varsity match: 15-13, 14-16, 15-6 and 15-11.

Ski team peaking at the right time

Peaks are an important part of skiing and the Charlevoix ski team appears to be peaking at the right time. Charlevoix took both the boys and girls races Monday in a nine-team invitational at Crystal Mountain.

"This is going to to be a great confidence builder for us," coach Erik Lundteigen said. "We're certainly heading in the right direction. We've been improving all year."

Charlevoix will compete in the conference meet is this week and the regional meet next week.

At Crystal Mountain Charlevoix's boys took first place with 78 points. They were followed by Benzie Central with 84 points and Clare with 144.

The girls took first with 57 points, followed by Traverse City St. Francis with 78 points and Clare with 79.

Leading Charlevoix's boys in the slalom and giant slalom were: Charlie Witthoeft 1S, 2GS; Dan Bickersteth 4S, 15 GS; Chris Seymour, 9S, 12GS.

Leading the girls were: Heather Keller 8S, 2GS; Carla Hoffman 4S, 10GS; Cynthia Boydston 6S, 8GS.

New info received on an old fishing story

Over a year ago, the Courier ran a story about a group of local fishermen who left Charlevoix in 1910 for North Atlantic waters and the port of Gloucester, Mass. to try their luck at fishing with gill nets in that prime fishing area.

The Courier based its story on an earlier historical feature in the Gloucester News about the arrival of the Charlevoix fishermen and how they introduced gill-netting to their long-time Atlantic counterparts.

The names of some of the fishermen and the boats they sailed were missing from source material, but a nephew of one of the men supplied some information and a picture of the three boats and their crews.

Joseph Shores of Winchester, Wis. supplied the information that his uncle, Mike Shores, skippered the "Naomi Bruce" with crew members Albert Arnold, Cy Tysver, and Herm Tysver. He also identified another boat as the "Alice", skippered by "Big John" Nordum and Sam Halvorsen.

More recently, the Courier received a communication from Judy Willis of Port Sanilac, saying that the third boat was the "Ibsen", owned by William Lewis Smith, Philip Beaudean, and Peter Tysver, a brother of Cy and Herm Tysver. Willis says that Smith was her mother's father and that when her mother was seven years old, she and others in her family took a train from Charlevoix to Gloucester to join the fishermen.

"In 1914, William Smith and a new partner, Frank Brown, bought out the shares of Philip Beaudean and Peter Tysver and sailed again the St. Lawrence, returning this time to Harbor Beach, Mich. to fish," Willis wrote.

PUBLIC NOTICE
PROPOSED ORDINANCE — SIDEWALK ORDINANCE

The Charlevoix City council will hold a PUBLIC HEARING on a proposed Ordinance regarding Zoning Enforcement Procedure on MONDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1989 at 7:00 P.M. in City Hall, 210 State St. during a regular Council Meeting.

ORDINANCE

An Ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix by adding a new chapter, which new chapter shall be designated as Chapter 76, Title VII, Businesses and Trades of said Code.

The City of Charlevoix Ordains:

That Title VII, Chapter 76 of the Charlevoix City Code will read as follows:

Section 7.201. Findings and Purposes.

It is found and declared that:

A. The primary purpose of the public streets and sidewalks is for use by vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

B. Reasonable regulation of streets and sidewalks is necessary to protect the public health, safety and welfare.

C. The uncontrolled placement of tables and chairs, merchandise and goods, newsracks, planters and other articles and objects present an inconvenience and danger to the safety and welfare of person using such rights of way, including pedestrians, persons entering and leaving vehicles and buildings, and persons performing essential utility, traffic control, and emergency services.

D. Tables and chairs, goods and merchandise, newsracks, planters and other articles and objects so located as to cause an inconvenience or danger to persons using public rights-of-way constitute public nuisances per se.

E. The provisions and prohibitions hereinafter contained are enacted in pursuance of and for the purpose of securing and promoting the public health, safety, and welfare.

Section 7.202. Definitions.

For purposes of this Ordinance the following words and phrases shall be defined to include:

A. "Articles and Objects" - shall mean any thing or obstruction placed over or upon a street or sidewalk.

B. "Goods and Merchandise" - shall mean any items offered for sale to the general public.

C. "Newsracks" - shall mean any self-service or coin-operated box, container, storage unit, or other dispenser installed, used, or maintained for the display and sale of newspapers or other news periodicals.

D. "Sidewalk" - shall mean any surface provided for the use of pedestrians.

E. "Street" - shall mean all that area dedicated to the public use for public street purposes and shall include, but not be limited to, roadways, state trunk lines, and alleys.

F. "Tables and Chairs" - shall mean facilities provided to customers for food or beverages upon a public sidewalk.

G. "Planters" - shall mean any device used or intended to be used for display of non-artificial flowers.

Section 7.203. License Required.

It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to erect, place, maintain, or operate, on any public street or sidewalk, or in any other public way or place, within the Charlevoix City limits except on the street or sidewalk within the Bridge Street right-of-way (U.S. 31) between the highway bridge on the North and Hurlbut Street on the South, any article, object, or any other obstruction except under the conditions and in the manner presented in this Chapter. Provided, however, the Charlevoix City Manager may grant, pursuant to the terms of this Ordinance, licenses for the erection, placement, maintenance or operation of newsracks, tables, chairs, and planters on sidewalks within th Bridge Street right-of-way (U.S. 31) between the highway bridge on the North and Hurlbut Street on the South.

Section 7.204. Application for Permit

Applications for such permit shall be made in writing to the Charlevoix City Manager upon such form as shall be provided by the City and shall contain: the name and address of the applicant; the proposed specific location of the tables and chairs, newsracks or planters; and shall be signed by the applicant.

Section 7.205. Conditions for License.

A. As an express condition of the acceptance of such license, the licensee thereby agrees to indemnify and save harmless the City, its officers, directors, and employees against any loss or liability or damage, Including expenses and costs for bodily or personal injury, and for property damage sustained by any person as a result of the installation, use, or maintenance of tables and chairs, newsrack, planters, or goods and merchandise within the City of Charlevoix.

B. Licenses shall be issued for the installation of newsracks, planters, tables and chairs with prior inspection of the location but such newsracks, planters, tables and chairs, and the installation, use, or maintenance thereof shall be conditioned upon observance of the provisions of this Ordinance and upon such reasonable rules and regulations as may be established by the Charlevoix City Council from time to time by Resolution. Licenses shall be issued within two (2) working days after the application has been filed. An annual license fee of ______ dollars is required.

C. Such licenses shall be valid for one (1) year and shall be renewable pursuant to the procedure for the original applications referred to in Section 7.204 and upon payment of the license fee.

D. No license shall issue to an applicant, or any license may be revoked in the event the applicant or licensee is in violation of any of the provisions of the Charlevoix Code of Ordinance.

Section 7.206. Standards for Maintenance and Installation.

Any tables, chairs, planters or newsracks which in whole or in part rest upon, in, or over any public sidewalk shall comply with the following standards:

a. Shall be maintained in a neat and clean condition and in good repair at all times. Specifically, but without limiting the generality of the foregoing, all tables, chairs, planters and newsracks shall be serviced and maintained so that:

1. They are reasonably free of dirt and grease.
2. They are reasonably free of chipped, faded, peeling and cracked paint in the visual painted areas thereof. The structural parts thereof are not broken or unduly misshapen.

Section 7.207. Location and Placement of Newsracks, Planters, Tables and Chairs.

Any newsracks, planters, tables and chairs which rest in whole or In part upon, or in, or on any portion of a public sidewalk or right-of-way or which projects onto, into, or over any part of a public sidewalk or right-of-way shall be located in accordance with the provisions of this section:

A. No tables, chairs, planters, or newsracks shall be used or maintained which projects onto, Into, or over any part of the roadway or public street, or which rests wholly or in part upon, along, or over any portion of the roadway or any public street.

B. No tables, chairs, planters, or newsracks shall be permitted to rest upon, in, or over any public sidewalk, when such installation, use, or maintain endangers the safety of persons or property, or when such site or location Is used for public utility purposes, public transportation purposes or other governmental use, or when such use unreasonably Interferes with or impedes the flow of pedestrian or vehicular traffic Including any legally marked or stopped vehicle, the ingress into or the egress from any residence or place of business, or the use of poles, posts, traffic signs, or signals, hydrants, mailboxes, or other objects permitted at or near said location.

C. No tables, chairs, planters, or newsracks shall be chained, bolted, or otherwise attached to any fixture located in the public right-of-way, except to another newsrack, planter, table or chair.

D. No tables, chairs, planters or newsracks shall be placed, installed, used or maintained:

1. Within three (3) feet of any crosswalk.
2. Within ten (10) feet of the back of the street curb.
3. Within five (5) feet of any driveway.
4. At any location whereby the clear space for the passage way of pedestrians is reduced to less than six (6) feet.

E. The Charlevoix City Manager may establish by regulation the number and location of areas within the City of Charlevoix to be used for placement of newsracks.

Section 7.208. Exception for Annual Sidewalk Sales.

Notwithstanding anything herein contained to the contrary, the Charlevoix City Manager may allow the placement of goods and merchandise for retail sales each year for what is commonly referred to as Sidewalk Sale Days.

Section 7.209. Violations of Ordinance.

Upon determination by the Charlevoix City Manager that a newsrack, planter, table or chair, goods or merchandise, or other article or object has been installed, used, or maintained in violation of the provisions of this Ordinance, an Order to correct the offending condition will be issued to the owner or operator of said newsrack, planter, table or chair, goods or merchandise, or other article or object. Such Order shall be telephoned to said owner or operator and confirmed by mailing a copy of the Order by certified mail, return receipt requested. The Order shall specifically describe the offending condition and request the action necessary to correct the condition. Failure to property correct the offending condition within one (1) day (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays) after the mailing date of the Order shall result In the offending condition being removed and processed as unclaimed property. If the offending condition is not property identified by the owner or operator of the buisiness premises located Immediately adjacent to such section of the public street or sidewalk, said offending condition shall be removed immediately and processed as unclaimed property. The City Manager shall cause inspection to be made of the corrected condition or of any condition after removal under this Section.

Section 7.210. Revocation.

In addition to the enforcement procedures provided in Section 7.209 of this Ordinance it shall be within the power and discretion of the Charlevoix City Manager to suspend or revoke the license for continued or repeated violations or infractions of any provision of this Ordinance or any rule or regulation of the City of Charlevoix. Suspension or Revocation shall be mandatory for the third offense under Section 7.209 of this Ordinance.

Section 7.211. City Manager's Designated Representative.

"City Manager" as used in this Ordinance shall include his or her designated representative.

Section 7.212. Separability.

If any section, sub-section, sentence, clause or phrase of this Ordinance Is for any reason is held to be invalid or unconstitutional by the decision of any court of competent jurisdiction, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Ordinance.

Economic Alliance elects new set of officers

The Board of Directors of the newly reorganized Northern Lakes Economic Alliance met recently at the Char-Em Intermediate School District (ISD) building to elect officers and to orient new member to the functions and roles of the board.

Emmet County joined the former two-county community growth alliance known as the Antrim-Charlevoix Grow Alliance, this past fall. Members created the new name, Northern Lakes Economic Alliance, to reflect the region's quality of life and fresh water access.

New officers are: Susan Van Wieren, Char-Em ISD, President; Les Moore, Antrim County EDC, Vice-president; W.R. Frykberg, Boyne City Manager, Treasurer; Jim Wibby, Emmet County EDC, Secretary.

Richard Beagle, Coordinator of the CGA, explained that the CGA serves three functions. The Area Development Office (ADO), housed in Boyne City, has the objective of working with county and local economic and planning groups, as well as industry, to create and retain jobs. Beagle is coordinator of the ADO as well.

The Local Procurement Office (LPO) function is contracted through the Northwest Michigan Council of Governments in Traverse City. Jim Haslinger, LPO Coordinator, said that the procurement system is expensive to operate. For this reason, three other Northwest Lower Michigan CGA's also contract with them. Firms interested in state and federal government contracting can call the Economic Alliance 582-6482 to get more information.

The Small Business Center (SBC) function of the Economic Alliance is not in place yet. Bob Boldrey, Dean of Continuing Education at North Central Michigan College, explained that there is the possibility of creating a SBC at the college to work hand-in-hand with the Institute for Business and Industry Training (IBIT). While the IBIT can provide employee training for any type of business, a SBC would work with potential businesses on business plans, financial packaging assistance and business related workshops.

Economic Alliance members decided to meet on the fourth Thursday of each month in alternate counties. Emmet county will host the February meeting.

Judith M. Lecta

New PR director at Bell

Judith M. Lectka has been named Michigan Bell public relations director for northern Michigan. She succeeds E.W. (Mike) Reid, who retired Dec. 31, 1988 after 30 years with the company.

A Grand Rapids native, Lectka began her telephone career there in 1960 as an operator. She later held positions in operator services and management positions in repair and installation. In 1983 she became public relations director for southwestern Michigan.

Charlevoix Yesterday

This picture postcard printed in 1908 advertising the Charlevoix State Savings Bank is full of information. With the calendar turned to November and a turkey ready to be carved, the message reads, "You'll have something to be thankful for if you have money in the bank." In smaller print, "Put your money in OUR bank. We pay three and a-half percent interest." (Photo courtesy of Bill Dreyer.)

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1989 ☐ VOL. 105, NO. 9 ☐ CHARLEVOIX, MICH. ☐ 20 PAGES ☐ 50 CENTS

Bodies, innertubes and clouds of snow came flying down Mount McSauba this weekend as part of the annual Winter Carnival. Between 800 and 1,000 spectators turned out for Sunday's events. (See photos page 10, stories page 4 and 12.)

Bandshell compromise sought to improve view

When it comes to the new bandshell, there are two factions in town with different points of view.

One faction, the bandshell committee, has been gathering money and has a design for a new bandshell which is scheduled to be constructed this summer.

The other faction, more than 150 people who signed a petition, favors having a new bandshell, but want something scaled back from the proposed design to maintain as much of a view of Round Lake as possible.

Both factions met last week and had a civil and productive discussion and are working out a compromise.

"I think they (people representing the petition drive) had some fine ideas on the bandshell," bandshell committee chairman John Hess said at Monday evening's city council worksession. "I think we left (last Thursday's meeting) on very good terms."

Petition drive leaders Colleen LaBlance and Birdie Whitley expressed similar sentiments.

"The only reason Colleen and I started was because so many people were not happy with the design. They felt it was overpowering."

To mitigate those concerns and enhance the view, the two groups are discussing the possibility of retractable sidewalls and lowering the roof line. They have also discussed eliminating an upper set of restrooms and reducing back stage storage area so the bandshell wouldn't stick out as far to the north.

Adolescents to be asked, "How's your health?"

Charlevoix High School students will be asked to fill out a comprehensive, and confidential, health questionnaire Thursday, Feb. 21.

Subjects covered in the questionnaire include: personal hygiene, health habits, mental health (relating to subjects such as depression), nutrition and body image (relating to things such as anorexia or steroid use), substance abuse, domestic violence, sexuality and birth control.

The questionnaire will play a key role in a District 3 Health Department program which is intended to identify health problems of area adolescents and then to develop and implement a plan to deal with these problems. One of the key facets of the plan will be coordinating services of various agencies so that they are comprehensive, yet don't duplicate one another.

Carol Paxton, director of personal health services for District 3, points out that in the past 25 years adolescents are the only age group where morbidity and mortality rates have increased. She said that a real solid questionnaire for area adolescents hasn't been done in recent years.

This past October the District 3 Health Department received a $20,000 grant from the state to research health problems among area adolescents and develop a program to deal with them.

An adolescent health task force composed of representatives of groups who deal with adolescents developed the questionnaire. Schools, counseling centers, mental health organizations, social services workers, hospitals, resource centers and churches were among those represented on the task force.

Several area school boards agreed to have their school's students participate in the questionnaire. Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne Falls, Pellston and Boyne City are included in this area.

School to survey community

This coming Monday evening volunteers from local service groups will conduct a phone survey for the school district.

According to school superintendent Gordon Van-Wieren the school does the surveys about once every two years to get an impression of how people feel about the school system and to determine what people would like to see from the school system in the future.

About 500 randomly selected school district voters will be surveyed. It will probably take between five and ten minutes to answer the survey questions. All answers will remain confidential and be averaged together to form a general picture of community opinion.

Issues addressed by survey questions include-

How people feel about the amount of school information they receive, where they get their information and what additional information they desire.

What people feel are the school's biggest problems, weaknesses and strengths.

How often people use the public library and how they feel about the library's size and operating hours. In Charlevoix, funding for the public library is channeled through the school system.

How people feel about the direction of education in Charlevoix; in other words is it getting better or worse.

People's perceptions drug and alcohol education and feelings as to whether abuse is increasing or decreasing.

How people feel about student fundraising drives. Are there too many, too few or about the right amount?

Whether people feel the high school should be a closed campus, in other words not allowing students to leave school for lunch.

Should elementary students be grouped by ability?

How people feel about the adult education program and what other courses they would like to see offered.

People's feelings regarding the school's extracurricular offerings.

A question on teacher salaries; "Do you think our teachers should be paid about the same, more or less as other teachers in this area?" Given the narrow parameters of the question and choice of responses, the value of the survey responses to that question will be debatable.

There are also a series of questions put on the survey by a group of people who support building a community swimming pool.

There will also be at least one question regarding people's feelings about building a center for the arts.

Lori Maue received a superior acting award at district drama competition for her portrayal of "Ruth" in Charlevoix's production of "Pirates of Penzance."

Pirates hoping to capture state

Charlevoix High School Performing Arts students are in rigorous rehearsal for the final round of state drama competition and the public performance of their show – Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance."

Charlevoix leaves this weekend for the two-day Michigan Interscholastic Forensics Association State Finals Drama Competition at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant.

Their rollicking version of Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta will be offered to the public in Charlevoix in two performances, the following weekend – Saturday, Feb. 25, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, Feb. 26, at 3 p.m.

Charlevoix qualified for the state drama championships after taking 2nd place in the district competition January 28th and 3rd place in the regional competition this past weekend in Holland. Charlevoix received a 1 ranking at both district and regional competition.

At regionals, Charlevoix's drama students garnered several awards for acting, choreography and costuming. David Salmonson won an "Excellent" award for his portrayal of the Major General. Lori Manue was awarded a "Superior" acting award for her role as Ruth.

Thirteen students won a "Superior" acting award as an ensemble for their roles as the Major General's daughters: Dawn Peterson, Darsey Spencley, Christy Coolman, Marci Wynkoop, Barbara Haggard, Barb McClanaghan,

... health questionnaire

Some of the questions are somewhat personal so the questionnaire will be completely confidential. Each student will be given a questionnaire form in an envelope. The student completes the form without signing his or her name, puts it back in the envelope and puts the envelope in a box. In a way, it will be something like voting.

"We've tried to be very sensitive to the adolescents," Paxton said.

Students are being given letters to take home to their parents prior to responding to the questionnaire. Copies of the questionnaire are available at District 3 offices in Charlevoix and Petoskey for parents who would like to read them.

The studen questionnaires will be followed up by parent and community questionnaires to see if their perceptions of adolescent health problems match the perceptions of he adolescents.

Paxton said the health department will be working with consultants from Ann Arbor to analyze the data.

This summer the task force will use the data to formulate a plan to deal with the adolescent problems. That plan should be finalized by early fall. After that a grant will be applied for to help implement the plan.

Paxton said the purpose of the program is not to develop teen health centers, but to identify adolescent health problems and develop a coordinated effort to deal with them. She noted that the efforts thus far have already led to the coalitions between people in area agencies.

Commanding officer chronicles Mesquite voyage

Dear Editor,

Enclosed is a copy of my notes including excerpts from my log of this journey south. These are notes written for our families at home and I thought it appropriate to send you a copy as well.

THOUGHTS FROM THE CABIN...

Well, we have reached the halfway point of our deployment to the Seventh Coast Guard District. What a surprising two months they have been.

Mesquite left Charlevoix in early December; the crew full of anticipation, an uncertain experience lying ahead. Consider that crew, different from who we are now. Full of new faces. Fifty-odd people, each going their separate ways.

A tight crew now- as can only happend on an extended voyage at sea. What else could have happened?

A bitter cold snap in the Lakes as we left. A long day and night locking through the Welland Canal- like shutting the gates behind us- we had departed the upper Lakes, no turning back now.

Back to the cold. Lake Ontario was bitter- sea smoke thicker than the thickest fog. Mesquite had to pull buoys anyway. Time was precious, we had to finish the work and clear the Seaway before closing.

Our buoy work complete, Mesquite entered the Seaway- past New York, the Thousand Islands, into French-speaking Canada. Downstream from Montreal, at Trois-Riviere, we hit our first serious ice but passed through with no significant delay. The sound of ice crushed by the hull remained with us throughout the night.

Mesquite entered Old Quebec City harbor on the 13th of December. We spend the next day as well, relaxing, gathering strength for the next leg, through the infamous Gulf of St. Lawrence to Halifax.

The first night out we experienced 40-50 knot winds- fortunately from the west-and Mesquite rode before the wind with a gentle predictable roll. The wind lessened and remained westerly through the next day as we approached the turn south around the Gaspe Peninsula. The following excerpt is from my log on Friday, 15 December...

Through the night a following sea turned around the Gaspe. We made almost twelve knots for the day. A significant ground swell hit us from the SW-put us in the trough, after rounding Cap des Rosiers. Unable to make 148 due to rolling, I tacked four times to provide a quartering sea for the majority of the run. Began icing on the short SW leg around the Ile de la Madeleine- fortunately just a short leg. Made the final turn down and met the original 148 track below the islands...

Through the Canso Strait, into the North Atlantic. Turned west toward Halifax and almost immediately sighted our first whales. Sunset on the 17th, a gentle swell with hardly a ripple on the surface turned into a roaring gale by morning. Blowing snow reduced visibility to a few hundred yards. Too rough to receive the harbor pilot, Mesquite entered Halifax, blindly following the lead of the pilot boat dead ahead. We moored alongside a Canadian destroyer to refuel and rest the night.

Within a few hours of leaving Halifax on a south by southwest course, we encountered the Gulf Stream. The water temperature

The physics of Thundertubing

"Chances are I'll remember this as being fun...once it's over," I thought to myself as I prepared to slide down Mount McSauba on an inner tube. At that particular instant, I still had some reservations.

Reservations not withstanding, when the starter, Mark Drenth, hollered "Go!" I jumped on the tube with my brothers Gregg and Nick and embarked on an ill-fated journey.

We were racing against three other tubes, each carrying three people. Kevin Swanson, Randy Holecheck and John Whitley manned one tube. Dave Swanson, Ed Whitley and Bob Holtzman a second. A trio from Ellsworth, Joe Nachazel, Wayne Carpenter and some guy whose name I didn't catch were on the third.

Near the top of the hill, the trip was deceptively tranquil. Our tube didn't get a start, but at least we weren't sliding backwards, something which happens with a fair degree of regularity since there's little controlling the tubes. We were in third place, but not far behind the second place tube.

As we picked up speed, the tubes ahead of us began throwing up snow and it became difficult to see. Although I couldn't tell exactly how far ahead of us the first two tubes were, I suspected they were fairly close.

That suspicion was confirmed about three-fourths of the way down the hill, about the time everybody reached top speed. My view was somewhat obscured by flying snow, bodies and tubes, but to the best of my recollection the following occurred-

Tube number two containing D. Swanson, E. Whitley and Holtzman was fortunate enough to catch up to tube number one containing K. Swanson, J. Whitley and Holecheck. This good fortune was tempered by the fact that rather than catching up by pulling alongside, tube two caught up by running into the back of tube one.

One stroke of luck deserves another and in but an instant the tube my brothers and I were on caught up to the other two.

At this time, two laws of tubing physics came into play. Law one: Collisions and stability are inversely related, i.e. as collisions increase, stability decreases. Law two: At any given instant in time, one, and only one, tube and its passengers can occupy a single point in space. I believe Newton discovered these laws shortly after discovering gravity.

Like any good laws, violations bring consequences. When those three tubes collided, things started coming apart. Bodies and tubes went their separate ways, all cloaked in a cloud of snow.

"Look out!" one of the Ellsworth fellows yelled as their contingent arrived just in time to run over my brothers like they were two speed bumps. It could have been a lot worse. It could have me who got run over.

The object of the race is to be the first to grab one of the flags at the bottom of the hill and get the flag, your tube and team into a designated area. During the crash our tube took a notion to head for Mackinaw and by the time Nick retrieved it, we'd secured a solid fourth place.

Remarkably, casualties of the crash were minimal. Nick cut his lip and had some blood trickling down his chin, but it proved to be nothing serious. In a way, it was something of a badge of honor.

When he got home, mom asked how our team had fared.

"Not too well," Nick replied, "but we did draw first blood."

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

A minority of minority

To which minority do you belong?

Vice President Dan Quayle ran into a murmur of public disappointment when it was revealed during the campaign that he had been admitted to law school under a special program designed for minorities.

Quayle's grades as an underclassman simply weren't good enough to win him acceptance to law school through normal channels. But he could meet the more relaxed standards established for underprivileged minorities.

The scion of a prominent Indiana publishing family, Quayle scarcely could be considered underprivileged in any sense of the word. But he was canny enough to take advantage of a special provision for minorities to get into law school and eventually win his degree.

Reprehensible? Of course it was.

But the campaign-weary public wasn't sufficiently aroused to carry their indignation to the polls. Quayle sailed into the second highest position in the land on the coattails of George Bush.

A parallel situation has arisen in the Upper Peninsula relative to the Kinross Manufacturing Corp. (KMC), which was established to take advantage of a special of federal law which gives preference to minority-owned businesses in the awarding of defense contracts.

The company was given minority status because the founder, Gerry Blanchard, is 1/32 Indian.

Think about it: If Blanchard is 1/32 Indian, he has to be 31/32s something else. Yet the federal government apparently felt KMC was worthy of special consideration because of Blanchard's Indian blood quantum.

According to my arithmetic, only one of Blanchard's 32 great-great-great grandparents had to be an Indian in order to dilute his blood quantum down to 1/32. He probably has far less Indian blood than members of most long-time Michigan families.

Blanchard's company already has received $22 million in defense contracts, but the Department of the Army appears to be unhappy with KMC's workmanship. The Army reportedly has asked the Small Business Administration to come up with another minority contractor to do the job.

On Feb. 1, a former Navy official, Richard Ramirez, testified before the Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs that the real power behind KMC is John McGoff, who formerly owned a chain of newspapers and now runs a fleet of dinner cruise ships, including the Star of Charlevoix.

Ramirez told the senators that McGoff owns 39 percent of KMC, making him the majority stockholder.

I cannot believe that the federal government through its minority preference program intended to assist the likes of Blanchard, with his miniscule blood quantum, or McGoff, who needs a government handout like I need another utility bill.

The folks who should really be up in arms are local Indians — real Indians — who were the intended beneficiaries of the minority preference program. With non-minorities muscling in, what chance do they have to claim what is rightfully theirs?

The problem stems from the fact that we have no hard and fast rules on who is an Indian and who isn't. Nor do we really know who is black and who isn't or who is Hispanic and who isn't.

My father had eight times as much Indian blood as Blanchard, but with blond hair and blue eyes he would have been hard pressed to pass himself off as a Native American. My lineage is even more diluted so I wouldn't stand a chance.

All of which is not bad, because labels make me sick.

Admittedly, minorities have not always had a fair shake — politically, socially or economically — in the United States.

But unless minority preference programs are better administered and more closely monitored, perhaps they should be abolished to prevent further abuse.

After all, the Constitution says we were all created equal. Maybe it's time to recognize the wisdom behind that lofty observation and act accordingly.

Letters to the Editor:

Ski rates not really so high

Dear Editor:

During a recent visit to Charlevoix, I was somewhat surprised to learn of a controversy surrounding the Mt. McSauba Ski Hill. It seems that a recent price increase for ski tickets has caused many to take issue with the Charlevoix Recreation Department. I was even more surprised to learn of the new price - only $7 per day!

While no one enjoys having the price of things increased, that is the reality of today's economy. The new price of $7 for skiing could hardly be categorized as unreasonable. Mt. McSauba has undergone vast improvements in the past few years and I am sure that those, coupled with the rising cost of liability insurance, can more than justify this new, nominal charge.

Instead of complaining, both year around and part-time residents should be grateful they have access to one of the finest recreation programs in the state. Softball, basketball and volleyball leagues are available as well as flag football, swimming lessons, baton lessons, skiing and ski lessons, just to name a few. The Department also runs one of the most popular summer day camps in the area which is always filled to capacity. All of these programs are available at extremely nominal rates.

These programs do not run themselves. Mr. Ike Boss spends countless hours to make sure that the Recreation Department is filling the needs of the community. He deserves to hear more than complaints and gripes. He and the entire Recreation Commission deserve only acclaimation for a job well done with Mt. McSauba and all of the programs they provide.

Fran Martin was an inspriation

Editor:

It was with great sorrow that I learned of the passing of Fran Martin. Miss Martin has been a dear friend of our family since we moved to Charlevoix nearly twenty years ago. She watched the boy who shoveled her walk grow to a man, and I kept in touch with her long after I'd moved away. Fran's courage in the face of adversity was, and continues to be, a source of inspiration to me. I wept at her passing, but I am glad to have known her. for enriched by life in ways I can never express.

Support offered for swimming pool

Editor,

As a senior citizen, grandparent and former Red Cross water safety instructor, I agree with Ralph S. Hamilton's letter to the editor in which he writes, "I believe Charlevoix will eventually have a pool, if not now, then sometime in the future, at a much higher cost."

First, as a senior citizen, I have recently joined "The Cocoon Group" for games, fun and exercise in the pool at the Petoskey Holiday Inn. We meet two mornings each week.

Second, as a grandfather, I have had the fun of being at the Birmingham YMCA pool when each of my three grandchildren at age six months, rolled off the side from a sitting position, into the water and into my outstretched arms.

Third, as a former water safety instructor, I believe that feeling at ease in the water is "the name of the game." The younger the person, the easier it is to reach this goal. A pool is the best place to learn water related activities, because outside distraction can be excluded – such as cold, winds, rain, snow and waves.

Charlevoix, the city on three lakes, where all it's citizens young and old, should learn to respect and enjoy our lakes, needs a pool!

rose 30-40 degrees over a two hour period. The current also slowed our progress. An uneventful, if uncomfortable, five days enroute Savannah, GA for a short Christmas break.

Mesquite entered the Savannah River under sunny skies and 70 degree temperatures on the day before Christmas. We celebrated the holiday as a crew- with a volleyball game, presents from home and a good deal of holiday cheer.

We sailed again on the 26th, arriving in Miami on the 28th. Began final preparations and outfitting to accomplish our law enforcement mission.

Much has happened since and will be the subject of future correspondence. Suffice it to say we have come a long way, with miles yet to go.

Remember as always, we need your support at home to perform our duties here. Our thoughts remain with you.

Planning department is small, but active place

by PEG OHLE

One of Charlevoix County's smallest departments is also one of its best known and most consulted.

The Charlevoix County Planning Department was started in 1971 with a professional planner and an assistant. Today, it is still a two-person operation, with a different planner but the same assistant.

The need for some kind of department to oversee the orderly growth of Charlevoix County was recognized as far back as 1963, when the Area Redevelopment Commission was formed to draft plans for a County Planning Commission. The Charlevoix County Planning Commission became a reality a few months later, a group of volunteers who devoted much of their time to promoting economic development and proper land use. The latter resulted in an overall comprehensive plan to pinpoint the needs for water and sewer systems in the county, and later used by municipalities in securing federal monies to upgrade these facilities.

In 1970, the Planning Commission hired Williams and Works, a group of professional planners, to write a comprehensive plan as a basis for a county zoning ordinance. Bill Mercer of Williams and Works wrote the plan, which was readily accepted by the Planning Commission, who then hired Mercer as the county's first planner and organized the Planning Department. Shortly thereafter, Barbara Fels was hired as Mercer's assistant. She is still in the office, along with Larry Sullivan, the county's third planner.

One of Mercer's first assignments was to assist the Planning Commission in writing a county zoning ordinance. This was completed and became effective in October of 1972, but a group of people opposed to the ordinance called for a referendum and countywide zoning was voted out in August, 1973. At that point, the Planning Department went to work assisting townships in writing their own zoning ordinances. Today, all Charlevoix County townships have zoning ordinances, many of them dating back to 1973.

While in recent years the Planning Department has been associated with the Solid Waste Management Plan and the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Plan, it has also been working in many other fields to supply help and information to other county agencies, and to the general public.

Many of the Planning Department's tasks result in booklets which are distributed to interested persons and agencies.

One of these is the County Recreation Plan which points out the needs for certain types of recreational facilities throughout the county. It is updated every five years, a requirement for county municipalities to be eligible for Water and Conservation funds, Kammer funds, and other state and federal funds which become available for recreation purposes from time to time.

Another booklet is the Corporate Planned, published in 1983, which is a handbook of information for use by the Economic Development Corporation and others in wooing industrial prospects to the area. It is now being updated as information becomes available.

The Land Use Inventory handbook is a classification of all land in Charlevoix County by use or cover crop. This can be used by local planners in deciding how property in their jurisdiction may best be used and how it should be zoned. Another use is as a guide in designating areas which would appear to be wetlands, although not a final designation of wetlands. The Inventory also contains a highly detailed timber inventory showing the type of trees, location, and density as full timber or saw logs, a useful guide to woodlot owners and the timber industry.

The recently-completed draft of an updated Solid Waste Management Plan is the third such plan written under the direction of the Planning Department; the first one was written in 1974 and the second one in 1983. Copies of the plan are made available to all cities and townships for their study and approval.

Copies of the Lake Charlevoix Management Advisory Plan have been sent to all municipalities in the Lake Charlevoix watershed. The Planning Department is now preparing a "How To" booklet to distribute to all municipalities in the county to help them make use of the plan in their own communities. Some have already taken bits and pieces from it in updating their zoning ordinances, according to Sullivan.

One of the top writing projects on the Planning Department's agenda for the coming year is a new county zoning ordinance. It is the feeling of many members of the Planning Commission that there is now more knowledge about zoning and the need for county zoning than there was in 1973. After a county zoning ordinance is written, the County Board will be asked to adopt it. If it does, the ordinance will be presented to the townships, who may invalidate their present ordinance and adopt the county ordinance or keep and enforce their own ordinance.

If the County Board does not adopt the county zoning ordinance, it will still be used as a model for townships to adopt in full or in part.

Many other activities of the Planning Department its parent Planning Commission do not show up in published form: They review rezoning requests and changes in ordinance texts for townships; they also review applications by municipalities for federal grants; they review applications for enrollment of land under the Farmland and Open Space Act, a tax-saving measure for some landowners; they are gathering information for the 1990 census, breaking it down by areas to determine geographic boundaries for specific questions; they do general research for the County Board and other agencies; they helped make flood insurance available to all municipalities which wanted it; a representative serves on the County Plat Board which helps persons interested in subdividing or platting a parcel of land. This year,

Michelle Jacobs, Chris Felton, Tammy Felton, Kari Hartnett, Natalie Jones, Karina Stockholm and Stacey Skeel. The entrie cast was awarded a "Superior" for costumes which were created by a team of students and parents. A "Superior" for choreography was awarded to Jason Wiser, Stacey Ketchum and Andrea D'Angelo for their work with the Keystone Cops. Pianist Kathy Pease won a special "Superior" award for her musicianship.

"The Priates of Penzance" is one of Gilbert and Sullivan's most popular operettas. Typical of all the Gilbert and Sullivan works, "Pirates" is a light hearted satire of Victorian behavior and English life.

In "Pirates", Frederic, an innocent young Englishman has been accidentally indentured to a rowdy band of inept pirates, led by a bragging Pirate King. When Frederic thinks his indenture is served, he is confronted by his nurse Ruth, who not only tries to convince him that she is beautiful but also informs him that having been born on Feb. 29th of a leap year his indenture has not been completed.

Meanwhile the beautiful and silly daughters of a pompous Major General appear in the pirates' lair. Fredric falls in love, the pirates attempt to snare the others, and the Major General summons a ridiculous brigade of Keystone Cops to capture the pirates.

Charlevoix's production of "Pirates of Penzance emphasizes the ridiculous. Sword fights, melodrama, exaggerated love scenes, and plenty of pratfalls highlight the spirited show.

Tickets for Charlevoix's public performance of "The Pirates of Penzance", February 25 and 26, are $4 for students and senior citizens, $6 for adults. Tickets are on sale now through Charlevoix High School and members of the cast.

Nursing home project takes a step forward

The first phase of construction of the proposed Charlevoix Care Center nursing home is expected to begin in April, according to Ralph McRae, who has been working on the project since 1984.

Last week, developers received a permit from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to build in a wetland area, and the last permit, construction approval from the Michigan Department of Health, is expected shortly.

The construction contract between Liberatore Health Care of Columbus, Ohio, developer of the project, and Goodin and Bigelow Construction of Traverse City was to be signed last week, McRae said.

First phase plans call for 49 skilled nursing beds and 11 beds for those who do not need constant care. The second phase will bring the total number of beds up to 107.

In addition to patient rooms, the facility will have a main dining room, kitchen, laundry room, and day room. The building will encompass 21,000 square feet on seven acres between Upright and Garfield Streets in Charlevoix Township, near doctors' offices and the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

McRae said plans are for the Traverse City builder to use as much Charlevoix area help as possible on construction work. He also said that when finished the nursing facility will provide about 60 regular jobs. Total cost of the first phase is estimated at $1,300,000.

McRae's first presentation of plans for a Charlevoix area nursing home was on December 11, 1984, to the staff and physicians of the Charlevoix Area Hospital, who, he says, were enthusiastic about the idea. Shortly thereafter, McRae filed a Letter of Intent (to build) with the Michigan Department of Health, and since then the project has moved slowly through the labyrinth of government agencies.

County Commissioner Ralph Harmon of Boyne Falls has been appointed to the Board of Directors of Northwest Senior Resources (NSR), headquartered in Traverse City.

Harmon, who also serves on the County Commission on Aging, and other NSR board members approve all policies, service contracts, plans, and budgets for aging services in northwest lower Michigan.

These services include the Alzheimer Support Group, Care Management, Congregate and Home Delivered Meals, Employment and Training, Home Repair and Maintenance, In-Home Services, Legal Assistance Program, Pre-Retirement Counseling, Respite Care, and other community activities.

with the help of the County Extension Service, they are making a study of the needs of all county offices.

On an on-going basis, they coordinate their work with the 10-county Northwest Michigan Council of Governments; and they have been active in transportation planning, presently the path of Highway U.S. 131.

While most of the Planning Department's work is coordinated through the Planning Commission, some of it is done at the direct request of the County Board. A two-year stint at helping to install a new communications system for the county is an example of the latter.

The Planning Department's work schedule for 1989, which is being presented to the County Board of Commissioners today, covers mostly on-going work on projects mentioned above. Indications are that procedures leading to final approval of the Solid Waste Management Plan will continue throughout the year and be most time-consumering because of required consideration by all 18 municipalities in the county.

Sullivan is not ruling out possible rejection of the plan by some units of government, based on complaints he has already heard. These include suggestions for placing a surcharge on out-of-county waste deposited in the Charlevoix County Landfill, or a surcharge on all waste deposited there, with the revenue being used for recycling facilities; criticism of great out-of-county use of the landfill; desire by some communities to franchise collection of their waste to lower cost of collection and improve service; and the desire by many to pay for waste collection by volume rather than a flat rate.

The nine-person County Planning Commission meets on the first Thursday of the month at 7:30 p.m. in the County Building Annex. Once a year, the Planning Commission holds its regular meeting on Beaver Island, the only county agency to do so. All meetings are open to the public and people are encouraged to attend them.

Present members of the Planning Commission are Tom Wieland of Charlevoix, Dennis Jason of East Jordan, Junior Hunt of Boyne Falls, Arnie Hudson of Walloon Lake, Sandra Stanley of Boyne City, Margaret Midener of East Jordan, Dorothy Custer of Charlevoix, Larry Levengood of Charlevoix, and Vivien Visscher of Beaver island.

Lamey L. Sharrow

Lamey L. Sharrow, 69, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 11, 1989, at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals.

A memorial service was held at Winchester Funeral Home.

The former Lamey L. Berry, was born March 26, 1919, in Michigan City, Ind., the daughter of Charles and Jamilia Berry.

She moved to Dearborn in 1935 and worked as a machine operater for the Ford Motor Co. and had retired from the Rouge plant.

She married Louie Sharrow on March 26, 1970. The couple moved to Charlevoix in 1977 and Mr. Sharrow preceded her in death Sept. 29, 1986.

Mrs. Sharrow is survived by: one son, Richard L. Berry of Huntingtown, Md.; three sisters, Mrs. Fatima Cripe of Elkhart, Ind., Mrs. Zinib Livengood of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. and Mrs. Emma Haynes of New Baltimore, Mich.; three brothers, Joseph Berry of Allen Park, Siad Berry of Detroit and Samuel Berry of Ludington.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society.

Lucille C. Warren

Lucille Clara Warren, 71, of Central Lake, died Feb. 10, 1989, at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Funeral services were held Sunday, Feb. 12, 1989, at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Benton R. Heisler of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church officiated. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Warren was born Nov. 21, 1917, in Rochester, the daughter of Frederick B. and Grace (Mead) Carpenter. She graduated from Rochester High School in 1934 and Cleary College in Ypsilanti in 1936.

She served as executive secretary to the public health officer of the Michigan Department of Public Health for five years.

On Oct. 27, 1940, she married Robert M. Warren in Rochester.

During World War II, Mrs. Warren worked for Macalear in Rochester and from 1946-73, she and her husband owned and operated a ladies ready-to-wear shop in Rochester called the Lucille Shoppe.

For the past 10 years, Mr. and Mrs. Warren have resided at Central Lake.

Mrs. Warren is survived by her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Cynthia Lou Norton of Rochester Hills; one sister, Winifred Gray of Rochester.

She was preceded in death by a brother, Hilburn Carpenter in 1986.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Service Fund. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Carl Mitchell

Carl S. Mitchell, 69, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 12, 1989, at Veterans Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Arrangements are pending at the Winchester Funeral Home. A complete obituary will follow.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

Scripture Lesson for the day: John 3:1-17

Forty days. One could starve if nourishment were not taken during such a period. Lent offers us just the opposite. We are provided with forty days in which we can feed our souls.

Lent is a time of meditate, to dedicate one's life, to praise and adore the God who created us. It becomes the occasion when we set time apart from the harried pace of life in order that we might renew commitments we have made to the Divine.

Oh, and how harried that pace can become...

There are pressures pushing upon us from all directions. Our families have one set of expectations and our friends another. Pressure in the work place places stress and strain on our bodies and minds. If one is without employment, the pressure builds to an even greater extent as resources, both human and financial, are pushed to their limits.

One might ask, "How can I find a release valve in the midst of all the pressure which builds within me and upon me?"

"Come to me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." (Matthew 11:28) In these words, Jesus offers us the "release valve." "come to me...," are Christ's words of invitation.

Lent challenges us, dares us, to pause long enough to let Love, God Almighty, touch our lives. God's touch can bring healing to lives filled with pain and pressure, hope to minds that know only desperation, and peace to a land and peoples torn by racism, materialism, and the threat of nuclear destruction.

Prayer: O God of Healing, Hope and Peace, breathe your Spirit upon us and feed our souls. Nourish our thirsting hearts with the cool clean water of your Love, a forgiving Love shared with us through your Son Jesus Christ. Amen.

FOCUS discusses new administration

Economic directions and campaign promises of the new presidential administration are the subjects of a FOCUS discussion scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 15 in the high school study hall.

John Fischer, a local economist employed by First of Michigan Corporation will present a profile of possible economic directions and the cost to taxpayers.

Woody Derrohn, a political science instructor from North Central Michigan College will review campaign promises and cabinet choices.

Robert White will serve as discussion moderator.

FOCUS is a community forum which sponsors informational meetings on current issues. The public is invited to attend the meetings. There is no admission charge although donations are accepted.

Area recycling options discussed

Recyling options are available to Charlevoix residents.

This past afternoon, approximately 20 people met at the WeatherVane Terrace in a meeting called by the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful (KCB) recycling committee. The meeting had two goals: the recycling committee wanted to know what their role in recycling should be; there was a discussion explaining current recycling efforts.

Currently, it's fairly easy for people to recycle newspapers. The Kiwanis Club has a little building on State Street where people can bring newspapers. The county is seeking a grant for a new and larger building for the project. The new building would be built near the county jail.

Kiwanis Club member Harold Pletz said that at this time, the local Kiwanis Club is recycling approximately 100,000 tons of newspaper a year. He anticipates the new building will double or triple that capacity.

The collected newspapers are sold to a Grand Rapids insulation company. Revenue from recycling is used to fund some of the Kiwanis Club's community projects.

Charlevoix Middle School students are recycling paper from the school. Their paper is going to a transfer station in Central Lake. From there, it goes to a recycling center in Traverse City.

Middle school library director Tom Sothard, one of the initiators of the project, said he hopes the other two school buildings will also begin recycling. The school is also considering using fewer plastic foam and plastic utensils in the cafeterias.

School board member Larry Levengood said the school wanted to start with something "doable" like recycling paper. The philosophy is to that one successful program will lead to bigger, better things.

Recycle North is a group in Petoskey. They have a building and are recycling newspaper and cardboard. Nancy Hunter, the groups executive director, said that with recent increases in landfill rates area industries are becoming seriously interested and participating in cardboard recycling.

Recycle North would also like to expand their operation to include office and computer paper.

Plastic recycling has been hit or miss in this area although at times there have been places taking plastic.

WATCH executive director Michelle Rick-Biddick said her group has helped fund some recycling education programs and monitored Charlevoix County's revision of the solid waste management plan. WATCH is also working on a recycling guide for the area and hope to have it finalized by this summer.

The solid waste management revision draft calls for three recycling drop sites in Charlevoix County: one in Boyne City, one in East Jordan and one in Charlevoix. One of those sites would be a center, where the recyclable material would be processed for purchasers.

The consensus of the people at Saturday's meeting was that the portion of the management plan encouraging recycling merits support. The group also supports educational programs and developing compost sites.

Approximately 20 people met this past Saturday afternoon to discuss present recycling efforts in Charlevoix and possible recycling efforts in the future. The meeting was sponsored by the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Recycling Committee.

It's winter. And the enchanting Riverlands of Saginaw County are tucked snugly beneath a downy blanket of gentle white.

It's a time when our rivers rest and our residents relax.

It's a splendid time to spend a few days with us: Ski on a man-made mountain, or on some of mid-Michigan's most picturesque cross-country trails. Winter Carnival 1989

Snowmobiles occasionally took to the air in both the obstacle and hillclimb competitions at this year's Winter Carnival. The events drew snowmobilers from several Northern Michigan communities.

Tube and rider frequently separated during the Thundertube event and both slid their separate ways.

After getting to the bottom of the hill in Thundertubing, the object is to be the first team to reach the finish area, an area which tends to get a bit frantic and cluttered.

Between 800 and a 1,000 spectators were at Mount McSauba for Sunday afternoon's Winter Carnival events.

Area dentists observe National Children's Dental Health Month

On February 14, three of Charlevoix's dentists participated in a program called "Dentists With A Heart". At various hours of the day, Drs. John Merrill, Robert Tollas and Jeff Porter offered three dental services to children between two and 12 who aren't covered by dental insurance. Dr. Porter visited Beaver Island to offer the service.

On "Heart Day", Friday, February 17, Dr. Strawbridge will offer free basic dental care for anyone.

••••••

In the East Jordan Elementary School, kindergarten children are participating in National Children's Dental Health Month by coloring pictures with dental themes.

On Friday, February 24, Dr. John Kemptonand Dr. Kevin Steely and their staffs will screen the teeth of 875 children in grades kindergarten through eight.

On February 22-23, the nursery school children will take a field trip to the dentists' offices and this month the hygenists will visit the 3rd grade class to discuss dental hygene and care.

••••••

Boyne City's three dentists, Dr. Richard Fish, Dr. Polleys and Dr. Bruce Stewart will be at the elementary school Friday, February 24 to screen the teeth of all students in grades kindergarten through four.

••••••

Dr. James Smith at Atwood will be screening the teeth of children in the Ellsworth Grade School and the Ebenezer Christian School on Friday, February 17.

Throughout the country, school children are learning about brushing, flossing, eating proper foods, and seeing their dentists regularly so they may enjoy good dental health!

To Ensure Your Child's Dental Health, You Should ☑

- ☑ Brush your toddler's teeth.
- ☑ Supervise your child's brushing until he or she is 8 years old.
- ☑ Make sure your child uses a fluoride toothpaste.
- ☑ Make sure your child flosses as soon as the teeth fit closely together.
- ☑ Make sure your child uses a fluoride rinse if recommended by your dentist.
- ☑ Teach your child to brush after snacking
- ☑ Encourage your child to avoid sweets and sticky foods.
- ☑ Check your child's teeth for white, yellow, or brown spots, which are signs of decay.
- ☑ Make sure your child visits the dentist every six months.

Winter Carnival draws crowds

Rather than cursing the cold and snow, several hundred people went outside this past weekend and goofed around in it.

Events at Charlevoix's annual Winter Carnival drew several hundred participants and spectators to Mount McSauba this past Saturday and Sunday.

"It was the largest event we've had," said city recreation director Ike Boss.

Boss noted that both the number of participants and spectators was up from last year. There were 20 snowmobiles in the hill climb and 30 three-man teams in the the Thundertube races.

The weather cooperated to the best of its ability for February. There was some wind Saturday, but the mountain blocked most of it. Sunday was a beautiful, sunny day.

Winners of the various events were:

Ski races:(The others are listed randomly, not by order of finish.)

Girls, five and under - 1. Michelle Martin, 2. Lisa Miller, 3. Lindsey Miller. Others - Lauren Jean, Kelly Dreyer and Danielle Vogelheim.

Basketball team falls shy

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team lost to St. Ignace this past Friday evening, but they made the Saints sweat blood for the victory.

In the final seconds, Jason Corwin missed a 12 foot shot and a tip of the rebound by Bob Jess caught too much iron and popped out of the basket leaving the Rayders on the shy end of a 66-65 score.

Considering that Charlevoix trailed by 14 points with less than five minutes left in the game, they were fortunate to come that close.

Charlevoix jumped out to a 15-12 lead at the end of the first quarter. In the second quarter things continued to go well for Charlevoix and they led the host Saints by four, 33-29 at the half.

In the third quarter, life turned ugly for Charlevoix and they were outscored 18-6 by St. Ignace.

Charlevoix's fourth quarter rally began with a three-pointer by Mike Himebauch. That was followed by a Jess steal which Webb Friedly turned into a basket. Corwin then was fouled while making a lay-up and hit the free-throw for another three-point play.

Leading the Rayders in scoring were Friedly with 20 points, Cowin with 12 and Jess with 10. Friedly had nine rebounds and Jess eight. Dave Miller had four assists and four steals while James Corwin had four assists.

This Friday evening will be Charlevoix's winter homecoming against Rogers City.

Three wrestlers going to state

Three Charlevoix wrestlers will compete in the Class C state finals this Saturday after placing either first or second in regionals this past weekend.

James Monteith won a regional title at Ithaca while Jason Whitley and Scott Novotny placed second in their weight classes.

Monteith cruised through the 171 pound regional class. In his first match, he beat Al Seaver from Saginaw Valley Lutheran 11-0. He then pinned Rod Laurenz of Breckenridge in 3:40. In the finals, Monteith beat Rusty Argue of Grayling on an injury default. Monteith takes a 32-1-1 record to state.

Whitley, wrestling at 152 pounds, opened the day by pinning his first opponent in 50 seconds. In his second match, Whitley beat Chad Charles of Leroy-Pine River 8-2. Whitley lost a close match 2-1 in the finals to Dan Bohen of Ithaca. Whitley takes a 32-7 record to the state meet.

Novotny, wrestling at 125, began the day with a 7-2 win over Mike Sailor of Fulton-Middleton. In the second match, one of the best of Novotny's career, he beat Tim Near of St. Charles 7-6. Novotny lost in the finals 4-0 to Bill Griffin of Benzie Central. Novotny takes a 32-8 season record to state.

Brian Livingston and Brian Darrah also wrestled for Charlevoix at the regional tournament, but did not fare particularly well. Livingston went 1-2 while Darrah lost two straight.

Class C state finals will begin this Friday at Battle Creek Central.

Wrestlers lose in team district

Following a forfeit-filled win over host team Onaway, Charlevoix wrestlers were eliminated from the team district wrestling tournament by Rogers City 45-21 last Thursday.

Against Rogers City, Charlevoix had five winners: Scott Novotny, Brian Livingston, Brian Darrah, Jason Whitley and James Monteith. Whitley won on a 17-1 technical pin. The others won by decisions.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mielke

Clouse-Mielke

The Petoskey United Methodist Church was decorated with a lighted Christmas tree, red poinsettias, wreaths and candelabra for the Dec. 22 wedding of Leslie Clouse and Fred Mielke. The altar held an arrangement of evergreens, holly, red carnations and white mums centered with a unity candle. White satin bows marked the pews and there were candles at the end of each pew as the double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Fullmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Clouse of Petoskey are parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mielke of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown of satin with a high neckline, a Chantilly lace bodice and sleeves and a beaded yoke and waist. The back of the gown featured a bow and double bubble peplum. The skirt ended in a chapel-length train. The bride wore a white satin pillbox hat accented with Venise lace and pearls and a shoulder length veil of English netting. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses with baby's breath, holly and evergreen accents.

Margaret Fullmer, organist, played a program of traditional wedding music and Christmas music. Soloist was Irene Woodard.

Vickie Krusell, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Sandy Switzer and Pam Woodhouse. They wore red tea-length Chantilly lace and satin gowns, each with a dropped waist, long sleeves and a double flounced skirt with a candy box bow in back. The attendants wore red satin pearl rosettes on combs in their hair. The matron of honor carried three white roses and red miniature carnations. accented with evergreens and holly with baby's breath and white satin ribbons. Each bridesmaid carried a single white rose and red miniature carnations with baby's breath, evergreens and white satin ribbons.

Tim O'Malley attended the groom as best man and groomsmen were Steve Mielke and Tom Mielke, brothers of the groom. Mike Clouse, brother of the bride, was an usher.

A reception, given by the parents of the bride and the bride and groom, was held at the Perry Hotel. Germaine Clouse, sister-in-law of the bride and Martha Mielke, sister-in-law of the groom, served the wedding cake. Music for dancing was provided by Norm Jones, a disc jockey from Traverse City.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the parents of the groom, was held at the Weathervane in Charlevoix on Dec. 22.

The bride and groom spent their honeymoon in Toronto and will be residing in Germany. The groom is serving in the U.S. Army and is completing military police training. He will be stationed in Germany where the couple will be residing in the early spring.

Sharon and Gary Parsel and sons Brad and Troy

Selissen-Parsel

Former Charlevoix residents Sharon (Sherrie) Selissen and Gary Parsel were married December 28 in a small family ceremony in Wabash, Indiana.

The bride is the daughter of Dick and Noreen Selissen, Sr. of Boyne City, and the bridegroom is the son of Lois Parsel of Roswell, Georgia and the late Howell Parsel. Both sets of parents formerly lived in Charlevoix.

Judge Douglas Lehman officiated at the double ring rites, in which the bride was given in marriage by her father, who also served as best man. The bride's mother assisted her as matron of honor. Sons Brad and Troy Parsel served as ringbearers.

A reception at the home of the newlyweds followed the ceremony, hosted by the bride's parents.

Both young people are employed by Property Systems Company, a property apprisal company of Solon, Ohio. He is the project manager and she is the office manager. They will move in April from their present home in Lagro, Indiana to Cambridge, Ohio.

Oddfellows widen lead

The first perfect game of the year in the annual Oddfellows-Masons cribbage tournament was recorded by Chester Otmanowski last Thursday evening.

Otmanowski won all eight games he played for a score of 968 points. Top player for the Masons was Max Novack with 909 points. There were six tables of play this past week.

As a team, the Oddfellows won by 340 points and now lead the tournament by 558 points. There have been six nights of play and there are four more nights remaining.

The teams will play again this Thursday night with the Masons having the home-table advantage.

School conferences

The Charlevoix Elementary School will be hosting winter parent-teacher conferences March 1, 2, and 3. Parents received the first information in a letter which was sent home and is to be returned by Feb. 17. Conferences will then be scheduled by the individual teacher, with confirmations being sent home with students. If you have any questions, please call the elementary school office at 547-3215.

Group sponsors substance abuse meeting

Charlevoix Concerned Citizens are inviting the community to a meeting on Thursday evening, February 23, to hear Tom O'Reilly of Community Intervention, Inc. speak on "Can This Be Happening in Charlevoix?"

O'Reilly is a leader in the field of adolescent alcohol and drug education who believes that concerned people must be able to recognize the problem of alcohol and drug abuse, care about the problem, and respond to the problem properly.

It is with these thoughts in mind that he will direct his talk to all who attend the meeting. It is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Assembly of God Church, M-66 High, South.

As a followup to O'Reilly's talk, there will be a six-hour workshop the following day, Friday, February 24, beginning at 8:30 a.m., in the Charlevoix High School Study Hall. It will be aimed at educating school personnel, community leaders, and other interested persons about adolescent use, abuse, and dependency on drugs.

Estimated tax return: The deadlines are April 15, June 15, September 15 and January 15.

DARE seeking funds

The DARE Program, which is being presented by law enforcement agencies in Charlevoix County to local school systems, on occasion will request funds for DARE from local businesses and individuals.

If solicitation is done by the sheriff's office or police departments, it will be done by a uniformed officer with a cover letter from the sheriff or chief of police.

Law enforcement agencies have been advised some unauthorized organizations in Michigan, not affiliated with law enforcement, have been making telephone solicitations in Northern Michigan. This approach and organization is not endorsed

Sr. Citizens plan chili party

The Charlevoix Senior Citizens Center will sponsor a chili and soup supper and card party Saturday evening, February 18, beginning at 5 o'clock, at the VFW Hall on U.S. 31 North.

Home-made chili and vegetable soup top the menu, with home-baked bread, crackers, pie, relishes, and tea and coffee included.

Card tables will be set up for those who want a game. A donation will be collected for the card party to offset the cost of prizes.

Cost of the supper will be $3.50 for adults, $2.50 for children under 12, and $10.00 for a family of four. Children under five may eat free.

The Senior Citizens of Charlevoix are raising money to pay the costs of maintaining their center, and excess funds from the fund raisers are deposited in the building fund.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
PUBLIC NOTICE

ORDINANCE #510

An Ordinance to amend Section 5:261 of Article XI of Title V of the Charlevoix City Code of Ordinances, by adding new sections entitled 5.261(A) (1) through (6) which shall read as follows:

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX Ordains that Section 5.261, Article XI, Title V of the Charlevoix City Code of Ordinances shall be amended to include:

1. The Zoning Administrator may attempt to confer with the zoning violator in order to specifically discuss the violation that has occurred and the need for immediate correction.
2. If the violator refuses to promptly correct the violation, or if the Zoning Administrator is unable to locate the violator, then the Zoning Administrator may send written notification to the property owner of the violation demanding that the use or structure be corrected.
3. If the zoning violation has not been corrected within a period of time determined by the Zoning Administrator, or if the Zoning Administrator reasonably determines that immediate enforcement is necessary, the Zoning Administrator may issue an appearance ticket to the violator.

   The ticket shall be in conformance with applicable law and shall contain the name or names of the violator and describe the illegal use, structure, or activity, and identify the Ordinance section being violated. The ticket shall indicate a specified period of time to appear at the 90th District Court in Charlevoix to enter an appropriate plea or response pursuant to law.
4. Notwithstanding any of the foregoing procedures regarding prior notice, the Zoning Administrator may, upon determination that the public health, safety, or welfare is at risk, proceed directly with the issuance of an appearance ticket.
5. In the event that a zoning violator files a request for a variance, the enforcement procedures of this Section may be adjourned upon the determination of the Zoning Administrator, until a hearing is held on the variance request.
6. Nothing contained within this Ordinance shall limit the City's rights under general law to seek civil redress or damages, including circuit court injunctive relief.

The foregoing Ordinance was adopted by the Charlevoix City Council at a regular meeting held February 6, 1989, by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Muma, Russell, Potter, Haggard, Whitley, and Probert.
Nays: None.
Absent: None.

Drama team pirates state championship

Charlevoix was awakened around midnight Saturday to the sounds of blaring fire sirens and blasting car horns as a massive victory parade welcomed home the victorious Performing Arts Team, which had captured the Michigan Forensics Association High School Drama Championship for class C & D schools.

The fifty-five member cast of "Pirates of Penzance" won the C-D Championship with a score of 271 of a possible 300 points and placed 4th among schools of all classes. Charlevoix was awarded strait "I's", the highest ranking, in the two-day competition held Friday and Saturday at Central Michigan University.

> "We made our scenes much cleaner. We removed extraneous material that had been hurting our scores. Our actors performed very well."
> — Connie Ford

Michigan's top drama teams after the competition are: Portage High School, "Fools", 284 points; Avendale High School, "Fantastiks," 272 points; and Charlevoix, "Pirates of Penzance", 271. After a 15 point penalty was assessed to Plymouth, for an improper placement of an actor, Plymouth's score was reduced to 269 and Charlevoix advanced to 3rd place overall. Placing fifth, also with straight "I's", was Holland "No, No a Million Times No," 259 points, which had won the regional competition in which Charlevoix had placed 3rd.

The jubilant Charlevoix acting team, which gave the final performance Saturday afternoon, to an overflow audience in the Moore Hall Theatre at CMU, was particularly thrilled at placing 4th over many Class A and B schools.

Jason Wiser was singled out by the judges for an "Excellent" award for his acting as chief of the Keystone Cops. The entire cast of 55 received a "Superior" award as an ensemble for their choreography.

Drama coach Connie Ford commented that, "At the state level the judges are highly selective in granting awards. I don't think any team received more than three awards.

"I am very pleased with the kids," Ford said. Commenting on the week of rehearsals between Regional and State competition, she added "We made our scenes much cleaner. We removed extraneous material that had been hurting our scores. Our actors performed very well."

Councilmen discuss dismissing city planner Harsch

Some members of the city council aren't happy with the performance of city planner Gerry Harsch and are considering terminating his contract.

At Monday evening's council meeting, councilmen Earl Muma, Butch Russell and Norm Probert spoke in favor of terminating Harsch's employment with the city as of March 31.

Councilman Ken Whitley also expressed reservations with some aspects of Harsch's performance, but was more moderate in his opinions and said he would like to talk to Harsch in person before making a decision.

Harsch was not at Monday evening's council meeting. City manager Mike Wiesner said Harsch had been informed that his position was being put on the council agenda, but had said he had another obligation Monday evening.

Wiesner, zoning administrator Sue Erber, planning commission chairman Dave Novotny, former planning commission chairman Walt Hufford and other members of the planning commission and zoning board of appeals spoke in favor of Harsch saying he is both knowledgeable and capable as a planner.

They did not question that there are problems in the city's planning process, but indicated that these problems may stem from lack of resources and zoning ordinance problems rather than from Harsch's performance.

Planning commission member Carol Sullivan said the council may be "shooting the messenger" because the job's not getting done properly.

Harsch is contracted by the city to work 9.5 hours per week.

Wiesner and others implied that 9.5 hours per week isn't enough time to meet the demands of the job. Wiesner called the situation a work overload and said that Harsch is actually in Charlevoix many more hours than he is contracted for. Wiesner pointed out that in September Charlevoix had 38 site plans in the works, many more than most other communities in the area.

Norm Probert said there have been times when he questioned whether Harsch worked for a contractor or the city. He also said that there have been times when plans have come to the council with very little study. Probert also questioned Harsch's availability.

Hufford and Wiesner challenged the contention that Harsch has in any way favored contractors or developers.

The planner doesn't write plans, he just determines whether they comply with the zoning ordinance, Hufford pointed out. A planner deter-

Dramatic warmth leads to nature trail

Maybe not tomorrow, but someday soon the Charlevoix Elementary School will have outdoor nature trails and a classroom setting in the woods behind the school.

Last Thursday evening, fourth grade students under the direction of Mary Ann Chew and Carol Elliot presented the play "Who Stole the Tarts" and raised more than $100 toward the project. (See photos page 3). The money was turned over to the Charlevoix School Enrichment Foundation which is supporting the plan.

"Who Stole the Tarts," written by Julie Phend was performed in the finest dramatic tradition by the fourth grade students at the elementary school gym.

Characters in the production included a king, queen, princess, prince, lady in waiting, page, knave, narrator, chef and three fiddlers. These demanding roles represented a stretch for many of the young thespians and thespianesses whose previous roles were only shepherds or livestock in church Christmas plays.

But the performers came through in the grandest tradition of the theater capturing the many subtle inferences and symbols contained within the script of "Who Stole the Tarts?"

Symbols such as the curds and whey. In delivering the line, "Ugh! Curds and whey. I hate curds and whey!" the young kings made it known that this line symbolized that although King Cole was a king, he had a human side and hated curds and whey just as much as a commoner.

And the queens had an especially delicate role in dealing with the tarts which symbolized attractive vices which tempt mankind.

And poor Prince Rumple. A character who made a long, hard journey all the way from Stiltskin only to be scorned by the lovely Princess Marianne because she didn't appreciate the caliber of his ironing.

Not to spoil the suspense of the play's ending, but suffice it to say that the old king gets his and the Knave of Hearts doesn't spend too much time in the slammer.

In the end, all of the characters found warmth and happiness. As did the audience who attended last Thursday evening's play.

And sometime down the road, that warmth and happiness will be part of nature trails and an outdoor classroom which will provide another educational opportunity to Charlevoix's elementary students.

mines whether a plan complies with the zoning ordinance, not whether it meets with the favor of public opinion or the wishes of city council.

Wiesner added, "You've got rules and you've got to follow them. If you don't like them, you've got to change them."

Russell said he had a personal problem with Harsch. When pressed to elaborate, he asked Wiesner if Harsch had been known to come to a meeting intoxicated.

Wiesner responded that at one time Harsch had a drinking problem, but he sought treatment to correct that problem. Wiesner said that even when Harsch had the problem, he was performing his planning duties.

Wiesner and former councilman Bob Timms both said they feel it's unfair to judge Harsch on a past problem which he sought treatment to correct.

Mayor Gary Probert said that before the council takes any action to relieve Harsch of his duties they should have some alternatives and plans for what will happen after he's gone.

Muma said nobody is indispensable.

Council Jim Potter said he's new and at this time isn't that familiar with what the planner's duties are. He concurred with Whitley in the opinion that before any action is taken the council should meet with Harsch. Muma also said he prefered to put off action until Harsch is present.

Wiesner said an employee can ask the council for a closed session. He added that in the past; Harsch has talked to councilmen when they weren't happy with the way things were going or had questions.

Haggard said he feels the council should keep Harsch and that he would like to see the discussion with Harsch open to the public.

Harsch responds to criticism

In a telephone conversation with the Courier Tuesday morning, city planner Gerry Harsch responded to some of the accusations made by city councilmen Monday evening.

Regarding council allegations that he has favored developers, Harsch said that he's not in a position to favor anyone because he is not the one who makes decision in the site plan process.

"I'm not a decision maker," Harsch said. "My job is making sure they (developers and contractors) understand and follow regulations."

Harsch said that he does work in conjunction with people who want to use their property because as planner, that is his job.

Concerning councilman Butch Russell's reference to Harsch's drinking, Harsch that while it is true that he had a drinking problem, he recognized the problem and sought treatment for it more than a year ago. He explained that many people feel alcohol abuse is a disease or problem which never goes away, but can be kept in remission. With that preface, he said that his drinking problem is not currently harming his job performance.

At Monday evening's council meeting, people defending Harsch indicated planning problems might not be due to Harsch's performance as much as to the limited number of hours he is contracted to work. The city pays Harsch to work for 9.5 hours per week.

Asked if 9.5 hours is a sufficient amount of time, Harsch said it depends on what you want to accomplish. Harsch said that when he first came on the job in 1984, he was spending almost double that amount of time in Charlevoix each week. He said that since the city hired Sue Erber as zoning administrator approximately a year ago, things have gone smoother.

Planning commission members at Monday's meeting also attributed some planning problems to the city's zoning ordinance. Harsch concurred that Charlevoix's zoning ordinance needs a major overhaul. He said there are some things in the ordinance which are unworkable and other things which are illegal. He said the city's land use plan also needs an overhaul.

Harsch said he enjoys working in Charlevoiox and would like to continue, but if that is not to be the case, he doesn't lack for things to do.

On the prospects of his meeting with the council, he said, "I'll sit down with them in an open session and discuss anything with them they want to discuss."

Money spent on building increases

The Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection issued fewer permits in January than it did a year ago, but the cost of work covered by the permits was higher.

The department report indicates that 28 building permits were issued in January, 1989 for work amounting to $1,524,499. A year ago in January the department issued 33 permits for work amounting to $1,209,917.

Most of the permits were issued for remodeling, adding to existing houses and commercial buildings.

No property tax increase for pool

While an indoor swimming pool might be a nice addition to the community, it shouldn't be funded by property taxes, i.e. a millage increase.

If pool proponents can raise enough money to both construct a pool and establish an endowment fund to pay for pool operations, more power to them. If not, then the community can continue to get along without an indoor pool.

Although the benefits of an indoor pool are many, at bottom line an indoor pool is still a luxury, not a necessity. Although many people would use an indoor pool, there are also many people who wouldn't. Property taxes should fund necessities, not luxuries. Property taxes for a pool would mean that even people wo don't use the pool would be paying for it.

Property taxes, in conjunction with sales taxes, are already a burden threatening to grow worse. State legislators are discussing proposals to change the state's educational finance system. They would like to raise sales taxes in exchange for lower property taxes.

Unfortunately, if past history is any indicator, most of the sales taxes Charlevoix people send off to Lansing don't find their way back to Charlevoix's school system. A likely scenario would be for sales taxes to be increased and property taxes to return soon to at least their present level.

With that possibility before us, an added property tax for a pool is not something Charlevoix taxpayers need.

To their credit, pool proponents say property tax funding is only a last resort. However, while saying this, they're also using a school survey to ask voters how they feel about increased millage for a pool. They're also bantering about how the Homestead Property Tax Act will allow some senior citizens to support increased property taxes without paying increased property taxes.

If pool proponents don't want property tax funding, that kind of talk is pointless. Why build a road toward a place where you don't want to travel?

The Homestead argument, which frequently comes up by people advocating a millage increase, is objectionable, if not an outright hoax.

The crux of the argument is that since many senior citizens are already paying maximum property taxes, they can support increased taxes without having it cost them any more.

That's an objectionable argument because it attempts to play off senior citizens, a substantial voting block, against the rest of society. Fortunately, most senior citizens understand the burden taxes place on people. Applying a political corollary to the Golden Rule, they vote unto others as they would have voted unto them.

The hoax of the argument is that a property tax increase won't cost senior citizens anything. Even if they don't pay the increase directly, they will pay indirectly because people directly affected will pass the cost on through increased prices for services and goods used by senior citizens and everyone else.

In late 1983 and early 1984, Charlevoix went through much the same pool process which is currently taking place: committees, surveys, letters to the editor etc. In a June 1984 straw vote, voters were asked what they though of increased property taxes for an indoor community pool. They gave the proposal the big thumbs down by about a two to one margin.

A community pool is not an idea without merit. If pool proponents choose to launch a long-range fundraising drive, the community should consider supporting it.

However, if pool proponents propose to fund a pool through increasing property taxes, voters should shoot down the proposal just as they did four years ago.

Useless cat vs. evil ogre

Friday, the little black cat, sits at the top of the stairs. Only rarely does she venture downstairs.

Evil lurks downstairs; evil is the red-bearded ogre with big feet; evil is the huge, furry, brown monster which chased her up a tree once.

She listens.

"Thump. Thump."

Footsteps.

"Are those the footsteps of the evil ogre or the fair princess?" she wonders.

The footsteps come closer. The little black cat grows tense. She peaks down the stairwell, waiting to see who appears.

"Oh no! It's the ogre! Run and hide! Run and hide!"

Zip. A black streak flys into the bedroom and seeks sanctuary beneath the bed.

That cat and I do not have a good relationship. I view Friday as a useless, puking wimp and she views me as evil incarnate.

The only reason Friday gets to stay around is because my wife adores her. Kathy, my wife, views Friday as "such a beautiful kitty." She calls Friday "my good friend."

Before we were married, Kathy borrowed my camera to take pictures of Friday. When I got the roll of film, which also had pictures of several other things on it, back from being developed I gave the pictures to Kathy to look at. As she flipped through them, her face suddenly lit up and she said, "Oh. There's my sweetie." She'd come to a picture of Friday the cat. A few pictures later she paused and said, "And here's a picture of you Scott."

It's pretty clear where I rate.

Kathy rescued Friday several years ago when Friday was a starving kitten in an alley behind the office where Kathy worked. For this, Kathy is Friday's hero, her rescuer, her fair princess, her person, the only one she likes or has any use for.

Friday sees things in black and white. Either you're Kathy who she views as good or you're one of everybody else and therefore evil.

Time does little to soften Friday's views. Originally, Friday saw me as just a nuisance. After four years, she's come around to where she now sees me a nuisance which she's apparently going to have to put up with. Now there's progress.

Being seen as an evil ogre could be kind of hard on a guy's self image.

Fortunately, Sasquatch the dog likes me. When I come downstairs, annoyed because the cat ran and hid again, the big dog walks up to me wagging his tail.

"Don't take it so hard Scott," he says. "It's just a stupid cat. Tell you what. You get yourself a bowl of ice cream and get me a dog biscuit and we'll go watch some sports on TV."

Now a dog is a real pet. Not like a cat.

Tribute offered for Fran Martin

Dear Editor:

I would like to add a few words to Fran Martin's accomplishments. Fran, regardless of how she might feel, or might have to do, always had time for a smile and a hearty welcome, or to send a card to a friend or one who may be alone or lonely.

Fran's personal concern for others was one of her many accomplishments.

Fran was an inspiration to me and I'm sure she was to her many friends who knew her.

Amerasians welcomed

A very moving article entitled "Aren't They Our Children" appeared in the Feb. 19 issue of Parade Magazine, distributed as part of the Sunday Detroit Free Press.

The article deals with the thousands of "GI babies" in Vietnam, children fathered by American servicemen during the Vietnam War.

The article was illustrated with several haunting photos of the young Amerasians and their mothers, all of whom were left behind when their husbands and fathers returned to the United States.

The children, who are now in their teens or early 20s, are beautiful people. There is no other word to describe them. You can tell they have western blood, but there is a touch of the Orient in them, too, usually around the eyes. They also have freckles, which are not that common among Orientals, and are one of their most distinguishing features.

Many of these young people are bound for the United States under the Amerasian Homecoming Act, which by March, 1990, should have funding in place to complete the departure of all Amerasians and their families who want to emigrate.

Not all of the Amerasians appear interested in establishing relationships with their fathers. But they do want a crack at what they believe is a better life on this side of the Pacific, particularly since their mixed blood has made them outcasts in their own land.

Not surprisingly, some of the Amerasians already have married and have children of their own. In such cases, the spouse and children also will be welcome, but the Amerasian's mother will have to emigrate under a companion Orderly Departure Program.

After leaving Vietnam, the Amerasians undergo six months of language study and cultural orientation in the Philippines before traveling to the United States. Efforts are made to establish them in American communities with existing Vietnamese populations.

Five thousand Amerasians already have come to the United States under the program and another 8,000-12,000 are ready to make the trip.

Their average age is 18 and most will have to have job training before entering the mainstream of American life.

Puritans among us are probably clucking their tongues at the very thought that our valiant fighting men left such a legacy abroad. But these things happen when young fellows just entering manhood are shipped half a world away under wartime conditions. And they always will.

We should be proud that the United States is compassionate enough to offer the progeny of these young men a chance to share a life that is as much their heritage as it is ours.

THEATER-GOERS have three days left to catch a performance of "The Importance of Being Earnest," the winter production of the Little Traverse Civic Theatre in Petoskey.

Final performances will take place Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Ross Stoakes Theatre in the Virginia McCune Arts Center, East Mitchell at Waukazoo streets.

"Earnest" is generally considered one of Oscar Wilde's funniest stage plays, bubbling over with the caustic wit that made Wilde the darling of high society during the late Victorian era.

Although Wilde eventually was ostracized from polite company because of his morals — or lack of them, Wilde's work remains as outrageously funny today as it was when it was written almost a century ago.

In the LTCT production, superb performances are turned in by Betsy Willis as the pompous Lady Bracknell; John Holec as Lane, the butler; and Rob Rucker as the Rev. Canon Chasuble, D.D.

The Victorian costumes were all made especially for the Petoskey production and will be a valuable addition to the LTCT wardrobe. The sets were spare, but adequately mood setting.

Before the first curtain, the audience is treated to theme music taped by pianist Charlotte Ross Lee.

"Earnest" is directed by Gene Beach, an elementary school teacher, and produced by Jerry Fink, a psychiatrist.

What a surprising amount of talent is to be found in these Northern Michigan woods.

Anti-drug meetings scheduled

Every household in the Charlevoix School District has received notice of the Charlevoix Concerned Citizens meeting Thursday evening at the Assembly of God Church at 7:30 p.m.

The recently organized Concerned Citizens group is facing the problem of alcohol and drug abuse by children and young adults in the area and the physical, mental, and emotional damage it is causing.

Featured speaker will be Tom O'Reilly of the Community Intervention organization, who will speak on "Can This Be Happening in Charlevoix??".

Representatives from law enforcement, the medical field, churches, parents, schools, and service organizations are active members of Charlevoix Concerned Citizens. The fact the meeting is being held at a church does not mean the organization is church-dominated, a spokesman emphasized. The high school gymnasium is being used for another meeting that evening, and the church hall is the next largest one in Charlevoix.

Thursday's meeting will be followed by a six-hour workshop at the Charlevoix High School Study Hall on Friday, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

The public is encouraged to attend both meetings.

Physicians support community pool

To Whom This May Concern:

The Charlevoix Physicians are fully supportive of the efforts of the Swimming Pool Committee. We do so from both health and safety concerns.

Inactivity is a major problem in the winter in Northern Michigan. The cold and snow keep many confined indoors. In their own homes they exercise very little. This has both physical and mental consequences. This is especially true of the elderly. Physical inactivity allows the heart, lungs and muscles to decondition, leaving the body more susceptible to disease. Since the body is the temple of the mind, inactivity also results in decreased mental alertness, irritability, and in many cases, depression ("cabin fever"). A pool would be helpful in both these physical and psychological problems, especially in the elderly. Water exercise is also therapeutic in arthritis, injury and postoperative patients.

The usual reason expressed for a pool is water safety. The water sports; swimming, fishing and boating are the most dangerous forms of recreation because of attendant drownings. Since most of these drownings are preventible, this is an especially tragic loss of life. Most drowning victims are young, which further compounds the tragedy. Numerous communities have experienced a significant drop in drowning deaths after the completion of a pool.

In summary, we stand behind the Pool Committee because of our health and safety concerns for this community.

Council passes new downtown sidewalk ordinance

Ending a long-running debate -well, at least bringing it to a new plateau- the city council passed an ordinance Monday evening which will govern merchandise and other items on downtown sidewalks.

The ordinance does not allow any merchandise, tables, signs etc. in a 10 foot corridor from the back of the street curb toward the store fronts or within 3 feet of any crosswalk or 5 feet of any driveway.

Private property in front of stores is not addressed or affected by the new ordinance. Merchants with private property in front of their stores may continue to display merchandise there.

On some sections of Bridge Street there are a few feet of public property between the 10 foot strip and either private property or a store front. Tables, chairs, newsracks and planters may be placed in those areas, but only the owner of the items must have a license which is to be renewed annually at a cost of $25.

Some previously established items may not be allowed by the new ordinance. Among those mentioned at the council meeting as facing possible exclusion are: tables in front of the theater, a bench and planter in front of Cravings, and a table, chair and planter in front of Tom's Mom's Cookies.

Three people who participated on the committee which drafted the ordinance sent a letter to the council asking them to delay action until a later date. They were Chamber of Commerce director Jaqueline Merta, Cinema Three owner Bill Supernaw and Wharfside Market owner Mike Greeley.

Wildwood Innovations owner Bob Hoffman, who also served on the committee, urged the council to at least go forward with the public hearing Monday evening.

Councilmen held the public hearing and then adopted the ordinance by a unanimous vote.

The 10 foot corridor was arrived at by adding 6 feet from the back of the grates around the base of the planted trees.

The ordinance does grant an exception for annual sidewalk days when merchandise may displayed as in the past.

According to the ordinance, the one-year permit will have to be approved by the city manager and chief of police and can be revoked.

Oh Boix!

A compilation of praises won by Charlevoix people for good deeds, good work and hard work.

Bonnie Staffel, former resident of Charlevoix, is in Denmark for three months teaching pottery in five private schools for adults. Staffel is Program Director and Resident Potter for the John C. Campbell Folk School, Brasstown, NC, which was founded in 1925 on the principal of the Danish Folks Schools which teach the Humanities, Crafts, Music and Dance for adults of all ages.

Jill Franklin, the daughter of Janet Franklin of Charlevoix, recently enlisted in the U.S. Navy's Delayed Entry Program. After eight weeks of Recruit Training in Orlando, Fla., Jill will attend radioman school in San Diego, Calif. Jill is a 1986 graduate of Charlevoix High School. She will leave in July for Active Duty.

Bands attending festivals

During the next two weeks, two groups representing the Charlevoix School Instrumental Music Department will participate in Band and Orchestra Festivals sponsored by District Two of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association. Over sixty bands and orchestras representing thirty schools will perform at the festivals which will be held at several locations in northern Michigan.

Saturday, February 25 at 2:40 p.m. the Charlevoix High School Band will perform at the Petoskey High School Auditorium. The concert selections the band will perform are "Brighton Beach March" by Latham, "If Thou Be Near" by Bach, and "Festa" by Del Borgo.

The following week, Saturday, March 4, the Middle School Eighth Grade Band will travel to Traverse City Junior High School where they will perform at 3:55 p.m. Their concert selections are "March of the Irish Guard" by Ployhar, "Kentucky 1800" by Grundman and "Brookpark Overture" by Swearingen.

The bands will be adjudicated by three concert judges and one sight-reading judge, and they will be given a rating from I to V with I representing the highest standard of performance and V the lowest. Each band will perform three concert selections and then will be required to sight read two pieces of music which the students have not previously played.

The festivals are open to the public, free of charge, and listeners may stay to hear as many or as few different groups as they wish. Parents are invited to take advantage of this opportunity hear the bands at their very best.

Band awards received

At the District II MSBOA Solo and Ensemble Festival held recently at Gaylord, eight Charlevoix High School band students received first division (I) ratings in seven events.

Receiving first division ratings were: Mike Stargardt, alto saxophone and tenor saxophone solos; Heather Dietrich, flute solo; Kirsten Joy, flute solo; Kathryn Campbell, flute solo; Matt Stargardt, trumpet solo; and a brass quartet made up of Matt Stargardt and Karina Stokholm, trumpets and Bill Crook and Tim Henne, trombones. Receiving a second division (II) rating was J.P. Hane[illegible] with a cornet solo.

The solo and ensemble festival is sponsored by district II of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association. Over four hundred high school students from twenty schools participated in the festival, which was adjudicated by seven judges from public schools and universities in Michigan. Students who received first division ratings at the district festival are eligible to participate in the state festival which will be held on Saturday, April 1 at several sites throughout Michigan.

Recreation trail proposed

by PEG OHLE

A recreational trail between Charlevoix and Petoskey to be used for bicyclers, cross country skiers, hikers, or joggers, is a priority project for the City of Charlevoix and its residents, as well as other units of government along the way.

The trail would be along the abandoned C & O right-of-way, which runs almost parallel to Highway U. S. 31 between the two cities, and would become part of the County Trail system.

To develop the trail for public use, it would be necessary to keep the remaining rails, because if they are removed, the right-of-way becomes the property of adjacent landowners.

Even with the rails remaining, the 100-foot-wide right-of-way would provide plenty of space for recreational purposes, promoters say.

The Charlevoix City Council has gone on record as approving the trail, and the County Board of Commissioners is expected to give its blessing soon.

Charlevoix County's share of the trail would end at the Emmet County line in Bay Shore, where Emmet County would pick it up, and continue to Petoskey. Both Petoskey and Emmet County have shown an interest in the project, although some of the rails might be relocated through Petoskey. A 23-mile stretch of right-of-way between Alanson in Emmet County and Mackinaw City was recently dedicated for trail purposes by Michigan Bell Telephone Company, owners of the property. In the end, it is conceivable there could be a recreational trail all the way from Charlevoix to Mackinaw City.

The State of Michigan has removed some abandoned rails in many parts of Michigan and is now calling for salvage of the rails between Charlevoix and Petoskey. If this is accomplished and adjacent landowners have other uses for the right-of-way, the recreational trail could not be built.

There will be a public hearing on this rail removal proposal on Thursday afternoon, March 9, at 4:30 in the Petoskey City Council chambers. State Representative Francis Spaniola, who is holding the hearing, says, "I am very interested in hearing the opinions of local residents, business people and public officials of the area before passing judgment on these proposals".

Anyone unable to attend the hearing may write to Spaniola in care of the State Capitol in Lansing. Any letters received will be added to the public record for consideration by the Transportation Sub-committee.

City councilmen scrutinizing proposed budget

A draft city budget with total expenditures exceeding $7.5 million for the 1988-89 fiscal year was presented to the city council last week. Budget expenditures are projected to be up from $6.2 million last year.

The main reason for the increase is capital budget projects, in other words city building plans.

In a letter prefacing the draft budget, city manager Mike Wiesner wrote, "The 1989-90 Budget is truly an Infrastructure Intensive Budget. During the past few years, a lot of effort has been expended by many community leaders to plan for Charlevoix's future. The 1989-90 budget is a culmination of those efforts..."

Wiesner then listed some of the major planned infrastructure improvements and their costs. They are: electric system improvements $614,000; road, sewer, water, boat launch and park improvements in the Ferry Beach area $612,000; replacing curbs, sidewalks and streetscape work on Bridge Street between Antrim and the Pine River Channel $500,000; installation of a water main across Round Lake at the old railroad bridge $179,000; repairing all sidewalks on the south side of town $158,000; constructing a new bandshell in East Park $110,000; constructing a relief sanitary sewer in Bridge Street between Mason and Belvedere $75,000; completion of Dixon Avenue storm separation and street construction between Michigan Avenue and Meech Street $67,100; finalizing the sidewalk project on Bridge Street and M-66 to Captains Corners $55,000.

Money for the aforementioned projects will come from various different funding sources.

"These projects will serve Charlevoix well into the 21st century as witness to the foresight of the Charlevoix of the 1980s," Wiesner wrote.

The budget is based on a total city millage levy of 15.7 mills. That 15.7 mills is broken down to 10.6 operational mills, 3 mills for infrastructure improvements and 2.1 mills for debt retirement.

Last year the city levied 15.98 mills, or .28 mills more.

Although the millage proposed is less, the revenue collected is estimated to be 8.5 percent more due to a 10.4 percent increase in the city's state equalized valuation (SEV).

This past year, the breakdown of the total millage was different in that four mills were levied for infrastructure improvements and 9.6 mills levied for general operations.

The budget the council is working with is a draft and subject to change. The council could change either the millage levied or the spending priorities in the budget before a final budget is adopted.

One area which almost certainly will see change is projects in general fund expenses. Projects currently listed carry a total price tag of [illegible]. If the council sticks to levying 10.6 mills and maintains a balance, at least [illegible] worth of those projects will have to be cut.

Scouts fare well in Klondike Derby

Troop 11 from the Charlevoix Boy Scouts participated in the 1989 Klondike Derby this past Saturday and placed third out of approximately 25 Northern Michigan troops. The derby took place at Lake of the North's winter sports area near Gaylord.

The theme of the competition was wilderness survival. Troops were judged on their knowledge and ability to perform in categories such as: first aid, fire building (three ways to build a fire without matches), signalling for help, shelter building, what to do if lost, and a sled check which involved having the right survival materials on a sled.

Charlevoix scouts have participated in the Klondike Derby for a number of years, but this year's third place finish was their highest in quite a while.

Troop 11 participants this year were: patrol leader, Gary Arnold, assistant patrol leader, Andrew Laucher, James Pfluecke, Fritz Sommerfeld, Dan Hansma, adult leaders Jack Laucher and John Pfluecke. The troop was also assisted by former scout Dale Reynolds.

Mabel I Kipke

Mabel I. Kipke, 81, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 18, 1989, at the Penfold adult foster care home in Charlevoix.

Funeral was Tuesday, Feb. 21, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum of the First Congregational United Church of Christ officiated and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery.

The former Mabel I. Turpin was born Nov. 24, 1907, in Manistique, the daughter of William and Mabel (McKelvey) Turpin. She grew up in Manistique and graduated from Manistique High School in 1925. She attended Ferris State College and moved to Charlevoix in 1926.

On Sept. 2, 1929, she married Ray L. Kipke in Lansing.

When she first moved to Charlevoix, Mrs. Kipke worked at the First State Bank and later in the utility department of the city of Charlevoix. She had also worked for the Belvedere Golf Course.

Mrs. Kipke was a member of the First Congregational Church and was also a Sunday school teacher. At one time she was active in the Charlevoix Shakespeare Club.

She is survived by: her husband; three daughters, Mrs. Nancy R. Bambach of Farmington Hills, Mrs. Amy L. Gibson of Pinconning and Mrs. Bennie Lee vonHellens of Northville; 11 grandchildren; 12 great-grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Ruth Uhler of Byron, Ill. and Mrs. Marilee Walters of Ladysmith, Wis.; one brother, William Turpin of Manistique; her stepmother, Lela Turpin of Ladysmith, Wis.

The family suggests memorials to the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Carl S. Mitchell

Carl S. Mitchell, 69, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 12, 1989, at Veterans Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Funeral services were held Thursday, Feb. 16, at Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum officiated and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Mitchell was born Dec. 13, 1919, in Traverse City. He was a lifelong resident of Charlevoix and a veteran of World War II.

On March 12, 1941, he married the former Neetha M. Ostrum in Bennettsville, S.C. The couple made their home in Charlevoix.

Mr. Mitchell was sexton at Brookside Cemetery and was also in charge of winter recreation at Dodger's Hill and the municipal skating rink for 25 years. He retired in November, 1971.

He was a member of the Disabled American Veterans, Leslie T. Shapton Post of the American Legion and the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

Survivors include: his wife, one daughter Mrs. Amy Hartlep of Ann Arbor; two sons, Carl S. of Alma and Keith D. of Mobile, Ala; one brother, Frederick E. of Tempe, Ariz.; seven grandchildren; one great-grandchild.

The family suggests memorials to the Michigan Heart Association. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by the Rev. Thomas Black
First Baptist Church

Scripture Lesson: I Cor: 15: 1-11
"God's Good News"

As we listen to the news or read the news, we are well aware that there is not a lot of good news proclaimed in the world today. When we are awakened in the middle of the night by the telephone, our first thoughts are usually on what sort of bad news will the caller give to us.

Our scripture text proclaims the greatest news the people have ever heard. That good news is the fact that Christ's sacrifice on the cross met all claims of God's justice. His death met the requirement of the shedding of blood for remission of sin. His burial proves the reality of that death and His resurrection proves that God accepted the atonement. Yes, God has provided a salvation from the sin that separates us from God. However, this news must be acted upon. We have to believe that Christ died and rose again and receive Him as our Savior or this isn't good news to us. Jesus, in the appointed day will judge every sinner at the great white throne. The good news is that we do not need to come to that throne if we will accept the Savior today. Have you received Him?

Having accepted this good news, what are we doing to tell others about it? Something great happened to us when we accepted Christ, yet most of us are very reluctant to tell others. Our world needs to hear the good news. Let's be enthusiastic about telling others, so they can have the same privilege we love of knowing our sins are forgiven. Good news is not to keep. Tell it!

Virginia Wheeler

Funeral services for Mrs. Jack (Virginia) Wheeler, mother of Denise Pointner of Charlevoix, were held yesterday in Troy. She died February 17 at Harbor Hospital in Detroit following a brief illness.

Besides Mrs. Pointner, the deceased is survived by her husband; two daughters, Kristine Crowley of Troy and Janis Kossick of Novi; and four grandchildren.

In recent years, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler have been making their home in Burt Lake and Seven Springs, Florida.

Memorials may be made to the Harbor Hospital Cancer Research Fund.

Meehan-Barker

Mr. and Mrs. John Meehan of Clarkston announce the engagement of their daughter, Marnie, to John L. Barker, Jr. He is the son of John and Diane Barker of Troy and Charlevoix, and the grandson of Dr. and Mrs. John G. Barker of Clearwater, Florida and Charlevoix.

Both young people are students at Central Michigan University and serving as resident assistants. She is majoring in elementary education and he in secondary education.

The wedding will take place June 16, 1990 at St. Thomas More Catholic Church in Troy.

Utzig-Young

Dawn Utzig and Stephen Young of Charlevoix have announced their engagement.

The intended bride is the daughter of Phyllis and Peter Utzig of Lodi and Fremont, California, respectively, and her fiance is the son of Mary Young and the late Sonny Young of Charlevoix.

The intended bride is a 1986 graduate of East Union High School in Manteca, California, and her fiance is a 1983 graduate of Charlevoix High School. She is assistant manager of TNT Pizza in Charlevoix, and he is a digital electronics student at Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City.

Senior citizens building funds

by PEG OHLE

From $175 "in the hole" to a cash balance of $8,529.48. That's the story of the Charlevoix Senior Center's building fund-raising activities in 1988.

As recited by Sherry Black, education program director at the center: It is also the story of hard work by many hands which produced quilts, afghans, doll clothes, pot holders, decorative pillows, lace collars, Christmas ornaments, toys, and many other craft items for bazaars and flea markets. It is the story of hot kitchen work by numerous cooks who stirred up spaghetti, casseroles, soup, chili, rolls, pies, cakes, and other items for fund-raising meals. It is the story of older men and women standing on street corners or milling around community events on "tag days", asking for contributions to further their project.

Black appeared before the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging last week with her fund-raising report to show that the Senior Center is doing its part in trying to make a new Senior Center in the old Charlevoix Township Hall a reality.

The building, at the corner of Carpenter Street and Norwood Road, was transferred to the Commission on Aging last December following a vote of Charlevoix Township residents. The Commission on Aging accepted it with the understanding the Commission would apply for a state grant to remodel the building for use by senior citizens, who had already undertaken some fund-raising projects and promised to continue.

The Senior Center has set up a building committee consisting of Marilyn Fink, Thom Black, Clem Olach, Darrell Linder, Lou Orlowski, Frank Zednicek, Sherry Black, and Oscar Stroud.

Orlowski, a retired architect, has drawn some preliminary plans to show how the building might be adapted for use as a Senior Center.

For over two years, the Charlevoix Senior Center's headquarters have been located in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall on U.S. 31 North, but the space has become too small for the many activities carried on by the group. These include serving hot lunches every weekday; classes for high school completion, arts and crafts, band and chorus; exercise programs; counseling; classes and speakers on health; card games; diet club; and many outside activities such as bowling and outings.

The County Commission on Aging operates the hot lunch program, which is the backbone of Senior Center activities. Its budget for 1989 calls for a total of 12,500 meals to be served in Charlevoix during the current year.

Of these, 6,000 meals will be served at the Senior Center and the other 6,500 delivered to senior citizens who are homebound. A donation of $1.25 is asked for each meal, which is nutritionally balanced and professionaly prepared at a cost of $2.62 to the Commission on Aging.

The next big event planned by the Senior Center is the "Spring Thaw Luncheon" at Boyne Mountain April 13. Senior citizen groups from East Jordan and Boyne City, as well as Charlevoix, will entertain Antrim County senior citizens at that time.

In the meantime, Senior Center members are keeping busy making items for future fund-raisers.

Transportation to and from the center is available from the County Transit System.

Masons gaining on Oddfellows

Six and a half tables were in play last week for the Masons-Oddfellows Cribbage Tournament.

The Masons won the highest number of points during the evening, cutting the Oddfellows' lead to 375.

High player for the Oddfellews was Oliver Garver with 929 points, and high player for the Masons was Clay Berry, also with 929 points.

Play will continue this Thursday evening at the American Legion Hall.

Monteith fifth at state

James Monteith closed out an exceptional high school wrestling career with a fifth place finish in the 171 pound weight class at the Class C individual state finals wrestling tournament in Battle Creek this past weekend.

Monteith won three matches and lost two during the two-day tournament. He finishes his career with 115 career victories, a school record.

Monteith's teammate Jason Whitley went 2-2 in the 152 pound weight class at state finals. He finishes his career with 114 victories.

Scott Novotny wrestled at state finals in the 125 pound division, but lost two close decisions in his first two matches. Novotny finishes his high school career with an even 100 wins.

Monteith started well at state competition, winning his first two matches on decisions 14-2 and 9-5.

In his third match, Monteith lost 6-1 to Doug Sage of Battle Creek Springfield. Sage was 42-0 coming into the match.

Monteith then lost a close 3-1 decision, but in his final match, for fifth place, beat Jamie Klinge of Byron Center 10-3.

Whitley lost his first match 6-3 to eventual state champion Todd Curry of Martin. Whitley rebounded to win his second and third matches 11-9 and 17-7.

Novotny wrestled well, but things just didn't work out for him. In his first match against Adam Flannery of Hesperia, Novotny was down 10-2 in the first period, but came back to tie the match 15-15 at the end of regulation. At the end of overtime the match was still tied 18-18, but Flannery was awarded a criteria decision because he had accumulated more near fall points.

James Corwin got tripped on his way to the basket in the first half Friday evening, but threw up a shot anyhow. Standing next to him is Dave Miller.

Two skiers going to state

By Tim Henne

Charlevoix's girls ski team came two and a-half points away from state competition last Thursday in regional competition at Mancelona.

Led to a third place finish by Heather Keller and Cynthia Boydston, Charlevoix placed third behind Petoskey and Gaylord in the slalom.

When two Gaylord skiers disqualified in the giant slalom, Charlevoix moved into a close contest with Harbor Springs for the final state qualifying spot.

Harbor Springs ended up taking the spot, aided by a second place finish by Allison Noggle. This occurred despite two Charlevoix girls finishing in the top ten.

Charlevoix freshman Katherine Campbell placed sixth in the giant slalom. Keller added a tenth place giant slalom finish to her second place slalom finish. Carla Hoffman and Allison Boyer followed with 15th and 30th finishes respectively out of a field of 95 competitors.

Although Charlevoix's girls lost out to Petoskey and Harbor Springs, the third place finish was not at all bad for such a young team. Four of Charlevoix's top five girls, Keller, Boydston, Campbell and Boyer will return next year.

Keller qualified for the state meet as an individual with her second place slalom finish.

"I had a slow first run," she said. "I knew that I would have to improve on my time, and so on my second try I went all out to do it."

Keller will be joined at the state finals by Charlevoix's lone boys' qualifier, Charlie Witthoeft. Witthoeft placed fourth in the slalom and joined with Jacob Smith (13th in slalom, 33rd in giant slalom) in leading Charlevoix's boys team to a seventh place finish among 17 teams.

Keller and Witthoeft will be skiing in the state finals at Nubs Nob in Harbor Springs Monday, Feb. 27.

Rayders take a 20-point win

Charlevoix's basketball team did their part in the homecoming celebration last Friday evening as they clobbered Rogers City 72-52.

Charlevoix led virtually the entire game. Rogers City occasionally attempted to press in the first half, but the Rayders maintained their poise and broke down the Huron defense.

Charlevoix was heartened by the 72-point offensive showing. The team's defense has been among the best in the Michigan Huron Shores League this season, but the offense has been streaky.

Webb Friedly led the Rayder scoring attack with 17 points, followed closely by Bob Jess with 16. Shawn Putman contributed 12. Mike Himebauch had nine points and along with the other Rayder guards did a good job of distributing the ball.

Charlevoix's record is now 7-6 in league play and 12-6 overall. This Friday evening Charlevoix travels to Petoskey.

Charlevoix's junior varsity beat Rogers City 53-51 with Ed McClellan putting in the game winner. The junior varsity team is now 15-3 on the year.

Volleyball team posts victory

Charlevoix's volley squad took three of four games in winning a nonconference match against Central Lake Monday evening. The Rayders started slow, losing the first game 15-11, but came back to take the next three 15-6, 16-14 and 15-11.

The win brought Charlevoix's varsity record to 6-8 on the season. Top setters were: Billie Jean Habel and Tricia sutton; top servers were Habel, Becky Melke and Tonya Gruenewald; best defensive players were Habel, Sutton and Gruenwald; best offensive players were Habel, Laura Wilmot and Gruenewald.

Charlevoix's junior varsity team was beaten by Central Lake in two out of three games. Charlevoix won the first game 15-4, but faded and lost the next two 15-9 and 15-11. The junior varsity team's record is now 9-5 for the year.

Top Charlevoix setters Monday evening were Stacy Tilton and Ann Marie Hogan; top seservers were Tilton, Hogan and Valerie Russell; best defensive players were Michelle Lundy and Sue Melke; best offensive players were Tilton and Lundy.

Groundwater program initiated

Ten community leaders are participating in the Groundwater Protection and Education Program being conducted by the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council. These individuals make up the Groundwater Advisory Board and will oversee and provide input to the development of the project.

The members of the Advisory Committee include representatives from Emmet, Charlevoix, and Cheboygan Counties. They represent businesses, governmental bodies, and the general public. From Emmet County are Andy Bowman, owner of the Outfitter, and Shannon Brower, Emmet County Commissioner. From Charlevoix County are Larry Levengood, Sanitarian from District No. 3 Health Department, Rod Cortwright of the Cooperative Extension Service, and John Ochs, owner of the Central Drug Store. Representing Cheboygan County are Michael Wilson of the Cooperative Extension Service, Chris Grant of the Straits Area Audubon Society, and Phil Leege of Procter and Gamble. Bob Wagner is serving on the committee as a resource person representing the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. Terry Clayton is the Watershed Council's representative to the Committee.

The Groundwater Advisory Committee held its first meeting January 23. The members reviewed the goals of the three-year program and the proposed work plan. A draft series of Groundwater Fact Sheets was distributed for review and comment.

The Groundwater Protection and Education Program is being conducted by the Watershed Council under a grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation. The goal of the program is to protect Northern Michigan's groundwater from contamination through education and protection strategies as well as the identification and clean-up of existing problems.

Official Notice

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
FEBRUARY 15, 1989
SYNOPSIS

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners met in regular session on February 15, 1989, in Charlevoix.

Resolutions adopted included: adopting a resolution to ask our elected state representatives to intervene in the closing of the Traverse City Regional Psychiatric Hospital; designating the Northwest Michigan Council of Governments to act on behalf of this county with respect to any and all regional or multi-county efforts concerning planning, development and operation of community corrections programs, juvenile programs, and multi-jurisdictional minimum work camps; two separate operating fund transfers for Grandvue. Under other business there was an appointment made to the Commission on Aging Board and a plaque presentation to Bud Heeres for his service to Charlevoix County.

Copies of the complete minutes of the Board are on file in the office of the County Clerk and are available for public inspection during regular business hours.

BUSINESS

Real estate seminar offered

A real estate career night seminar will take place from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Thursday Feb. 23 at the Petoskey Holiday Inn.

Topics discussed by real estate businessmen at the meeting will include: earnings potential, time commitments, goal strategies and opportunities for the future.

There is no charge to attend the seminar as it is sponsored by Coldwell Banker-Schmidt Realtors.

Country Customs now open

Country Customs, formerly Country Coop, has opened for business at 704 Bridge Street.

Andrea Matthews, Country Customs owner, says the shop reopened Feb. 10 in the new and larger quarters.

The shop is located in a building which formerly was a house. Matthews said the layout of the old house was interesting so it was kept much the same and incorporated into the shop design. She is trying to get the house included in the historical register.

Country Customs sells craft items and clothes, many of them made by local people. The new quarters will allow expanded clothing lines and is within walking distance of downtown. The store's predecessor, Country Coop, was located on Ferry Avenue.

SHOPTALK

JACQUIE MERTA

As sure as April showers bring May flowers, May will also bring the Chamber's annual spring dance. This year's gala event will be held on Saturday, May 6, at the beautiful Belvedere Club Casino.

It would be a good idea to mark your calendar now to reserve May 6. Also for your information the high school prom is scheduled for May 13 and the perform arts dinner theatre, May 20.

Last year there were other activities scheduled for the same evening as the Charlevoix Chamber's dance. There were these functions: Charlevoix high school performing arts dinner, Crooked Tree Arts Council 5 million dollar dinner and Petoskey Chamber of Commerce annual dinner dance. Even though all of these happenings were termed "successful," the point remains that many people would have attended more than one of these events.

What we had was a failure to communicate.

The Chamber of Commerce office has attempted to serve as a clearing house to avoid scheduling conflicts within the Charlevoix community for many years. Please, if you or your organization is sponsoring an event, call the Chamber office at 547-2101, so that we may provide a more comprehensive calendar of events. We need your input as soon as dates are announced, regardless of when the event is planned.

By the way, the Charlevoix and Petoskey Chambers have coordinated their annual dinner dances, as well as the high school performing arts and Crooked Tree Council for this year.

Great Lakes fishing worth millions to economy

Great Lakes sport fishing contributed an estimated $98.6 million to Michigan's economy in 1988, according to Department of Natural Resources (DNR) figures.

The estimates are based on fishing activities from April through September and were devised from a creel survey of 65,000 anglers.

The Lake Erie fishery generated $28.7 million; Lake Huron $28.1 million and Lake Michigan $41.8 million, according to the survey.

Lake Michigan yielded an increase in rainbow trout and yellow perch catches, up 38 percent and 48 percent respectively from 1987, according to the DNR study.

Anglers spend 4.3 million hours fishing Lake Erie on an estimated 787,000 fishing trips, 74 percent more than last year's angler excursions. On Lake Huron, anglers fished 3.3 million hours on approximate 769,000 boating trips, while anglers spent more than 4.9 million hours fishing Lake Michigan on 1.1 million outings.

The $98.6 million economic benefit was determined by multiplying the number of fishing trips by $36.50, which a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service survey indicated was the average amount anglers spent on ech fishing trip for equipment, gas, food and lodging.

Rounded catch figures for the April through September surveys for each Lake follow:

Lake Erie: 2 million walleye, 320,000 yellow perch, 239,000 white bass, 193,000 channel catfish and 35,000 freshwater drum.

Lake Huron: 1.5 million yellow perch, 133,000 walleye, 105,000 chinook, 62,000 lake trout, 49,000 channel catfish, 7,100 coho, 3,400 brown trout and 2,700 rainbow trout.

Lake Michigan: 213,000 chinook, 126,000 lake trout, 58,000 rainbow trout, 53,000 coho, 23,000 brown trout and 3.2 million yellow perch.

DNR researchers credited improved water quality for high walleye spawning success in Lake Erie's improved fishery, while Lake Huron fishing success was assisted by prevailing westerly winds that kept shoreline water temperatures cool and fish close to shore.

While success rates for lake trout and brown trout remained unchanged on Lake Michigan from last year, angler catch rates for chinook and coho salmon dropped 29 percent and 55 percent respectively, and overall angler effort on the lake decreased 14 percent from 1987. That decline in fishing effort on Lake Michigan was caused mostly by the drop in angler success for chinook salmon, according to DNR fisheries researcher Jerry Rakoczy.

Reduced catch rates for salmon prompted appointment of a special Lake Michigan Task Force to look into the problem in 1987 and take recommendations about the future management of Lake Michigan. The Task Force, chaired by DNR Great Lakes Fisheries Supervisor Myrl Keller, is expected to release its final recommendations in a report later this month.

Stamps available at Glen's

Glen's Markets newest program in the area of customer service began February 1, 1989. It's a joint program between the United States Postal Service and Glen's Markets. The program allows the public to purchase postage stamps at face value, from any Glen's Market, 24 hours a day.

The Postal Service strives to be able to serve their customers when they need stamps and this is why the USPS entered into this arrangement with Glen's on the Stamps by Consignment Program. Depending onthe store, a customer can purchase either $3 or $5 booklets at their local market.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

TAKE NOTICE, That the Michigan Department of Natural Resources proposes to hold a public hearing in the Eveline Township Hall, corner of Mountain and Ferry Roads, East Jordan, Michigan, at 7:00 p.m., Thursday, the 23rd day of February, 1989.

The purpose of this hearing is to secure the views of interested persons concerning the following application for permit.

Application for permit 88-5-320 under the Inland Lakes and Streams Act (1972, P.A. 346, as amended) by Daniel M. And Kay D. Boone, East Torch Lake Drive, Route 1, Box 34E, Central Lake, Michigan 49622, to construct a 75 foot long by 5 foot wide open pile dock on Holy Island of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, T33N, R7W, Section 28, Eveline Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan.

The application may be reviewed in the Land and Water Management Division, DNR, 1732 West M-32, Gaylord, Michigan, during normal office hours.

The hearing will be held pursuant to Section 6(2) of the cited statute. The hearing will not be a court-type proceeding; witnesses will not be sworn, and there will be no cross-examination. Public hearings are primarily informational and are held to encourage the expression of views and presentation of facts.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources will, upon written request, provide a copy of the Department's decision on this application.

Post Office warns of mail and phone scams

The U.S. Postal Inspection Service is warning the public about the increasing number of "boiler room" scams that use the telephone to pitch a variety of products, usually attached to a "free gift" gimmick.

Chief Postal Inspector Charles R. Clauson says the bogus companies flood post offices with computerized mailings notifying people "they've won a prize," usually after offering for sale everything from vitamins to office supplies. "The operators then follow up with high-pressure telemarketing," Clauson says, "usually asking for money or a credit card number to cover shipping charges."

Clauson says the best way to defend against the scams is to "check out the company and call them back – without giving out your credit card number or any money – and if still suspicious, get in touch with a postal inspector through the nearest post office."

Just last week a promoter and 12 telephone pitchmen were arrested in the New York City area for misrepresenting the sale of cleaning supplies.

Several weeks ago four operators from Seattle, Washington and Las Vegas, Nevada, were arrested for mail and wire fraud for offering prizes as part of a nationwide promotion.

And in Houston, William E. Gardner, 35, operator of International Direct Mail Marketing, Inc., is awaiting sentencing after pleading guilty to mail fraud charges. He told those who responded to his mailing to call a Houston area phone number to claim a motorboat and outboard motor, he said was worth as much as $500, as part of a marketing survey. The thousands who responded – by each paying more than $120 for shipping – received an inflatable raft and motor worth $40.

—Chief Inspector Clauson says "the telephone boiler rooms have been concentrated in certain areas of the country but the victims come from all over."

Meeting to discuss wetlands act scheduled

Proposed changes in the Goemaere-Anderson Wetland Protection Act for 1979, which has affected the use of some land in this area, are being considered by the Land and Water Management Division of the Department of Natural Resources.

The proposed changes grew out of recommendations made by a citizens committee appointed to determine how the Act could best serve the largest number of people.

The proposed changes call for "General Permit Categories for Minor Activities in Wetlands". The categories represent activities that have been determined to cause minor impacts on wetlands, and include:

–Permission to place residential structures on pilings where all steps to minimize impacts have been taken.

–Requirement that construction of utilities through wetlands be done so that the wetlands will not be drained by "piping" along the utility trench.

–Permission of Mineral well drilling where minimal impact and full site restoration is insured.

–Placement of culverts for water level equalization.

–Cleanout or repair projects for existing drains in cases where permits are required.

–Replacement of on-site sewage treatment systems to replace filed systems where alternatives are not available.

The Department of Natural Resources will hold a public hearing on these proposals on Tuesday, March 9, at 1 p.m. at the Law Building Auditorium, Capital Complex, corner of Ottowa and Pine Streets, Lansing.

Copies of the proposals are available from the Land and Water Management Division, Department of Natural Resources, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Michigan 48909.

Police investigate abduction attempt

Charlevoix City Police continue to investigate an attempted abduction of a lady from the Captains Corner parking lot Feb. 14.

Police chief Dennis Halverson reports that at about 8:30 in the evening while a lady was in a store shopping, a man got into the back seat of her car and hid there. The car was parked almost directly in front of the overhang at the grocery store.

When the lady returned to her car, she got in, fastened her seat belt and the man grabbed her and told her to start driving.

She reached her hand around and jabbed the man in the face with her car keys. The man then left the car and fled on foot.

Halverson said no weapon was seen on the man and his motives are unknown. Although the lady did not see the man's face, she indicated he was a white male, approximately 6 feet four inches tall and at the time was wearing a red and black plaid coat and jeans.

Pointless action averted

By a one vote margin, the city council avoided taking an action Monday evening which probably would have proved meaningless.

Rite Aid of Michigan, Inc. has applied for a resort-SDD license which will allow them to sell liquor at their store in the Captains Corner shopping complex.

As part of a routine investigation into such applications, the state Liquor Control Commission (LCC) sends the matter before local units of government.

The reason the matter comes before local units of government is explained in a letter from the LCC to the city council.

Paragraphs two, three and four of the letter read:

"For your information, part of the investigation of the application is conducted by the local law enforcement agency and investigative forms will be released to them either in person or by mail.

"Although local governing body approval is not required by the Michigan Liquor Control Act for off-premise licenses, the local governing body, or its designee, may notify the Commission within 15 days of receipt of this letter if the applicant location will not be in compliance with all appropriate state and local building, plumbing, zoning, fire, Sanitation and health laws and ordinances, or if the applicant is considered ineligible due to other factors.

"All conditions of noncompliance must be outlined in detail, indicating the laws and ordinances applicable in this case, with a copy of the law and/or ordinance submitted with the notification.

After a brief discussion of the matter, councilman Norm Probert made a motion to deny the application, saying that he feels there are already a sufficient number of liquor stores around the community. Councilman Earl Muma seconded the motion.

When a vote was taken, councilman Ken Whitley sided with Probert and Muma in recommending denial.

Councilmen Jim Potter, Bill Haggard and Butch Russell voted against attempting to somehow deny the application.

Mayor Gary Probert ended up breaking the tie by siding with Potter, Haggard and Russell.

Hearing scheduled on waste plan

More counties want in

by PEG OHLE

When the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners holds its scheduled public hearing March 7 on the county's Solid Waste Management Plan, there will probably be some "foreigners" on hand.

As written, the plan permits waste from several counties to be deposited in the Charlevoix County Landfill in Eveline Township. Besides Charlevoix County, those counties are Antrim, Emmet, Crawford, Otsego, and Presque Isle.

Cheboygan and Kalkaska Counties are expected to have representatives at the public hearing to say, "We want in, too".

The interest of Cheboygan County was made known to Charlevoix County Board members last week by County Planner Larry Sullivan, who relayed the information. Cheboygan County Commissioners asked for a chance to sit down and talk with Charlevoix County Commissioners before the March 7 meeting, but that request was turned down by local officials, who said the public hearing was the place to go.

Cheboygan County officials have stressed they are only interested in having the waste from their Proctor & Gamble plant come to Charlevoix, noting that it is already being hauled here. Proctor & Gamble officials have said they want to continue using the Charlevoix landfill because it is the best-constructed one in the area and least likely to cause groundwater or other pollution, for which landfill users might become liable.

A new Solid Waste Management plan is being written for Kalkaska County, which would like to change its "dumping place" from the Crawford-Otsego Landfill to the Charlevoix County Landfill, also because of the reliability of the local facility.

The Charlevoix County Solid Waste Plan is still in the draft stage, requiring approval by the County Board and two-thirds of the cities and townships in the county, as well as the State Department of Natural Resources. It could be changed by the Solid Waste Planning Committee, which for two years in writing has been plagued by questions of over-use of the local landfill in recent years and demands that Charlevoix County not become "the dumping ground of the north".

The public hearing, which everyone is encouraged to attend, will start at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, March 7, in the County Building Annex.

Charlevoix made an early exit from the Class C District basketball tournament losing to Boyne City 47-41 Monday evening. Jason Corwin (25) and Webb Friedly sandwich Boyne City's Keith Harvey. Charlevoix bothered Boyne City with speed and quick hands, but Boyne City countered with height and superior rebounding.

Ordinance changes considered

City officials are forming a committee to revise the city's land-use master plan and are seeking members of the public to participate on the committee.

For several months the city planning commission has been pushing for a revision of the land-use master plan. Last fall city council members agreed to work with the planning commis-

Law officers honored

Four area law enforcement officers received awards last week for their work related to the grand jury investigation of drug trafficking in Northern Michigan.

Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman, sheriff George Lasater, deputy Mike Wheat and state police Sgt. Mike Welch received certificates and medals which were presented by former Charlevoix County prosecutor and current U.S. Attorney Roy Hayes.

Hayes quoted Sir Edmund Burke in saying, "The only thing necessary for evil to flourish is for good men to nothing."

Hayes credited the four men for taking "risks personally and professionally to step up to the window and take responsibility."

The grand jury investigation the four officers worked with resulted in 117 indictments, the majority of them for conspiracy to deliver cocaine.

Lieberman said the indictments have led to 40 arrests which have resulted in 30 guilty pleas and one case which was dismissed.

The grand jury investigation began in the summer of 1987. Lieberman said that at that time law enforcement officers had a list of approximately 200 suspected dealers in Charlevoix and Emmet County who they wanted to take a closer look at.

One of the first steps in the process took place when Lieberman, Wheat and deputy Don Schneider traveled to Detroit and met with Hayes to determine how to effectively initiate a grand jury.

Ahead-lines

School musical reigns supreme

Final preparations are being made before the multitudes descend upon the high school gym Thursday, March 9 for the seventeenth annual Elementary School Spring Musical.

At last check, Charlevoix was still considered a small town, but you wouldn't know it by the mass of people at the spring musical. Elementary school music instructor Marina LaBlance says about 500 children, give or take a few, perform in the musical and according to estimates almost 2,000 spectators attend.

For the evening performance, which begins at 7:30, the high school gym will be wall-to-wall people. The school is bringing in both extra chairs and extra bleachers for the show.

There will also be an open dress rehearsal at 9:30 a.m. There is no charge to attend either the rehearsal or the show.

LaBlance initiated the spring musical when she began teaching in Charlevoix in 1972.

"It became a real popular thing and it's become a tradition," she explained.

Every year, for 17 years now, LaBlance and the many others who work on the program have come up with a different theme for the annual show. This year's theme is "Rain" and features songs and dances pertaining to rain.

Over the years a number of groups have gotten involved and added to the program. The high school performing arts program helps with lighting and choreography. Art students work with scenery. The /band program helps with music. In some way or another, virtually everyone affiliated with the school contributes to the musical's success.

Despite the additions to the show, LaBlance is steadfast in holding it to about an hour and a half in length.

Horton Bay hosts weird winter event

Harbor Springs and Petoskey have their Winter Carnivals, Boyne City its Frostival, East Jordan its Sno-Blast, and Charlevoix its Winter Sports Festival.

They're all over for 1989. Now comes the newest and most ambitious of all local winter festivities, Horton Bay's Winter Olympics.

"Born" last year as a fundraiser for the Horton Bay Fourth of July parade, the second annual Winter Olympics is scheduled for Sunday, March 5, in and around the Bay Township Hall, and on frozen Horton Bay.

In keeping with Horton Bay tradition, the schedule of "Olympic" events reads like a three-ring circus:

Apple-bobbing through the ice; triathalon consisting of tricycle riding, gunny sack hopping, and snow shoveling; two-person shovel pull; bowling on the ice; two-man relay ski races; team volleyball games on ice (bring your own team); tug of war; miniature golf (course on ice); frozen fish toss; and backward dog sled races (people will pull their dogs on sleds. Bring own dog and sled.)

Horton Bay's elusive Windigo will come out of hibernation at 1 o'clock to carry the "Olympic" flame to the Town Hall, where it will light the local Olympic torch in a washtub atop a six-foot stepladder.

A snow shovel drill team will provide entertainment for the assembling crowd, as will well-known local balladeer Sean Ryan. Bob Munn will sing the Star Spangled Banner, and Jon Hartwelll will proclaim the "opening of the games". From there on it's fun for all and competition for the hardy. All events will be geared to children as well as adults, and will be on-going.

Food, including chili, chili dogs, bean soup, coffee and cocoa, will be available at the Town Hall shortly after noon and will be served until the events are finished, probably about 4 o'clock. Some food will also be available at the scene of the ice events. Horton Bay's own Athletic Supporters will be in charge of the food.

In addition to the competitive events, horse and buggy rides around the village will be available, and a fortune teller will be on hand to bolster any lagging spirits.

Jan Eggers is organizing the event. She has been challenged by Jon Hartwell to raise $150 which, if accomplished, will prompt him to swallow 13 live wigglers, one more than he imbibed last year.

Radio Station WLTO will do spot broadcasting throughout the afternoon,

Participants in each Olympic event will be asked for a $1 donation. The three top winners in each event will receive certificates to be awarded at the Town Hall at the end of the games.

Tapes of last year's Fourth of July parade will be for sale during the day. Proceeds from these sales will also go toward expenses of the 1989 parade.

For more information, call Jan Eggers, phone 582-3551.

The frozen fish throw is only one of the strange events scheduled for this weekends Horton Bay Winter Olympics. Other events include bobbing for apples through the ice and volleyball on ice.

sion in a revision.

Since that time, a committee has been in the process of forming. The committee will consist of representatives of the council, planning commission, recreation commission and housing commission.

At last Wednesday evening's planning commission meeting, a recommendation was made that members of the general public (one from each of the city's three wards) also be sought to serve on the revision committee.

The planning commission felt that was a good idea and is asking interested parties to contact Linda Weller at the planner's office (547-3654) to express interest.

In other planning commission matters, the commission is looking at clarifying the section of the zoning ordinance dealing with berms and plant material. The clarifications will specify construction techniques and materials suitable for berms.

The planning commission is also considering a modification of the city zoning ordinance which would allow certain types of three-foot high fences in front yards.

ceremony, which took place Thursday afternoon in the courtroom of the county building. It was attended by circuit court judge Richard Pajtas, probate court judge Frederick Mulhauser, district court judge Harvey Varnum and several other members of the area law enforcement community.

Family members of the four honored officers were also recognized.

Schneider credited the courts for smoothly handling the extra workload created by the grand jury investigation. He also expressed gratitude to the people who served on the grand jury and to the citizens of the county.

Hayes called the grand jury proceedings something which "...needed to be done and should have been done in other places as well."

Solid waste grants available

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will accept applications between January 17, 1989, and April 17, 1989, for projects submitted for funding under the Solid Waste Alternatives portion of the Quality of Life Bond Program.

Application forms for grants and loans may be obtained from the Resource Recovery Section of the DNR's Waste Management Division, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909. 517-373-0504.

The applications are based on proposed rules and will not be acted upon until rules are adopted, but all interested in applying should do so within the listed time frame to expedite processing.

Voter approval of the Quality of Life Bond Proposals (Proposals C and D wich were approved in November) resulted in the availability of $150 million for projects addressing solid waste management needs in Michigan.

Under this program grants and loans will be available for projects in 11 categories: recycling projects; composting projects; household hazardous waste center; landfill-dump closures; transfer stations; waste to energy projects; market development research and demonstration projects and "Clean Michigan Community" demonstration projects.

OPINIONS

REASONABLE TO ME

L. SCOTT SWANSON

What it takes to be a pirate

As I jabbed a shovel into a snowbank in the back yard, it dawned on me that I probably would have made a poor excuse for a pirate.

I would have failed miserably at the buried treasure part of pirating. To be a good pirate, one needed not only to be able to bury treasure, but to later find where you'd buried it.

This past summer, my wife had me bury an old garbage can in the back yard as a compost bin. Sunday, she wanted me to put some dead grapefruits in it.

The back yard was covered with snow, but since I was the one who'd planted the can, I figured I'd have no difficulty finding it. Despite what I figured, it took me half an hour to locate the can lid.

Somewhat like a pirate I referred to landmarks to get my bearings. I lined myself up between the corner of the dog house, the clothes line pole and the end of the raspberry patch.

Although I eventually found what I'd buried, it would have been a poor showing for a pirate seeking buried millions in silver and gold booty.

Despite my shortcomings in the buried treasure department, I suppose I'd have been handy enough at other aspects of pirating.

Given practice, I'd have become reasonably proficient at leaping from my pirate ship over the rails of merchant ships without falling backwards into the water.

With concentration and care, I'd have learned to carry a knife between my teeth without developing a permanent smile extending from ear to ear.

Swashbuckling was the tricky part of pirating, but after some apprentice work, I'd have gotten so I could hold a sword in one hand and swing on a rope with the other without hurting myself.

In the hey-day of pirating, rope swinging while sword holding was the easiest way to tell an expert pirate from a novice. When swinging down from a high mast into a fierce battle on the deck below, an expert pirate would yell something fearless like, "Avast ye scurvy dogs. Prepare to die." While executing the same rope swing, a novice pirate wouldn't yell anything. He'd just quietly mutter to himself, "I'll be lucky if I don't bust my butt here."

Sword play was a key to being a good pirate and I could have handled that. Pirate sword play was simply a matter of combining well-honed equipment with well-honed skills.

A good pirate always kept his sword both sharp and clean. The best pirates, the equivalent of black belts in martial arts, (only in pirates they were ranked by beard color; i.e. black beard, blue beard, red beard, etc.) could kill a person and clean their swords at the same time. On the thrust stroke, they would skewer a person's gizzard. As they withdrew the sword, these expert pirates would turn their wrists ever so slightly so the sword would be wiped clean on the victim's shirt.

Such a deft display of swordsmanship was beautiful to behold...provided you weren't the one left with the bloody shirt.

Boat boarding, knife holding, swashbuckling, gizzard skewering, I could have learned it all. The only thing that would have kept me from being an A-number-one pirate would have been locating the buried treasure. I couldn't have found all of my buried treasure even if I'd buried it in my own back yard.

Letters to the Editor:

Bandshell: keep off the glass

Dear Editor:

I would like to share a letter that I received from Harold P. Geerdes, Consultant in Architectural Acoustics and authority in Music Facility Planning. His letter pertains to the Odmark Pavilion. I quote–

"Let me go on record as strongly opposed to the request of some local citizens for glass side walls to the band pavilion... The architect and I have carefully worked out the structure and I stand by them as recommended and planned. The stage should be surrounded with hard, sound-reflecting materials. Glass is a low frequence absorber and its use should be minimized as much as possible in the stage area."

"The issue of rest rooms and their location is not an acoustical matter, but if I may comment on that issue too, let me say that locating rest room facilities close off-stage is good planning. Artists and performers should have the convenience of easy access to these facilities, both for pre-concert use and at hurried intermission times. To move them further away from the stage would not be appreciated by any of the performers for years in the future, I assure you."

It is imperative that we move ahead at once and release the specs for bids, if we expect to have the Odmark Pavilion completed for the summer season. Fran Tollas has received several more applications from highly skilled, professional entertainers and are eager to perform for us this summer in the well-designed, permanent facility.

Swimming pool worth taxes

Dear Editor,

I wonder how consistent L. Scott Swanson is when it comes to public improvement by taxation. Tax money is being spent for the Band Shell and the walkway under the bridge. Some people don't walk, others don't like music, I support both.

New industries look over the recreational facilities in a town prior to settling here as well as education for the children of their employees.

What better than safety for the children and therapy for the older generation?

Police auxiliary require monetary support

Dear Editor,

It is with deep regret that I write this letter to the business people of Charlevoix. We, the Charlevoix Woman's Club, spearheaded a drive to secure donations for the Charlevoix Auxiliary Policemen. They work hard on a volunteer basis and give of their time and energies, to help keep Charlevoix a safe and better place to live.

We were disappointed as to the small response we received from our Charlevoix business people. As in most cases budgets have been cut and much of their expenses and equipment have been limited and cut-back, some uniforms and materials have been paid for by these men themselves.

As citizens of Charlevoix we feel any donations that can be spared, should be forwarded to this cause. Any private citizen that has a few dollars to donate - it would be appreciated.

Don't you feel your security and welfare is worth a small donation? No amount is too small! Mail your donations to Mrs. Ida Nall, Charlevoix Woman's Club, P.O. Box 182, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

If Judy and I appear more than a little anxious these days, you can blame it on the fact that we are expecting a couple of very important visitors from overseas sometime after April 1.

They are our grandsons, James and John Henry Briggs, who presently are residents of Okinawa.

We met James briefly in 1986 when he was less than a year old and his parents, Matt and Katie Briggs, spent a few days in Charlevoix en route from Texas to the Far East.

John Henry is a total stranger. He was born on Okinawa last July 12 and has never been off the island. And we have never been on it.

Son-in-law Matt has decided to leave the Air Force and return to civilian life. The family plans to settle in Michigan.

"Anywhere in Michigan," says Katie. "Just so long as we can see snow."

I do not share Katie's enthusiasm for inclement weather, but it will be nice to have them back in Michigan. The last time I checked a road map, no spot in this sprawling dominion is more than a day's drive from Charlevoix.

The Briggs family plans to leave Okinawa March 30, "out-process" in San Francisco March 31 and arrive at Detroit's Metro Airport sometime April 1. Of course, we plan to meet the plane, but we expect it will be a week or so before our visitors actually arrive in Charlevoix. There are almost as many grandparents, great-grandparents, uncles, aunts and cousins as there are pine trees between Metro Airport and Northern Michigan.

Although the big jump from Okinawa to Michigan probably won't bother little John Henry, young James is a different story. I find myself wondering whether he will like us, whether chilly Northern Michigan will suit him and whether he will laugh at little old Charlevoix after all the world traveling he has done.

He learned to walk in our dining room when he was nine months old, but I am sure he doesn't remember a single thing about the United States.

Is he going to insist on sushi at every meal?

Will he prefer rice to mashed potatoes?

Will he be disappointed with Lake Michigan after growing up on the shore of the East China Sea?

THEN THERE IS the matter of his wife.

The other day James informed Katie that he was going to "buy" himself a wife before returning to the states.

I don't know where he got the idea that wives are bought and sold, but who knows what goes on in the inscrutable Oriental mind?

If he finds a wife before the trip home, I suppose we will have to be prepared to welcome a granddaughter-in-law as well.

We learned of their estimated time of arrival shortly after the first of the year and I was afraid the intervening months would drag on interminably. But the days, weeks and months have evaporated like December snow and their ETA is now only one month away.

In the meantime, Judy is putting the final touches on a bright red flight bag which James is supposed to carry aboard the plane for the trip home.

I only hope it is big enough for the little wife he plans to bring with him.

SPEAKING OF Pacific islands, Joan Rasmussen of Petoskey told me an interesting story the other day about Guam, where her daughter and family are stationed.

Last week Joan tried to reach her daughter by phone. Mindful of the many hours difference between Guam and Michigan, she timed the call to reach her kinfolk as they were preparing for bed.

No answer. She tried again. Still no answer.

Of course, Joan imagined the worst. They had all been injured in an auto accident. One of the kids had taken sick and mama and daddy were standing vigil at the hospital. You know how it goes.

So Joan waited a few hours and tried again, placing her call at the time her family normally would be getting up in the morning.

Still no answer. Panic began to set in.

Later that day she tried their number again and her son-in-law answered the phone.

He assured her that everyone was fine — but that electricity to 90 percent of Guam had been off for almost 24 hours after a giant tree snake had become entangled in power lines.

Aren't we lucky that our snakes are poor climbers!

Tom O'Reilly of Comunity Intervention, Inc. conducted a workshop last week for approximately 60 teachers and other interested persons on the subject of adolescent use, abuse and dependancy on alcohol and controlled substances. The workshop, lasting six hours, followed an evening meeting at which O'Reilly addressed the subject, "Can this be happening in Charlevoix?"

Don't put nuclear waste dump in Michigan

Letter to the Editor:

Remember Love Canal? Toxic pollution so widespread it endangered the lives of an entire community and forced families to abandon forever their homes and property?

It's scheduled to happen right here in Michigan unless we do something right now to stop it. Without immediate steps, not only is our Water Wonderland doomed to become a toxic Wasteland, but we and our children could become an endangered species!

State officials, without the knowledge and approval of most of us, have agreed to let Michigan become a toxic dump for the poisonous and radioactive wastes of seven states.

They are putting at risk the safety of 27 million people by threatening the contamination of 95 percent of our nation's fresh water - the Great Lakes and all the rivers and water basins of the region, including even the underground water tables. All against the advice of national science groups and health authorities, who warn that the waste dump will leak!

We need your help to stop this madness which could risk all that we love and live here for! Please join us in letting Governor Blanchard and our legislators know how we feel. Write to Don't Waste Michigan - Northern Chapter, Box 445, Petoskey 49770.

Nursery center offers swimming pool support

Dear Editor,

The Board of Directors of Charlevoix Children's House is writing in support of the proposed community pool in Charlevoix. As parents of young children we recognize the need for year round experience in the water to acquire swimming skills and learn basic water safety.

Every summer our children enjoy our waters recreationally. Yet they are generally unprepared in terms of water safety skills. If the Pool Steering Committee proceeds as planned, the recommended site will be at the Charlevoix K-5 school. As a board we see obvious advantages to this location. These include (10 K-5 children would have swimming as part of the regular curriculum, (2) K-5 children would not have to be bussed to another location for lessons. Middle school and high school children are more independently mobile (3) K-5 children, as well as other groups, must become competent in the water, as our community is literally surrounded by it.

While we support placement of the pool at the K-5 school, our Board would support this pool project regardless of it's location. We feel that is is essential to the safety and health of our children.

This letter has focused on the benefits of a community pool to children but not to be ignored would be its other vast uses as well. These might include senior swim, family free swim, lap swim and other exercise programs, handicapped swim and competitive swim. This pool could be enjoyed by every member of our community who chooses to utilize it. We encourage you to support the efforts of the Charlevoix Pool Steering Committee.

County continues seeking funds for Ironton Ferry

Charlevoix County's efforts to obtain some state funding to operate the Ironton Ferry recently received a setback when the Department of Transportation (DOT) denied the county's request.

In making the request, the county noted that the Eastern Upper Peninsula Transportation Authority receives a 50 percent cost operating subsidy for operations between the mainland and the the islands of Sugar, Neebish, and Drummond.

In reply, the DOT noted that, "In the case of this system there are no alternative roads, bridges, or transportation means available to the citizens of those communities...Because it is possible to travel around Lake Charlevoix, we do not consider the Ironton Ferry service to be an essential transportation need".

State Senator Mitch Irwin and State Representative Ralph Ostling have been trying to help with this problem and have included funding for the ferry in budget bills for the past two years but it has been deleted. Irwin and Ostling say they will work together for legislative support and will try again this year, also asking for the support of Governor Blanchard.

Motorcycle classes offered

For the fourth consecutive year, Central Michigan University will offer motorcycle rider education courses in 18 Michigan counties this spring and summer.

Courses will be available to residents of Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Clare, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Isabella, Kalkaska, Lake, Leelanau, Manistee, Mason, Mecosta, Missaukee, Newaygo, Oceana, Oseceola, and Wexford counties.

State law requires successful completion of the course by all 16- and 17-year-old motorcycle operators before they make application for an original motorcycle endorsement on their operators's license.

The 15- to 20-hour courses will run two to three days each and are scheduled at various sites from April through August.

For the complete summer schedule, or for more information, contact Paula Russell, Continuing Education and Community Services, Rowe 126, CMU, Mt. Pleasant 48859.

Guild gives scholarships

Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild is offering a medical scholarship of $400 per year for a maximum of four years.

This scholarship is open on a competitive basis to high school graduates who wish to enter approved schools for any phase of practice within the field of medicine.

The applicant must reside in the area served by the hospital and must have applied for admission to an accredited school before applying for the scholarship and be financially worthy.

Persons wishing to apply should contact their school counselor or write: Scholarship Committee, Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild, Lake Shore Dr., Charlevoix by April 1, 1989.

Nursery hosting open house

The Charlevoix Cooperative Nursery School will host an open house Wednesday, March 8 from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. Children who will be three-years old by this coming September are welcome to attend and they're encouraged to bring their parents.

The cooperative nursery is located at the elementary school and is taught by Sandy LaVoie who is assisted by Gayle Levengood. Both will be available at the open house to answer questions.

Registration for nursery school will take place Tuesday, March 17. Returning students will register from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. Alumni (students whose siblings have attended the nursery school) will register between 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. New students will register from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

For additional information, call 547-4803.

PTA meeting next Tuesday

Parents' role in the development of their children's self-esteem is the subject of the upcoming meeting of the Charlevoix PTA. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 7, in the school library.

Mirrors, a 15-minute film produced by the National PTA and Keebler Company, will be shown at the meeting. The thought-provoking film demonstrates the powerful effect parents' words and actions have on their children. It dramatizes everyday situations in which parents damage their children's self-esteem without meaning to or knowing it. It also shows how parents can dramatically improve children's self-esteem by subtly altering the way they communicate with their children.

Also on the agenda is a presentation of the DARE Program being used in the school by a representative of the County Sheriff's Department.

The PTA encourages all interested parents and community members to attend.

The "Blue Fin" under way on Lake Michigan is one of Terry Salmonson's eight pictures in the Michigan Sesqui-Centennial book, "Michigan, a Professional Photographic Salute."

Local photos part of Michigan book

by PEG OHLE

It was a hazy morning in Charlevoix on June 1, 1987, when local photographer Terry Salmonson and his assistant, Tom Pecard, set out at 4:30 on a picture-taking assignment.

The assignment, to spend the day taking pictures around Charlevoix and northern Antrim counties, was part of a project organized by photographer Paul J. Shanks of Greenville for the Michigan Sesqui-Centennial Committee.

It was a long day, lasting until 9 o'clock that evening, during which Salmonson traveled about 200 miles and took over 700 pictures with two different cameras.

Salmonson was one of 30 Certified Photographers of Michigan who participated in this picture-taking project to report a day in the lives of Michigan people 150 years after the state was founded.

Many of the pictures were displayed throughout Michigan in special Sesqui-Centennial showings, and now a selected number are available in a book titled, "Michigan, A Professional Photographic Salute." Eight of Salmonson's photographs are reproduced in the book.

The log of Salmonson's picture-taking activities that day in 1987 reveals the locations of many picturesque spots in and around Charlevoix. He took his first picture at 4:45 at the Medusa Cement Company, where the plant's lights were reflected in the calm, still waters of Lake Michigan.

At 5 o'clock, he was at the Charlevoix lighthouse on the pierhead, and at 5:05, he began taking a long series of pictures of Charlevoix Harbor and the boats docked there, including the square rigger "Welcome", the "Blue Fin" charter fishing boat, and the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter "Mesquite." He also caught the sun rising over the harbor. This picture, taken at 5:45, is included in the book, as are pictures of the "Welcome" and the "Blue Fin".

From the harbor, Salmonson set his sights on Lake Michigan, catching the "Blue Fin" and a commercial fishing tug in action. Then, at 8:45, he headed south on U.S. 31, stopping to take pictures of the "World's Largest Cherry Pie" monument and Charlevoix Township Fire House No. 2.

At Atwood, the Elzinga Farm Market provided some subject matter, as did a bright green tractor, a field worker at VanHouten's farm, and a herd of beef cattle. Pictures of Gary DeYoung on the tractor and Shan L. Louis in the field are also part of the book.

At 10:30, Salmonson was in Elk Rapids, where he photographed a fisherman at the power dam, lupins in the Anderson garden, the Chamber of Commerce's advertising swan, and a live swan and her signets. Shortly after 11 o'clock, he was photographing a field of poppies in Kewadin, and at 11:30, he was at the Torch River bridge taking a picture of a swan.

Torch Lake provided opportunities to photograph more swans, Canadian geese, and sea gulls. During the noon hour in Alden, Salmonson photographed the Candles and Flannels Shop, the Spencer Creek Restaurant, the United Methodist Church, and the Mill House.

Architecture was the subject matter in Bellaire, where Salmonson took pictures of the County Courthouse, the Antrim County News office, several houses, and Shanty Creek Resort.

Central Lake provided some picture opportunities as Salmonson headed for East Jordan, where the East Jordan Iron Works and several American indian subjects were photographed. Included in the latter was a portrait of Chief Geshiknung, which is reproduced in the book, a totem pole, and tepees inside and out.

Heading back west, Salmonson photographed the already much-photographed ferry at Ironton, the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, and taxidermist Jeff Lutz with a brown trout. Crossing the South Arm and proceeding toward Boyne City, the village of Advance was caught in the camera's eye.

Landscape scenes of Boyne City were followed by shots of Walloon Lake Village and the West Arm of Walloon Lake.

By 7 o'clock in the evening, Salmonson was back in Charlevoix, taking pictures of a Little League ball game, the Lake Michigan Beach, some Earl Young houses, and boats under sail. As twilight fell over the city, Salmonson boarded a plane to take some aerial shots to close out a long, busy day.

"Michigan, A Professional Photographic Salute" contains 150 of the 7,000 photographs taken by the 30 photographers who spent June 1, 1987 "snapping Michigan." It was compiled by Shanks, who is also a Certified Photographer. The book can be purchased at Terry Salmonson's Aartvark Studio in the Market Mall, Charlevoix.

Three lead school in annual essay contest

Three students from Charlevoix Middle School in Charlevoix have been named local winners in the 20th annual American & Me Essay Contest, sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance.

The three students, who earned the first, second and third place awards for their school, are Cara Miller, first; Maclyn Harshman, second; and Heidi Dietrich, third. All three received award certificates for their achievement. As the school's first place winner, Cara Miller's name will also be engraved on a plaque for permanent display in the school.

Cara's first place essay now advances to the state level competition, from which the top ten essays in Michigan will be selected. The top ten statewide winners, who will be announced in May, will receive plaques and U.S. savings bonds valued from $500 to $1,000. In addition, the top ten essayists will be honored at a banquet in Lansing and at a meeting with Michigan's top governmental leaders in late May.

These three young ladies are the top local finishers in the Farm Bureau "America and Me" essay contest. They are (from left) Maclyn Harshman, second place, Cara Miller, first place, and Heidi Dietrich, third place.

Mental health booklet printed

A new guide has been published aimed at helping improve the quality of life for families with a member who has mental illness. Publication involved a major Michigan citizen's group and one of the state's largest public agencies.

The initial 50,000-issue press run of "Mental Illness: A Family Resource Guide" was announced to State Alliance for the Mentally Ill (AMI) of Michigan chapters a few days ago.

The 28-page guide is a resource to understanding the more sever forms of mental illness; how to deal with public and private mental health clinics, hospitals and practitioners; medications and their side effects; and the way a family might contend with every day life when a loved one is affected by a debilitating mental illness; and tips on effective advocacy.

"We have worked long and diligently on this project, and are proud to say it is now available to everyone for the cost of shipping and handling," said state AMI President Carol Rees of Ann Arbor, the guide's principal author. "We have great hope that many persons can be given aid and assistance by it."

The state AMI is comprised of about 2,000 families or persons with sons, daughters, spouses or other friends or relatives who have mental illness. There is an AMI chapter serving most counties in the state. The State AMI is an affiliate of the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill.

The Michigan Department of Mental Health provided $10,000 to print and circulate the "Family Resource Guide." A supply of the booklets is being distributed at no charge to all state hospitals, community psychiatric inpatient unit, and community mental health boards for distribution to families whose relatives with serious mental illness are initially entering the mental health system.

The "Family Resource Guide" is available for one dollar ($1) per copy, to pay for the cost of shipping and mailing. It is available from the State Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Michigan, 24133 Northwestern Hwy., Suite 103, Southfield 48075. For more information, contact a local chapter or the state AMI at 313-355-0010.

4H archery club forming

There is a new 4-H Archery Club forming in Charlevoix County. The Archery club will meet from March 4 to May 1 at Whiting Park on Ferry Road.

The first meeting will be on Saturday, March 4, from 10 a.m. until noon. There is a $1 fee per meeting to cover the cost of equipment. Members will learn basic archery safety and shooting techniques. The first course will be a basic instructional archery program with more advanced techniques to follow.

Red Cross plans new blood lab

The American Red Cross will soon begin raising money for a new blood laboratory and blood processing facility which will serve Charlevoix and 16 other Northern Michigan counties.

David Knapp, Red Cross regional marketing and communications director, said the current facility, which is a rented building in Petoskey, has been cited three times by federal authorities for overcrowded conditions.

Red Cross plans to raise $975,000 for a new 14,000 square foot building which will be located at Mitchell Park, near Petoskey.

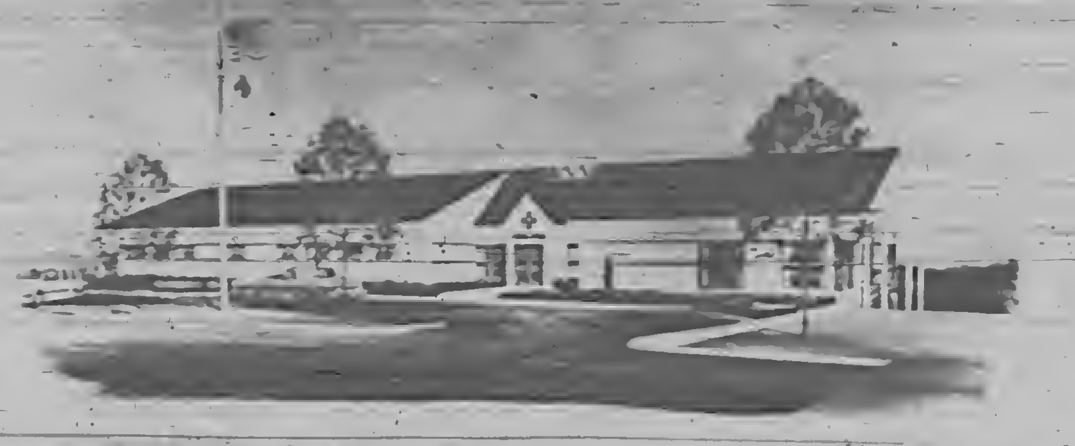
Currently, Red Cross has raised $493,000. By mid June they want to be at 70 percent ($682,500) of the total amount so they can begin the bidding process. If all goes well in fundraising, construction can begin in September. During April, there will be a big fundraising push in this area.

Although the facility will be located in Petoskey, Knapp stressed that it will benefit all of Northern Michigan.

Knapp said the facility will be a full-service lab which tests blood and processes it into its separate components.

People will also be able to donate the blood at the lab, either for public donations or to bank blood for themselves for an anticipated operation.

The need for blood in Northern Michigan is growing due to population growth and a higher percentage of elderly people in the population. Knapp explained that elderly people use more blood because of the nature of their health problems. They undergo surgical procedures which require large amounts of blood.



The Red Cross plans to build a new laboratory in Northern Michigan to assure the region of a continued supply of safe blood.

Knapp said that at this time Northern Michigan is self-sufficient, or nearly self-sufficient, in that people from the area donate as much blood as is needed by people from the area. That situation is ideal and Knapp said he hopes it can remain that way.

4H initiating new food program

Children between five and eight years old are energetic, ambitious and eager to learn about the world around them. To meet their needs, the Michigan 4-H Youth Programs is introducing the first in a series of learning materials especially for five to eight year olds.

"Snackin' Health" teaches basic nutrition education and safe food preparation skills in a format designed to make learning enjoyable and meaningful to this age range.

The activities are designed to be developmentally appropriate for five to eight year-olds, they are hands-on, and children learn best when they are actively involved in learning.

The materials include a leader's guide with seven one-hour lessons and helpful information about what a leader can expect from five to eight year-olds. Leaders can also order a set of food cards that reinforce the ideas the children learn at the meetings.

In addition to introduction and summary lessons, five of the sessions each focus on one type of food, such as milk products, fruits, vegetables, grains and protein foods. Youngsters learn about each type of food and why it is good for them. The fruit lesson, for example, stresses the importance of eating fruit because it contains vitamin C that helps heal cuts and bruises.

The active games and songs that accompany the materials allow youngsters to expend their energies in a constructive and fun way.

For more information about "Snackin' Health" or other 4-H food and nutrition projects, contact the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Office at 582-6232.

Students attend sex equity workshop

Exploring how sexual stereotypes can influence career choices and learning to present workshops on sex equity issues kept about 30 high school students from throughout Northern Michigan busy when they attended at two-day "Achieving Sex Equity Through Students" (ASETS) workshop in Mackinaw City recently.

Sponsored by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermeidate and Eastern Upper Peninsula Intermediate school districts and the Michigan Department of Education Technical Assistance Project, which administers sex equity and single parent homemaker grants for local schools, the seminar offered students an in-depth look at sex equity issues. At the same time, they were taught techniques and material that they'll be able to use to present mini-workshops to eighth through tenth graders in their own school districts.

Students who participated were selected for academic excellence and leadership skills and were accompanied by an advisor from each district, explained Holly Girardin, Char-Em's regional technical consultant and one of the program coordinators. Schools represented included Petoskey, Charlevoix, Pellston, Detour, Traverse Bay Area Vocational Center, Fairview, Pickford, Brimley and Cedarville. In addition, two student interns from Lake Superior State College also attended.

Their schedule was packed with sessions that offered opportunities for brainstorming, individual presentations, creating posters, values comparisons and interviewing a panel of men and women whose careers represent non-traditional choices.

"The idea is to create an awareness of sexual stereotyping and how that might influence their career choices," said Jim Mahrt, one of the ASETS presenters. "But even more important is the opportunity to develop leadership skills, because the kids develop an awful lot in terms of feeling comfortable about getting up in front of a group.

"The content is sex equity, but one of the big outcomes is leadership. And we don't try to do right from wrong. I think they generally become more flexible in how they perceive things."

Girl Scout cookies on sale

Cast your diet unto the wind

Wanted in April: a package of those mint Girl Scout cookies, a half gallon of ice-cold milk and a great basketball game on TV.

Cows make milk every day, the Pistons look good for the playoffs and the time has come to act on those cookies.

Between Feb. 24 and March 5, local Girl Scouts will be selling cookies. The cookies will be delivered and a few local booth sales conducted at various community location April 4 through April 14.

Approximately 3,400 girls and 800 adult volunteers are involved in the Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council activities. Revenues from the annual cookie sale supports local Girl Scout activities.

Cookie fiends who through some terrible error are not contacted by a Girl Scout prior to March 5 may take steps to remedy this calamity by phoning the Council Service Center at 947-7534 or 1-800-678-1271 to order cookies.

Dancers stepping lively

The movie "Tapping" has rekindled an interest in tap dancing for many people across the nation, but for some people in Charlevoix tap dancing and ballet is an interest they've already been pursuing.

Dance classes, instructed by Nel Vickers, began last fall in the middle school cafeteria. The classes occur on Tuesday afternoons and evenings. Students in the classes range in age from preschool to adult.

Vickers says there are about 60 students in the various classes which are broken down not only by age, but also by experience.

Preschool students participate in a class called "Creative Movement" which is kind of a dance primer course.

Older students choose between ballet and tap.

Lessons are an hour-long and cost $4 per lesson. The lessons are done in 10-week sessions with the next session beginning following spring break. Vickers said it isn't uncommon, for students to take dance classes for part of the year and then skip a particular 10-week session while they participate in another activity such as basketball or skiing.

Both ballet and tap dance classses are being offered in Charlevoix. Among the ballerinas are (from left) Andrea Jackson, Courtney Webb and Sara Furman.

New members join health board

Charlevoix County Commissioner Tom Breakey will serve as secretary-treasurer for the District Health Department Number 3 Board of Health during 1989.

The board is made up of two county commissioners from each of the four counties served by the Dist. 3 Health Dept. The other Charlevoix County Commissioner on the board is Ralph Harmon.

At a recent organizational meeting, Wilfred Sterzik of Emmet County was elected chairman and Betty Crook of Otsego County was elected vice chairperson.

Other board members are: Shannon Brower, Emmet County; Dick Yuill, Otsego County; William Kennedy and Willard VanderArk, Antrim County.

CHURCH

Clarence A. Odmark

Clarence A. Odmark, 72, longtime Charlevoix band director, died Feb. 23, 1989, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral was Monday, Feb. 27, at the First Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum officiated and burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Odmark was born July 19, 1916, in Muskegon, the son of August and Julia Odmark. He was raised at Spring Lake and graduated from Grand Haven High School in 1934. He had attended and graduated from Eastern Michigan University with a bachelor of science degree in music education. He majored in instrumental music and held minors in political science and French.

Mr. Odmark taught at Almont High School and in the Detroit public school system before moving to Charlevoix.

During World War II, he served with the 311th Air Force Band at Shaw Field in South Carolina.

Mr. Odmark married the former Janet L. Stewart on Oct. 25, 1942, in Detroit.

The couple moved to Charlevoix in 1946 when Mr. Odmark accepted a teaching position with the Charlevoix public schools. He taught instrumental music on the high school level in Charlevoix for 29 years and at a silver anniversary in 1971, it was noted that Charlevoix bands directed by him qualified with first division ratings in the district for 24 of the 25 years he was involved. Those bands also received first division ratings in state competition 13 times. When the community honored Odmark on that 25th anniversary, a plaque in his honor was placed in the "Clarence Odmark room" by the Band Boosters and the Charlevoix Board of Education. For many years, he was affectionately known as "Mr. Music."

Besides teaching instrumental music in the Charlevoix schools, Mr. Odmark was director of the Charlevoix city band for more than 20 years, beginning in 1948.

Odmark was instrumental in the construction of the original band shell in East Park in the late 1950s. The shell was demolished last fall to make way for the new Clarence A. Odmark Pavilion which will be constructed this spring.

He was instrumental in the organization of District II of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association (MSBOA) and was a charter member of the American School Band Directors' Association. He had served several posts in the MSBOA including treasurer and chairman of the music education workshop. He had served as adjudicator at state band festivals for many years and in 1965 he was chosen Band Director of the Year by the MSBOA. In that capacity, he directed the MSBOA Honors Band at Flint during the Michigan Week festivities.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church and directed the church choir for many years. He also was director of the Charlevoix Community Choir and served as vice president of the Northern Michigan Community Concerts Association.

Mr. Odmark is survived by: his wife; two sons, Richard E. of San Antonio, Texas and Robert S. of Arlington, Va.; one daughter, Julie Ann Odmark of Charlevoix; six grandchildren; one brother, Ronald E. of Dearborn.

The family suggests memorials to the C.A. Odmark Band Pavilion or to the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

Funeral arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by Jan Boss
Community Reformed Church

Psalms 96:1-9

I was walking down the shore of Lake Michigan by Fisherman's Island in October thinking, dreaming, praising and reflecting. The air was crisp, the trees - orange, red, yellow and green; the sky blue (the one and only day of the fall); the water calm and a deep blue color. What a gift! What a day!

"It doesn't get any better than this, I said to myself. I even skipped a stone three whole skips (that's good for me.) Then I remembered early last spring, just as the leaves were coming on the trees, a warm breeze blowing, the gentle lapping of the water, and the sweet smells of spring, thinking what a day that was too. And what about the summer on that same beach – hot, clear, and the sounds of playing children and adults – what a day that was too. Each season at that beach holds a special memory for me. Each time I am there I think, "It doesn't get any better than this!"

I have many of those same feelings as Easter approaches. This time of lent is a time to reflect, think, dream, and praise. A time to realize what a great gift of a Savior we were given by a loving Father. What a gift! What love God must have for us to give us such a gift, and what love Christ has for us in leaving heaven to save us. Christ is the reason to Celebrate. What a gift - what a season - it doesn't get any better than this!

Blake E. Russell

Blake E. Russell, 17, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 21, 1989, at his home.

Funeral was Thursday, Feb. 23, at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Thom Black of the First Baptist Church officiated. Burial will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Russell was born Aug. 19, 1971, in Saginaw, the son of William E. and Celia I. (Penny Hibbler) Russell. He grew up in Zilwaukee and has lived in Charlevoix with his parents since 1982.

He attended the Char-Em Intermediate School in Ironton.

Survivors include: his parents, Bill and Penny Russell of Charlevoix; one brother, Jeffery Scott Russell of Petoskey; one sister, Lorraine Marie Russell of Charlevoix; a nephew, Zachary Blake Russell of Charlevoix; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Russell of Charlevoix; his maternal grandmother, Cecilia Hibbler of Morris, Ill.; his maternal great-grandfather, George Hibbler of Petoskey.

The family suggests memorials to the Crippled Childrens Fund. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Jewell and Dale Martin

Perry-Martin

Jewell Dean Perry and Dale L. Martin, both of Charlevoix, were united in marriage Dec. 3, 1983, at the Church of Christ in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Perry of Tennessee.

The groom, a graduate of Onaway High School, is the son of Harry and Jane Taylor, Cheboygan.

Given in marriage by Jim McCallum, the bride wore a satin and lace gown with lace trimmed neck and sleeves, a full skirt and a chapel-length train. She carried a bouquet of assorted carnations and baby's breath.

The maid of honor was Sharon McCallum, a friend of the bride and groom.

Best man was Dan Martin of Pontiac, brother of the groom.

The couple will make their home in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix makes early 1989 tournament exit

In a game that was something less than a masterpiece, Charlevoix lost the District Tournament opener 47-41 to Boyne City Monday evening.

The game provided an interesting match-up. Charlevoix came in with a quick, but small team. Boyne City is a tall team, but their players are neither particularly agile nor deft with their hands.

Charlevoix utilized a full-court press with success whenever the opportunity presented itself. They were particularly effective when pressing following a basket. Unfortunately for the Rayders, baskets were few and far between.

Early in the game, Boyne City matched Charlevoix in the ineffective scoring department. The first minute of the game was scoreless. At the end of the first quarter the score was only 8-6 in favor of Boyne City.

Charlevoix played a pressing, man-to-man defense. Boyne City played a packed in zone. Offensively, Boyne City tried to work the ball inside, but frequently threw it away or had it flicked away by Rayder defenders. Charlevoix passed the ball around the perimeter, but Boyne City adjusted and kept a tall person in the face of whatever Rayder had the ball.

Midway through the second quarter, Charlevoix led 15-12 following a three-point shot by Jason Corwin. Boyne City was occasionally applying a full-court press. Charlevoix had only minimal difficulty getting the ball upcourt against the press, but seldom cashed in with a basket.

With 2:26 remaining in the half, Rambler coach Mike Wallace called a time-out. Following the time-out, Boyne City scored six unanswered points on two Wayne Avery free-throws and two baskets by Keith Harvey.

The half closed with Boyne City leading 18-15.

Boyne City opened strong in the third quarter, scoring nine straight points. Less than three minutes into the second half, Rayder coach Jim Kanine found his team 11 points down and called a time-out.

For the next several minutes the teams exchanged baskets. But in the final two minutes of the third quarter and the first minute of the fourth quarter, the pace picked up, a development which favored the quicker Rayders.

At less than a minute into the final quarter, Charlevoix had whittled Boyne City's 11-point lead down to a two-point lead.

Fouls played a key roll in the fourth quarter. Only 21 seconds into the quarter, Charlevoix's Shawn Putman fouled into. Putman's loss hurt Charlevoix's rebounding game against the taller Ramblers. With 4:04 left in the game, Boyne City's Scott Hammontree fouled out. His loss left the Ramblers without their best ballhandler against the quicker Rayders.

Charlevoix continued to keep Boyne City within reach. Mike Himebauch provided some crucial baskets from near the top of the key.

With 3:27 left in the game, Charlevoix took the lead 38-37 on a basket by James Corwin.

But then Boyne City used free-throws primarily by sophomore Eric Smith to close the door. In the final quarter, Smith buried eight free-throws, six of them in the final three minutes.

Rayder forward Webb Friedly did manage to make the end of the game interesting when he hit a three-point shot from the corner to make the score 44-41 in favor of Boyne City with 20 seconds left.

But Boyne City answered with a basket and two more Smith free-throws to put the game away.

Jason Corwin led the Rayders in scoring with a dozen points. Friedly was the only other Rayder in double figures finishing with 10.

Boyne City plays Rogers City Thursday evening while Charlevoix finishes their season with a 13-8 record.

Charlevoix's Bob Jess (3) looks for room to navigate around Boyne City's Wayne Avery (33) and Bo Williamson (15).

Harbor Springs beaten

By Tim Henne

Charlevoix basketball coach Jim Kanine praised his team's 61-38 victory over Harbor Springs Tuesday, Feb. 21 as "the best first half they've played all year."

Bearing witness to Kanine's statement was a halftime score of 37-11.

In the opening minutes the game appeared to be close. At the end of the first quarter Charlevoix had only a four-point lead.

However in the second quarter, Webb Friedly and Shawn Putman led Charlevoix in opening up the game with a 15-4 run. A Harbor Springs timeout halfway through the quarter didn't help. In the last four minutes of the half the Rams managed to score only a single point.

Friedly started off right in the third quarter with a three-pointer which sank Harbor hopes.

Early in the second half, Bob Donelly, a leading scorer for the Rams, had to leave the game due to a foot injury. That seemed to inspire the remaining Rams into a short comeback. At one point they drew within 15 points.

Five unanswered three-pointers would have tied the game. But that didn't happen and Charlevoix went on to win by 23 points.

Friedly, a junior and the fourth leading scorer in the Michigan Huron Shores League, finished with 18 points, 11 rebounds and four assists. Kanine noted the strong play off the bench of Dylan Stewart and Jason Corwin.

Charlevoix loses regular season finale

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team closed their season on a dismal note, losing to Petoskey 78-59 last Friday evening.

As in an earlier season loss to the Northmen, Charlevoix had a difficult time matching up with Petoskey's tall players under the basket. Petoskey's Jeff DeGroot scored 25 points and Dan Derrer 17.

The Rayders' strengths are speed and defense and they used those to keep the game close in the early going. At the end of the first quarter Charlevoix trailed by only a point at 15-14.

Charlevoix's downfall came in the second quarter through a combination of an inability to score and turnovers. Not being able to score themselves, the Rayders ended up giving Petoskey the ball to see what they could do with it. Petoskey outscored Charlevoix 23-11 in the quarter and at halftime led 38-25.

At one point in the second half, Charlevoix rallied and drew within nine points, but could get no closer than that.

Charlevoix's scoring was streaky, but balanced. Webb Friedly led the Rayders with 15 points. Shawn Putman and Bob Jess each added a dozen. Putman also had 11 rebounds.

Charlevoix concluded the regular season with a 7-7 Michigan Huron Shores League record and a 13-7 record overall. Charlevoix finished fourth in league play behind Sault Ste. Marie, Petoskey and Cheboygan.

The Rayder junior varsity team beat Petoskey 63-51 and closed the year with a 17-3 record. Todd Kovak scored 22 points Friday, while Paul Wakulat and Ryan Smith each had 14.

Property tax pamphlet advises on tax appeals

The Michigan Consumers Council has published the 1989 edition of its popular "How to Review and Appeal Your Property Tax Assessment" brochure. The one-page pamphlet provides important information on Michigan's property tax appeal procedures, including summer tax collections.

The brochure clarifies how an individual property tax bill is computed using the state equalized valuation (SEV) rate. There is also information on how assessments are made and how property owners can determine if the assessor's appraisal of their property is correct.

The Michigan Consumers Council advises property owners who may feel that their appraisals are unfairly high to review the appraisal records in their assessor's office for accuracy. Common assessment errors include such false assumptions as a house having a finished basement or fireplace when it doesn't. Property owners should also review their assessments for missed defects that might tend to reduce the value of a house, such as the shifting of the foundation, and even simple clerical errors in computing the tax.

If property owners find an error, the Consumers Council recommends that the errors be discussed with the assessor first. Some assessors may be willing to adjust the appraisal on the spot, thus saving the property owner and the assessor the nuisance of a formal protest. If the property owner should find it necessary to formally protest, the brochure provides tips on how to proceed and document a case before a local Board of Review.

The pamphlet emphasizes that timing is crucial in making an appeal. Each township and city has its own functioning Board of Review that meets periodically. It is crucial that property owners who plan to file a protest contact their local city or township office to obtain the deadline for filing.

"How to Review and Appeal Your Property Tax Assessment" is one of the most widely-requested brochures published by the Consumers Council. Copies are available free of charge by writing the Michigan Consumers Council, 106 W. Allegan St., 414 Hollister Building, Lansing 48933; or by calling 517-373-0947. Hearing impaired property owners only may call the Council's TDD line at 517-373-0701.

Tax sale list shorter

Persons who like to go to the county's annual tax sale in May to "pick up" parcels of land by paying only back taxes will have a much shorter list to select from this year.

County Treasurer Joan Balch said last week there were only 189 parcels on the 1986 delinquent tax list, and many of these property owners will pay up before sale time on May 2. In some past years, there have been as many as 1,000 parcels on the delinquent tax list.

The list of parcels on which 1986 taxes have not been paid will run in the Courier March 15, March 22, and March 29. The reason for the shorter list, according to Balch, is that the list of delinquents used to run at the end of December or early in January. Now, property owners have more time to pay delinquent taxes before publication date.

Edith appears on TV

Courier columnist and book author Edith Gilbert has taped a series of five interviews concerning bridal etiquette which will appear on TV 9 & 10.

The interviews will be aired on the stations noon show for five consecutive Wednesdays beginning Feb. 1. Gilbert said the interviews concern her new book which is a revised edition of "The Complete Wedding Planner."

Ellsworth will host area school finance meeting

A meeting to discuss the financial plight facing many Northern Michigan school districts will be hosted by the Ellsworth Board of Education at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 8 in the Ellsworth High School gym.

Dr. Thomas Wagamon, Head of the Bureau of Finance, Legislation and Personell for the Michigan Department of Education will be the evening's featured speaker.

The focus of the meeting will not be limited to the problems of any one Northern Michigan school, but will offer an opportunity for residents of the Northern Lower Peninsula to learn more about the state level view of how to resolve problems in educational funding.

Masons gain in cribbage

The Oddfellows still lead the 59th Annual Masons-Oddfellows cribbage tournament, but the Masons are gaining ground down the home stretch.

Last Thursday evening there were six and a-half tables of play and the Masons picked up 42 points to narrow the Oddfellows lead to 333 points with two weeks left to play in the 10-week tournament.

This past Thursday evening, the Masons were led by Albert Sharrow, just a youngster by cribbage tournament standards, who scored 950 points. The Oddfellows were led by Sims Baker, a veteran of more cribbage tournaments than you'd care to shuffle a deck at, who scored 953 points.

The tournament will continue this Thursday evening on the Masons home-court in the Masonic Hall.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
ORDINANCE NO. 511

An Ordinance to amend the Code of the City of Charlevoix by adding a new chapter, which new chapter shall be designated as Chapter 76, Title VII, BUSINESSES AND TRADES of said Code.

The City of Charlevoix Ordains:

That Title VII, Chapter 76 of the Charlevoix City Code will read as follows:

Section 7.201. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

It is found and declared that:

A. The primary purpose of the public streets and sidewalks is for use by vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

B. Reasonable regulation of streets and sidewalks is necessary to protect the public health, safety and welfare.

C. The uncontrolled placement of tables and chairs, merchandise and goods, newsracks, planters and other articles and objects present an inconvenience and danger to the safety and welfare of persons using such rights of way, including pedestrians, persons entering and leaving vehicles and buildings, and persons performing essential utility, traffic control, and emergency services.

D. Tables and chairs, goods and merchandise, newsracks, planters and other articles and objects so located as to cause an inconvenience or danger to persons using public rights-of-way constitute public nuisances per se.

E. The provisions and prohibitions hereinafter contained are enacted in pursuance of and for the purpose of securing and promoting the public health, safety, and welfare.

Section 7.202. DEFINITIONS.

For purposes of this Ordinance the following words and phrases shall be defined to include:

A. "Articles and Objects" - shall mean any thing or obstruction placed over or upon a street or sidewalk.

B. "Goods and Merchandise: - shall mean any items offered for sale to the general public.

C. "Newsracks" - shall mean any self-service or coin-operated box, container, storage unit, or other dispenser installed, used, or maintained for the display and sale of newspapers or other news periodicals.

D. "Sidewalk" - shall mean any surface provided for the use of pedestrians.

E. "Street" - shall mean all that area dedicated to the public use for public street purposes and shall include, but not be limited to, roadways, state trunk lines, and alleys.

F. "Tables and Chairs" - shall mean facilities provided to customers for food or beverages upon a public sidewalk.

G. "Planters" - shall mean any device used or intended to be used for display of non-artificial flowers.

Section 7.203. LICENSE REQUIRED.

It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to erect, place, maintain, or operate, on any public street or sidewalk or in any other public way or place, within the Charlevoix City Limits except on the street or sidewalk withing the Bridge Street right-of-way (U.S. 31) between the highway bridge on the North and Hurlbut Street on the South, any article, object, or any other obstruction except under the conditions and in the manner presented in this Chapter. Provided, however, the Charlevoix City Manager may grant, pursuant to the terms of this Ordinance, licenses for the erection, placement, maintenance or operation of newsracks, tables, chairs, and planters on sidewalks within the Bridge Street right-of-way (U.S. 31) between the highway bridge on the North and Hurlbut Street on the South.

Section 7.204. APPLICATION FOR PERMIT.

Applications for such permit shall be made in writing to the Charlevoix City Mananger upon such form as shall be provided by the City and shall contain: the name and address of the applicant; the proposed specific location of the tables and chairs, newsracks or planters; and shall be signed by the applicant.

Section 7.205. CONDITIONS FOR LICENSE.

A. As an express condition of the acceptance of such license, the licensee thereby agrees to indemnify and save harmless the City, its officers, directors, and employees against any loss or liability or damage, including expenses and costs for bodily or personal injury, and for property damage sustained by any person as a result of the installation, use, or maintenance of tables and chairs, newsracks, planters, or goods and merchandise within the City of Charlevoix.

B. Licenses shall be issued for the installation of newsracks, planters, tables and chairs with prior inspection of the location but such newsracks, planters, tables and chairs, and the installation use, or maintenance thereof shall be conditioned upon observance of the provisions of this Ordinance and upon such reasonable rules and regulations as may be established by the Charlevoix City Council from time to time by Resolution. Licenses shall be issued within two (2) working days after the application has been filed. An annual license fee of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) is required.

C. Such licenses shall be valid for one (1) year and shall be renewable pursuant to the procedure for the original applications referred to in Section 7.204 and upon payment of the license fee.

D. No license shall be issued to an applicant, or any license may be revoked in the event the applicant or licensee is in violation of any of the provisions of the Charlevoix City Code.

Section 7.206. STANDARDS FOR MAINTENANCE AND INSTALLATION.

Any tables, chairs, planters or newsracks which in whole or in part rest upon, in; or over any public sidewalk shall comply with the following standards:

A. Shall be maintained in a neat and clean condition and in good repair at all times. Specifically, but without limiting the generality of the foregoing, all tables, chairs, planters end newsracks shall be serviced end maintained so that:

1. They are reasonably free of dirt and grease.
2. They are reasonably free of chipped, faded, peeling and cracked paint in the visual painted areas thereof. The structural parts are not broken or unduly misshapen.

Section 7.207. LOCATION AND PLACEMENT OF NEWSRACKS, PLANTERS, TABLES AND CHAIRS.

Any newsracks, planters, tables and chairs which rest in whole or in part upon, or in, or on any portion of a public sidewalk or right-of-way or which projects onto, into, or over any part of a public sidewalk or right-of-way shall be located in accordance with the provisions of this section:

A. No tables, chairs, planters, or newsracks shall be used or maintained which projects onto, into, or over any part of the roadway or public street, or which rests wholly or in part upon, along, or over any portion of the roadway or any public street.

B. No tables, chairs, planters, or newsracks shall be permitted to rest upon, in or over any public sidewalk, when such installation, use, or maintenance endangers the safety of persons or property, or when such site or location is used for public utility purposes, public transportation purposes or other governmental use, or when such use unreasonably interferes with or impedes the flow of pedestrian or vehicular traffic Including any legally marked or stopped vehicle, the ingress into or the egress from any residence or place of business, or the use of poles, posts, traffic signs, or signals, hydrants, mailboxes, or other objects permitted at or near said location.

C. No Tables, chairs, planters, or newsracks shall be chained, bolted, or otherwise attached to any fixture located in the public right-of-way, except to another newsrack, planter, table or chair.

D. No tables, chairs, planters or newsracks shall be placed, installed used or maintained:

1. Within three (3) feet of any crosswalk.
2. Within ten (10) feet of the back of the street curb.
3. Within five (5) feet of any driveway.
4. At any location whereby the clear space for the passage way of pedestrians is reduced to less than six (6) feet.

E. The Charlevoix City Manager may establish by regulation the number and location of areas within the City of Charlevoix to be used for placement of newsracks.

Section 7.208. EXCEPTION FOR ANNUAL SIDEWALK SALES.

Notwithstanding anything herein contained to the contrary, the Charlevoix City Manager may allow the placement of goods and merchandise for retail sales each year for what is commonly referred to as Sidewalk Sale Days.

Section 7.209. VIOLATIONS OF ORDINANCE.

Upon determination by the Charlevoix City Manager that a newsrack, planter, table or chair, goods or merchandise, or other article or object has been installed, used, or maintained in violation of the provisions of this Ordinance, an Order to correct the offending condition will be issued to the owner or operator of said newsrack, planter, table or chair, goods or merchandise, or other article or object. Such Order shall be telephoned to said owner or operator and confirmed by mailing a copy of the Order by certified mail, return receipt requested. The Order shall specifically describe the offending condition and request the action necessary to correct the condition. Failure to properly correct the offending condition within one (1) day (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays) after the mailing date of the Order shall result in the offending condition being removed and processed as unclaimed property. If the offending condition is not properly identified by the owner or operator of the business premises located immediately adjacent to such section of the public street or sidewalk, said offending condition shall be removed immediately and process as unclaimed property. The City Manager shall cause inspection to be made of the corrected condition or of any condition after removal under this Section.

Section 7.210. REVOCATION.

In addition to the enforcement procedures provided in Section 7.209 of this Ordinance it shall be within the power and discretion of the Charlevoix City Manager to suspend or revoke the license for continued or repeated violations or infractions of any provisions of this Ordinance or any rule or regulation of the City of Charlevoix. Suspension or Revocation shall be mandatory for the third (3) offense under Section 7.209 of this Ordinance.

Section 7.211. CITY MANAGER'S DESIGNATED REPRESENTATIVE.

"City Manager" as used in this Ordinance shall Include his or her designated representative.

Section 7.212. SEPARABILITY.

If any section, sub-section, sentence, clause or phrase of this Ordinance for any reason is held to be invalid or unconstitutional by the decision of any court of competent jurisdiction, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Ordinance.

Bandshell groups move toward agreement

Barring a last minute snag, there seems to be a concensus on the bandshell design which will allow the project to quickly move forward.

During two recent meetings bandshell committee members and members of a group of people who wanted the bandshell design scaled back worked toward a compromise.

At the meetings, which took place Wednesday, March 1 and this past Monday bandshell committee members indicated they were open to compromise, but were intent upon preserving the acoustic integrity of the facility. The other group of people, whose main spokespersons were Colleen LaBlance and Birdie Whitley, said they too were open to compromise, but felt preserving as much of the view of Round Lake as possible should be considered a high priority.

Although there was some wrangling and tension early in the March 1 meeting, an understanding was also reached

Cribbage tournament lives on after beginning in the 1930s

Another three in a row. In 1986, the Masons broke an Oddfellows three-year winning streak, but after Thursday night, the Oddfellows will probably have won another three cribbage tournaments in a row.

But that's all right. Back in 1934,'35 and '36 the Masons took three straight. And in the war years, '41 through '45, the Masons won five straight.

This Thursday evening the local Masons and Oddfellows will conclude their 59th annual cribbage tournament. The Oddfellows have won 34 times, probably 35 after Thursday night, and the Masons have won 24 times.

Sims Baker of the Oddfellows is playing in his 52nd tournament this year. The annual tournament lasts for 10 weeks. Eight games are played each of the ten nights. An average of five or six hands are played each game. A few math computations indicate that Baker has probably played about 20,000 cribbage hands in the tournament.

Although he once had a 29 hand while camping near Munising, Baker has never had one in tournament play. But then, hardly anyone has.

"The only one I know of in the contest was Bob Miles a good many years ago," Baker says.

The cribbage tournament started back in the 1930's.

"It started in the depression days for people to have something to do at night," Baker explains.

The tournament has always been all-men.

"We've kept it going. Back during the war years it was pretty slim sometimes."

Anymore there are usually six and a-half or seven and a-half tables playing on any given night. Baker says that years ago there were occasionally as many as 15 tables in a night.

Although the card players are competitive to some degree, allowances are made to keep the games fun. There have to be an even number of players on each team so once in a while a Mason will play on the Oddfellows' side for an evening or vice versa.

"All those years there've been very few arguments about the games," Baker remarked.

Many of the players who currently participate in the tournament are well along in years, but there are a few young players.

Baker joined the Oddfellows and started playing in the tournament at the invitation of his father in-law, Art Richardson.

Richardson is one of many old time Charlevoixians who played in the tournament and are still remembered today. Among the men Baker remembers playing cribbage with are: Ed Goldstick, Myer Livingston, Ray Ashton, Fritz Bergmann, Judd Hardy, Bill Bogart, Bob Miles and his father C.V. Miles, Bob Stafford, Bob Mitchell, Fred Gill, Clarence Cobelentz and Harry Cobelentz.

Socializing has always been the main part of the tournament. "They talk while they play. Sometimes you can hardly hear yourself think."

Prizes are at best secondary. In recent years, the best players have received a plaque at the end of the tournament. The losing team also hosts a dinner for the winners.

"In the early years, we had a silver cup we bought at the Bellinger's," Baker recalls. (In

In the early years of the Masons-Oddfellows cribbage tournament, this cup was passed back and forth to be held by the winning team. For the first several years, the name of the winning team was inscribed. That had to be stopped when there was no more room for inscriptions.

Middle school week, not weak

March 12-17 will be Middle School Week in Charlevoix. The week is something which was initiated last year and is a local part of a growing national awareness of education at the middle school level.

For many years middle schools were often perceived as an educational twilight zone somewhere between elementary school and high school. Currently, there is a movement to change that perception.

"There is a national attempt to recognize middle level education as distinct and separate," middle school principal Dennis VanGuilder explains.

In Charlevoix's school system, the middle school is geared toward exposing students to a wide range of subjects prior to high school. VanGuilder describes the philosophy as "horizontal rather than vertical" education. In other words, students get to study a variety of things in middle school and then move toward more specialized studies in high school.

Middle school week events include: a staff breakfast hosted by the middle school administration Tuesday morning; parent visitation days Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; and a student dance Friday night.

In the parent visitation program, a different grade invites parents each of the three days, the sixth grade one day, seventh grade another, and eighth grade the third. Students received notes of explanation to take home to their parents this week.

Parents are invited to come in and go to class with their kids. Parents can come for the whole day or just for a class or two. (Some days students probably wish they had same option.)

Last year was the first year for the parent visits and 82 percent of the students had parents show up. VanGuilder said that at first some of the students were reluctant, but when they saw parents of other students show up, they lined up at the phones to call their own parents in.

Middle school students are at a peculiar age. They aren't cute little elementary kids anymore and they're not high school students rapidly becoming adults.

Middle school students are a mixture of things and which part of their character you see depends on what moment you catch them. Middle school week lets middle school students know that the community and school system recognizes their importance.

Council attempts to improve city planning

Two weeks ago at least three members of the city council, and to some degree a fourth, were expressing reservations about the performance of city planner Gerry Harsch and concerns about problems in the city planning process.

However, after speaking with members of the public and planning commission prior to Monday evening's council meeting and speaking with Harsch at the meeting, some councilmen have reevaluated their previous position.

At the Feb. 20 council meeting, councilmen Earl Muma, Butch Russell and Norm Probert said they were not pleased with some aspects of Harsch's performance as city planner. Councilman Ken Whitley was also in that camp, but was more restrained in his assessment of Harsch.

Over the past two weeks, Muma revised his opinion.

"Since speaking with the planning commission and other people of the city, I'm willing to see his contract run," Muma said Monday evening.

Whitley also said he favors retaining Harsch. Russell said he prefers to dismiss Harsch. Norm Probert said he wants to keep the planner position, but would like to look at alternatives to Harsch. Councilmen Bill Haggard and Jim Potter support retaining Harsch.

Although there wasn't unanimity on Harsch, all of the councilmen agreed that modifications are needed in the city's planning and site plan review process.

Muma pointed out that some of the site plans proposed take a long time to review and require significant time expenditure by the planning department.

Muma and Norm Probert spoke in favor of changing the city's site plan fee structure so that fees would be increased for more complex site plans.

Other council members concurred with that recommendation. Mayor Gary Probert commented that having a site plan review for a garage cost $75, which is the same as the cost for reviewing something elaborate like a hotel-restaurant doesn't make much sense.

The council unanimously supported a motion to have the planning commission review the city's site plan fee structure.

Whitley said in the past two weeks he spoke to planning commission members who indicated a portion of the city's planning problems are attributable to the city's zoning ordinance and land use master plan. He noted that a committee has been formed to update the master plan.

Planning commission chairman Dave Novotny said that committee is scheduled to hold its first meeting prior to the end of the month.

Bus rates changed

All area residents over the age of 60 who ride the Charlevoix County Transit System buses may now ride for half the regular fare during off-peak periods of service.

Previously, only senior citizens over the age of 65 were eligible for this half-fare rate.

The change is the result of an amendment to Act 51 governing urban and public transportation.

Russ Lewis (facing the camera) picks out a card during the Masons-Oddfellows cribbage tournament, a Charlevoix tradition which dates back to the 1930s. To Lewis' right is Hap Cunningham.

those days, when someone from Charlevoix referred to Bellingers they might be talking about a jewelers instead of a boat yard.) "He (Bellinger) agreed to engrave it each year, but it got too full to engrave any more."

For a time, the cup was stored away and neither the Masons nor Oddfellows knew where it was. But in recent years, the tarnished old cup has reappeared and is again passed back and forth to be held by the winning team.

As the cribbage tournament concludes its 59th year, Baker was asked about the possibility of lasting another 41 years.

"I probably won't," he said, "but I hope it continues."

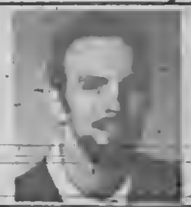
OPINIONS



REASONABLE TO ME

L. SCOTT SWANSON

Rooftops are for reindeer

"Scott. You'd better come in here," my wife called from the living room.

By the tone of her voice, I could tell she'd discovered something that wasn't good.

Her tone of voice wasn't quite as frantic as it was the day she discovered the dog had gotten into a porcupine. And it wasn't as foreboding as it was the morning she woke me up and told me the hot water heater was spraying water all over the basement floor. And it didn't contain nearly the tension that it did when she found a bat which had somehow worked its way into the upstairs section of the house.

Still, there was something in her tone of voice that told me right away that there was a problem of some kind.

I found my wife standing in a doorway off of the living room.

"See that?" she said, pointing her finger at a drop of water hanging from the top of the doorway.

"Hmm. Well that's not good," I said, primarily because I couldn't think of anything more intelligent to say.

"Where's the water coming from?" she asked.

"That's a good question," I replied. "I assume it's snow melting off the roof. I don't think there are any water pipes over that doorway."

I put on my coat and went outside to investigate. Sure enough, that evil storm we had Friday had plastered a combination of snow and ice to the roof of the house. As the snow melted, the ice was blocking the runoff and the water was forcing its way back up through a joint in some metal flashing.

I deduced all this while standing onthe ground, looking up at the roof. Diagnosing the problem was the easy part. Curing it was another ballgame.

I found that getting up on the roof was no problem, but staying there was nearly impossible. With all of the ice on the roof, it was like trying to crawl uphill on a sloped skating rink.

Clinging with my finger and toe nails, I'd move forward a few inches. Then with a whoosh, I'd lose all progress and slide back down. There was a ledge just below the eaves where I was sliding and I would come to rest upon that.

As I flopped and slid around on the roof, I grew increasingly frustrated. After about the third slide, I offered up some verbal outbursts which should have thawed some of the ice.

Sasquatch the dog stood on the ground looking up and me and wagging his tail. He seemed to find my plight even more entertaining than barking at pedestrians.

Finally, I figured out a way to hold on to the edge of the roof with one hand and brace myself with a shovel in the other hand which allowed me to climb up the roof to the ice blockage.

Once I reached the problem, there was no problem fixing it.

There was also no problem getting down from the roof. I just slid down to the edge and jumped off into a snow bank.

Spring is on its way. And its a good thing. I don't think I want to perform that roof scaling feat again this winter.

Yacht Club supports pool

Editor,

At its December meeting, the Charlevoix Yacht Club Board of Directors unanimously approved a resolution supporting the construction of an indoor community swimming pool.

The board felt it consistent with it's goals of water safety and recreation. Water safety and education should be a paramount concern to a community surrounded by water.

What a coincidence!

The March issue of Country Living Magazine presents World War I posters. The McCune Arts Center also features a World War I poster exhibit in March, and the East Jordan library has jumped on the bandwagon to promote the same theme.

"For the Love of Country" is the title featuring seven posters in color in Country Living. The message is "It is the duty of every citizen to make a sacrifice to help those in need."

When Syg Riley called from East Jordan, she said that they're getting into the spirit of the World War I theme in a big way! Originally sparked by an invitation to participate in the McCune show, enthusiasm ran so high, the group decided to have a complimentary exhibit of their own in the new library building that was donated to the Jordan Valley District Library by – who else? The Malpass Foundation.

Syg tells me that WW I memorabilia is streaming in! Some of the items people have dropped off at her house already are helmets, a rifle, a flag with a star, a poster size certificate of discharge, plus a large roster of soldiers from the 32nd division who left on June 19, 1916 for Camp Grayling. This includes musicians, cooks, privates, sergeants and corporals all from Charlevoix county. In addition there are many interesting items including uniforms from the Historical Society at Elm Point.

Three World War I veterans are living in East Jordan. They are Ralph Barrick, Russell Barnett and Dewey Hostler. We regret that they will be unable to attend the Doughboy Reunion in Petoskey.

People interested in contemporary history will enjoy attending the exhibit in East Jordan beginning on Monday, March 13, and ending on Saturday, March 18. The library is located next to the swimming pool and the hours are Monday 10-8, Tuesday through Friday, 10-5 and Saturday 9-1.

The Doughboy Reunion in honor of WW I veterans in our area will be held at the McCune Art Center in Petoskey from 3 to 6 p.m. on Friday, March 10. Friends and veterans are all invited. Members of the Petoskey Antique Club will host the event. They will be dressed in period dresses for the benefit of the honored guests – two WW I veterans from Charlevoix, Ernest Goode and Hugh Scott. It is hoped that Lee Frank Judd from Harbor Springs will be able to attend in is WW I Marine uniform.

The exhibit closes March 31.

This is a fine opportunity to introduce another generation to a bit of living history and for one to reflect in a taste of nostalgia.

Music not the cat's meow

"Music hath charms to soothe the savage beast."

Or is is it "savage breast?"

Never mind. They are both wrong.

I have a savage beast living in my house who absolutely abhors fine music.

Her name is Magic Shadow and she is supposed to be a cat.

But she is not. She is a music critic.

Several months ago I noticed that whenever I sat down at the piano Magic Shadow wasted no time in joining me on the piano bench.

"Fine," I thought at first. "She is a highly cultured cat who enjoys good piano music."

Then one day she started nibbling on my elbow as I played.

"She wants me to play a cat song," I rationalized, breaking into "Alley Cat" and "Kitten on the Keys." She only bit harder so I tried one of the more singable numbers from the musical "Cats," complete with vocal accompaniment.

But that didn't please her either.

During the past few weeks she has taken to climbing right up on the keyboard, which is annoying because I am not exactly fond of playing duets with a cat, particularly one who cannot read music.

But that's not the worst of it. She actually bites my fingers and gnaws on my knuckles as I am playing.

"Come to me my Melancholy (Ouch!) Baby. Cuddle up and don't (Ouch!) feel blue. (Ouch! Dammit! Get off the piano this instant or I'll turn you into a guitar string!)"

And so it goes every time I sit down at the piano.

Mind you, I don't pretend to be a great piano virtuoso. But I do like to play a few old favorites from time to time, just to neutralize the raucus rock 'n' roll that reverberates throughout the house whenever there are teenagers on the premises.

Probably what bothers me most about Magic Shadow's savage attacks is that she actually seems to enjoy rock 'n' roll. Whenever the kids are watching MTV in the living room, she perches herself on the arm of the rocking chair, a silly grin on her face, and switches her tail like a baton in time to the music.

I try to tell myself that she doesn't really like the music but is fascinated by the bright lights and the sweaty, gyrating bodies.

But I'm not sure. The other day Magic Shadow was actually humming to the music. To some it may have sounded like purring, but I know a hum when I hear one.

It is disgusting, considering she is old enough — in cat years — to be a great-grandmother many times over.

Perhaps I am being super-sensitive, but her unwarranted criticism of my piano playing really hurts. It is one thing for the kids to run around the house with cotton in their ears; it is quite another for a dumb animal to pan my keyboard artistry.

For the present I am writing off Magic Shadow as a musical low brow. When it comes to music, her taste is in the litter box.

ALTHOUGH I HAVE lived in Northern Michigan almost a quarter of a century, I still equate the month of March with — Tra-la, tra-la — spring!

Then when we have a March blizzard such as the one we had over the weekend I feel I have been betrayed.

Why, I remember one March when I was still living "down below" that I had my entire garden planted by St. Patrick's Day. And I got a sunburn in the bargain.

But judging from the mountains of snow around Charlevoix this week, we won't get into our gardens until August — just a few days ahead of the first frost.

Furthermore, the ice on Lake Michigan must be yards thick, thanks to all the below-zero weather we have had this winter. I am sure the lake has frozen clear to the bottom in some places.

It will be nothing short of a miracle if the water ever warms up enough for wading, much less swimming.

I am amazed that some folks are worried about the so-called "greenhouse effect" — a gradual warming of the Earth due to man's pollution of the atmosphere.

I say, if it works, let's give it a try.

Holy plants, it's the Garden Club

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club speaker for the March 14 meeting will be Pim Dodge, traveler and lecturer on Israel - Land of the Bible.

Mrs. Dodge, wife of a retired Army officer, now serving as the Ad Board President of their church, has lived all over the United States and the Far East, and has traveled extensively in the Middle East. She serves as a Field Representative and a Tour Host of Educational Opportunities and Travel Services, Inc., out of Lakeland, Florida - a group providing travel-study programs all over the world. She is active in the Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries and is now serving her second term as State Legislative Chairman.

The subject of her lecture will be "Flowers, Herbs and Plants of the Bible" augmented by slides.

Annabelle Webb will hostess starting a 1 p.m. Nancy Vendenberg and Mary Biddick will co-hostess.

Stop smoking classes offered

Successfully quitting smoking and have fun in the process is the goal of the "Freedom From Smoking" program beginning Tuesday, March 28, at 7 p.m. at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The weekly sessions sponsored by the Charlevoix Area Hospital and the American Lung Association will conclude on Tuesday, May 9. Cheryl Jacobs, respiratory therapist and program leader, says, "The program really works because we don't quit 'cold turkey' the first night and people find the support they need in the group to make breaking the habit permanent."

The first session is an orientation meeting when the program outline will be explained. During "quit week" sessions will be held on both Tuesday, April 18 and Thursday, April 20.

A minimum of 12 registrations must be received in order to hold the class. Cost for the program is $50. For further information, or registration, call Cheryl Jacobs or Nancy Ellison at Charlevoix Area Hospital 547-4024.

Letters to the Editor:

The travels of the Mesquite

Dear Editor,

My last letter included Mesquite's travels through our arrival in Miami on December 28. This letter continues the account.

The time in Miami was much needed for engine maintenance and other last minute preparations. We left Miami on the first day of the new year ready to begin our law enforcement duties. This first patrol had us heading for the Bahamas, not far east of southern Florida. For nine days we patrolled the high seas and occasionally Bahamian territorial waters (with express permission from the Bahamian government.) Our target vessels were those on course for the U.S., and those who by some other means gave us reason to suspect their intentions. Nine days is a long time for us to go without replenishing our water supply and this first patrol was the crew's first lesson in what water conservation at sea is all about.

By January 10 we were ready for a break, so we headed for Nassau, the Bahamian capital city on New Providence Island. Nassau is a bustling city with much to see and do. We spent two days there and most of the crew would agree it was liberty well spent. A day's travel later found us in Miami for water, parts, communications and operations briefs. Underway once again on January 14, we were now heading for San Juan, Puerto Rico. It was a long slow steam and the seas were not kind to us, but four and a half days later we arrived in San Juan. San Juan treated us well and after a few days of R & R and an extensive briefing on our next operation we headed for the Virgin Islands.

Operations in these islands are slightly different than in the Bahamas. The Bahamas are flat islands with lots of sandy beaches and very little traffic this time of year due to the rough seas. The Virgin Island, on the other hand, are cocky with many bluffs, few beaches and lots of traffic between the islands. There is a considerable amount of legitimate trade and recreation among these islands, but well hidden among these are the drug smugglers. The frequency of drug busts in the Virgin Islands is much higher than in the Bahamas and operations were intense. On January 27 we once again found our way back to San Juan for enough water to make the four day trip back to Miami. This time we scheduled for a ten day maintenance period allowing us to catch up on minor repairs, painting, and paperwork. At the same time it allowed about one-third of the crew to go home or have their loved ones come here.

We are now through the halfway mark and will be returning, God willing, in mid-April, just in time to see the snow and ice melt. Until then we continue to hope for fair winds and following seas.

Children's play commended

Editor,

The Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation would like to thank Carol Elliott, Mary Ann Chew, and Mrs. Chews reading class for their professional presentation of "Who Stole the Tarts?" Each participant performed with confidence, poise, and humor when needed. It is obvious that Mrs. Chew and Mrs. Elliott have instilled in the students an "eagerness" for learning, be it on stage, in the classroom or at home. We, in Charlevoix, are fortunate to have that caliber of teaching taking place in our schools.

The $240 earned from the two performances will go toward the outdoor nature lab and walkway which the Foundation recently funded for the Charlevoix Elementary School. This has been a wonderful opportunity for students to be part of the process of improving their school, and they have had fun doing it! We thank you, both for the contribution, and your delightful performance. Bravo!

... progress made on bandshell

on several issues.

Bandshell committee cochair John Hess clarified that there will be minimal concrete and bituminous areas around the fish pond. A preliminary design showed substantial amounts, but that was wiped out in subsequent designs.

There will be a fishpond. According to what was said, some people in the community did not understand that the old fish pond which was demolished was going to be replaced. The new fish pond will have a small waterfall, will utilize water from Round Lake and won't protrude as far into the park as the old pond. It will allow the audience to be closer to the stage area.

In a concession to the view protectors, the height of the roof line was lowered. It had already been lowered once from the original design. As the design presently stands, the peak of the roof will be about the same height as the peak of the adjacent roof on the Wharfside Market.

At Monday's meeting there was some discussion about the peaked design of the roof. A few people in the audience still expressed reservations.

However, there are few, if any, alternatives. For acoustic purposes, there must be space between the stage and ceiling. People have indicated they want a roof, but don't want a round roof or a flat roof. That narrows things down to a peaked roof.

Dealing with the sidewalls of the stage required the most creativity. Originally, the design called for solid sidewalls. The two groups have now agreed to have some type of retractable or detachable sidewalls; or perhaps even acoustic backdrops to project sound.

The benefit of the sidewall modification is that when there isn't a performance going on, people standing on the sidewalk along Bridge Street will be able to look through the stage area and see the harbor.

Although both factions seemed to reach common ground quite quickly on all of the above items, one subject took more time to resolve and could still end up snarling the process.

The view people wanted the profile of the bandshell to be four and a-half feet shorter. In order to do this, they proposed to eliminate or reduce the amount of storage rooms, dressing rooms and bathrooms in the backstage area which abutts the Wharfside Market.

Opinions differed as to how valuable those items are to the overall bandshell project. Bandshell committee cochair Edith Gilbert was adamantly opposed to significantly altering the design to reduce storage, dressing and restrooms.

People from the other faction felt the rooms could be scaled back in order to preserve more of the lake view.

Between the Wednesday and Monday meetings, architect Jack Begrow drew up plans which altered the backstage area and reduced the building profile by a little more than four feet.

The new plans remove some of the upstairs storage and dressing rooms and reduce the number of backstage bathrooms from one to two. There will still be one small bathroom, significantly more storage area than the previous bandshell offered and a passageway behind the stage.

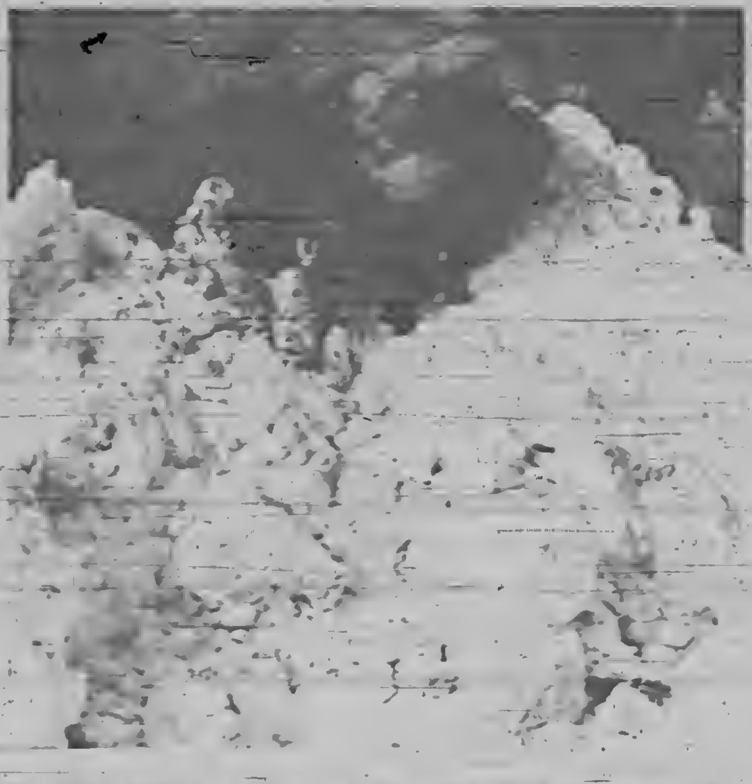
The area below the stage was not changed as a result of the meetings. It will still be used for public restrooms and city storage.

LaBlance and Whitley indicated their group is basically happy with the proposed compromise. LaBlance said the roof is still somewhat higher than some people would like it, but with the concessions made on the retractable sidewalls and reduced building profile, the compromise is suitable.

Whether enough members of the bandshell committee will agree to the compromise remains to be seen. Hess said he plans to call a Bandshell Committee meeting later this week.

Former high school band director and the Bandshell Committee's third cochair, Gary Stutzman said he was comfortable with the compromise agreement.

Gilbert was not at Monday evening's meeting. Former mayor Ralph McRae, who had been one of the leading fundraisers in the bandshell project, sent a letter saying that as of March 4 he would no longer be involved in the bandshell project.



These three middle school boys were walking home from school this winter and just couldn't resist the opportunity offered by a parking lot snowhill. They scaled the side of the hill and promptly began flinging each other down the hill. From left are: Chris Matye, J.H. Heck and Jesse Lord.

Horton Bay Olympics

Neither love nor money could have lured 600 plus people out on the ice of Horton Bay in the dead of winter, but fun and foolishness could.

This past Sunday afternoon several hundred area people participated in the Second Annual Horton Bay Olympics.

Asked what could draw so many people out in the winter, Olympics' coordinator Jan Eggers said, "I think it's the reputation of Horton Bay...which is complete foolishness."

Among the popular athletic events were the frozen fish throw and bobbing for apples through a bole in the ice.

The frozen fish throw was marred by an ugly sports injury. First the head snapped off the frozen 10-pound pike used in the competition and shortly thereafter the tail followed suit. The fish was all broken up about both injuries.

A guy in a gorilla suit won the fish throw with a toss of 59 feet, six inches.

The Horton Bay Olympics were initiated last year as a winter fundraiser for the Fourth of July parade. This year's event grossed approximately $1,100 and is expected to net between $800 and $900.

Eggers said the Olympics drew both young and old people this year and all got involved and had fun.

Eight-year-old Roger Simons bobbs for apples through the ice on Horton Bay during Sunday's festivities.

Band receives a top rating

The Charlevoix High School Symphonic Band returned from the District Band an Orchestra Festival held recently in Petoskey with their eighth consecutive first division (I) rating. The band was one of seventeen area bands to participate in the festival.

The Charlevoix musicians received I ratings from all three of the concert adjudicators and from the sight reading judge.

The three musical selections which the group played were "Brighton Beach March" by William Latham, "If Thou Be Near" by J.S. Bach, and "Festa" by Elliot Del Borgo.

The group was especially successful in the sight reading portion of the festival, receiving a grade of "A" in each of the six musical categories.

The first division rating qualifies the band for the State Band and Orchestra Festival which will be held on Saturday, April 29, at several locations in the state of Michigan.

Health Department continues to encourage vaccinations

For many years District Health Department No. 3, as well as other public agencies and medical care providers, have provided vaccines to children, adolescents and adults. Public health efforts with available vaccines have sharply curtailed, or practically eliminated diphtheria, measles, mumps, poliomyelities, rubella, and tetanus. Adults, especially parents, should continue to be aware of vaccines which become available. One relatively new vaccine is the Haemophilus influenzae type b or Hib vaccine.

Some of the diseases resulting in Hib infections are inflammation of the windpipe or trachea (epiglotitis) which can block the airway; inflammation of the membranes protecting the brain and spinal cord (meningitis), which can result in brain damage, retardation, hearing loss, partial blindness, speech disorders, behavorial problems or seizures; dangerous heart condition (pericarditis); an infectious form or arthritis (septic arthritis); middle ear infection (otitis media); a skin inflammation (cellutitis); and infection of the lungs (pneumonia). Hib attacks one of every 200 children in the United States before age 5. Antibiotics are used to treat Hib infections. Unfortunately though, treatment is not always successful.

Since Hib infections can be spread easily by coughing, sneezing, or through close facial contact, children who are in close contact for extended periods are more likely to become infected. This risk includes children in day care centers, nurseries and homes with more than one child under age five. One infected child may make many other children sick. That is why immunization against Hib is the best way to prevent children from catching and spreading this type of serious childhood illness.

The new vaccine has been tested and is effective preventing the majority of disease due to the Hib organism. However, as with any vaccine, Hib vaccine may not protect 100 percent of individuals receiving the vaccine. Adverse reactions include local redness, swelling, nd tenderness. Fever and irritability have also been reported. The vaccine is not given to children with an acute illness or fever, or to anyone with a hypersensitivity to any component of the vaccine, including thimersol and diptheria toxoid. Only a single injection is necessary. No booster injection is given.

The United States Public Health Service recommends the conjugate vaccine for all children at 18 months of age. Any previously unvaccinated child between 2 and 5 years of age should also be considered for the vaccination, depending on risk of the disease.

Through an agreement with the Michigan Department of Public Health, District Health Department No. 3 will be offering the Hib vaccine at all of its clinic locations at no additional cost. The vaccination is also available through many private physicians.

More information about the Hib vaccine may be obtained from any office of the District Health Department. In Charlevoix call 547-6523.

Unhappy taxpayers may speak to boards of review

by PEG OHLE

As the second full week in March approaches, many local property owners are readying themselves for an appearance before members of their City or Township Board of Review to question increases in the assessed valuation of their properties.

As the result of re-appraisals in some townships, large land sales in others, and extensive building projects in still others, there have been many large increases in property valuations throughout the county. Higher valuation, of course, virtually always translates into higher taxes.

While a president of the United States who is elected on a platform that includes, "No new taxes", will not be on the line of fire if Congress decides higher income taxes are necessary, the city and township officials who meet their constituents on the street every day, are constantly hearing about the hardships property tax increases bring.

So, as set forth by law, these local officials appoint a Board of Review consisting of members of the general public who live in the city or township to listen to taxpayers' complaints and make adjustments when deemed proper. Meeting with the Board of Review also gives taxpayers a chance to compare their assessments with those of their neighbors—so they may see they are being treated fairly.

In at least two townships in Charlevoix County, re-appraisals last year resulted in some properties being increased over 100 percent in value. Those Boards of Review know they will have a busy week.

All of the Boards of Review held organizational meetings this past Tuesday to review their tax rolls and revise assessments or correct descriptions of property which came to their attention. They are now notifying property owners whose assessments were changed, so they may appear at next week's Board of Review meeting.

The "Primer for Board of Review Members" published by Michigan State University lists the methods assessors generally use to arrive at their estimate of true cash value of a piece of property. (True cash value is divided by two to determine assessed value).

The "Market Approach" is considered the most common assessing method. In this approach, the assessor estimates value by square footage, building quality, age, lot size, number of rooms, etc. Manuals give a guide to the rough value of a house, and known sales data is checked against that. The neighborhood and nuisance factors are also considered in the "Market Approach".

The "Cost Approach" tries to determine value by what it would cost to reproduce the property or by taking original cost and applying depreciation factors. It is most useful when applied to houses less than seven years old.

The "Income Approach" can be used for commercial properties. The assessor computes a capitalization rate and uses a formula that includes net income and market value.

One of the most difficult problems taxpayers bring to the Board of Review, according to this booklet, is "spot assessing" to lower the assessment on a piece of property because of hardship or sympathy. This can throw the assessments on neighboring properties out of line. Senior citizens are a special part of this problem, because even with the Michigan Homestead Property Tax Credit, many find their taxes are beyond their ability to pay.

The City of Charlevoix Board of Review will meet at City Hall next Monday and Tuesday, March 13 and 14, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. There will also be a session on Wednesday, March 15, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Members of the Board of Review are Councilmen Earl Muma and Alvin Russell, Robert Timms, Vincent Olach, and William Dreyer.

The Charlevoix Township Board of Review will meet at the Township Hall Monday, March 13, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. On Tuesday, March 14, it will meet from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The Hayes Township Board of Review will meet at the Township Hall Monday, March 13, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. On Tuesday, March 14, it will meet from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., and from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. On Thursday, March 17, it will meet from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Those wishing to appear before the Board of Review are asked to contact Supervisor Paul Hoadley at 547-6986 to schedule a time to be heard.

The Marion Township Board of Review will meet at the Township Hall Monday, March 13, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. On Tuesday, March 14, it will meet from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., and from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The Norwood Township Board of Review will meet at the Township Hall Monday, March 13, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m On Tuesday, March 14, it will meet from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The Eveline Township Board of Review will meet at the Township Hall Monday, March 13, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. On Tuesday, March 14, it will meet from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Non-resident taxpayers who wish to make a statement to any Board of Review may also do so by sending a representative, or by submitting a written statement.

Resident taxpayers unable to attend the Board of Review meeting may send a representative, or—if the city or township has passed an ordinance or resolution permitting them to do so--submit a written statement.

CHURCH

William C. Crowe

William C. Crowe, 82, of Ironton, died March 4, 1989, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral was held Tuesday, March 7, at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Harold E. Kruse Jr. of the Ironton Congregational Church officiated. Burial will be in Roseland Park Cemetery, Berkley.

Mr. Crowe was born Sept. 6, 1906, in Ulverston, Lancashire, England, the son of John and Annie (Hodgen) Crowe. As a young boy, he moved to Negaunee with his family and graduated from Negaunee High School. He moved to the Detroit area and on Sept. 15, 1928, he married the former Hilda M. Wilcox in Highland Park.

The couple resided in the Highland Park area where Mr. Crowe was a letter carrier for the postal service, retiring in 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Crowe moved to Ironton in 1963 and Mrs. Crowe preceded him in death on Oct. 4, 1986.

Mr. Crowe was a member of the Ironton Congregational Church.

He is survived by one daughter, Shirley A. Kemp of Ironton; three grandchildren, Scott, Kevin and Laura; one brother, Norman Crowe of Royal Oak; one niece, Edith Eisenberg of Hollywood, Calif.

The family suggests memorials to the American Diabetes Associaton or the Ironton Congregational Church. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Harry M. Broder

Harry M. Broder, 63, longtime Charlevoix summer resident, died Feb. 28, 1989, at his Cleveland residence.

Funeral was held in Cleveland on Friday, March 3, at the Mayfield Mausoleum with interment at Mayfield Cemetery, Cleveland. Rabbi Daniel Jeremy Silver officiated.

Mr. Broder was born March 25, 1925 in Detroit, the son of Hyman C. and Celia M. Broder. He had been a summer resident of Charlevoix since 1928.

Mr. Broder attended the University of Michigan and later earned a doctorate degree in history at Western Reserve University in Cleveland. He was a professor of history and a college administrator as well as an executive of Cook United, Inc. a family business in Cleveland.

Mr. Broder was a veteran of World War II, serving in the U.S. Army infantry. He was wounded in France in 1944.

He married the former Peggy Fisher of Pontiac on Jan. 31, 1947, in Ann Arbor.

Mr. Broder was an avid boater and enjoyed playing tennis.

He is survived by: his wife; his children, Douglas F. Broder of New York, Elizabeth Penoyar of South Bend, Wash., John M. Broder of Chevy Chase, Md., Emily Jane Broder of Cleveland, Ohio and Eric T. Broder of Cleveland; seven grandchildren; two brothers, N. Brewster Broder of Southfield and William K. Broder of Sausalito, Calif.

The family suggests memorials to a charity of choice.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by the Rev. Robert G. Wilson Interim Rector
Christ Episcopal Church

It's the first week of March! And every time I use the front door to our house I keep eyeing the flower bed that stretches along the front of the house. You see, last fall I planted some flower bulbs and we here at home keep looking for signs of new life. Hope springs eternal!

But there is one big problem! We still have over three feet of snow in our front yard and more may come today! It is obviously going to be some time before we see crocus, tulips and jonquils. Yet we know that the bulbs are in the ground, that the melting snows will water them, and that the warming rays of the sun on the south side of the house will finally give us an array of colorful spring flowers. We have to wait.... to be patient.

And so it is with our life. Here in the midst of this Lenten season, we long for brighter, happier days. If we have taken Lent seriously we may have had some dark days. There may have even been some discouragement if we have engaged in any disciplined self-examination. Self-examination often can open up some serious wounds and may leave us all but devastated. We are so human. And yet we know that God, in Jesus Christ His Son, can help us to overcome that sense of failure, that devastation. A New Testament teaching that is worth noting is John 10:10: "I am come that you might have life, and have it more abundantly." After the bleak days of Lent (and winter?) comes the sure signs of healing and finally of resurrection to new life.

With a sigh or relief, even with banks of snow and perhaps mounds of human imperfections, we know that hope does spring eternal!

Think Spring!
Think Easter!
Think Resurrection!

Helen Campbell Jones

Helen Campbell Jones, 77, a summer resident of Charlevoix died recently in Ann Arbor following an extended illness. Jones was the wife of Phillip Jones of Ann Arbor and the daughter of Harvey and Linda Campbell of Charlevoix.

Jones was a member of the First Baptist Church in Ann Arbor and attended the Congregational Church while in Charlevoix.

Jones was preceded in death by her brother John Peter Campbell in 1934. She is survived by her sons Phillip Jones Jr. and Roger Jones and her daughters Ann Hansen and Kristen Jones.

A funeral and memorial for Jones took place Feb. 27 in Ann Arbor. Memorials in her name may be made to the Charlevoix Historical Society or to the American Association of University Women in Ann Arbor.

Multistate effort proposed for Great Lakes fishery

Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Chief John Robertson has called for a multistate and Canada joint management authority for the Great Lakes sport fishery.

In a wide ranging speech before the annual meeting of the Michigan Charter Boat Association, held in Lansing, Robertson said that sport fish know no boundaries and Lake Michigan and Lake Huron should be treated and managed as single resources.

Citing many of the recent recommendations of a Lake Michigan Task Force study by state biologists and representatives of sporting groups, Robertson indicated that the trout and salmon fishery has reached a critical period and that steps must be taken to preserve and improve the fishery which has not only become a quality recreation but also a vital segment of the state's tourist economy.

He announced that a similar task force for Lake Huron would be organized in May of this year to conduct a study on the status of that sport fishery.

A joint management plan for the Great Lakes must include intensified research programs for the salmon fishery, Robertson said, stating that little is known about the life of Great Lakes salmon between the time fish are reared in the hatcheries until they are harvested at the state weirs at the end of their life cycle.

"We just don't know what happens to these fish once they are out in the lake. We don't know enough about the causes of mortality in the early life of salmon."

He said a top priority of all the governments bordering our Great Lakes must be the preservation of sport fish forage base, primarily alewives, chubs and sculpins, and called for a total ban on commercial gill nets in all the states.

Commercial gill nets have been banned in Michigan waters for several years with the exception of native American fishermen. Indiana has also banned gill netting, and a move is underway in Illinois to prohibit such commercial fishing. However Wisconsin has 154 licensed commercial gill netters who annually harvest 220 to 400 million pounds of forage fish. Five commercial trawlers in Wisconsin waters alone account for 20 million pounds of alewives annually.

To harvest such numbers for pet food at the expense of multimillion dollar sport fishery is totally wrong, he said.

Robertson also said the state must work to change the lake trout stocking policy of the federal Great Lakes Fishery Commission which does not provide for a sport fishery.

He said that proposed cuts in the sea lamprey control program by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service could spell disaster to the future of the state's sport fishery.

"When the time comes, I will call upon you to write your congressional representatives to urge them to maintain the federal government's lamprey control programs, and if possible fund research to find better and less costly ways to continue this control.

Robertson praised the Michigan charter boat fleet for introducing thousands of new anglers to Michigan's much touted salmon and trout fishery.

"While some critics may consider your commercial fishermen, I do not," he said. "You are educators who have brought the excitement of Great Lakes fishing to those who could not or would not have had the experience and who now continue to return to Michigan waters. Your boats are platforms which give many licensed anglers the opportunity to learn and enjoy our fishery."

Charter fishing booklet printed

The 1989 edition of the Michigan Charterbook, listing more than 250 fishing and specialty charters around the state has rolled off the press.

Various sections in the reference guide contain Great Lakes fishing charters in almost every Michigan port, river fishing guides, cruise and excursion charters, sailing, diving and duck charters, each listed separately by lake including Lake Superior, Michigan, Huron, St. Clair and Erie.

The fishing charters include listing for trout and salmon, walleye, bass, perch and other sport fish.

The listings include a brief description of the boat, the captain's name and the address and phone number to make reservations.

Copies of the guide can be obtained by writing the Michigan Travel Bureau, P.O. Box 30026, Lansing, MI 48909, or by calling 1-800-5432-YES.

County Hospice seeking funds

The Charlevoix County Hospice is sponsoring the "Ides of March" fund raiser, a raffle drawing with a grand prize of $10,000. Margaret Lasater, Director of the non-profit organization, explained that the hospice offers home services to the terminally ill and their families.

"Caring for terminally ill family members is difficult and stressful. The hospice offers volunteers trained to temporarily relieve primary caregivers. For example, volunteers might sit with patients so caregivers can run errands, or provide emotional support both patients and their families," Lasater said.

"This is our first attempt at large scale fund raising and we're hoping that community enthusiasm for the project continues until all 150 tickets are sold," she said.

Tickets are $125 each and are available from the Charlevoix County Hospice (536-2842) and from hospice board members. The drawing will be held on March 15, 9 p.m., at Stafford's Weathervane in Charlevoix. Second place is $500 and third place is $250.

Republicans party will host dinner

The Charlevoix County Republican party will host its annual Lincoln Day Dinner March 18 at the Grey Gables Inn.

Guest of honor and featured speaker will be Dick DeVos, vice president of International of Amway Corporation. During Michigan Republican's recent State Convention in Grand Rapids DeVos confirmed his interest in possibly becoming a candidate for the United States Senate seat currently held by Democrat Carl Levin.

Dinner begins at 6:30 p.m. with a choice of prime rib or white fish. Dinner will be preceded by a social hour beginning at 5:30 p.m. with a cash bar.

Tickets for the dinner cost $25 apiece and are available from Carol Stephan (547-4117) or Oscar Stroud (547-2192).

Childhood immunizations offered and still important

District Health Department No. 3 is warning parents of the continuing danger of childhood diseases and urging them to make sure that all of their children are fully immunized.

Brian Youngs, M.D., Medical Director, is especially concerned at this time because of the suspected measles (rubella) and mumps cases in the Rogers City area. Recent national news releases have noted the problems with measles and mumps in the United States. Measles is an acute, highly communicable disease characterized by fever, cough, runny nose, red eyes, red spots in the mouth and a rash. Measles can be a very serious illness complicated by middle ear infections, pneumonia and inflammation of the brain.

Mumps is also an acute viral disease with fever, headache, earache and swelling of glands in the face and neck. Possible complications include inflammation of the brain, deafness, painful swelling of the testicles in teenage and adult males which sometimes results in sterility, other rare problems such as inflammation of the thyroid, breast, heart, and ovaries have been reported.

Rubella is also a contagious disease with a rash sometimes resembling measles and scarlet fever. The illness usually is mild and complications such as encephalitis are rare. Rubella is important because of its ability to produce birth defects in the developing fetus (baby). Susceptible adolescent and adult females of childbearing age should be immunized.

The Health Department strongly recommends a series of immunizations that should be started at 2 months of age. The schedule for active immunizations by 4-6 years of age includes a basic series of five (5) doses of diphtheria and tetanus toxoid and pertussis (DPT), and four (4) doses of trivalent oral polio vaccine (TOPV), and one does each of measles, rubella and mumps (MMR), and the Haemophilus influenzie type b vaccine (Hib). Parents-guardians should check each child's immunization record to insure they are properly immunized against all preventable childhood illnesses, especially measles, mumps and rubella. The MMR vaccine is given at 15 months of age, Hib vaccine at 18 months of age, and DPT and TOPV started at 2 months of age.

Immunizations are offered in each county by the Health Department. In Charlevoix call 547-6523 for more information.

District Court cases almost double

The caseload of Charlevoix District Court almost doubled between 1980 and 1983, according to the annual report of Judge Harvey C. Varnum.

In 1980, the court's caseload was 3,515, and in 1983 it had increased to 6,387, Varnum told the County Board of Commissioners. Of these, 149 were new felony cases. Charlevoix County also handles a high percentage of misdemeanor cases, he said, due largely to the Castle Farms Music Theater during the summer months.

Varnum cited the influx of people into the county from other areas to spend vacation time as the main reason for the increase in his caseload. "At 65 miles an hour, it takes only four hours to get up here from Detroit," he said. "It's not going to stop and it's going to overwhelm the whole justice system."

Varnum's District Court also covers Emmet County, which has also had a heavy increase in caseload. There, there has been some talk of holding preliminary hearings on weekends.

Police investigate abduction attempt

Charlevoix City Police continue to investigate a report of an attempted abduction at the Captains Corner parking lot Feb. 14 but have not been able to substantiate or verify some aspects of the original information in the case.

Officers conducted an extensive follow-up investigation which included interviews of people working at the time and near the place of the alleged incident. Officers also reenacted certain parts of the incident.

According to police chief Dennis Halverson, the reenactment led to "some investigative concerns regarding details which were supplied by the victim."

BUSINESS

RE/MAX office opened

Local Realtor David L. Campbell, former owner of Ski and Shore Charlevoix, has announced that his real estate company at 701 South Bridge Street will be doing business as RE-MAX of Charlevoix effective March 1.

A broker since 1975 Campbell, who is also an attorney, deals primarily in commercial brokerage and business opportunities with a specialization in liquor licensing.

He is joined in business by 3 sales associates: Katherine S. Engle also from Ski and Shore, Mona L. Doyle previously with Century 21 and Coldwell Banker, and Kristi L. McClelland formerly with Century 21. They specialize in lakefront, condominium and residential resort properties.

Campbell's plans for the franchise include opening RE-MAX offices in East Jordan and in Boyne City within the next 12 months. RE-MAX of Charlevoix will be affiliated with RE-MAX of Michigan, Inc., the regional real estate franchise network headquarter in Kalamazoo and with RE-MAX International, Inc., headquartered in Denver, CO.

Forage workshop offered

The Tip of the Mitt Hay and Forage Council, in cooperation with the Michigan Forage Council and MSU Cooperative Extension Service, is sponsoring FEED II (Forage Excellence Earns Dollars).

FEED II is the second installment in a three-year forage education program for Michigan Farmers. The local workshop will take place from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., March 15 at the Country Star Market in Boyne City.

This year's workshop will emphasize forage harvesting and utilization.

Area farmers are invited to attend and may call the county Cooperative Extension office at 582-6232 for additional information.

Sheriff makes awards

Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater has announced sheriff's department staff awards for 1988.

The employee of the year award was given to correctional officer Rex Stark-Behling. Sheriff's Auxiliary member of the year was presented to Lewis B. Webb. Sheriff's Mounted Division member of the year went to Judy Wheat.

Health program started for area athletes

It will be easier for junior high and high school athletes in Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Charlevoix and surrounding areas to have access to professional treatment for athletic injuries as part of a new program that gets underway in time for the fall sports season.

The Northern Michigan Sports Medicine Center, a joint venture of Northern Michigan Hospitals and Bay Street Orthopaedics in Petoskey, is introducing "Athletes' Access" to serve area teen athletes. For an annual fee of $25, a student will be able to join Athletes' Access and receive a variety of services aimed at not only helping youths avoid injuries, but to provide them with state-of-the-art sports medicine care in the event of an athletic injury.

"Students who join will be able to receive an initial evaluation on our isokinetic equipment that will identify any muscle imbalances or strength deficits that might put them at risk for an injury," said Paul Bragenzer, a certified athletic trainer and director of the Sports Medicine Center. "We will counsel them and give them sports specific exercise prescriptions if they need to exercise or strengthen certain areas to reduce the risk of an injury.

"For those who are injured, they will be evaluated and receive basic treatments for a minor injury like ice packs, heat packs, whirlpool and basic exercise, and we'll do supportive taping for them before games if they need it. If we find there is anything to preclude them from resuming participation in their sport, we refer them to their family doctor with our recommendations, and then it's up to their doctor to decide if they need to continue treatment with us."

Students who enroll will have unlimited access to the Center for evaluations at their convenience. In addition, the Center operates Saturday morning injury clinics for the fall sports season to give athletes a place to be evaluated as soon as possible after being hurt in a game.

Initial evaluations and treatments immediately following injuries will be included as part of Atheletes' Access services, with more long-term treatment of a specific injury being an additional cost that would most likely be covered by medical insurance. Athletes who do go on to require more in-depth treatment at the Center work with a certified athletic trainer or physical therapist who follow an aggressive, exercise-oriented regimen to restore the patient to health.

"If young athletes who are injured are told to just take two weeks off and go back to play, that's two weeks that they're not in training," Paul said. "At the end, if they return to the sport, they are at a disadvantage physically because they are now at a lower state of fitness than the other kids. It's a proven fact that orthopedic injuries rehabilitated using exercise recover faster and more effectively than those that are not.

"We get kids back into sports as soon as possible and as safely as possible."

And that's the type of support that should not only help the students, but also benefit their coaches.

"In the larger schools downstate, it's more common to have athletic trainers in the schools. But we don't have the luxury here," said Petoskey Schools' Athletic Director Gary Hice, explaining that the Athletes' Access program can help fill that void. "I think it's definitely going to be a benefit to our coaches because it will take the burden off them to determine when an athlete can return to play."

And, Paul said, that's one of the main purposes of the program.

"Coaches' jobs should be easier because they won't have to wonder if an athlete is able to go back and play," Paul said. "They'll be notified of their athlete's status and our recommendations.

"It lets the coaches coach, and not have to be athletic trainers, too. It's the next best thing to having a trainer on staff."

Athletes' Access will be available to students in schools throughout northern Lower Michigan. For information, contact the Northern Michigan Sports Medicine Center at 347-9300.

Bandshell: After one step forward now it's moved two steps back

Just when it looked like different factions in the community might be moving toward a compromise on the design of the proposed bandshell, the deal fell through with a mighty thud.

Now, representatives of the bandshell committee and a group who want the bandshell sized scaled back are going to meet again, at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the city hall, this time with mayor Gary Probert and city manager Mike Wiesner attempting to mediate.

Last week the two bandshell groups appeared on the verge of an agreement and the council had scheduled a special meeting for Monday, March 13 so they could approve whatever the groups agreed to.

But the tentative agreement between the two groups fell through last Thursday evening when the bandshell committee met and decided they wanted two feet more in back stage area than the tentative agreement called for.

Members of the view group were not at the Thursday meeting. At the Monday, March 6 meeting bandshell committee cochairman John Hess said that members of the view group would be invited.

Thursday afternoon, a message was left at the office of view group member Colleen LaBlance that there would be a meeting Thursday evening. LaBlance was working in the field and did not get back to her office to pick up the message until the next morning.

Consequently, nobody from the view group was at the Thursday bandshell meeting.

With this prelude, the council special meeting began Monday evening. Rather than approving an agreement, councilmen sat before two groups who still are squabbling and even more discontented than before.

Approximately 40 to 50 people attended the meeting. The show of hands in a straw vote indicated the vast majority in attendance favored scaling back the bandshell size.

The disparate opinions of the two groups became obviously right from the start of the special meeting.

LaBlance noted that the bandshell committee had apparently had a change of heart last week. She suggested the view group might also change their position.

"The bandshell committee can have everything that they wanted as long as they move it

Charlevoix Elementary School students performed their annual spring musical last Thursday, centered around the theme of rain songs. Although the theme was rain, the sun and children ended the show shining brightly.

Fire destroyed a home under construction near Oyster Bay this past week. Firemen were hampered by a steep, icy private drive and had to fashion a supply line to bring water to the fire.

Fire destroys home

Charlevoix city and township fire departments found their efforts to fight a house fire complicated by a steep and icy driveway and lack of a nearby water supply.

At 9:26 p.m., Wednesday, March 8 the city fire department responded to a fire at a house at Oyster Bay off of Boyne City Road. The house was under construction and owned by Paul Andoni of Bloomfield Hills.

The house was near the Lake Charlevoix shoreline, several hundred feet off of Boyne City Road at the end of a private drive.

City firemen arrived at the fire with four trucks which carry a total of approximately 7,500 gallons of water. The fire was well advanced by the time the fire department arrived, but using the deluge gun on the '85 fire truck firemen were able to knock the fire down.

However, the 7,500 gallons of water did not completely extinquish the fire and with no fire hydrants available and the lake frozen over firemen had to truck in water.

Township tankers were called to assist in bringing water. Due to the ice, the city's largest tanker was unable to get back up the hill to Boyne City Road.

To get water to the fire, firemen set up a supply line. The '85 fire truck, which has four-wheel drive, was able to get up and down the hill. The city's small tanker also got back up the hill.

Using the '85 truck, firemen laid a 5 inch hose from the burning house up to Boyne City Road. A portable water tank (which is a plastic-lined box resembling a backyard swimming pool) was set up at Boyne City Road.

Ahead-lines

It's time to get green

Although the spring flourishing of the flora and fauna may still be a few weeks away, none-the-less things will green up significantly this Friday. Rather than the growing of the green, we will see the wearing of the green in keeping with the traditional Irish holiday of St. Patrick's Day.

St. Patrick's Day may have started in Ireland, but it's popularity is rampant in America. In larger cities, such as Chicago, St. Patrick's Day is filled with special events.

Even in humble, little Charlevoix St. Patrick's Day is seen as cause for celebration. Several of the local eateries, watering holes and businesses have special plans, sales and entertainment geared to St. Patrick's Day.

Some businesses are selling paper shamrocks to benefit charities. A person buys a shamrock and signs their name to it and it is displayed on the wall or in the window of the business.

In some years past, St. Patrick's Day has been a fine spring day, a day so clear and warm that no coat or jacket was needed outdoors and shirt-sleeves were provided adequate warmth. Those years have been rare and chances are this year won't be one of them. But it never hurts to hope.

Public comments on waste plan

Garbage in or garbage out? That depends on a person's point of view.

About 30 people attended a March 7 meeting on Charlevoix County's proposed solid waste management plan.

Representatives from Cheboygan and Kalkaska Counties want more garbage to be allowed to enter the landfill. Other people at the meeting felt the proposed plan already allows too many other counties access to the Charlevoix County Landfill Inc. near Ironton. They prefer to see the plan revised to decrease rather than increase the number of counties hauling garbage to Charlevoix.

As drafted by the Solid Waste Planning Committee, the proposed plan allows solid waste from Emmet, Antrim, Crawford, Otsego and Presque Isle Counties as well as Charlevoix County to enter the landfill.

The planning committee haggled for months before deciding to include all of the other five counties in the proposed plan and the decision was not unanimous.

Landfill access for the five counties would be on a provisional basis. Charlevoix would be allowed access to disposal facilities (transfer stations) in those counties and the counties will have to provide a mechanism in their own waste plans to site a landfill.

Other points raised at the public hearing were the need for recycling and strong enforcement of the provisions of the plan once it is finalized and adopted.

People who were not at the March 7 meeting, but wish to comment on the proposed plan may do so by submitting their comments in writing to the county planning office at the county building by noon March 17.

The solid waste planning committee is scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m., March 23 in the county building annex. At that time they will review public comments and consider revisions to the plan.

Following planning committee approval, the plan will go before the county planning commission. If it receives approval there, it will go to the county board of commissioners. If they approve the plan, it will be considered by the 18 cities and townships in Charlevoix County and by the village of Boyne Falls. In order for the plan to be accepted, at least 13 of the 19 smaller governmental units must approve it.

Failing that, the plan will be returned to the planning committee.

Sparks, flames and smoke spewed into the night sky and could be seen some distance away during a fire last Wednesday evening. The home was under construction and belongs to Paul Andoni of Bloomfield Hills.

Wrinkles in reciprocal agreements

Even if Charlevoix County does include other counties in the Charlevoix County Solid Waste Management plan, there are wrinkles which must be ironed out. The situation may not be as simple as saying we'll take your waste today if you'll take ours tomorrow.

As currently proposed, the Charlevoix County waste plan would allow five other counties access to the Charlevoix County Landfill Inc., located near Ironton. The landfill is owned by Waste Management Inc.

Counties currently included in the proposed plan are: Emmet, Antrim, Crawford, Otsego and Presque Isle. Cheboygan and Kalkaska have also asked to be included.

Under terms of the proposed plan, counties included in the Charlevoix County plan will have to agree to allow Charlevoix County access to their waste disposal facilities and make provisions in their own plans for siting a landfill.

At least one wrinkle has come up in this type of proposed agreement. At the March 8 meeting of the county board of commissioners, county planner Larry Sullivan presented a letter be received earlier from attorney James C. Cotant, who represents the Crawford-Otsego Solid Waste Management Authority.

Crawford and Otsego Counties are planning to build a large waste incinerator. In order to design the incinerator to operate tanker hauled water from the township fire hall and city water tower to the portable tank. The '85 pumper truck pumped the water into the 5 inch line down to the site of the fire where the city's other pumper supplied fire hoses.

While this system was being set up, the fire regained strength. Within approximately 10 minutes of the time the water supply system was in place, firemen again had the majority of the flames knocked down.

Firemen remained at the scene until approximately 3 a.m. Although the garage was saved, the main portion of the home was almost completely gutted. The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

OPINIONS

REASONABLE TO ME

L. SCOTT SWANSON

Stonewalling bureaucracy

An incident this past week brought to mind one of the most valuable lessons I learned in college. It was a lesson I learned outside of the classroom.

Midway through first semester, I sat down to select my classes for the next semester. I had a course booklet, but even after reading that, I still had some questions about which courses I should sign up for.

I was just a lowly freshman and this college stuff was still new to me.

So I put my coat on and walked across campus to an office where I figured they might be able to give me the information I needed.

There was a man behind a counter and I explained my predicament to him, telling him I was trying to choose classes for the coming semester and had some questions I needed answered.

He told me that was not what that particular office did. I asked him if he knew what other office I should go to. He said no, he just knew that his office couldn't help me.

At the time I didn't realize it, but for one of the first times in my life I was being stonewalled by bureaucracy. But as I said, I was a freshman and didn't know the system. I didn't want to make waves so I just left quietly.

I went to a different office. I thought maybe they could help me. There was a lady behind a desk. I told her what my problem was. She listened and then told me politely that she was a secretary and didn't have any answers for me, but if I would wait I could talk to her boss and maybe he could help me.

So I sat down in a chair across from the secretary and waited until Mr. Whatever His Name Was could see me. After about 10 or 15 minutes a guy in a suit came out and invited me into his office.

The man offered me a seat and he sat down behind his desk. He wore a nice suit and tie, was well-spoken and impressed me as someone who must be very knowledgable. I thought surely he would be able to answer my questions.

I explained to him that I was in the process of choosing courses for the next semester and had some questions I needed answered.

He continued to be articulate and dignified as he told me he did not have the answers to my questions and did not know who would.

I left that office still not knowing the answers to my questions, but with a little better grasp of the frustrations of dealing with bureaucracies.

I looked up the title and location of another office and went there. There was a long line in front of a counter. I took a place at the end of it and began waiting. People in front of me did whatever they needed to do and left and new people took places in line behind me.

Finally, after almost half an hour, I arrived at the front of the line. A lady stood behind a window at the counter.

For the third time that afternoon I explained my situation and how I needed some information. And for the third time I was told I was in the wrong place.

"Do you know where I should go so they can help me?" I asked politely.

"No. I'm sorry I don't," the lady said.

"Hmm," I said, not moving away from the window.

There I stood. I was an 18-year-old freshman. I'd been taught that it's best to be polite to people. I'd grown up in a small town where most people knew me by name and would go out of their way to answer a legitimate question.

But there I stood, in front of a counter about to be brushed off by bureaucracy for the third straight time.

I looked over my shoulder and saw about 30 students behind me in line, waiting for me to leave so they could move up to the counter. I looked at the lady behind the counter who also was waiting for me to go.

I leaned forward slightly, resting my hands on the counter. I looked straight at the lady and quietly, but firmly said, "You may not be able to tell me off the top of your head where I can go for an answer, but I think you can find out. You can look it up in a book or ask one of your coworkers. I think you should do that. Because I'm going to stand here until you do."

She looked at me and I smiled. Then she looked at all the impatient students waiting behind me.

A moment later I was referred to the right office where I received the information I needed.

Update on Mesquite mission

by P.F. Cook
Lieutenant Junior Grade
Operations-Boarding Officer
USCGC MESQUITE

If you can for a moment, imagine a journey near its close. A journey that began in earnest, continues on an erratic course no one can predict, the only certainty being our "release" on March 17. The places we've been, the things we've seen and done must have fit somewhere in someone's greater scheme. Let me freeze a day in this scheme, take a snapshot in time.

The briefing for our next operation was scheduled for noon on Saturday, January 21; the day following was Super Bowl Sunday and the operation was to commence Monday at 2100. Some cutters were to leave under the cover of darkness early Monday morning, destination: the U.S. Virgin Islands.

Monday evening Mesquite arrived at the rendezvous point, anchored, and awaited our Coast Guard visitors. We were to provide some supplies and equipment to the other cutters in the operation.

Morning arrived early Tuesday. I'd slept fitfully during the night. I'd felt the engines turn over and heard the water flowing past the hull not more than 8 feet from where I lay. When the rap on the door came, I knew we were no longer at anchor.

The Bos'n Mate of the Watch stuck his head around the door, "Miss Cook, XO wants you on the bridge." I reached for my watch, "0600", not a bad night's sleep considering by boarding team had been on stand-by since 0400.

The bridge was dark and a couple of miles astern of us I could see the stern light of a vessel we'd passed not too long before. Then began the questions on the radio. "West bound fishing vessel south of St. John this is the Coast Guard, I have a few questions for you this morning, sir." His responses were prompt and concise, as if he knew all the questions before I asked. More than likely he'd been through this before. Fish was his cargo and he was headed for St. Thomas to pick up ice cream. I remember thinking of ice cream as strange cargo for a fishing vessel and when I woke the Captaia to recommend a boarding I told him just that.

As the questions continued, the rest of my team was roused, the Gunner's Mate made ready to issue weapons, and the boat lowering detail readied the boat, a 7 meter rigid hull inflatable (RHI). Meanwhile, the sun came up.

As the RHI raced toward the motor vessel CARMA, the adrenaline was flowing. What would we find?

As we approached, it became obvious the boat had not been used for fishing in quite awhile. As we climbed aboard, the crew was not assembled together as they had been instructed on the radio. We spend a few minutes rounding them all up to the bow and finding the Master.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

Annual animal thaw

Dick Farmer, one of Charlevoix's foremost deer watchers, reports that whitetails are leaving their winter yards as the heavy snow cover retreats.

Which means the animals will be prowling the highways and byways of Northern Michigan in search of tender young shoots.

Which means if you cherish the grille and fenders on your shiny new eight-cylinder gas guzzler you had better mind your "P"s and "Q"s, particularly if you are traveling at dawn or dusk.

Those are the deers' favorite times to roam, although you'll find them out at all hours of the day and night.

ANOTHER LITTLE night stalker who will be out before long is our friend, the skunk.

Skunks don't actually hibernate like bears, but they are pretty sound sleepers during long, cold winters, such as the one just ending.

When the first warm nights of March arrive, they like to leave their beds and burrows in search of groceries and girlfriends.

Skunks don't pose much of a hazard to the average automobile, but hitting one can make you wish you hadn't. Their aromatic residue can linger for days on tires and chassis.

They also can make fido an unwelcome houseguest, if he should happen to tangle with one.

OTHER ANIMALS also are out and about now that the weather is improving.

Squirrels staged a circus all weekend on Dixon Avenue, tight-rope walking on power cables and chasing each other up, down and around the big maples.

A few rabbits also are out, biding their time until you plant your garden.

I have yet to see a robin this spring, but mourning doves are plentiful, as they have been all winter.

The same with mallard ducks. Hundreds of them were out over the weekend, riding ice floes on Round Lake. You'd think their little feet would freeze. Bet they can hardly await the return of the tourists with their bags of popcorn and waffle cones.

ALL WINTER I have heard stories from friends and relatives that Southern Michigan has been virtually snowless.

But it's hard to believe when you are fighting snowdrifts and battling whiteouts.

Friday's Detroit News, however, confirmed that Southern Michigan is a vast wasteland of snowless turf.

The Motor City has had only 23 inches of snow so far this winter, compared to Charlevoix's 133½ inches — a difference of 110½ inches, or just under nine feet.

No wonder Detroit area ski resorts are crying the blues.

HAVE YOU BEEN reading about or listening to the Detroit-area housewife who thinks there is too much sleaze on TV and is calling for what amounts to a boycott of advertisers who sponsor such shows?

One of her prime targets is a program called "Married with Children," which I saw once. I never bothered to watch it again. It was a little risque, but no more so than a dozen other TV shows this season. Some are pretty funny; others are not worth watching.

The point is, nobody is holding a gun to my head and making me watch such programs. Furthermore, I have mastered our remote control device that came with our TV set to the point where I can turn the power on and off and change channels whenever I like.

But a boycott of advertisers?

Come on. That's dirty pool. About as sleazy as you can get.

It sort of reminds me of the time Cinema III showed the movie "Last Tango in Paris" starring Marlon Brando. It was supposed to be a real barn-burner and some well-meaning folks in town decided to picket the theater to discourage others from attending.

As it turned out, "Last Tango" was a superb movie dealing with a subject — the male menopause and sexuality — that filmmakers had never before handled with such depth and understanding.

As for kids being exposed to the seamy side of life via the boob tube: Not to worry.

They hear worse on the school bus.

... Mesquite patrolling coastline for drugs

All but the master were quiet and cooperative. The Master was an ornery sort, having been awakened early and prevented from meeting his intended schedule. The crew numbered five total and since two of my four many team would have to lay below for the initial safety inspection, I was a bit uneasy awaiting their return.

Since we were all crowded on the bow and the Mesquite was astern of us somewhere, not answering our calls, I had the master come about and head east into the seas toward the Mesquite. I could at least see the Mesquite now and so could they. I was a bit more comfortable but the master made his irritation obvious.

"How do I know they're not going to leave something below and accuse us? Let me send someone with them." He was referring to my safety team. "No", I said, "You can go with me later and note then if anything is missing or disturbed." Not entirely convinced, he fell silent and we waited.

The team returned and reported all in order. I checked his papers, all seemed in order; but I had yet to see his cargo, account for all space and ensure he had the safety equipment required for a vessel this size.

The First Mate, my partner, and I went below to check the bilge in the Engine Room. From there we moved up and aft to the freezer. The upper compartment was a cooler and contained boxes of electronics, or so I was told. I had no "probable cause" to believe any different so we moved on.

A hatch in the deck opened to reveal the freezer. Large 40 to 50 lb slabs of fish lay on the deck. Below them was another bilge, but 5 inch thick 12 foot long wood slabs covered it and offered no access. It was unaccounted for space, possibly an illegal hidden compartment, but I couldn't get in there. Without a day's thaw, we didn't have the equipment to do it.

The Mesquite radioed the information to the Coast Guard Marine Safety Office on St. Thomas. the hope was that they could complete the inspection when the boat arrived inport, without unduly delaying the vessel's schedule.

With no other reason to stay I finished the boarding form, the only violation being insufficient visual distress signals. Back in the RHI the team quietly chatted about the boarding and we motored east toward Pillsbury Sound, already bustling with activity. I looked at my watch, "0800". The sun was already hot enough to remind me of a midsummer afternoon in Charlevoix.

That day the Blue Team boarded two more vessels, another cargo boat and a brand spanking new 60 foot yacht. We recorded names and numbers on 20 or 30 other vessels and checked the "look-out lists."

Elsewhere, the Coast Guard Cutter Seneca successfully uncovered several pounds of cocaine and another cutter discoverd several fugitivies doing their best to stay out of sight.

This operation continued for several more days and since then we've traveled another thousand miles. . .

Letters to the Editor:

U.S.C.G. appreciated Fran Martin

Dear Editor,

It was with deep regret that Mesquite's crew heard of Fran Martin's passing away. Our winter deployment caused the news to be delayed many weeks, but I would like to take a moment to express our respect for her. As Bob Clock mentioned in "Clockwise" she was a true friend of Coast Guard servicemen and women. Her interest sparked many articles about the Coast Guard and its people. She helped the community to better understand our service to the country as a whole and to Charlevoix as a community. She helped with many more personal problems as well and we'll always remember her with fond thoughts.

Citizens group fights substance abuse

Editor,

Drugs and alcohol are a great concern to all of our school supervisors. Even children in the third, fourth and fifth grades are cautioned about the use of alcohol and drugs. Can you believe that? Some kids before they are twelve years old become users of alcohol.

The schools are doing what they can. But some teachers need to be specially trained and motivated by professional instructors. The whole community must share in some of reasons and be made aware of the problems of young students.

It is just unbelievable that a few students have been sent to treatment centers in Gaylord and Traverse City. Can you imagine kids fifteen and younger have already lost control of their lives.

Charlevoix Concerned Citizens are trying to do something about it. It is now an incorporated broad based group of local persons organized for the singular purpose of lessening the use of drugs and alcohol by our students.

Charlevoix Concerned Citizens are looking for parents who will commit themselves, participate and become personally involved. If you could be one of those persons come to our next meeting, March 16, 7:30 in the high school study hall. You could be assigned to a working committee and made to feel very useful. If you need more information call 547-6764.

efficiently, they need to know how much waste they will be receiving.

Cotant's letter referred to counties wishing to use the facility "making a long term commitment in the form of a contract or the adoption of flow control."

At this time Charlevoix County is looking at the landfill as a primary disposal site. The timeframe for that no longer being the county's primary disposal site is indefinite, therefore planning for "long term commitments" isn't a simple matter.

"In the event that a county does not participate with the Authority, in terms of a long term commitment there will not be room for their solid waste at the new Incinerator Project. In other words, a county will either be sized in or out depending upon their commitment," the letter states.

Sullivan presented the letter to the county commissioners as they, not the solid waste planning committee, are the ones with the authority to discuss such commitments by Charlevoix County.

Oddfellows post win

The Oddfellows captured the 1989 cribbage tournament, beating the Masons by a total of 1,103 points during the 10 nights of play.

Seven and a-half tables were in play on the final night of the tournament, March 9. Russ Lewis and Ed Johnson II tied for high point among the Masons Thursday as each accumulated 944 points. Sims Baker was high man for the Oddfellows with 953 points.

The Masons loss in the 59th annual cribbage tournament means they will host the Oddfellows next Thursday at a post-tournament banquet. The banquet will take place at the Masonic Temple.

Following dinner, the two cumulative high point participants in this year's tournament will be announced. These players will serve as captains in next year's cribbage tournament.

Mix caution with kerosene

If you use a kerosene heater, District Health Department No. 3 has some suggestions that can minimize the risk of fire and other dangers.

1. Use only 1-K grade kerosene. Never use gasoline. Even small amounts of gasoline or other volatile fumes or solvents mixed with kerosene can increase the risk of fire. Grades other than 1-K can contain much more sulfur and will increase sulfur dioxide emissions from the heaters which can be a health threat.

2. Always store kerosene in a separate container that is clearly marked. Kerosene containers are usually blue while containers for gasoline are generally red. This will help you avoid using contaminated fuel or the wrong fuel by mistake.

3. Some oil companies have quality control programs to minimize the chances of inadvertently pumping gasoline rather than kerosene. But when buying fuel at the service station, take time to be absolutely sure that it is kerosene you're pumping.

4. Fill the heater's tank outdoors away from combustible materials only after the heater has had time to cool down. Never refuel the heater inside your home. Do no refuel the heater if it's hot or in operation. Do not fill the fuel tank above the "full" mark because this space is needed to allow room for the fuel to expand without causing leakage when the heater is on.

5. If there is a flare-up or uncontrolled flaming, do not try to carry or move the heater. This can make a fire worse. If there is a manual shut-off switch, turn the heater off immediately. If this does not extinguish the fire, leave your house immediately and call the fire department.

One additional precaution is that you install at least one smoke detector near every sleeping area, on every level of your home and in the vicinity of where the kerosene heater is used.

out of East Park," she said.

Bob Hoffman, bandshell committee treasurer, said he felt hard feelings have developed and he was sorry to see that happen. He said the bandshell committee met last Thursday evening and the architect, Jack Begrow, recommended the minimum area of the back stage be larger than what was discussed at the March 6 meeting.

Mayor Gary Probert said he's disappointed and disgusted with the way the bandshell dealings have transpired.

"We could have worked this out," he said.

Begrow said he feels the project should go forward quickly. He also noted, "I think we're dealing with a lot of people who are not experts."

To which Polle Verwys responded, "We have a beautiful town. It has not all been built by experts."

Edith Gilbert said the bandshell committee was a "grass roots" group. She said the committee got input from the community and the overwhelming majority of committee members feel the banshell committee should stick to the original design.

Evelyn Wojcik, who served on the bandshell committee, questioned the number of bandshell committee members Gilbert referred to. She said there were not 30 members at any one committee meeting. She said different people would come to different meetings and make different recommendations from one meeting to the next.

"The committee as a whole did not happen," Wojcik said.

Wojcik said she feels the bandshell should be something simple, but nicely done and should be in East Park.

"Let's make it simple, bring it down to size. Put it in East Park, but be reasonable about it."

Councilmen were divided on what they want to do with the bandshell.

Councilman Earl Muma talked of building the bottom section and working on the top later. He also suggested having the matter go before the planning commission.

Councilman Ken Whitley opposed building just the bottom portion, saying that might be what the city would end up living with for the next 50 years.

Councilman Butch Russell said he has been and continues to be in favor of scaling down the size of the bandshell.

Councilman Jim Potter said all the councilmen had their phones ringing off the book this past weekend.

"That's got to tell you the city's not happy with what's happening," he said.

Bandshell groups had been making progress

Remember everything you read about the proposed bandshell last week? Well, never mind. Much of that has now gone out the window.

To either bring you up to date or refresh your memory, here's a brief recap of what had happened as of press time last week

In recent weeks the bandshell committee and a group of people wanting the proposed bandshell design scaled down have been meeting to iron out their differences.

Members of the bandshell committee say they want a first class band pavilion. Members of the other group say they also want a nice pavilion, but they want something unobtrusive which will block the view of the harbor by as small a degree as possible.

There are three main points of contention in the debate: the roofline, sidewalls, and the size of the storage, dressing and restroom area behind the stage.

As the two sides met, they made rapid progress on the roofline and sidewall questions.

In general, most parties have favored a roofline level with the adjacent Wharfside store. The sidewalls will be retractable or detachable so when there are no performances going on, people on Bridge Street will be able to see across the stage to the water.

The major hang-up has been the backstage area. That will be a solid wall protruding from Wharfside into East Park.

Initially, the backstage area included two handicap accessible restrooms, storage rooms and dressing rooms.

The view group wanted those rooms scaled back so the protrusion of the backstage area into the park would be reduced by four and a-half feet.

At a March 6 meeting, architect Jack Begrow presented an alternative design which reduced the protrusion by four feet. This design would have left a three-foot passageway behind the stage, two storage rooms and a small bathroom with a toilet and sink.

Colleen LaBlance, one of the leaders of the view group, said at the March 6 meeting that she felt her group could live with that design.

Some members of the bandshell committee said at the March 6 meeting that they felt they too could live with the modified design, but others from the bandshell committee expressed reservations.

That meeting ended with bandshell committee cochairman John Hess saying he would call a meeting of the bandshell committee later in the week so they could vote on the modified design.

The groups also agreed to go before the city council, which was meeting immediately following the March 6 bandshell meeting.

Since the time the controversy arose and it became evident there are two factions with different opinions, the council's position has been the same. Councilmen told the two groups to work out an agreement between themselves and bring it back to the council. Councilmen instructed the groups to act expeditiously because spring and summer are rapidly approaching and soliciting bids and initiating the construction process takes a certain amount of time.

So the two groups reported to the council Monday, March 6. They indicated they'd made progress and following a bandshell committee meeting later in the week, it was likely there would be an agreement in time for this week's council meeting.

The council had only a work session scheduled for Monday, March 13. At work sessions the council can't take formal actions. But in terms of bandshell construction, the council was and is anxious to get the show on the road. Heartened that the groups appeared on the verge of an agreement, the council agreed to call a special meeting March 13 so they could take action and solicit bids for bandshell construction.

However, Thursday, March 9 the agreement fell through. (See accompanying story.)

Choral presents "Messiah"

Handel's Messiah will be presented by the Little Traverse Choral Society at 3 p.m. Sunday, March 19 at the United Methodist Church of Petoskey on East Mitchell Street.

Charlevoix residents Dave Patrie, Lillian Swinton, Joann Dannecker, Debbie Gelderblom, Karen Bell-Hansen, Jeff Bell-Hansen and Fran Tollas will participate in the production. Jeff Bell-Hansen is the director.

The musical will feature a 50-voice choir, six soloists, an orchestra and pipe organ. The public is invited to attend. A $4 donation will be requested at the door.

Nursing scholarships offered

Applications are now being accepted for three nursing scholarships which are offered through the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The Helen M. Dutcher Nursing Scholarship of $450 per year for up to four years is available on a competitive basis to students who wish to enter approved schools of professional nursing in the State of Michigan. The applicant must reside in the area served by the Charlevoix Area Hospital and must have applied for admittance to an accredited school of nursing before applying for the scholarship and must demonstrate financial need.

The Peggy Carey Northway Scholarship is available to graduating high school seniors only and provides $300 per year up to a maximum total of $1200. And, a third scholarship, the Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Scholarship offers a total of $700 to be distributed at $350 per year. A fourth nursing scholarship is offered annually by the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild.

Applications are available through area schools and in the Administrative offices at Charlevoix Area Hospital. The completed applications should be returned by April 1. For further information call the Charlevoix Area Hospital administration at 547-4024.

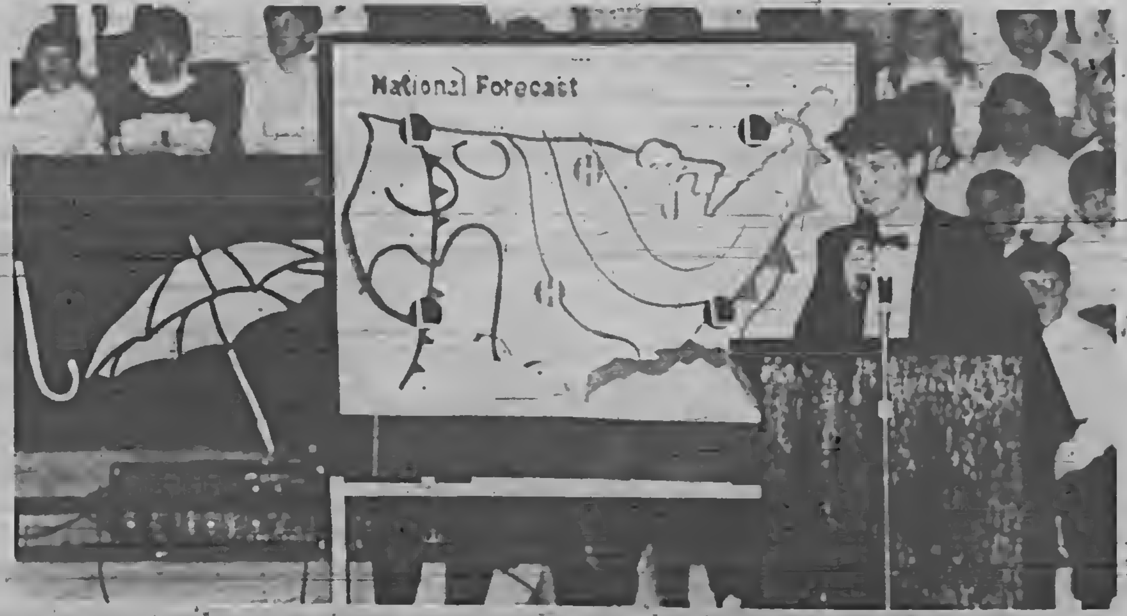
Spring Musical

The fifth grade Lost Chords sang two songs last Thursday evening.

Jaimie Sellers had no problem with projection as she sang "Tomorrow" from the play "Annie." Sellers left the audience wondering how such a big voice fits in a small person. But then, people wonder the same thing about Anita Baker and Cindy Lauper.

Jeff McComb broke down and loosened up during the fifth grade dance portion of last Thursday's elementary school spring musical. The students bopped to Manhatten Transfer's "Trick, trickle."



Jeremy Biggerstaff served as the announcer and weatherman for the spring musical.

Do homework before appealing tax assessments

If you believe that your property taxes are too high, you have the right to appeal your assessment. The Michigan Tax Information Council is offering tips for presenting an effective appeal when your Board of Review meets this month.

If you think your assessment is too high, you should begin by inspecting your records at your assessor's office. Property tax records are always public information and Michigan law requires that records are made available to you upon request.

The factors which are considered are the age, quality and type of construction of the house, the number of rooms, the size of the lot, the neighborhood, and the usual selling price for properties with similar characteristics. You may review the appraisal record card to verify the recorded dimensions of the house and lot, and to make sure that unfinished attics and basements have not been misrepresented. The assessor will usually correct an error without requiring an appeal to the Board of Review.

By law, your assessor's office must also furnish you with the forms necessary to present the appeal to the Board of Review. It is a good idea to ask any questions you have about the form and be sure you understand just what information you are required to supply before you leave the office.

If you find that you must proceed through the formal appeals process, it is crucial that you observe the relevant deadlines. If your protest is not filed in a timely fashion, you will miss the opportunity to appeal the assessment upon which your tax bills for that year are based.

Before bringing an appeal to the Board of Review be sure to gather the facts. You should be able to provide documentation of comparable housing sold at lower prices than your appraisal, or of appraisals you received through a private firm.

If you find the judgment from your Board of Review unsatisfactory, you can appeal its decision to the Michigan Tax Tribunal. This body hears appeals from judgements of the local Boards of Review. You may either appear before the Tribunal on your own behalf or be represented by an attorney or other person of your choice. You must petition the Tribunal concerning the decision rendered by the Board of Review by June 30, 1989. The address is: Tax Tribunal, P.O. Box 30232, Lansing, MI 48909, telephone 517-373-8850.

For further information on appealing your property tax assessment, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Michigan Tax Information Council, 115 W. Allegan, Lansing, MI 48933, or contact your local township office.

St. Patrick's Day Concert

Dale and Maureen Scott will appear with Dance All Night this weekend as part of the Jordan River Arts Council entertainment series. The group will perform music ranging from Irish jigs to the jitterbug.

There'll be a wee bit of Irish - as befitting a celebration for St. Patrick - a dab of a fling and a dash of a jig - followed by some old time clogging, a dramatic tango, a frantic foxtrot, some swinging, swaying rhthym and blues and a very, very groovy jitterbug.

All that's in store at a Jordan River Arts Council's "Arts Alive" event at 7 p.m. Friday, March 17, at East Jordan High School and Saturday, March 18, at Mancelona High School.

Dance All Night, aka Holly Norgard and Daniel Gorno, will entertain with a wide range of choreography, accompanied by Maureen and Dale Scott performing on the hammered dulcimer, the 5-string banjo, the viola, guitar and harmonica.

Both groups have been very well received at many northern Michigan festivals, including the popular Bliss Fest. The Scotts have also appeared in concert with their Peacemeal String Band as opening acts for Josh White Jr. and Kitty Donahoe.

Although tickets for the "Arts Alive" performance will be available at the door ($5 adult, $3 student), the Council is encouraging the purchase of series tickets priced at $8.25 per person, $11 per couple or $16.50 per family.

The low family price admits a couple and all their children – no matter what number. The programs are supported by the Michigan Council for the Arts and the Cheboygan Area Arts Council.

JRAC members are entitled to discounted tickets: $7.50 per person, $10 per couple, $15 per family. Series tickets are good for all five events, each offered at two locations, in the "Arts Alive" series. Other events are:

Emily Burchill, lyric-coloratura sprano, East Jordan April 7 and Mancelona April 8

Patty Clark, storyteller, East Jordan April 14 and Mancelona April 15 (rescheduled from snowed-out dates, March 3 and 4.)

Anne-Marie Domen and Raymond Nargis, poets and dramatists, East Jordan April 28 and Bellaire April 29

The Fitch Dance Troupe in East Jordan May 12 and Bellaire May 13

All performances will begin at the high schools at 7 p.m., except Patty Clark's East Jordan appearance, which will be in the Jordan Valley District Library community room.

Tickets are available at Chambers of Commerce throughout Charlevoix and Antrim counties, The Studio in Mancelona, the Busy Bridge in East Jordan and at the door.

Non-members may qualify for member prices by paying prorated membership fees of $7.50 senior, $11.25 individual and $15 family. Fees, for membership through September, entitle members to receive a newsletter announcing JRAC events and a discount on all tickets and class fees.

Niley Louiselle

Niley N. Louiselle, 86, of Charlevoix, died March 11, 1989, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral was held Tuesday, March 14, at Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton of Community Church of God officiated and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Louiselle was born Aug. 26, 1902, in Bramer, Mo., and moved to the Charlevoix-Ellsworth area as a young boy, settling in the Phelps area with his family.

He attended Phelps school and worked as a cook in Jordan Valley lumber camps in the 1920s.

On July 9, 1925, he married the former Louise Krulik in Charlevoix. She preceded him in death on May 23, 1981.

Mr. Louiselle was a stone mason and helped with the construction of many of the homes in the Boulder Park are in Charlevoix.

He was an outdoorsman and enjoyed trout fishing and hunting.

Survivors include: three daughters, Louise Wexstaff of Ludington, Mrs. Barbara Kennedy of Grayling and Mrs. Jacqueline Chew-Benson of Anaheim, Calif.; two sons, Allen of Springfield, Mo. and Richard of Charlevoix; three brothers, Thomas, Ted and Paul, all of Charlevoix 14 grandchildren; 18 great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Floyd R. Henderson
East Upright Church of God

The ministry of instruction and revelation are vital to the church. These ministries are associated with Christ's prophetical office. In the Old Testament, He ministered to the church by His Spirit in the prophets. They are described as "Searching what, or what manner of time the Spirit of Christ, which was in them did signify, when it testified beforehand the sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow" (1 Peter 1:11).

In His earthly advent, Christ Himself ministered to the church by His discourses, parables, miracles and life.

It was in view of this deficiency and the imminence of His departure that Christ promised the coming of the Holy Spirit as the Teacher in His stead: "Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak; and he will show you things to come" (John 16:13).

The Holy Spirit is the teacher to the church. He teaches the church by equipping the mind if the believer for spiritual understanding. The wisdom of the Holy Spirit's teaching is the wisdom spoken among the perfect (or the spiritual). He equips us for that wisdom: "Howbeit we speak wisdom among them that are perfect: yet not the wisdom of this world ..... But we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, even the hidden wisdom, which God ordained before the world unto our glory" (I Corinthians 2:6,7).

It is the Holy Spirit's work to know fully and in its depth all that is in the mind of God from eternity to eternity. This includes all the promises of the covenant in Christ. It includes the richness of divine grace. That He might show us the deep things of God. His special purpose is to show us "the things that are freely given to us of God" (I Cor. 2:12). Teaching us to compare spiritual things with spiritual things. The Holy spirit teaches in that spiritual realm of true concepts and comparisons; by giving us the mind of Christ" (I Corinthians 2:16).

His primary area of teaching is the Word and Will of God. "He shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you" (John 14:26). The self-excusing and frailty of the human mind cannot recall the full and pure ministry of the Son of God. We need, then, the help of the Holy Spirit to recall Christ's commands, promises, and ministry. The church needed it for the preservation of the gospel record and we need it in our daily lives.

The Holy Spirit causes believers to experience that which He teaches. He renews us in the mind of Christ for a love of the truth. This experience requires the abandonment of self, in any form of guise, in the interest of the truth. Self is often preserved in pet theories, prejudices, intellectual laziness, fear of change and fear of contradiction. These must be abandoned in order to permit the work of the Spirit. The stubborn maintenance of self is a hindrance to teachability and the work of the Holy Spirit.

He implants truth as a principle of mind, emotions (heart), and will. He implants truth in the inward parts – love for truth; truth in thought; truth in conscience; truth in heart; truth to self; and truth to God. He forms these graces and Christ in us.

FAMILY

Brady fiftieth

Homer and Kate Brady

Homer and Kate Brady will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary April 1. They were married in Charlevoix in 1939 and lived here until recently retiring to Zephyr Hills, Florida.

The Bradys have a daughter Billie (Joan) Swanson who lives in Tucson, Arizona; a son Tyrone (James) who lives in Berwick, Louisiana; and an adopted daughter Carolyn Olinger of Charlevoix.

They also have 11 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Rose Wojan

Rose F. Wojan, 73, of Charlevoix, died March 12, 1989, at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Funeral mass will be 11 a.m. Wednesday, March 15, at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. James K. Gardiner will officiate and burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Rose F. Kosmac was born Oct. 16, 1915, in Bedford, Ohio, the daughter of Frank and Clara Kosmac. She grew up in the Bedford area and on Nov. 9, 1940, she married Walter J. Wojan in Cleveland, Ohio. The couple moved to Charlevoix in 1949 and founded Wojan Aluminum Products. Mr. Wojan preceded her in death Jan. 13, 1978.

Mrs. Wojan was a member of St. Mary's Church and St. Mary's Altar Society.

She is survived by: three sons, Arthur and Dennis, both of Charlevoix and Kenneth of Petoskey; six daughters, Mrs. Douglas (Nancy) Eldredge, Mrs. Mitchell (Connie) Cunningham and Mrs. Jeffrey (Marla) Lutz all of Charlevoix, Mrs. Leon (Janet) Jarema of Boyne City, Mrs. Jan (Karen) White of Traverse City and Mrs. Ronald (Kim) Videan of Kentwood; 33 grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; one brother, Frank Kosmac of Orlando, Fla.; four sisters, Mrs. Robert (Minnie) Moody of Burton, Ohio, Mrs. Carl (Sophie) Kilby of Maple Heights, Ohio, Mrs. William (Frances) Debelak of Cleveland, Ohio and Mrs. William (Clara) Jakovcic of Solon, Ohio.

Visitation at the Winchester Funeral Home will be 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. today (Tuesday). A rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. today at the funeral home.

Population gains by one

Glenn and Gail Rubingh of Ellsworth had a baby son, Joseph Allen Rubingh, at Charlevoix Hospital March 12. Maternal grandparents are Joe and Velma Powell of Charlevoix. Paternal grandparents are Jim and Gert Rubingh of Ellsworth. Effie Powell of Coopersville is the baby's great grandmother. The baby's older sister is eight-year-old Stephanie Rubingh.

Grange members receive awards

At the regular meeting of the Barnard Grange Thursday, March 2, the following members were presented Sixth Degree Certificates by state officer Catherine Stebe: Dale and Sandy Meredith, Elaine Avery, Christy Empey, Linda Empey, Terri Jaskierski, April Meadows, Elizabeth Meadows, Julie Stolt, Robert and Shirlene Tripp, Lisa Winchester and Harry and Josephine Wood. The degree work was taken at the Grange State Session held in October.

Barnard Grange now has 205 members. During the month of February, six regular and four associate members joined the organization. Card parties and dances are held regularly during the winter months and special meetings and events are held for the youth and young adults in conjunction with groups throughout the state.

SPORTS

Middle school wrestler Jesse Leadabrand is congratulated following a match by teammates (from left) Nick Himebauch, Zach Pajtas, Scott Burns and Greg Holmes. The wrestlers competed in a 12-team middle school this past Saturday at Charlevoix High School.

Middle school wrestlers host annual tournament

Approximately 165 middle school wrestlers from a dozen different schools participated in the annual Charlevoix Middle School Wrestling Tournament.

The tournament was initiated several years ago and has become a tradition. Current members and alumni members of the high school wrestling team work with wrestlers in grades six, seven and eight following the high school wrestling season. Parents and members of the Mat Club and Sports Boosters also help coordinate the tournament.

Twenty-one Charlevoix wrestlers competed in this past Saturday's tournament. Jason VanLoo, Jesse Leadabrand and Ed Keller took first place in their weight classes. Kurt Degrow placed second. John Boris and Charlie Pop took third place. Buddy Pitcher and Adrian Russell placed fourth.

Other Charlevoix wrestlers were David Wilks, Bobby Gillum, Scott Boyer, Jason Tornga, Scott Burns, Jeff Joy, Nick Himebauch, Don Jess, Josh Watros, Zach Pajtas, J.B. Withers, Larry Pop and Gregg Holmes.

Schools participating along with Charlevoix were: Reed City, Cheboygan, St. Ignace, Onaway, Grayling, Petoskey, Elk Rapids, Pine River, Gaylord, Rogers City and Frankfort.

Wrestlers began showing up for weigh-ins at 7 a.m. The wrestlers were divided into 22 separate divisions. Matches began at 9 a.m., with four matches taking place simultaneously, and ran until shortly after 3 p.m. Each wrestler wrestled in at least two matches and some wrestled as many as five matches.

This coming Saturday several Charlevoix middle school wrestlers will compete in a similar tournament at Cheboygan.

Saturday health day will help to fight cystic fibrosis

A "March Madness" health day to benefit the fight against Cystic Fibrosis is being sponsored by Vital Options from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. this Saturday at Charlevoix High School.

This is the sixth year for the benefit which includes workouts, lectures, mini massages, make-up consultations and a number of door prizes. Tickets for the health day cost $8 and may be purchased from Vital Options North instructors or at the door. People may attend for all or any part of the day.

Fifteen minute mini-lectures begin at 9 a.m. They include: "New Directions for Spring from Mary Kay Cosmetics" by Dorothy Taylor; "Massage Therapy - Who, What, When and Where" by Dorothy Taylor; "Body Fat Testing - Electrical Impedance Method" through Burns Clinic (cost $10); "Tips for exercise safety-utilizing Dynabands" by Candy Smith.

At 10 a.m., hour-long lectures will begin. Charlevoix High School counselor Charles Bentley will speak on "A Reason For Expecting - How we allow others to fail us." Dr. Paul Bragenzer, who works with the sports medicine program at Northern Michigan Hospitals will talk about "Injuries That Can Occur - How to prevent them after the fact."

At 11:15 a.m. Eileen Mikus, Burns Clinic dietician will speak on "Diet Foods and Beverages - Do they help you lose weight?" Jane Hale, a Tai Chi instructor from Traverse City will lecture on the Tai Chi martial arts discipline.

Vital Options North instructors will lead workouts beginning at 12:30 p.m. The workouts will include interval aerobic conditioning, strength work and stretching and relaxation techniques.

Lunch will be served at 2 p.m. and doorprizes will be given away.

Grazing meeting

The county cooperative extension service will host an intensive grazing workshop from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, March 24 at the 4-H Center at the Emmet County Fairgrounds in Petoskey. Area dairy, beef and sheep farmers are invited to attend.

The MSU Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with the Michigan Energy Conservation Program is offering a program on Intensive Grazing. With the development of relatively low cost and portable fencing materials and development of Intensive Grazing techniques, it is now possible to double or triple the productivity of pastures as well as improve the quality of forages produced. Intensive Grazing can provide the majority of livestock forage needs for 5-6 months of the year at cost significantly less than conventional harvest, haul and feeding systems.

Topics covered include

Why Intensive Grazing is More Productive Than Conventional Grazing Systems - Rod Cortright, Charlevoix County Extension Director

The Economics of Intensive Grazing vs. Conventional Harvest Methods - Glen Kole, District Farm Management Agent & Dairy Livestock Agent

Making Intensive Grazing Work in Your Operation - Gary Wright, the Wright Place Fencing Company

Cost Sharing Assistance for Intensive Grazing Systems - Susan Seitz, ASCS County Executive Director, Charlevoix-Emmet Counties

Michigan karst group will meet

Members of the Michigan Karst Conservancy will meet in Charlevoix this Saturday.

Karst limestone formations are studied by people with geological interests. The conservancy recently purchased 480 acres of karst in the Upper Peninsula. Karst formations contain fossils and caves and provides geological information as well as playing an important role in the ecological system.

About 20 members of the conservancy will meet at 110 Mason Street, across from the Post Office during the day.

At 7 p.m. the conservancy will host a social gathering which the public is invited to attend. Tom Bailey, executive director of the Little Traverse Conservancy, will be the guest speaker for the evening.

People desiring more information may call 547-5344.

Kiwanis Club reviews projects

At their March 8 meeting, the local Kiwanis Club received an update on plans to construct a building which will provide storage for equipment for local Boy and Cub Scouts and store the Kiwanis sausage trailer.

Dave Novotny is the committee chairperson for Troop 11 of the Boy Scouts and explained plans for the 32 foot by 36 foot building. Work will start as soon as weather permits this spring. The value of the building is estimated at $8,550, but with volunteer labor and materials the actual cost will be approximately half of that.

The Kiwanis board voted to make a $1,000 donation to the storage building fund.

March of Dimes drive concludes

With the majority of the kits returned, the March of Dimes annual Mothers March Against Birth Defects in the Northern Districts of our Division have raised nearly $5,000. These break into the following districts: Charlevoix $1774, Petoskey $915, Boyne City $742, Bellaire $444, East Jordan $120, and Beaver Island $664. In total, over 100 marchers visited their neighbors asking for their support of the continuing fight against the birth defects which currently strike over 250,000 babies in this country each year. They in turn delivered health messages from the March of Dimes and from Oleson's Food Stores, the Mothers March sponsor, to every home.

Funds raised by March of Dimes events are used for research and education in the area of birth defects prevention and treatment. Thirty-five percent of the money goes to national research and with current national projects focusing on preterm labor prevention and gene therapy.

Sixty-five percent of the money stays in the local chapter area and is used on programs which can help prevent birth defects. The chapter has trained a doctor-nurse team in the new techniques of pre-term labor prevention and they are sharing this information with health professionals throughout Northwest lower Michigan as well as conducting classes for the public.

A nutritional program for expectant teens through the Char-Em Intermediate School district is helping to insure that these already high-risk babies get an extra measure of help. A program through District Health Department Number 3 is reaching out to expectant mothers who would not otherwise receive prenatal care or education.

The March of Dimes has also provided a scholarship for a nursing student who is in the field of pre-natal care at NCMC. Finally, public health education materials from the March of Dimes are provided for distribution through Public Health Departments, prenatal classes and other groups.

"I would like to thank the volunteers who gave so much of themselves and the public who gave them such a warm reception in this cold-weather event," said Tracey C. Towner, Divisional Director. "Special thanks go to those are leaders Joy Halverson, Mary Ann Voorheis and Kay Kloostra, Janet Simpson, Jill Barnard, Nancy Dionne, and Connie Wojan.

Joy Halverson, Charlevoix's leader summed up with, "This event brings together people from through the community for a common cause, to help tomorrow's children, and I'm very proud of how well we've done.

Fire stickers available

The Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors is providing fire safety stickers for the bedroom windows of children and invalids.

The bright red and orange stickers let firemen know which rooms of a home contain people who are likely to need assistance in escaping a fire.

Joseph Vogelheim from the board of realtors said the program was initiated about four years ago. In Charlevoix, all of the kindergarten students receive stickers. Other people desiring stickers may pick them up at the office of any Charlevoix realtor or call Laura Farmer at 547-4438 or Vogelheim at 547-4444. There is no charge for the stickers.

Group lobbies for wetlands act

Michigan's valuable wetlands are closer to protection due to the contacts made with state legislators during Wetland Lobby Days, March 7 and 8. The lobbying effort was initiated and organized by the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, a non-profit organization whose goal is the protection of water resources in Emmet, Charlevoix, and Cheboygan Counties.

"There were three main purposes of the lobbying effort," explained Stephen Brown of the Watershed Council who coordinated the lobbying. "The first was to raise the awareness of the legislators about wetland protection. The second was to ascertain the position of the legislators on this issue, and the third was to establish personal contacts for more effective follow-up in the future."

The program was sponsored by the Michigan Environmental Council, a coalition of 18 environmental groups. Over 40 volunteer lobbyists from organizations including the Sierra Club, East Michigan Environmental Action Council, West Michigan Environmental Action Council, Northern Michigan Environmental Action Council, Michigan Audubon Society, and Michigan Natural Areas Council as well as the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council participated in the two-day effort.

The lobbyists personally met with approximately 50 State Senators and Representatives and discussed with them the importance of wetland protection. A packet of materials about wetlands protection was distributed to all 148 Michigan legislators. This packet included a description of past challenges to Michigan's Wetland Protection Act, a statement about private property rights and how they relate to the Act, and information about the Federal Wetland Protection Program and the state law.

The ultimate goal of Wetland Lobby Days was to encourage legislators to maintain a strong Wetland Protection Program in Michigan. This effort was deemed very successful. The Watershed Council believes that Michigan legislators will be less willing to weaken the protection program because they now have more information about its importance and about the value of wetlands.

"We were very pleased the Representative Tom Alley, Chair of the House Committee on Conservation, Recreation, and the Environment, indicated that he is not anxious to amend the Act," stated Brown. "Rep. Alley believes that the legislature should give the program's administrative rules, which were implemented in mid-1988, a chance to have an effect before considering any amendments."

"Many of the representatives were very appreciative of the information we provided," stated Gail Gruenwald, Executive Director of the Watershed Council who also participated in the lobbying. "We now have more information about what they need to know about the Wetland Protection Program and will maintain the contacts we have established."

"The effort was also worthwhile from the point of view of the volunteer lobbyists. For many of them, it was the first time they had met with a legislator. They felt it was a very positive experience."

Lobbyists from Northern Michigan include Jack Young of Douglas Lake Improvement Association, Chris Grant of Straits Area Audubon, Bill Weiss of the Three Lakes Association, Dick Luecht from the Elk-Skegemog Association, Richmond Brown from the Upper Chain of Lakes Association, Phil Thiel of Northern Michigan Environmental Action Council, and Megan Jones of Friends of the Crystal River.

One of the chief concerns about the wetlands protection program has been the issue of private property rights. The lobbists discussed the issue of "takings"' with the legislators. They described what takings are and encouraged the legislators not to handle compensation for property value losses due to wetlands protection differently than any other land use regulation.

"The legislators we spoke with agreed that we cannot compensate property owners for loss of values due to land use regulation such as zoning," explained Gruenwald. "The Wetland Protection act must be handled in the same manner."

STATE OF MICHIGAN

ANNUAL TAX SALE

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix

ORDER FOR HEARING
No. C89-411-12 PZ

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

On reading and filing the complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan praying for a judgement in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said complaint will be brought on for hearing and judgement at the April term of this Court, to be held at Charlevoix in the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, on the 10th day of April A.D. 1989, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof their objections thereto on or before the first day of the term of this Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a judgement will be taken and entered as prayed for in said complaint. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said judgement the lands described in such complaint for which a judgement of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such judgement on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a.m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the judgement shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein, or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Charlevoix County this 2nd day of March A.D. 1989.

Countersigned,
Jane E. Brannon, Clerk
Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

TO THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix, Robert A. Bowman, State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the court:

1. That he is the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan and makes and files this complaint under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended and Act No. 380 of P.A. 1965, as amended.

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent.

3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a County Property Tax Administration Fee of four percent which shall be a minimum of $1.00 as provided by Section 211.59, C.L. 1979, as amended, and (d) $10.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned.

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your plaintiff prays.

a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and adjudge that the aforesaid taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended;

b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final judgement in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and expenses as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained, and the amounts listed in the column headed "aggregate" shall constitute the amounts adjudged against the said several parcels, unless so amended by this court.

c. That said judgement provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount adjudged against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides.

d. That your plaintiff may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your plaintiff will ever pray, etc.

Dated: February 17, 1989

State Treasurer
for and in behalf of said State

City reduces millage, adopts budget

City councilmen approved a budget Monday evening which reduces the total city millage levy by 1.83 mills for the coming year.

Councilmen Butch Russell and Earl Muma were the most vocal proponents of the millage decrease, saying it is necessary to offset state equalized evaluations (SEV) increases. Russell and Muma both served on the board of review last week and heard a parade of taxpayers complain about SEV increases.

City manager Mike Wiesner originally drafted the budget based on a general fund millage of 10.6 mills, one mill more than what was levied this year, but the same as the general fund millage levied last year.

During numerous meetings in recent months, councilmen cut various programs and reduced the proposed general fund millage to 9.6 mills

At Monday night's meeting, Russell said, "I would still like to see it reduced to nine (mills)."

Muma supported that position, saying, "The way the taxes are going, something needs to be done (for tax relief).

Russell said, "The SEV keeps going up. The only relief we have for them (property tax payers) is to keep the millage down."

The SEV of all property in the city increased by 11.4 percent this year. Some of that money is earmarked for the TIFA and DDA districts, but even after incorporating the TIFA and DDA, the increase in revenue generated by the increased SEV would have exceeded 10 percent if the millage was not reduced.

SEV and millage are directly related in determining a homeowner's property tax bill.

SEV is the assessed value of a home or property. Assessed value is supposed to be half of a home's market value (what a home theoretically would sell for).

Millage is a percentage of SEV. A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of SEV.

The equation to calculate a tax bill is millage multiplied by SEV. A person whose home has a market value of $40,000 and an SEV of $20,000 pays $20 each year for every mill levied.

It sometimes helps to think of taxes as a pizza government bodies eat. If millage increases, the governing body gets more slices of the pizza. If SEV increases, the governing body gets to eat from a bigger pizza.

According to that analogy, what Muma and Russell were indicating is that they felt that since the city is getting a bigger pizza this year, the city doesn't need to take as many slices to eat the same amount.

General fund millage is only one of three types of millage levied by the city. The city council also reduced millage levied for infrastructure projects from four to three mills and millage levied for debt retirement by .28 mills.

When the total millage decrease is compared to the total SEV increase, the city's estimated tax revenue will be approximately $30,000 less than it has been in the current fiscal year.

City budget breakdown

Charlevoix's total city budget isn't simple. The total budget for the city in fiscal year 1989-90 exceeds $7 million and is broken down into eight separate funds.

The eight funds and the amount of money dedicated to them in the coming year are: general fund $1,443,200; major streets $894,850; local streets $353,650; electric $2,996,150; sewer $472,300; water $438,300; debt service $186,200; Ferry Avenue TIFA $612,000.

Each fund derives revenue from different sources. The general fund, debt service fund and Ferry Avenue TIFA are primarily funded by taxes. The electric, sewer and water funds a primarily funded by user fees.

Charlevoix's property tax levy breaks down into three categories, general operational millage, infrastructure millage and debt retirement millage.

General operational millage pays for the city's day to day expenses. Infrastructure millage pays for a long-term repair program of things such as streets, sidewalks and pipes and lines beneath the streets. Debt retirement millage pays off bonds the city issued in the past to cover the cost of special projects.

During the current fiscal year, which ends March 31, the city has levied 9.6 mills for general operations, 4 mills for infrastructure work and 2.38 mills for debt retirement.

The total city millage levy this year has been 15.98 mills.

In the coming fiscal year, which begins April 1, the city will levy 9 mills for general operations, 3 mills for infrastructure work and 2.1 mills for debt retirement.

The total millage levy will be 14.1 mills, or 1.88 mills less than this year.

A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of a property's state equlized value. Millage combined with SEV determine the amount of tax revenue the city receives. (See accompanying story for explanation.)

Bandshell design approved

The design for the proposed bandshell has been resolved.

Rather than a peaked, Victorian-style roof, the bandshell will have a soft-edged roof similar to roofs on homes built by the late Earl Young.

There will be a three-foot walkway behind the stage. Members of a group seeking to protect the view of the harbor favored a three or four foot walkway. Members of the bandshell committee favored a six or nine foot walkway.

However, even with the three foot walkway, there will still be a small bathroom, dressing rooms and a storage room on the bandshell's first floor. At Monday evening's council meeting, councilman Ken Whitley suggested making the back stage wider, primarily by extending toward the lake, and in turn reducing the distance which the bandshell extends into East Park.

At Monday evening's council meeting, councilmen agreed with Whitley's recommendation and the proposed roof change which was jointly formulated by the view group, bandshell committee and architect Jack Begrow at a March 16 meeting.

The next step in the process is for Begrow to submit updated drawings which reflect the proposed changes. The city will then compile specs and solicit construction bids.

Mayor Gary Probert mediated a highly productive March 16 meeting. Richard Krueger, Bob Hoffman, Ray Wood and John Ochs represented the bandshell committee at the meeting. Tim Wieland, Kurt Puffpaff, Colleen LaBlance and Birdie Whitley represented the view group.

Both sides agreed to the new roofline before the meeting was even officially started.

Begrow said the new roof can be done in an acoustically suitable manner.

Members of the bandshell and view committees met with architect Jack Begrow March 16 and worked out an "Earl Young" style roof which will be incorporated in the bandshell design rather than the previously proposed sloped, Victorian-style roof. Begrow (left) and view committee member Colleen LaBlance (right) are shown discussing the design prior to the meeting.

Community Good Friday service

This Friday afternoon several area churches will get together for the annual Community Good Friday Service.

That so many churches in a community can come together and join in worship is a tribute to local pastors, congregations and the faith which they share.

Nowhere in the Bible does it say, "Go forth and bicker and quibble amongst yourselves over theological differences of opinion."

However, the Bible does say to "Love your neighbor."

The Charlevoix Ministerial Association will host the annual Community Good Friday Service at the Community Reformed Church on Petoskey Avenue.

Prior to the service a procession will carry a cross to the church. The procession will begin at 12:45 at Don's IGA with services beginning at the church at approximately 1 p.m.

The theme of this year's service is the "Seven Last Words of Christ." Seven local pastors will each speak for 15 minutes.

The segments of the seven last words and the pastors addressing them will be: "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do," by Floyd Henderson, East Upright Church of God; "Today you will be with me in Paradise," by Thom Black, First Baptist Church; "Woman, behold your son," by Philip Schairbaum, First Congregational Church; "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" by Duane Nelson, Church of the Nazarene; "I thirst," by Larry Grooters, Community Reformed Church; "It is finished," by Bob Wilson, Christ Episcopal Church; and "Father, into thy hands I commit my spirit" by Bruce Hamilton, Community Church of God.

The service will also include hymns and special music from area musicians.

The service is scheduled to run from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. People who can only attend for a portion of the service may come and go as their schedules allow. A free-will offering will be taken to help fund the work of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

Early school survey results in

Although final results won't be available until next week, some preliminary results of a recent school phone survey have been released.

Approximately 240 registered school district voters were contacted in the survey. Volunteers from local service clubs made the phone calls. Results are being broken down and tabulated by high school computer teacher Ken Bartley and students in the high school computer classes.

School superintendent Gordon VanWieren said the survey was a good survey, but cautioned that the surveys aren't always 100 percent accurate in predicting elections.

He explained that for survey purposes a random sample of registered voters were contacted. In elections, voters with strong feelings, rather than a random sample of voters, cast ballots.

Preliminary survey results indicate that people give the school system an overall grade of a B-plus. People perceive the three biggest problems facing the schools to be: drug and alcohol abuse; financing; student discipline.

The survey also contained questions concerning a community swimming pool, an arts center and the possibility of a nine-tenths of a mill levy to improve the school's bus fleet and facilities.

Approximately three-fourths of those polled responded favorably to a community pool, less than half responded favorably to an arts center and more than 70 percent were receptive to a millage increase for buses.

VanWieren anticipates having detailed survey results available by next week for publication in the Courier and the school news letter.

Three school board seats up for election in June

Three school board positions will be up for election in the June 12 school election.

The three seats are currently held by Max Novack, Doris Pearl and Scott Beatty. Novack and Pearl are longtime board members. Beatty was recently appointed to complete the term of Elaine Martin who resigned due to other commitments.

People wishing to be candidates for the school board may pick up petitions at the school superintendents office on Clinton Street. In order to be included on the June ballot, a candidate must turn in a petition by 4 p.m. April 10. The petition must be signed by at least 20 registered voters of the Charlevoix School District.

... city reduces millage

However, while the number of dollars coming into city coffers will decrease, expenses will increase due to inflation and planned construction projects.

To cover the increased costs, the city will dip into a savings fund and take out $69,600 to cover expenses which exceed revenues.

If things go as projected, that savings fund will begin the year with $278,284 and finish with $208,684.

Wiesner and city treasurer Rick Brandi explained that in order for the city not to have cash flow problems, that savings account should not fall below approximately $180,000.

The significance of that in terms of the budget is that while it may work out to decrease the millage levy and dip into the savings account this year, that probably won't be feasible next year.

The savings account is a well which can run dry. When that occurs, the Council will either have to increase the millage or cut city services.

City councilman Bill Haggard, who along with councilman Norm Probert voted against lowering the general fund millage from 9.6 to 9 mills, expressed concern about the city falling behind on upkeep and having to levy additional millage in the future to catch up.

... budget figures

Although the city has reduced the number of mills levied, much of that reduction will be offset by an increase in the SEV of city property. When the SEV increase and millage decrease are both considered, the end result is that the city will receive $27,000 dollars less in tax revenue in the coming fiscal year as compared to this year.

Two other factors also need to be considered. City revenues are not derived exclusively from taxes. User fees also contribute to city coffers. The city is increasing fees charged for city dockage and for ambulance calls.

The second factor is inflation. City costs increase with inflation. Consequently, that factors into the city budget.

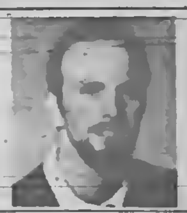
OPINIONS



REASONABLE TO ME

L. SCOTT SWANSON

Juggling away boredom

"Watch this," I said, taking three oranges out of a plastic bag on a coworker's desk.

I began juggling the oranges. I kept things simple at the start, simply tossing one orange beneath the next.

That went well enough so I tried something more complex.

First, I juggled the oranges in a different pattern. Then, I tossed an orange behind my back. Following that, I bounced an orange off of the top of my leg and caught it. For a finale, I tossed an orange in the air, bent forward, caught it on the back of my neck, then stood up straight again, in the process flicking the orange into the air and back into the juggling pattern.

Granted, I'm biased, but I figured it was a pretty fair display of juggling for an amateur.

It kind of surprised me that it went so well. It had been quite a while since I'd juggled anything. When I was in college, I used to juggle quite a bit, just as a way to relax when I wasn't studying.

Baseball inspired me to take up juggling when I was a youngster. As a boy, I played on at least one baseball or softball team every summer.

Over the years, I played on a couple of teams where I was the star player and a couple of other teams where I collected a lot of silvers in my career.

I found that stardom is easy to cope with while scrubdom is not. When you play all of the time, you keep busy. Sitting on a bench is as boring as watching grass grow. It made me crazy.

One day at baseball practice, I was sitting on the bench and getting real fidgety. I went over and picked up a bat and swung it a few times, but quickly tired of that. I put down the bat and picked up a ball and tossed it up in the air a few times, but the fun wore off that pretty rapidly.

Then an idea struck me. I picked up three baseballs and tried to juggle. The first few times I didn't do very well. I'd either drop the baseballs or they would collide in midair and roll away. But I kept at it. I'd chase them down and try again. After a few minutes, I started getting a little better.

Some of my fellow benchwarmers seemed to wonder what the coach would think of my juggling. Personally, I wasn't concerned. I wasn't juggling to amuse him. I was juggling to amuse myself. Besides, I figured if he didn't like how I played the bench, he could easily remedy the problem by having me play the field.

My basketball career was similar to my baseball career. Sometimes I played. Sometimes I didn't. During times when I wasn't playing, I not only learned to juggle three basketballs, but also to balance a spinning basketball on my finger.

Earlier this week, as I thought about learning to juggle and spin a basketball on my finger, the recollection made me chuckle. Then another thought came to mind.

"Lucky I never got on a bowling team. That could have been dangerous."

Editorial

Clearly and simply successful

What did he discover? What has he found that so many other coaches missed?

At a banquet in Ann Arbor this past weekend, Charlevoix High School cross country coach Pete Spieles was honored by the Michigan High School Coaches Association as the state's boys cross country coach of the year.

During the 13 years Spieles has been Charlevoix cross country coach, his teams have won 11 conference titles, seven regional championships and four state championships. Charlevoix is a cross country dynasty.

A good coach, like a good teacher, inspires athletes and students to reach for higher goals, to not only survive in a competitive world, but to advance and prosper.

Obviously, Spieles has inspired Charlevoix runners to do that. But how? What's his secret?

Cross country isn't a complex sport. At the heart, it's as simple as putting one foot ahead of the other.

Spieles has inspired his athletes with some simple lessons. Discipline, dedication and hard work pay dividends.

Ranting and raving has not been Spieles' style. In fact, his runners will probably tell you that when the coach is yelling, you're all right. When he yells, it's just encouragement during a race.

The times his runners get concerned are when they're not working as hard as they should be and he addresses them calmly, but firmly. His message at such times is simple and crystal clear. If you work hard, you improve. If you don't work hard, you don't improve... and that's not good.

His logic is unassailable, inescapable and consequently motivational.

Fear and respect are words which sometimes can be confused. But with Spieles and the cross country program the difference between the words is clearly defined.

He talks to the runners. The runners talk to him. The team sets goals and the coach and runners work together to achieve them.

When one young man was asked how Spieles gets so much out of his runners, the answer was, "You're not afraid of him. But you just don't want to disappoint him."

What did he discover? What's his secret?

Nothing was discovered. There is no secret. Spieles just talked to some kids, earned their respect and showed them the merits of some simple lessons.

There can be no finer credentials for a coach of the year.

Mesquite update

So what comes next, you say? More travels, more adventure on the high seas, more port calls in Paradise, more exotic islands?

After the mid-patrol break when some of the crew went home to Charlevoix and others stayed in Miami to "hold down the fort", Mesquite headed for the Bahamas. Underway again 0900, Saturday, 11 February, it was five days into the patrol when we received orders to Puerto Rico. Our mission: to replace two buoys, check the positions of four others in the busy San Juan Harbor, commission a sea buoy 10 miles east of San Juan, and check the position of the sea buoy in Christiansted Harbor, St. Croix, U.S. Virgin Islands. Keep in mind that these places are not just a hop, jump and a skip away for a buoy tender with a maximum speed

A wonder winter weatherland

Just when I thought I had witnessed every kind of weather anomaly, along comes another.

Saturday morning I was surprised to look outdoors and see what appeared to be huge snowflakes falling from a totally blue sky. There wasn't a cloud in sight.

Then I realized that the flakes weren't snow at all but thin layers of hoar frost which were peeling from trees and bushes. It looked as though someone had scattered Ivory Flakes over the neighborhood.

When the flakes landed on the new fallen snow they picked up the first rays of the sun, creating a dazzling — almost blinding — tableau.

"A thousand points of light!" I cried to my sleeping family as I peered out the dining room window.

"If you want to know what George Bush was talking about during the election campaign last fall, just look out the window. Everywhere you look there's 'a thousand points of light!'"

Judy obligingly roused herself and came downstairs to take a couple of pictures from the front porch — possible fodder for her watercolor mill. If she's lucky she might be able to sell one of her paintings to George Bush.

ANOTHER winter phenomenon I'd like to see before cashing in is "anchor ice."

Anchor ice forms when the frost is so deep that the rocks on the bottom of fast-moving creeks become so cold that they collect ice, even though the water rushing over them is too warm to freeze.

"Pancake ice" is another Northern Michigan oddity that pilot Joe McPhillips introduced me to many years ago when we were flying to Charlevoix from Beaver Island.

The ice on Lake Michigan was etched into huge circles, like pancakes.

Joe said that happens when ice floes crash into one another until the sharp edges are worn off, leaving only circles of ice. Then, when the lake freezes again, the circles are frozen together into a solid mass of circular designs — like a gigantic stained glass window.

Occasionally I see individual "pancakes" of ice drifting down Pine River Channel, but they are far more spectacular when there are thousands of them welded together and you have a chance to view them from the air.

THE NEXT TIME someone tells me that this winter "hasn't been all that bad," I'm going to hit him with my snow shovel.

It won't hurt a bit, because the shovel is almost gone, thanks to long hours on the firing line this winter.

Last November I had a fairly decent shovel; today it is little more than a half-moon of very thin metal attached to a stick. If it only will last a few more weeks, I'll throw it away and buy a new one next fall.

Actually, this winter has been a bear, in my book. True, we lost almost all of our snow in December and again in January, but since then the piles have been getting higher and higher.

Last Saturday morning, in the wake of three mid-week storms, we had more snow on the ground than we have had all winter.

But everyone seems to think we lucked out again this year in the weather department.

We haven't. I can't remember a winter with more below zero days in the past quarter century. We've had colder days for sure, but not so many of them. And certainly not after mid-March.

Sunday morning at the Imperial station on Charlevoix's south it was six degrees below zero.

As of Monday morning at 8 a.m., Charlevoix had 148 inches of snow since Nov. 1. That's more than 12 feet, and we could hit 13 or 14 feet before winter finally calls it quits.

Last winter, by comparison, Charlevoix had only 115.8 inches of snow from November through May.

Then why do so many folks think it has been such an easy winter? Search me. Maybe they don't have to get out and fight snowdrifts and whiteouts every morning to get to work.

One thing I have learned this year is that winter is for the young. Anyone over 50 who pulls up stakes and leaves Northern Michigan for the Sun Belt before the snow flies has my respect and admiration.

The rest of us are masochists and should be locked up. Where it's warm.

Rosemary Horton found her class decorated with balloons last Friday. Horton, who lives in Charlevoix and teaches at Ellsworth, will be retiring at the end of the year. The balloons were the latest in a series of things "secret pals" have done to make Horton's final year of teaching interesting.

of 12 knots. It took four days from the Bahamas to San Juan, a day from San Juan to Christiansted and another six days back to Key West, Florida.

In Key West we prepared for a fisheries patrol. This patrol was a little different than previous law enforcement patrols in that we were enforcing conservation laws. Our efforts directly affected the environment. There are ares west and north of the Florida Keys that fishermen have been literally stripping of shrimp, stone crab, and precious coral. The National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) has established zones wher fishing for these protected species is illegal. Mesquite's mission was to enforce those zones. During our patrol it was not uncommon to see 50 lights at night strewn over five or six miles, all trawlers dragging their nets for shrimp, not more than a half-mile outside the zone. It was like a border partol where only our presence was keeping them honest. More than apparent was the fact that the moment we left, many would be back inside the zone.

Opportunities for the rescue and assistance also came our way. While anchored in the Dry Tortugas, also called the Fort Jefferson National Memorial, we happened upon a vessel aground. The two crew had been without power for five days making it difficult to radio for help. What made it interesting was the fact that there were at least five other vessels anchored in the area and they were only able to raise our attention. After providing them with a pump and a radio we waited for high tide and then towed them to the ranger station.

So much for adventure in the South Seas. Mesquite will be heading for home on March 17, 1989. We anticipate port calls in Halifax and Niagara, N.Y., and if all goes well, will be home the first week of April.

Planned Parenthood offers new program for families

For most parents, talking with a son or daughter about sex is among the most awkward responsibilities they will ever face; parents struggle for the right words, teens pretend to know more than they really do, and afterwards, everyone wishes they would have said more.

To make this important job a little easier, Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood (NMPP) is offering a new program called the "Family to Family" Education Network.

As part of the program, NMPP will train special parent-teen outreach teams to meet with individual families and small groups to discuss sexuality, relationships, and family values. Primary funding for the program through 1989 is made possible by a grant from the Michigan Department of Social Services.

According to program coordinator Lora Blank, "Family to Family" is a new approach to an age old problem.

"I think every parent dreads 'the talk'," she said, referring to the obligatory father-son or mother-daughter discussion about the birds and bees. "Parents feel pressured to cover everything in one awkward session, and too often we don't get around to talking about what's really important," she said.

What is really important, Blank said, is family discussion about relationships, responsibilities, and family values.

"The goal of the 'Family to Family' program is to help pave the way for ongoing family discussions about these issues," she said.

Blank is currently recruiting six parent-teen outreach teams who will present the "Family to Family" program for interested families throughout Emmet, Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Antrim counties. Outreach teams will receive special training in communication skills and program exercises. By year's end, Blank expects to reach 400 northern Michigan families through the "Family to Family" program.

Blank is convinced the demand for such a program exists, and she should know. In addition to being the mother of four teenaged daughters, she has coordinated the successful "How to Say No" Project in northern Michigan schools for the past three years. The "How to Say No" program teaches young people how to resist peer pressures to become sexually involved at an early age, and helps parents reinforce those skills and attitudes at home.

"Through ('How to Say No') parents workshops I've talked with hundreds of parents who are concerned about teenage pregnancy, parent-teen communication, and helping teens set limits in relationships," Blank said. According to Blank, she rarely completes a parents workshop without several parents asking, "Where can I get more help?"

Those requests were the inspiration for the "Family to Family" program, Blank said.

"We want to do even more to help make it easy for parents to get the conversation started and to keep it going," she said. "By offering a program for families in their own homes, our goal is to create the most comfortable atmosphere possible for open, honest discussion," she added.

NMPP also hopes that by bringing families together to discuss shared concerns in a relaxed setting, teens and parents alike will feel an extra sense of support.

"As a parent, it's extremely helpful to talk with someone who shares your concerns," Blank said. "And for teenagers, there's the important message that family communication about sexuality and responsibility is a normal, natural part of family life," she added.

Charlevoix Boy Scouts Mike Ochs and Bill Burns (center and right) receive awards from district scout executive Brian Granger. Ochs and Burns were among several scouts to be honored at an annual scout awards banquet March 15.

Scouts host annual awards banquet

Charlevoix Boy Scouts participated in their annual Court of Honor Awards Banquet March 15 at the high school.

This year's banquet, the twenty-third annual, was dedicated to the memory of scout Brent Wojan and Fran Martin, who was a friend of the scouts for many years.

Gary Arnold received the honorary Pete Burns Memorial Scout of the Year award, the most prestigious award given at this year's banquet. Arnold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Arnold.

Other scouts receiving or presenting various awards and pins were: Mike Ochs, Gregg Seaman, John Rathjens, James Gaskin, David Salmonson, Bill Burns, Kurt DeGrow, Benjamin Babb, Dan Hansma, Fritz Sommerfeld, Walter Kujawski, Andrew Laucher, Mark Schairbaum, David Bellairs, Scott Burns, James Pfluecke and Larry Pop.

Scouts also offered brief reports on expeditions of the past year which included the Polar Bear campout, Klondike Derby, Fall Camporee and Pictured Rocks campout.

Ed Buday of the Kiwanis Club presented a check from the club to help fund a storage building which will store camping, canoeing and other equipment for Charlevoix Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts.

Oleson Food Store donated and prepared food for the banquet. Senior patrol leader Steve Kniat and Scoutmaster Louis Edwards served as banquet hosts.

State receives lease revenue

More than $4 million was generated as a result of a March 6 sale in Lansing of oil and gas leases on state lands.

David Freed of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Real Estate Division said the average payment per acre for the leases was $94, the fourth largest average in any State of Michigan oil and gas lease sale. Of the 46 registered bidders, 32 were successful in buying the leases on 44,217 acres of land.

Bidders paid $3,283,818 for leases in Ogemaw County at an average of $283 per acre, said Freed, who is supervisor of the DNR's Minerals Lease Management Section.

Some of the monies received will be allocated to the Natural Resources Trust Fund and the remaining portion of the Game and Fish Protection Fund.

Richard K. Paddock

Richard K. Paddock, 86, of Edwardsville, Ill., died Friday, March 10, 1989, at Edwardsville Care Center.

He was born December 1, 1902, in Charlevoix, one of five sons of the late Robert and Mary Nicholls Paddock. He married the former Helen Webster of Charlevoix on January 1, 1924. He graduated from Michigan State University in 1925 and retired from Dow Chemical Co. in 1967.

Mr. Paddock is survived by his wife; a son, John Paddock of Edwardsville; two daughters, Mary Jane Barbian of Fresno, Calif., and Roberta Sinclair of Midland, Mich.; a brother, William R. Paddock of Puama Valley, Calif; six grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. He was preceeded in death by three brothers: Robert, John and Capt. Hubert Paddock.

Gravesides services will be held later at Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix. Winchester Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Memorial may be made to the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Forest M. Howe

Forest M. Howe, 84, of Charlevoix, died March 17, 1989, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral services were held Monday, March 20, at Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Benton Heisler of the United Methodist Church officiated and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Howe was born May 22, 1904, in Hayes Township, the son of Rolland and Mae (Spayde) Howe. He grew up in the Charlevoix area and attended Hilton Standard School in Norwood Township.

Mr. Howe worked for Shaptons Machine Shop and Hamlin's Taxi in Charlevoix and also had worked at Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) camps in the area.

He moved to Pontiac in 1935 and worked for Pontiac Motors for 34 years, retiring in 1969. He then returned to Charlevoix.

Mr. Howe is survived by one brother, Clinton Howe of Charlevoix.

Hazel Snider

Former Charlevoix resident Hazel Snider died March 12 in Sheffield, Massachussets. Snider was born in Marion Township. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. Louie Griener.

Snider attended Marian Center School. She was married to Raymond Snider in 1934. For the past several years she lived in Sheffield.

Snider is survived by her husband, five sisters, one stepsister and one stepbrother, Simeon Perron of Charlevoix.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by Pastor Thom Black
First Baptist Church

There is always something significant to me in the scripture Mark 11:1-10. It takes place at a very special time in the life of Jesus – the time of his triumphal entry into Jerusalem. And yet how did He travel? On the back of an ordinary, lowly colt. When people asked why the disciples were taking the colt, they answered, "the Lord hath need of him."

Many times Jesus reminded His disciples that He had chosen them for His work. Some of them were ordinary men – fishermen, tax collectors, uneducated. But He had need of them, and they found joy in being used by Him for His purposes.

So God has chosen us to follow and serve Him. We don't need special talents or great wealth. We just need to be willing to be used by Him.

Some years ago, a famous violinist was to give a concert on his Stradivarius violin for which he had paid a great sum of money. The huge hall was filled to capacity, and the violinist played beautifully. When he had finished, there was a moment's hush and then a burst of applause, during which he smashed the instrument to pieces on the edge of the platform. There was an uproar. When quiet was restored, the great artist said, "Ladies and gentlemen, on the way to the concert hall, I bought this violin for only five shillings. Now, if you will bear with me, I will play for you on my Stradivarius."

The instrument itself is not so important as its willingness to be used in the hand of the Master. May each of us be an instrument ready to be used by God and His good purposes. For the Lord hath need of you.

Prayer: Take my life and let it be, consecrated, Lord, to thee. Amen.

Bob and Becky Brunton, a husband and wife vocal duet team from Eaton Rapids, Michigan, will present a concert at 11 a.m. April 9 at First Baptist Church.

They have been seen by millions on national syndicated television. Their records are heard on radio stations from Canada to Ecuador and from Korea to West Africa. They have had concert tours taking them from Maine to California and from coast to coast and even beyond the borders of the U.S.

The concert will include familiar songs as well as some of their own compositions and will feature something for all ages and musical tastes. They currently have seven albums released at the Pinebrook label.

The concert is open to the public.

Senior lunch rescheduled

Lunch at the Charlevoix Senior center will be served at 11:30 a.m. rather than 12:30 this Friday so that local senior citizens will be able to attend both the lunch and Good Friday church services.

Go fly a kite, but do it safely

A sure sign of spring is a kite soaring in the breeze. Consumers Power Company suggests that parents and educators help make sure that the kite doesn't soar too close to electric power lines.

"We ask youngsters to follow a simple rule," says John Hadder, District Community Services Director, for the utility. "When it comes to outdoor fun, look up, stay away from overhead electric lines and stay alive."

Kite flying should be done in an open field, away from electric lines, trees or other obstructions, says Hadder. Each year accidents occur when youngsters forget about safety.

Most important, according to Consumers Power, if a kite gets tangled in an electric line, don't try to get it out – let it go. "You should never climb utility poles, trees or broadcast towers to retrieve a tangled kite," says Hadder. "In the long run, buying a new kite can be a lot cheaper – and a lot safer – than trying to retrieve a tangled kite."

A FAX IN TIME SAVES ... THE DAY!

Faxing saves...
... Time. Why wait days, or even hours, when you can fax it in seconds!
... Money. Fax it for the cost of a phone call, and forget about costly overnight delivery services!
... Steps. Faxing is easy. Just dial the number and the fax is sent over regular telephone lines to another facsimile.
... Misunderstandings. Exact, legible duplicates of originals are received, ensuring accuracy.
... Security Breaches. "Password Access Codes" and "Private Mailbox Capability" guarantee confidentiality.

Local people sight bald eagle on Lake Michigan ice

Several Charlevoix people witnessed a bald eagle feeding on the ice off Lake Michigan beach last week.

Paul Gelderblom, who works at the DNR fisheries station, said the eagle was sighted shortly before 1 p.m. March 15 and stayed in the area for about two hours.

Gelderblom and others at the fish station used binoculars to watch the eagle feeding on dead alewife which had washed up on the edge of the ice. The ice extended a few hundred yards out into the lake, so the bird was never particularly close to the shoreline.

During the two hours he was in the area, the eagle continued eating alewife, working his way toward the Medusa cement plant.

The eagle wasn't dining alone. He was accompanied by several crows. Gelderblom said the crows appeared to be annoying the eagle and it eventually took wing and flew off to the north.

"We were kind of hoping he would come back, but we haven't seen him since," Gelderblom said Monday afternoon.

Gelderblom said the bald eagle was the first he's seen in the wild. According to a recent DNR news release (see accompanying story) in recent months there have been more sightings of bald eagles in Northern Michigan.

Eagle sightings increase in area

Reported observations of 217 bald eagles and 4 golden eagles were the result of the 1989 midwinter eagle survey, conducted during a two-week period, Jan. 5-19.

The survey, part of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) - Natural Heritage Program, indicates that the eagle population appears to be stable. Last year, 216 bald eagles were sighted during the same two week count.

The eagles were located farther north this year, closer to their normal nesting areas in the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula.

According to Tom Weise, DNR endangered species coordinator, the mild January weather is the major reason that the eagles were farther north this year than in 1988.

"Eagles generally stay near open water area, feeding on fish during the winter and supplementing their diet with road-killed deer, Weise said.

"The mild weather resulted in more open water in the northern parts of the state and the eagles that nest there didn't migrate as far south this year."

The midwinter eagle survey is one of many projects funded by the Natural Heritage Program's Nongame Wildlife Fund.

The Nongame Wildlife Fund was created by the state legislature for private contributions that help pay for critically important work on Michigan's non-hunted wildlife.

Congressman concerned about funds for fighting sea lamprey

The following is a news release from Congressman Bob Davis concerning sportsfishing and sea lamprey control efforts.

Without an increase in its 1990 budget, the Great Lakes Fishery Commission warns that sea lamprey control efforts could be impaired.

At a meeting in Washington last week with the Commission and Members of Congress, we were told that a budget shortfall could have lasting and harmful effects on the Commission's efforts to control the sea lamprey, which destroys Great lakes sportfish.

According to the Commission, if the current budget proposal is not increased, Lakes Michigan, Huron, and Ontario will suffer 40 percent cutbacks in sea lamprey control measures and Lake Erie efforts would have to be eliminated completely. The Commission said that Lake Superior would not be affected, however. The harmful effects of these cutbacks could mean that by the year 2000 there would be a doubling of the sea lamprey population in the lakes, a 50 percent decline in lake salmon and trout, a $552 million loss to the sportfishing industry, and a $1.4 billion loss in tourism and other economic activity in the Great Lakes region.

I have written to the House Appropriations Committee urging that they add the $1.3 million needed to bring the Great Lakes Fishery Commission budget up to the level necessary to continue effective sea lamprey control. I also have asked the Committee to appropriate an additional $1.3 million for improvements to the Commission's Hammond Bay research center in northeast Michigan. This facility does work critical to ensuring the future of our Great Lakes fishery.

Sea lamprey are now controlled through chemicals called lampricide. However, this chemical is presently available from only one source in West Germany. Should that single source no longer be available or become so expensive to make control efforts too costly, the sportfish in the Great Lakes would not stand a chance against the sea lamprey. Already scientists believe there is hope for developing a sterilization method for male sea lamprey. With capital improvements at the Hammond Bay facility, scientists could begin serious research into non-chemical, lasting eradication of this deadly predator.

Most of us remember the devastation caused by the sea lamprey. We cannot become complacent and allow this threat to Great Lakes sportfish to flourish again.

Erosion will be discussed

March 30, the Northwest Michigan Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) Council and the Michigan Association of Conservation Districts will co-sponsor a day long workshop on Improving Water Quality at Road-Stream Crossings. The meeting will begin at 9 a.m. at the Embers on the Bay Restaurant in Traverse City.

Road-Stream crossings have long been identified as potential sediment- producers to the region's high quality trout streams. In recent years the Northwest Michigan RC&D Council has worked with four area County Road Commissions on this water quality problem. These projects, along with other presentations dealing with design, economics, permit considerations and funding opportunities, will be discussed. The agenda will be of interest to a large group of people including road engineers, consulting firms, commission members, agency representatives and anyone interested in improved water quality.

A registration fee of $10 will include coffee breaks, lunch at the Embers and handout materials. For further information contact Jim Haveman at 616-946-6817.

Eighth grade band wins top rating

The Charlevoix Middle School Eighth Grade Band received a first division rating March 11 at the District Junior High School Band and Orchestra Festival in Traverse City.

A total of 18 area junior high school bands and orchestras participated in the festival. The 48-member Charlevoix band was judged by three concert judges and one sight reading judge.

Charlevoix's three concert selections were "March Of The Irish Guard" by James Ployhar, "Kentucky 1800" by Clare Grundman, and "Brookpark Overture" by James Swearingen.

The first division rating qualifies the Charlevoix band for the State Junior High Band and Orchestra festival which will take place May 6 at several locations throughout the state.

The festival is sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

Karst group meets in Charlevoix

Approximately 20 people met in Charlevoix this past Saturday to talk karst.

And what is karst?

"Karst is a term that was first applied to a plateau region of the Dinaric Alps of Yugoslavia. It is now used to describe similar regions throughout the world that have features formed largely by underground drainage. Karst landscapes are characterized by caves, steep valleys, sinkholes, and a general lack of surface streams because drainage is underground. A consequence of this is not only a very interesting landscape (caves have fascinated people for millennia) with unusual habitats for plants and animals, but special problems in water supply, waste disposal, construction, and other land uses."

So says a pamphlet distributed by the Michigan Karst Conservancy (MKC).

Locally, Dave and Barb Patrie are members of the MKC. This past Saturday the Patries hosted other members of the group in an annual meeting.

The purpose of the MKC is to preserve karst regions in the state. In 1987, MKC purchased 480 acres of land in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. The site is called the Fiborn Karst Preserve.

At Saturday's meeting, MKC discussed plans for the preserve.

MKC plans to manage and protect the preserve while encouraging people to use it for scientific and conservation education.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

TAKE NOTICE, That the Michigan Department of Natural Resources proposes to hold a public hearing in the Eveline Township Hall, corner of Mountain and Ferry Roads, East Jordan, Michigan, at 7:00 p.m., Monday, the 3rd day of April, 1989.

The purpose of this hearing is to secure the views of interested persons concerning the following application for permit:

Application for Permit 88-5-335/88-15-1003-5 under the Inland Lakes and Streams Act (1972, P.A. 346, as amended) by Irene Dajnowicz, Highway M-66, Route 2, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720, to operate and construct a marina in Lake Charlevoix, T33N, R7W, Section 21, Eveline Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan.

The application may be reviewed in the Land and Water Management Division, DNR, 1732 West M-32, Gaylord, Michigan, during normal office hours.

The hearing will be held pursuant to section 6(2) of the cited statute. The hearing will not be a court-type proceeding; witnesses will not be sworn, and there will be no cross-examination. Public hearings are primarily informational and are held to encourage the expression of views and presentation of facts.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources will, upon written request, provide a copy of the Department's decision on this application.

LEGAL NOTICE 210

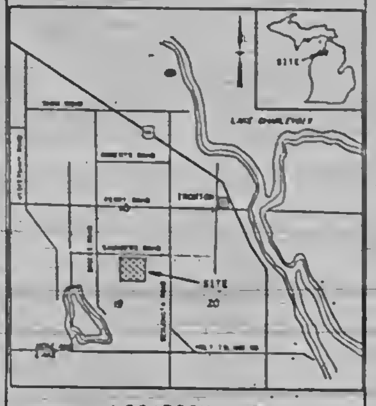
NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR A CONSTRUCTION PERMIT FOR A NEW SOLID WASTE DISPOSAL AREA (SANITARY LANDFILL)

Section 11 (2) (b) of Act 641, Public Acts of 1978, as amended, better known as the Solid Waste management Act, provides for a notice of application for a construction permit for a solid waste disposal area (Type II Sanitary Landfill).

The Department of Natural Resources, Waste Management Division has received an application for a construction permit for a solid waste disposal area (sanitary landfill) from Michigan Waste Systems, Inc., 22200 West Nine Mile Road, Southfield, Michigan 48034, for the Cedar Ridge Landfill, previously known as Charlevoix County Landfill.

The applicant proposes to vertically expand beyond the current approved limits of the Charlevoix County Landfill (now known as Cedar Ridge Landfill) which is designed and operated to receive and dispose of solid wastes from industrial, commercial, and residential sources.

The proposed Type II sanitary landfill is shown on the map below and will be located on Saunders Road, one-half mile west of Sequonata Road. The site is further described as part of the NW ¼ of the NE ¼ of Section 19, Eveline Township, T33N, R7W, Charlevoix County.



LOCATION MAP

The complete application package may be reviewed at the office of the Waste Management Division, Region II Headquarters, Department of Natural Resources, P.O. Box 128, Roscommon, Michigan 48653, from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, except holidays; and at the Charlevoix office at District Health Department #3, located at 203 Antrim Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon, and 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, except holidays.

Copies of the complete application package may be ordered from the Waste Management Division at the Roscommon address listed above for the cost of reproduction upon request.

The Department will hold a public hearing in the vicinity of the proposed solid waste transfer facility if a request for such a hearing is submitted in writing by the applicant or the municipality involved, or if a petition containing a number of signatures equaling at least ten percent of the registered voters of the municipality where the project is to be located who voted in the last gubernatorial election is submitted to the Department. Such a petition shall be validated by the Clerk of Eveline Township. Requests for public hearing shall be submitted within thirty (30) days after the date of publication of this notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

ANNUAL TAX SALE

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix

ORDER FOR HEARING
No. C89 411 12 PZ

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

On reading and filing the complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan praying for a judgement in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said complaint will be brought on for hearing and judgement at the April term of this Court, to be held at Charlevoix in the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, on the 10th day of April A.D. 1989, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof their objections thereto on or before the first day of the term of this Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a judgement will be taken and entered as prayed for in said complaint. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said judgement the lands described in such complaint for which a judgement of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such judgement on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a.m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan; and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the judgement shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Charlevoix County this 2nd day of March A.D. 1989.

Countersigned.
Jane E. Brannon, Clerk
Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

TO THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix, Robert A. Bowman, State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the court:

1. That he is the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan and makes and files this complaint under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 380 of P.A. 1965, as amended.

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent.

3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a County Property Tax Administration Fee of four percent which shall be a minimum of $1.00 as provided by Section 211.59, C.L. 1979, as amended, and (d) $10.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned.

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute of valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your plaintiff prays:

a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and adjudge that the aforesaid taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended.

b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final judgement in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and expenses as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained, and the amounts added in the column headed "aggregate" shall constitute the amounts adjudged against the said several parcels, unless so amended by this court.

c. That said judgement provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount adjudged against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides.

d. That your plaintiff may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your plaintiff will ever pray, etc.

EVELINE TOWNSHIP
Regular Board Meeting
February 14, 1989

The regular meeting of the Eveline Township Board was held on Feb. 14, 1989; all board members were present and one vacancy existed.

Applications for the trustee vacancy were read and discussed. Dan Skrzeczkoski was appointed to fill the vacancy until the general election of 1990.

Correspondence was read and discussed.

There will be a DNR Public Hearing for the Daniel Boone dock request on Holy Island. The hearing is scheduled for February 23, 1989 at 7:00 p.m. at the Eveline Township Hall.

The clerk was instructed to request hearings for two more projects in the township. Irene Dajnowicz is proposing to construct a marina at Villa Nuava and David Wilson of the Landings in Ironton is requesting a permit from the DNR to extend four piers and to dredge.

The budget meeting of the township board has been scheduled for March 22, 1989 at 7:30 p.m. at the hall and the Annual Meeting has been set for March 29 at 7:30 p.m.

All bills, amounting to $14,341.02 were approved for payment.

A treasurer's report and a zoning report were received.

A letter was received from James Malewitz of Charlevoix Abstract requesting an indefinite delay on the board's decision on the Keith Dressel Mobile Home Park project.

Adjournment was at 9:56 p.m.

1989 is big year for city projects

The 1989 construction season will be one of the busiest in regard to projects undertaken by the city of Charlevoix.

"A lot of things are culminating at the same time," city manager Mike Wiesner notes in reference to a 1989 construction season which will see work done on projects ranging from electric system improvements to bandshell construction to paving roads in the industrial park.

Wiesner said projects which have been in the planning stages for a long time are now ready for construction. Part of the reason for construction of several projects at the same time is coincidence, but other projects, such as a water line and electric line crossing near the old railroad bridge, are being done simultaneously to decrease construction costs.

"This is obviously the peak year of construction for years to come," Wiesner said last week as the weather warmed and the Northern Michigan construction season was ushered in.

Following is a list of major city construction projects. The list includes what the projects will encompass, where they will occur, what their benefits will be and how they will be funded.

Electric system improvements

Charlevoix is in the midst of a multiyear electric system improvement project. The project involves both the station where power comes into the city and also lines and transformers which distribute the power throughout the community.

When the project is completed, the city electric system will offer more consistant voltage, more capacity for community growth and will be more easily serviced. In other words, it will be a better system, a bigger system and a system which will cause fewer problems when in need of repairs.

Voltage along power lines will be increased to eliminate problems with heavy loads during peak demand times. Before voltage can be increased, the electric system carrying the voltage has to be improved.

Along with increasing voltage carrying capacity, the city is also improving the circuit design of the electric system. To do this, the circuit system loops are being updated.

Improving the loops of the circuits means that power outages can be confined to smaller areas of town. To a businessman or homeowner, the loop work reduces the liklihood that your business or home will suffer from a power outage.

Having a channel and harbor cutting through the center of town may be beautiful, but it also complicates efforts to provide electric service.

One of the keys to the electric system modernization will be running a major supply line across the channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix, near the old railroad bridge. This will take place this summer.

The electric line will be placed in a trench across the bottom of the channel.

Along with installing the line near the old railroad bridge, this summer the city will also hook into a line which crosses beneath the Pine River Channel at Hoffmann Park. Michigan Bell drilled beneath the channel and installed a cable last summer. Through an agreement between the city and Michigan Bell, the Solid waste plan moves forward

Sure, the final meeting of the county's solid waste planning committee lasted two and a-half hours last Thursday night. But that pales in comparison to almost two years of wrangling which preceded the committee's final meeting.

By a 12-1 vote, the solid waste committee approved a draft of a solid waste management plan. The plan details how Charlevoix County intends to dispose of solid waste for the next five years.

Were that all it dealt with, the process wouldn't have taken nearly so long. The committee would have simply stated that Charlevoix County waste will be taken to the Cedar Ridge landfill near Ironton for the next five years.

However, the committee was also saddled with determining how many other counties should be allowed to haul their solid waste into Charlevoix County, and into the landfill which is privately owned.

That's where the debate got sticky.

By law, the solid waste committee was composed of people with different interests. Some represented the waste hauling industry, some represented environmentalists and others represented the county board of commissioners or various areas of the county.

Throughout the process, these different interests led to lengthy debates and split votes. The most recent meeting featured two 7-6 votes and 8-5 vote.

The plan, as currently worded, would provisionally allow Charlevoix County and five other Northern Michigan counties to use the Cedar Ridge landfill.

The other five counties are: Antrim, Crawford, Emmet, Presque Isle and Otsego. These five counties will be allowed to dispose of their solid waste in Charlevoix County, provided they sign an agreement indicating they will incorporate a provision in their solid waste plans to allow a licensed landfill or incinerator to be located in their county at some unknown time in the future.

Currently, the five counties have little or nothing to offer Charlevoix County other than a promise toward the future.

Antrim County doesn't have a landfill or a large transfer station.

Emmet County has a transfer station, but Charlevoix County

Ahead-lines

Spring break is slow here

Spring break, which Charlevoix schools will be on next week, is something of a mixed blessing to students in Northern Michigan.

Sure, it's nice to get the time off, but unless a student is going somewhere warm, what is there to do?

The first week of April is kind of a between time recreationally in Northern Michigan.

For those who ski, that's pretty much faded at this time of the year.

For those who hunt and fish, hunting season is over and fishing season hasn't started.

No point in going to a local beach in April. Bikini-clad babes are few and far between at this time of year. There aren't even any good volleyball games going. Anyone who would swim with the water temperature where it is this time of year shouldn't be loose on the public.

So what are local kids to do during the week of spring break?

Those of the literary crowd can probably find a good book to read. Leon Uris has written some books that are good for about a one-week shot.

The athletic can do a little early season track training or shovel off the driveway and shoot some basketball.

If all else fails and a kid is really desparate, he or she could spend some time with his or her family.

Of course, fortunately few if any of our local kids will be going down to Florida to participate in all of that spring break wildness.

There once was a newscaster interviewing some college guys on a Florida beach during spring break. The newscaster looked over the situation and observed, "It appears to me that all you guys are doing down here is laying in the sun, drinking beer and chasing women."

One of the college guys replied, "Yeah. It's a dirty job, but it's got to be done."

After a recent Florida performance, a member of the English band "Fine Young Cannibals" was asked what he thought of Florida during the annual spring break.

"A lot of rich kids developing skin cancer," he said.

No doubt, Florida during spring break is a wild and chaotic place. Many a parent of local kids probably shudders to think of it. But then many of the local kids probably shudder to think of it too. The only difference is the kids shudder with anticipation rather than dread.

Charlevoix applies for $323,535 Ferry Beach grant

Charlevoix is applying for a $323,535 state grant to help fund development of a larger park facility at Ferry Beach.

The grant is a 75 percent matching grant from the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund - Land and Water Conservation fund.

If the state awards the grant, Charlevoix would contribute approximately $108,000 to the project. Charlevoix's contribution would come from the Ferry Beach TIFA fund.

Work done with the grant money would take place in 1990 and possibly in 1991. This year the city will be doing work to prepare for that project. (See related story on city projects for explanation of Ferry Beach TIFA fund and related city work.)

The grant would help pay for the following items: constructing additional beach restrooms and a concession stand; reconstructing boat launches and adding a boat pumpout station near the launches; reconstructing a break wall to the north of the park; developing a new parking lot at the western edge of the park; doing necessary storm and sanitary sewer work in the park; placing a boardwalk through a marshy area of the park; building a sidewalk through the park; park ammenities such as children's playground equipment; installing a small transient boater's dock.

The work will center around the newly-acquired property to the north of the currently established park.

The grant and work it would finance are main ingredients in a large-scale project in the Ferry Beach TIFA.

When the matter was discussed at Monday evening's council meeting, city manager Mike Wiesner said that with the grant, work on the project could be completed either in 1990 or certainly by 1991.

Charlevoix school officials are anxious for the Ferry Beach projects to be completed and for the TIFA to be terminated. When it is, the schools will receive more tax revenue from the TIFA district.

... committee approves solid waste plan could only haul waste there if Charlevoix County made arrangements for a licensed landfill to accept the waste from the transfer station.

Crawford and Otsego Counties have a jointly operated public landfill which has some problems. The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is pressuring the two counties to install a liner and leachate collection system at their landfill.

Presque Isle County went through the same solid waste plan drafting process Charlevoix County is currently in.

Once a solid waste plan is drafted and approved by the solid waste committee, it also must be approved by the county planning commission, county board of commissioners and two-thirds of the local units of government.

Presque Isle County couldn't get two-thirds of the local units of government to approve the plan the solid waste committee drafted. It remains to be seen whether or not Charlevoix County will have the same problem.

If the process completely breaks down at the county level, the DNR will write a plan for the county.

Given the current situations in the other five counties, county planner Larry Sullivan said, "If the Charlevoix landfill were to close at this time, there would be no suitable backup in any of the other five counties."

At last Thursday's meeting, Cheboygan County repeated an earlier request to be included in the Charlevoix County plan. Proctor and Gamble, one of Cheboygan County's leading employers, currently hauls a substantial amount of plastic and paper waste to the landfill in Charlevoix County.

Committee member and former landfill owner Dawson Way favored either allowing Proctor and Gamble to haul a given number of tons of waste to the landfill each year or including Cheboygan County in the Charlevoix County plan.

Other committee members questioned why one particular company or county should be given preference over others.

"I don't see how we can show that partiality," committee member C.H. Smith said.

Way countered that the committee is already being partial (to the five counties).

"This whole thing's partial," Way said.

Following the debate, Way made a motion to allow Proctor and Gamble to bring in a specified amount of waste each year. The motion died for lack of a second.

Committee member Alfred (Jamie) Hass II then made a motion to add Cheboygan County, expanding the reciprocal list from five to six counties. Tad Malpass seconded the motion.

Committee member and county commissioner Don Smith, who favors tight restrictions on the number of counties using the landfill, said, "You're going to add one more and you've already go five listed. Then you're going try to sell it to two-thirds (of the local units of government) and it's already in trouble with five (counties listed)."

The motion to add Cheboygan County failed by a 7-6 vote.

Hass, Malpass and Way were joined by Tom Wieland, C.H. Smith and Randy Frykberg in supporting the motion.

Don Smith was joined by Phil Johnson, Larry Levengood, Dennis Jason, Ralph Richardson, Nancy Ferguson and Dave Willson in defeating the motion.

Earlier in the meeting, the committee inserted a provision in the draft plan which could allow any number of counties to use the landfill. The provision was proposed by Richardson and would allow the county board of commissioners to enact a reciprocal agreement with any other county which has a licensed landfill or incinerator. In other worlds, Charlevoix County could agree to be that county's backup disposal site if that county also agreed to be Charlevoix County's backup disposal site.

The proposal passed unanimously.

Don Smith also proposed to add a provision in the plan which would stipulate that any other county hauling waste to Charlevoix County would share in any public liability if contamination is discovered at the landfill.

"It puts other counties on notice that if Charlevoix County has contamination because of their garbage, they're responsi-

City purchases beach cleaner

By a 4-2 vote Monday evening, city councilmen approved spending $19,766 to purchase a beach cleaner. The tractor-like devide has a rake attachment and which will rake the debris off of Charlevoix's beaches in the summer.

Councilmen Butch Russell and Earl Muma opposed the purchase. Councilmen Ken Whitley, Jim Potter, Norm Probert and Bill Haggard passed the motion for purchase.

The cleaner the city is getting is a demo model. Purchasing the demo model, rather than a new model, saved the city $2,000 and negated a 12-week shipping delay the city would have had to endure for a new model. Wenberg Sales of Marquette, which sold the city the machine, offered a one-year warranty on the demo machine as they do on new machines.

Mayor Gary Probert pointed out that Charlevoix will not need the machine constantly and will probably be able to rent its services to neighboring communities.

Waste process is hybrid chaos

It must be a cruel joke. That's the only reasonable conclusion one can draw after considering the process of drafting a five-year solid waste master plan for Charlevoix County.

Last Thursday night, after two years of haggling, the solid waste management committee approved a draft of a five-year plan.

It's a compromise plan, which in this case means nobody is particularly happy with it.

In order for the plan to be adopted, it will have to be approved by two-thirds of the 19 townships, cities and villages in Charlevoix County. If that doesn't happen, there will be more wrangling at the county level.

If Charlevoix County can't come up with a plan two-thirds of the loca units of government will approve, then the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will step in and devise a plan.

In that, you have the main selling point of the compromise plan. The major selling point is not that it's a great plan, but that it's much better than anything the DNR could come up with.

That doesn't say much for the state and DNR's relationship with Charlevoix County in the area of solid waste management.

Right from the word go, the solid waste problem and planning process has been a peculiar fiasco. The planning process has been a Mendelian nightmare, a cross breeding of government and private enterprise resulting in hybrid chaos. The landfill is privately owned, but solid waste is a problem with the potential to affect the public's environment.

The solid waste committee was doomed to lengthy debate. As dictated by the state, members of the committee were selected because their interests were directly opposite of the interests of other members of the committee.

The committee was left with not palatable options, no comfortable ground for compromise.

There were people from the solid waste industry on the committee. These people deal with solid waste for the money involved. To them, solid waste is a business, not a hobby. If they wanted a hobby, chances are they'd collect something other than garbage.

To people in the solid waste business, garbage is the product they handle and the more of it they handle, the more money they make. And in a capitalist system, making money is supposed to be all right.

Other members of the committee were people living near the landfill. They prefer to limit the amount of solid waste entering the landfill. And that's a legitimate position too. Who would want all of Northern Michigan's garbage in their back yard?

The compromise plan borne of this fitful union is a plan which initially will allow Charlevoix County and five other counties to use the privately owned landfill in Charlevoix County.

Up to this point, township and city officials have been able to just sit back and watch the solid waste process. Now, they will have to either approve or disapprove the draft plan.

Owning waterfront property

This past weekend an old, dead gin bottle floated in a big mudpuddle up by the softball field. Fortunately, there was no old, dead drunk floating in the puddle alongside the bottle.

Just by looking it, a person could see that it was a wide and deep puddle. And there was more to the puddle than met the eye. I can attest to this with some authority.

My wife and I were out for a walk Sunday afternoon and tried to skirt the puddle by walking on the snowbank beside it. The snow gave way and I discovered that the edge of the puddle extended beneath the snowbank. It was a chilling discovery.

Monday, the temperature soared into the 60s and the puddle not only broadened its own horizons, but also gained friends.

Sometime during the course of Monday morning, I had an opportunity to make a killing in the real estate market.

When I left for work, I owned a small home with a nice, big sideyard. When I returned for lunch, I discovered that thanks to the spring runoff I had a bubbling trout stream out front by the street and instead of a sideyard I had a fine duck pond.

I should've contacted a realtor that very instant. If I'd have listed at the right instant, I could have declared my property waterfront.

The trout stream supplied water to the duck pond. I'm still not exactly sure where the pond emptied, but I checked the basement and am nearly ecstatic in reporting that it was not there.

I chose to stay on shore and look over the pond. It was a safe, conservative approach. Sasquatch the dog, reckless liberal that he is, chose to wade right in.

He sloshed over to a small plum tree in the middle of the water. In drier times, he takes it upon himself to make sure that tree is adequately watered two or three times a day.

Now, the big dog stood by the tree and sniffed. The tree was surrounded by about eight inches of water. After pondering the situation for a few seconds the dog wagged his tail, turned and walked away. That tree had received enough moisture for the day.

We checked the trout stream. No fish running yet.

It would take a special breed of fish to spawn in a stream which only exists for one day each spring. It would have to be a fish that hatched at 8 a.m. in the morning; then worked its way downstream to a mudpuddle by 10 a.m.; spent a fulfilling life growing up in the mudpuddle for about five hours; at 3 p.m. the fish would swim upstream to spawn at the place of its origin. With any luck, the stream would dry up early in the spawning run. I could pick up a fresh fish for supper on my way out to the mailbox.

I traced the stream up the street to its headwaters. Perhaps you've heard of the tribulations explorers have gone through in seeking the source of the Nile. This search wasn't nearly as complicated. The little stream seemed to begin at the big puddle up by the ball field.

A show on the road

I spent a little time on the road this weekend and have a few observations to make about the status of auto travel in the spring of 1989.

The much touted "coffee refill centers" at fast food restaurants are a sham.

When they were first started, I thought they were a wonderful idea. The family would stop for a bite to eat and I'd top off my coffee cup on the way out the door so I'd have something sip on the road.

The caffeine was just what I needed to keep me alert until we reached the next fast-food restaurant.

This weekend, however, I suffered an involuntary case of caffeine withdrawal. The "coffee refill centers" were still there, but no one had bothered to stock them with coffee.

This happened at every one of our rest stops, and I began to feel there was a conspiracy afoot to put me to sleep behind the wheel.

One restaurant did have a pot on the burner, but it was empty.

Of course, I suppose I could have asked the counter girl or boy for a refill, but they are always so busy punching their computers.

Besides, I am basically very shy person and hate to make a nuisance of myself. It's one thing to help yourself; it's quite another to impose upon someone else. I would rather do without — so I did without.

But the restaurants all make a big point of having free coffee refills. If they didn't, I would order two cups of coffee and be done with it.

Small matter — but aggravating.

IF YOU HAVE to leave the highway for any reason, beware of soft shoulders.

Along some areas of U.S. 131, the shoulders had turned into quagmires and could easily throw your car out of control.

It's a pretty safe guess that frost went pretty deep into the plowed shoulders and that they'll remain squishy until the frost is gone. Particuarly bad sections are marked with pylons.

I also noticed that some unpaved country roads are a mess and probably will be pretty sloppy until the drainage improves. So stick to paved roads if at all possible.

IT WAS FUN driving out of the Northern Michigan Snow Belt and into the tropics of Kent County.

Just to see a landscape without snow was worth the trip.

The heavy snow cover began to taper off near Cadillac and by the time we reached Big Rapids the ground was almost bare.

Oh, Grand Rapids had a few piles of decaying snow, most of it in the corners of parking lots. But for the most part, the city enjoyed a shirt-sleeve Easter Sunday, with lots of Heritage Hill folks rocking on their front porches and exchanging pleasantries with neighbors and passersby.

Grand Rapids is a big city with a lot of small town flavor.

I didn't see any flowers or green grass — but it won't be long.

Most residents spent the holiday at home because there was little else to do. The big malls on 28th Street were all closed, their vast parking lots empty.

Downtown also was locked up tight, underscoring the city's strong religious heritage.

To see the major business areas of such a big city virtually deserted was a strange experience. I imagine that's what Grand Rapids would be like after a nuclear explosion.

BUT MONROE Center downtown wasn't entirely bereft of human life. A "bag lady" with all of her possessions in four plastic totes was sound asleep on a park bench near the amphitheater. She was bent almost double with her head nodding toward her knees. I don't know how long she had been there, but I wouldn't be surprised if that was where she had spent the night.

I wanted to do something to help her — but what?

In Northern Michigan we read about "street people" in the metropolitan papers. But our solutions to their problems are probably no better than their own. And their own solutions don't appear to be working at all.

Perhaps they are satisfied. Maybe they'd be bored with "three hots and a cot."

Maybe they are onto something that has escaped the rest of us.

But with its millionaires and bag ladies, Grand Rapids is a beautiful city on a warm spring day.

These three Charlevoix High School seniors, shown with WATCH executive director Michelle Rick-Biddick (second from right) won a total of $2,000 in scholarships in the annual WATCH environmental essay contest. The seniors are from left: Dave Salmonson, Jon Terry and Dylan Stewart. Terry won the first place prize of $1,000 while the other two each won $500.

Winning WATCH scholarship essay

by Jonathan Terry

A red-headed young boy walked alone by the pier in Charlevoix. He carried a bag of cheeseballs in one hand and a nearly empty bottle of Coke in the other. Without thinking, the boy threw both the bag and the bottle into some bushes on the side of the pier. The boy took a step backwards and his foot slipped on some loose gravel, sending his body to the hard pavement. He felt a sharp pain in his head and then.....nothing. In this period of darkness, the boy heard a voice.

"I am the ghost of the environment past. You have been chosen to be taught a lesson. Like yourself, too many people are abusing the environment, thinking it will always be there for them. This is not the case. I'm the first of three ghosts which will be visiting you this evening. My job is to show you the past, where the problem of pollution began."

Following these words, there was a brilliant flash of light and the red-headed boy was standing on a beach. Next to him stood a man in a white suit, obviously the source of the mystic voice.

"Welcome to 1889," the ghost said. "Look around you. This is where it all began."

The boy did look around and he realized he was standing on the shore of Round Lake. He noticed the beautiful cottages of the Chicago resort and how the lake glowed in a handsome blue. At the other end, the lake turned into a stream and was crossed by a large iron railroad swinging bridge. Along the beach the boy noticed several dead fish, some tin cans, and a crumpled-up newspaper, "The Sentinel."

"As you can see, even in this time, people were abusing the environment. This is where it all began. Not only will this generation mistreat the environment, but also all the generations to come."

The young boy was puzzled. "If only these people would have cared about the environment, we wouldn't have any problems today."

"You can't blame the past," the ghost responded. "The only thing you can do is to change the present, that is where you are going now. Hold on, here we go."

There was another bright light, and when the red-headed boy's eyes refocused, he realized he was again standing on the shore of Round Lake. As he looked down the beach, he noticed the railroad bridge was missing. His eyes swept the shore and noticed many bottles, rags, oil puddles, and a crumpled-up newspaper, "The Courier", lying amidst a pile of dead fish.

If only they would have cared back then the red-headed boy thought. He looked next to him and he saw a new ghost, standing in a grey suit.

"Welcome to 1989," he started. "This is the environment you live in. Do you know anything about it?"

"Well," started the boy, "isn't there something bad in the water?"

"Yep. It's called TCE, a poison. Over many years, it eventually found it's way into the water and then into many fish living in the water. This pollutant, as well as all the other pollutants in the air and land of this area, are the result of years and years of unconcerned people. Each generation thinks that the problem will either go away or that the next generation will take care of it. This problem has been passed from generation to generation, and now it is your generation's turn to deal with the problem. Your father faced it and your grandfather faced it." The ghost kneeled and looked at the red-headed boy in the eyes.

"Now it is your turn to face the problem. You may either expect your children to fix it, or fix it yourself. The future is in your hands. Hang on, here we go."

The expected light came, and when it ceased the red-headed boy was not sure what he was looking at. He seemed to be on the shore of Round Lake again, but it looked extremely strange. On the right bank, everything looked even better than it did back in 1889. The water was a dark and beautiful blue and it rippled against a soft, sandy shore. To the left was a much different scene. The water was a darkish grey color and filled with many floating objects. It was more of a large mud puddle than anything else. This stagnant pool of liquid ended at a cement shore, which was covered with a layer of oil. No animals were to be seen, not even a rotting carcass. The young boy turned to see a ghost dressed in a white coat and a pair of black pants.

"Welcome to the year 2089. What lies before you is a choice. You may choose the left, or the right. The choice on the left is the easy and popular choice.

... numerous projects planned for 1989 construction

city will be allowed to use one of the power lines in that cable.

The total multiyear electric system update carries a price tag of approximately $1.6 million. Of that, work planned for this year is estimated to cost $561,000. Money will come from the electrical system fund, which is derived from electric system user fees.

Roger Westenbrook, an electrical engineer who has served as a consultant on the project, will update city councilmen at the council's April 10 meeting. This summer's work will begin in late April or early May. Electric department employees will do some of the work with the rest contracted out.

Water main crossing

A 12 inch water line will be put across the channel by the old railroad bridge in conjunction with the electric system power line.

Installing the new water line has been planned for some time. It is being installed at the same time as the power line to reduce construction costs.

Wiesner explained that currently the city has two water lines crossing the channels, but if one were to go down, water needs on the city's north side could not be met. The new water line will also improve water pressure.

The work, which has already been bid out, will cost $64,500. The infrastructure fund, which is derived from a three mill property tax, will pay $51,100 of that cost. The remaining $13,400 will be paid by the water fund which is derived from user fees.

Ferry Avenue TIFA work

This past Monday evening the city applied for a $308,535 grant (see story elsewhere) from the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund-Land and Water Conservation Fund. If received, the grant money will be used in 1990 for recreational improvements at Ferry Beach.

This summer and fall the city will be doing a substantial amount of work in the Ferry Avenue area as a prelude to the recreational improvements.

Part of the work this year will center around the city's newly-acquired lakefront property north of the current beach area. In other work, Ferry Avenue will be moved away from the lake and relocated to the railroad right of way. Sewer and water work will be done on portions of Ferry Avenue, Eaton Avenue and Terrace Street.

Lakefront work will occur this spring and summer. Much of the streetwork will occur in the fall.

At the lakefront property, the city will seek a DNR permit to partially fill the parcel. The city anticipates receiving the permit within the next few weeks.

The city has already started removing brush from the site. The city will also place some sand on the lake bottom, as allowed by a DNR permit, in front of the property to make the area suitable for swimming.

Moving Ferry Avenue back from the lake will enlarge the park along the lakeshore and place a parking lot between the street and the park rather than having the parking lot and park on opposite sides of the street..

Wiesner said there has been discussion of putting in a curb, gutter and sidewalk on the Eaton Street hill and paving Terrace Street.

Money for this year's work will primarily come from the Ferry Avenue TIFA (Tax Increment Financing Authority). The TIFA derives funds from increases in state equalized value (SEV) in the Ferry Avenue area. Increased SEV results in increased tax revenue. In a TIFA district, that increased revenue, for a set period of years, is channeled toward specific projects to benefit the area, rather than to normal tax collection entities.

TIFA funds build up over time. Currently, approximately $612,200 has accrued for Ferry Avenue TIFA projects.

Plans are to implement a special assessment district for sewer construction for properties along portions of the three streets involved.

Bridge Street sidewalks

Bridge Street sidewalks are scheduled for major renovation beginning this fall. All of the curbs and sidewalks in the downtown area of Bridge Street will be replaced back to the business buildings.

Along with the sidewalk and curb work, some combined storm and sanitary sewers will be separated. There will also be some work done on side streets west of Bridge up to the alley between Bridge and State Streets.

The city has contacted the state highway department in an effort to have them do work on Bridge Street in conjunction with the city project.

Wiesner said plans are for the sidewalk work in front of Points North to serve as a model for downtown Bridge Street. Under that plan, portions of the sidewalk will be constructed of brickwork and rather than large street lights, there would be smaller lights similar to those in Hoffmann Park.

Bridge Street sidewalks fall under the jurisdiction of the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) which like the Ferry Avenue TIFA derives its revenue from SEV increases. The DDA currently has accumulated $500,000 for the sidewalk project.

Infrastructure sidewalks

Replacing old, cracked sidewalks is not only a priority on Bridge Street, but throughout town.

In 1984, the city initiated a sidewalk replacement program. Last year, the city spent $130,000 to replace sidewalks. Those replacements completed work in "the valley" of the town.

This year the city will spend $279,000 to fix sidewalks. Of that, $158,400 will be spent on the south side and $114,500 on the north side.

After this year's work, all of the identified sidewalk replacement needs on the south side will be completed. In the next few years, the city plans to finish replacing north side sidewalks.

Money to fund sidewalk replacement comes from the three mill infrastructure levy. The city council places a high priority on sidewalk replacement due to concerns of the legal liability of bad sidewalks.

Wiesner says many of the sidewalks being replaced are between 75 and 80 years old.

The complete infrastructure sidewalk project, which is separate from the downtown Bridge Street sidewalks, is estimated to cost approximately $518,000. However, once it is completed, the city will be able to do maintenance work every three to five years with minimal expenditures rather than doing major projects.

Bandshell

Construction of the bandshell is the project with the most controversy behind it. For the past several weeks, different factions debated the design and size of the new facility.

Council hires James Young as city attorney

Former Antrim County prosecutor James Young has been retained as Charlevoix's city attorney.

Monday evening, the city council chose Young over Robert Hoffman, who has been serving as city attorney since former city attorney Jeff VanTreese stepped aside in the wake of a grand jury drug indictment.

The vote to hire Young was 4-2 with councilmen Earl Muma and Bill Haggard opposed.

Muma said councilmen received letters from other area attorneys supporting Hoffman.

"He's been in practice here for years. He's local and he's willing to work with us," Muma said.

Young is based in Bellaire.

Councilman Ken Whitley said he normally feels city work should be done locally, but in this case felt the city attorney position should be taken out of Hoffman's office. Whitley alluded to the fact that VanTreese was formerly a partner of Hoffman. Whitley said he thought the VanTreese situation, which occurred before Whitley joined the council, was handled poorly.

Whitley said he was impressed with Young and supported hiring him.

Mayor Gary Probert was the most vocal supporter of hiring Young. Probert said he checked with a number of people and got mixed reviews on Hoffman while hearing nothing but praise for Young.

Probert said that in recent years the city has been averaging in excess of $20,000 per year for legal fees.

In hiring Young, the city established a new fee system. Young will be paid a flat fee of $12,000 for which he will attend one council meeting a month; meet with the city staff once a week upon request and provide the city legal opinions and consultation through the city manager. He will also be paid $55 per hour for city litigation.

The motion to hire Young which was made by Norm Probert and supported by Whitley stipulated that the position will be reviewed after one year.

... 1989 city construction projects

At this time, all factions seem to have worked out their differences, freeing the project to move full speed ahead.

Wiesner says the current schedule calls for the final design to come before the council in early April and for advertisements for bids to go out shortly thereafter. If bids are received in late April, construction may begin in mid-May.

The estimated cost of the bandshell is approximately $186,000. That money will come from a combination of private contributions and special city funds allocated for the new bandshell.

Paving industrial park roads

Roads at the industrial park at the north end of town will be paved this summer. Late last year, the city applied for and was awarded a state economic development matching grant.

Currently roads through the industrial park are gravel.

"We've found, in talking to industries, that the gravel roads were somewhat of a deterrent," Wiesner said.

The paving will be contracted out and work will probably take place in May or June.

Estimated cost of the project is $100,000 with the state grant paying 75 percent and the city paying 25 percent. The city plans to pay its 25 percent with $15,000 from infrastructure funds and $10,000 from the industrial park fund.

Sewer line at Belvedere and Bridge

In the fall, the city will add a 10 inch sewer line near the intersection of Bridge Street and Belvedere Avenue. The new line will be placed parallel to the existing line. The existing line will remain in service.

The sewer line at that location serves a large portion of the south side east of Bridge Street.

Wiesner says the present line is loaded and there is a need for more capacity. That need is exacerbated by projected growth in the area of town the line serves.

The project carries an estimated cost of $75,000. It will be paid for out of the sewer fund, which derives money from sewer user fees.

Finish Dixon Avenue

Work which began on East Dixon Avenue last fall will be completed this spring. The total project at East Dixon involved tearing up the old street, separating storm and sanitary sewers, repaving the street and replacing sidewalks and curbs.

Completing the work this spring will require another layer of pavement and finishing the sidewalks on the north side of the street.

Estimated cost to complete the project is $67,100. The money will come from infrastructure funds. Wiesner said the project will be finished by June 1.

Thompson-Peterson

Mr. & Mrs. Mark Peterson

Arrangements of ivory carnations, pink sweetheart roses, royal blue iris, dendrobian orchids and baby's breath graced the altar of Evangelical Covenant Church in Grand Rapids, Michigan, for the candlelit ceremony on January 7, 1989 that united Kelly Lynn Thompson and Dr. Mark Peterson. The Reverends Wesley Swanson and Tom Cawger performed the double ring nuptials before 200 guests.

Green plants flanked the lighted candelabra for the ceremony. A unity candle was decorated with ivory carnations, pink sweetheart roses, ferns and baby's breath, and single ivory satin bows marked the church pews.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Thompson of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peterson of Grand Rapids.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory satin gown with a Queen Anne neckline and pearl beaded bodice. A cathedral length train was trimmed in French lace and satin ruffled medallions. The floor length illusion veil was held in place by a wreath of satin roses and baby's breath. She carried a large cascading bouquet of ivory carnations, pink roses and blue forget-me-nots.

Organist Paula Winn and harpist Carol VanderArk played a program of wedding music. Soloist was Mark Shut.

Mrs. Susie Former, sister of the groom, attended the bride as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Colleen Ymker and Julie Peterson, cousin of the groom. Their tea length gowns were short sleeved royal blue satin with empire waistlines, large bows at the back which ruffled to the hems. They carried bouquets of ivory carnations, pink roses and baby's breath.

Krista Former, neice of the groom, was flower girl. She carried a basket of pink silk roses and carnations with royal blue ribbons. Her gown matched the bridesmaids.

Jeffery S. Peterson, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

Jeffrey L. Peterson, cousin of the groom attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Dr. Gary VanDyken and Scott Peterson, brother of the groom. Ushers were Brian Thompson and Michael Thompson, brothers of the bride.

A reception followed the wedding in the Fellowship Hall of the church, given by the parents of the bride. Master and Mistress of Ceremony were Dick and Sue Hansma. The wedding cake was served by Joanne Detloff and punch was served by Donna Paul.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the parents of the groom on January 6 at the Days Inn Hotel in Grand Rapids.

Following a wedding trip to Walt Disney World and St. Thomas U.S. Virgin Islands, the newlyweds are residing in Grand Rapids where the groom is a dentist. The bride is a dental hygenist employed by Dr. James Zarafonetis.

... winning WATCH essay

You can obtain this by simply doing nothing. The choice on the right is the difficult choice. To obtain this you must be willing to work hard and overcome frustrations. The choice is up to you. You may either choose the left,... or the right. Good luck. Hold on, here you go."

There was a brilliant flash of light and the red-headed boy was lying on the side of the pier with a splitting headache. He stood up and reached into the bushes to grab a bag of cheeseballs and a bottle of Coke. As he began to walk towards town he muttered to himself, "Hold on, here I go."

Local photographer among Michigan's best

Local photographer Terry Salmonson placed fourth among the top 10 photographers in Michigan at the 48th annual Professional Photographers of Michigan print competition which took place March 18.

Salmonson has placed in the top 10 at the competition for five of the past eight years.

A total of 438 prints were entered in the competition by photographers from across the state. Salmonson received two blue ribbons and two red ribbons for prints taken in the Charlevoix area.

Judges for the event came from across the nation. The judges commented that the quality of the photography they saw in Michigan was unsurpassed anywhere in the country.

Track team opens with records

By Tim Henne

Charlevoix's track team got off to a good start this past Saturday at the Big Rapids invitational.

Five runners broke school indoor records and although the runners ran as individuals, coach Ken Plude was optomistic for the team. "The team's off to a way better start than I ever anticipated," he said. "They're in really great shape for having been training in the bad weather we've had."

Two-miler Scott Miller was the first record breaker. He turned in a 10:08 indoor two-mile and beat last year's state runner-up by 10 seconds.

In the shot put, Tony Warchol broke his own record with a put of 47 feet three inches which easily won the event.

Brian Livingston beat the old Charlevoix indoor record in the long jump, with a jump of 19 feet 3 inches. Livingston finished sixth in the event.

Tracee Smith's 10.3 second run in the 60 yard hurdles was one two records for her. She also was part of a four-lap relay team which finished seventh at the meet.

Marcie Wynkoop also set two school indoor records despite having a cast on one arm. She jumped 4 feet 6 inches in the high jump and 14 feet 10 inches in the long jump, but missed a medal in both events.

Charlevoix students are on spring break next week, but the track team will resume action April 13 at Traverse City.

The Lake Charlevoix Farms Exceptional Riders program is gearing up for another year. The program helps handicapped children achieve a sense of accomplishment through learning to ride horses. The program is looking for both students and volunteer helpers this year.

Exceptional riders to ride again

Children and horses are a great combination, especially when it's handicapped children getting a chance to learn about horseback riding. For a special child, the thrill of accomplishment and the new found independence cannot be surpassed.

Lake Charlevoix Farms Exceptional Riders Program is starting this year's spring session on April 11. The one-hour long classes are open to mentally and physically impaired students of all ages who want to learn to horseback ride. The classes are held at indoor riding facilities provided by Corky Price at Lake Charlevoix Farms on the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road, 6-7 p.m.

Registration for students is open from now until April 4.

There are several other factors needed to make the program work. The first is people, every session requires approximately 30 volunteer helpers to lead horses, assist the kids and do other jobs. Secondly, financial support from the community is needed. LCFERP is a non-profit, tax-exempt charitable organization.

If you would like to learn more about this program, be a volunteer helper or know of a child that would benefit from these classes, please contact Barb Lane, Director, 432 E. Mitchell Street, Petoskey or call 347-3300.

Support the merchants who bring you the sports.

Birthday number 104

Birdie (Gifford) Gleason celebrated her 104th birthday Easter Sunday. A lot of Easter rabbits have been down the bunny trail over her years. Gleason was born in Cooper, near Kalamazoo, in 1885. She has lived in Charlevoix since 1958. Gleason lives with Ida Welsheimer. Members of the local Rebekah Lodge celebrated with Gleason, who has been a Lodge member since before she was married. She married her late husband Harold in 1906.

March of Dimes walker visits

Hush Puppies, Little Red Shoe House and TrendSetter Footwear want West Michigan to "Get In Step." "Get in Step" is a series of walks to benefit the West Michigan Chapter of the March of Dimes that will take 68 year old Russ Semer almost 450 miles, from South Haven to the Mackinaw Bridge. Semer is making the journey to raise money and create awareness for the March of Dimes.

Semer is a dedicated volunteer for the March of Dimes who began to take walking seriously after having heart surgery in 1980. Since that time, he has participated in March of Dimes Walks in Grand Rapids, Grand Haven, Greenville and Ludington. Sponsoring Semer in his journey are Hush Puppies, Little Red Shoe House, and TrendSetter Footwear, all divisions of Wolverine World Wide, Inc. As he walks, Semer will be stopping at Little Rid Shoe House and TrendSetter Footwear stores to talk with cusotomers and promote the March of Dimes. Semer will spend about an hour at each location handing out free copies of the book "Walk, Don't Die", as well as free Hush Puppies balloons while supplies last.

People interested in helping Russ Semer with the "Get in Step" program may do so by walking with him and raising their own donations for the March of Dimes, or by helping sponsor Semer and raising donation for him.

Semer will walk to Charlevoix and arrive at the Little Red Shoe House store at 114 Antrim Street at 4 p.m. on Saturday, April 1. The community is asked to stop by to show support for him and for the March of Dimes.

WalkAmerica, the nation's largest walking event is held annually by the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation on the last weekend in April.

The 1989 event will take place Saturday and Sunday, April 29 and 30, in more than 1,300 communities in all 50 states.

More than 600,000 walkers are expected to take part. Several hundred thousand additional volunteers will help register walkers, patrol routes, stamp progress cards and serve refreshments.

Walkers recruit family, friends and colleagues to sponsor them by making a donation or pledging an amount for each kilometer completed. In 1988, WalkAmerica raised $38 million.

Funds raised by WalkAmerica help prevent birth defects, the nation's number one child health problem. Birth defects affect one out of every 14 babies born in the United States.

The March of Dimes prevents birth defects by supporting programs and research that benefit mothers and babies. Prenatal care, genetic counseling, public education and birth defects research supported by the March of Dimes help more babies be born healthy.

The length of WalkAmerica routes varies. The majority range from 10 to 35 kilometers (6.2 to 21.7 miles). The average walk route is 25 to 30 kilometers (15.5 to 18.6 miles).

Many people walk as part of teams formed by their company, school or club. The TeamWalk segment of WalkAmerica was developed in 1979. In 1988, over 22,000 teams raised about two-thirds of the $38 million total.

Marion L. Dunaske

Marion L. Dunaski, 87, died March 22, 1989, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Funeral services were held Monday, March 27, at St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Andre Schludecker, OFM, of St. Francis Xavier Church of Petoskey officiated. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield.

The former Marion L. Grobowski was born Sept. 8, 1901, in Detroit, the daughter of Peter and Anna Grobowski. She grew up in the Detroit area and on Aug. 29, 1923, she married Anthony F. Dunaski Sr. in Detroit.

Mrs. Dunaski had worked as a dental assistant in the Detroit area and in 1964, Mr. and Mrs. Dunaski moved to Mesa, Ariz. where they resided for 20 years. Mr. Dunaski preceded her in death on Jan. 24, 1983 and Mrs. Dunaski then moved to Southfield to reside with her son Anthony. For the past three years she resided at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Mrs. Dunaski is survived by: three sons, Anthony S. Dunaski Jr. of Northville and Charlevoix; Donald J. Dunaski of Boyne City and Thomas Dunaski of Beverly Hills, Calif; five grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; one sister, Rose Jankowski of Livonia; one brother, William Grobowski of Freesoil.

Arrangements were by the Winchester Funeral Home.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by the Rev. Benton R. Heisler
United Methodist Church

Soon the early morning quiet will be filled with the new sounds of birds who have returned from their journey south for the winter. I enjoy being outside on those early spring days listening to the chirp, warble, tweet and whistle of God's creation. Such moments of solitude allow my mind to wander to different times and places.

Nearly 2,000 years ago, two faithful women approached the tomb where their crucified Lord had been laid. I'm certain they were filled with apprehension and fear of what they may or may not encounter. Scripture tells us they were in the presence of an angel, who said to them, "do not be afraid..." This Scripture seems to be saying that through Christ's resurrection, God dispels our fears. So what are we afraid of? The list is unending: the dark, high places, loud noises, people we don't know, people we do know, ourselves. We are afraid of failing, of being rejected or unloved. We are afraid we won't say the right thing or dress the right way. We are afraid we might be forgotten. We may even be afraid to die.

This last fear is the one Easter so confidently addresses. We can hear the voice of God dispel our fear in the words, "Do not be afraid; for I know that you seek Jesus, who was crucified. He is not here; for he has risen..."

The Bible is a statement of faith, and faith takes us beyond what our limited minds and machines can accomplish. Faith is the substance that fills the gaps when our mortal being has exhausted its capacity to address life's needs. That faith can dispel our fears. When it does, so there is true joy. We live in the midst of a hurting, struggling, violent and unfair world. Our presence as Easter People, i.e., those who believe in a risen Christ, can be a healing balm for lives torn by physical and emotional pain. As Easter People, we comfort the grieving heart with assurance, an assurance that life eternal is the joy in the midst of pain and fear. As Easter People, we offer a solid mooring for those who struggle against the adversities that threaten to destroy one's reason for living. Here in the presence of Easter People, those called the community of faith, a person can find a helping hand, a listening ear, and thoughtful word, a person to pray with, or to pray for us when the words escape us.

The garden was quiet that Easter morning. A few birds sang, and feet shuffled along a dusty path. Moments later voices cried out, "He is not here! He is risen!" Let those same voices resound in us today as we become, through faith in Christ, God's Easter People.

Waters recede

The elevation for Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of February was about 11 inches below what it was one year ago and about 3 inches below one month ago. The end of February level of the two lakes was at 577.68 feet above the main water level at Father Point, Quebec.

The February monthly mean level was about 1 inch below the long-term average. This level was about 31 inches below the all-time February monthly mean high, which was set in 1986, and about 28 inches above the all-time February monthly mean low, which was set in 1964.

For mariners, the end of February level was 11 inches above chart datum.

The six-month forecast of levels for Lakes Michigan-Huron shows that the lakes are expected to be near the long-term average level during the next six months. The forecast shows that at the end of March, lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 2 inches above what they were at the end of February. The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal rise into July. At the end of August 1989, the lakes are expected to be about 5 inches above what they were at the same time in 1988. The August mean would be above the long-term average for the month but 30 inches below the all-time high mean for August, which was set in 1986.

Concerned Citizens to meet

The Charlevoix Concerned Citizens group will host their sixth meeting at 7:30, Thursday, March 30 in the high school study hall.

Matters discussed at the meeting will include: setting a date for a five-day workshop, initiating a fundraising campaign and a membership drive.

The group also is planning to establish a parents' division of the Concerned Citizens group. Mothers and fathers of middle school students, particularly parents of eighth grade students, are encouraged to attend the March 30 meeting.

The Concerned Citizens group has been organized to decrease adolescent substance abuse.

A film entitled, "Better place...Better time" will close the March 30 meeting.

Commission On Aging hosts luncheon

Senior citizens of Antrim and Charlevoix Counties will have an opportunity to see old friends and honor the arrival of spring at a buffet luncheon at Boyne Mountain Lodge at noon on Thursday, April 13, 1989.

The luncheon menu will include a chicken, beef and fish entree, salad bar, relish tray, potato, fresh vegetables, rolls, dessert and coffee.

Following the luncheon, Busy Bridge Antiques of East Jordan will present a program entitled "Hats...Hats...Hats." Also, seniors from East Jordan, Boyne City and Charlevoix will entertain with musical selections and many door prizes will be given away.

The cost for the luncheon is $7.50 (tax and tip included). The ticket must be purchased in advance as this is your reservation. They are on sale at all meal sites in Antrim and Charlevoix Counties.

If you need transportation, call Dial-A-Ride several days in advance.

This special day is sponsored by the Commissions on Aging of Antrim and Charlevoix Counties, Antrim County Volunteer Service Coordinator and Community Education Department of Charlevoix County.

Police selling confiscated car

A 1982 BMW 733I confiscated by Charlevoix police during a drug bust has been collecting dust for slightly more than a year, but will be auctioned off at the end of the month.

March 11, 1988 Charlevoix police arrested a man identified as Marlo John Anderson of Santa Cruz, Calif. Police also seized 650 grams of cocaine with an estimated street value of approximately half a million dollars, approximately $100,000 in cash and the BMW car.

According to information released at the time, Anderson was operating out of a local motel and Charlevoix police, in conjunction with the Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement (SANE) unit, kept him under surveillance for four days prior to making the arrest.

Following the arrest, the car was kept in the old city fire hall for several months. The car gathered dust and at least one tire went flat.

A few months ago the city began renovating the old fire hall into office space and the car had to be moved. Now it is being stored in a private storage building.

Charlevoix police chief Dennis Halverson said the county prosecutor's office. He said that while the drug arrest is a criminal matter, forfeiture of the car is a civil proceeding and civil proceeding's take longer to go through the legal system.

"It's fairly common for them to go a year or so," he explained.

Currently city police and SANE are advertising for sealed bids on the BMW. The bids must be submitted to the county prosecutor's office by 4 p.m., March 31. Sale terms are cash only and payment is due upon transfer of possession of the car to the buyer.

Asked what happened to the man arrested, Halverson said the man who wasn't from this area, was using an alias and was a fugitive from Florida.

"To the best of my knowledge, he is currently incarcerated in the state of Florida," Halverson said.

Motorcycle safety instructors sought

The State of Michigan Department of Education Motorcycle Safety Program is in need of dedicated, safety conscious, motorcyclists to become motorcycle safety instructors. Since 1984, legislation made it a requirement for all individuals under 18 years of age who are seeking a motorcycle endorsement, to complete a 20 hour course.

Farm disaster program available

Susan Seitz, County Executive Director of the Charlevoix-Emmet County Agricultural Stabilization Service today said all farmers should file for the 1988 Disaster Program by March 31, 1989. Those farmers who participated in the 1988 Feed Grain and Wheat Program are encouraged to apply for disaster so they may receive Forgiveness on their Advance Deficiency Payments. Susan said that it is very important for farmers to realize that even if they do not wish to receive the disaster payment they still qualify for the Advance Deficiency Forgiveness. Farmers are again reminded that the deadline for Disaster Program and also the Emergency Feed Program is Friday, March 31. Charlevoix and Emmet County Offices are open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Charlevoix County Office is located in Boyne City at City Hall in room 319-D. Emmet County is loacted in Petoskey at 2206 Mitchell Park Unit 10.

BUSINESS

Realtor optimistic about industrial park sales

Local realtor Bob Kern says he is optomistic about selling lots in the Charlevoix industrial park at the north end of town.

The city council recently awarded the sales listing to Kern after deciding not to have a downstate firm do the listing as was the case last year.

"I think it's a viable project," Kern said. "It's beautiful back in there. I think it's got everything going for it."

By "everything" Kern specified that Charlevoix has a strong labor force, low energy costs, tax incentives, available financing and a good transportation system.

He also said lots in the park are affordable at $12,500 per acre.

The industrial park was originally established with 10 lots on 27 acres of land. There are still eight available lots on 20 acres with lot sizes ranging from one and a-half to three acres.

The purpose of the park is to attract clean, light industries to Charlevoix to improve the communities employment base.

Kern said putting an industry in a park is a major project and these things take time to develop. However, he did not that several business people have looked into the park.

"We have several looking now. It's just a matter of putting things together," Kern said.

One obstacle which will be removed this summer is the park's gravel roads. This summer the city plans to pave all of the roads in the park.

Although Kern is the primary realtor on the project, other local realtors may also deal with inquiries. If one of those inquiries results in a sale they will get a percentage of the commission.

4H hosts Exploration Days

Charlevoix County young people can "Celebrate 4-H" Exploration Days, June 21-23 at Michigan State University. The theme of this year's event is "Celebrate 4-H" in honor of 4-H's 75th anniversary.

"Several special activities have been planned to help Celebrate 4-H," says Jane Regenmorter, Charlevoix County 4-H Youth Agent. "Participants will take part in many special festivities and programs designed to celebrate 4-H's 75 years. In addition to choosing from more than 200 learning options and making friends from all over the state."

In honor of 4-H's birthday, the event will feature "Programs of 4-H Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." This program will show the evolution of 4-H by providing hands-on activities that are set up by decades spanning the year 1914 to 2000.

A special night of entertainment during the event will be a concert by the Jets at the MSU Wharton Center. The concert is open to all participants.

The three day event will be wrapped up with the grand finale picnic.

Participants will receive souvenir birthday presents to give them an idea about what 4-H Exploration Days 1990 will be about.

All participants in 4-H Exploration Days will receive a free T-shirt and spend three fun-filled days on the campus of a Big 10 university. The registration deadline is May 1, so contact Jane Regenmorter at the Charlevoix County Extension Office, 582-6232.

Rainbow awards money

At the February meeting of the Rainbow Shoppe, the Board of Directors voted that the following non-profit organizations be the recipients of the remaining monies from their 1988 budget: Nehemiah House $1,000; Youth for Christ $500; Charlevoix Concerned Citizens $500; Ireland Exchange Program $200; Senior Citizen Nutritional Program $1,000; Sunshine Club $800; Food Pantry $500.

These contributions were in addition to approximately $7,000 allocated earlier in the year. Vice President, Barbara Rogers stated that without the support of the citizens of Charlevoix, this could not have been accomplished.

Thanks were extended to the manager, Joe Spurgeon, and the dedicated personnel working at the Rainbow Shoppe.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

TAKE NOTICE, That the Michigan Department of Natural Resources proposes to hold a public hearing in the Eveline Township Hall, corner of Mountain and Ferry Roads, East Jordan, Michigan, at 7:00 p.m., Monday, the 3rd day of April, 1989.

The purpose of this hearing is to secure the views of interested persons concerning the following application for permit:

Application for Permit 88-5-335/88-15-1003-5 under the Inland Lakes and Streams Act (1972, P.A. 346, as amended) by Irene Dajnowicz, Highway M-66, Route 2, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720, to operate and construct a marina in Lake Charlevoix, T33N, R7W, Section 21, Eveline Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan.

The application may be reviewed in the Land and Water Management Division, DNR, 1732 West M-32, Gaylord, Michigan, during normal office hours.

The hearing will be held pursuant to section 6(2) of the cited statute. The hearing will not be a court-type proceeding, witnesses will not be sworn, and there will be no cross-examination. Public hearings are primarily informational and are held to encourage the expression of views and presentation of facts.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources will, upon written request, provide a copy of the Department's decision on this application.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

ANNUAL TAX SALE

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix

ORDER FOR HEARING
No C89-411-12 PZ

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

On reading and filing the complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan praying for a judgement in favor of the State of Michigan, against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said complaint will be brought on for hearing and judgement at the April term of this Court, to be held at Charlevoix in the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, on the 10th day of April A.D. 1989, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof their objections thereto on or before the first day of the term of this Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a judgement will be taken and entered as prayed for in said complaint. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said judgement the lands described in such complaint for which a judgement of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such judgement on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a.m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof; at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan; and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the judgement shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Charlevoix County this 2nd day of March A.D. 1989.

Countersigned,
Jane E. Brannon, Clerk

Richard M. Pajtas, Circuit Judge

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

TO THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix, Robert A. Bowman, State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the court

1 That he is the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan and makes and files this complaint under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No 380 of P.A. 1965, as amended.

2 That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent.

3 That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a County Property Tax Administration Fee of four percent which shall be a minimum of $1.00 as provided by Section 211.59, C.L. 1979, as amended, and (d) $10.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned.

4 That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute of valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your plaintiff prays:

a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and adjudge that the aforesaid taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended;

b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final judgement in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, County Property Tax Administration Fee and expenses as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained, and the amounts listed in the column headed "aggregate" shall constitute the amounts adjudged against the said several parcels, unless so amended by this court;

c That said judgement provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount adjudged against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides;

d That your plaintiff may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your plaintiff will ever pray, etc.
Dated: February 17, 1989

Robert A. Bowman,
State Treasurer
for and in behalf of said State
